We are informed that J. S. Bond has been appointed monthly meeting correspondent, and Emma Spickord, correspondent for THE AMERICAN FRIEND, at the monthly meeting, held at Pleasant Valley, Kansas. We also note that the monthly meetings at Pleasant Valley are held with a very good attendance.

John M. Watson has been having a very satisfactory visit at Guilford College. He writes that it has been a great comfort to him to find how uplifting the students' prayer meetings and the general religious work of the college are. He mentions that there is an urgent need of rooms where more students can live at small expense.

On the 27th ult. Minnie Bassett preached her farewell sermon at Spiceland, Ind., using as a text, "Awake, put on thy beautiful garments, oh, Jerusalem." Her ministry has been a blessing to many who have been turned to Christ. She has endeared herself to Friends in Indiana wherever her lot has been cast, and will be greatly missed.

Our sincere sympathy goes out to our valued friend, Eliza C. Armstrong, of Plainfield, Ind., who has been called to part with her life companion. Joshua Armstrong, whose death is announced among our obituary notices, lived a strong, faithful Christian life, and he was ready for his change. His wife has for years been one of the most active women in our branch of the church, and we can only hope that her deep baptism may work out its fruit in her future service in the church.

A unique meeting was held for mothers and their babies at the Friends' Meeting House, Lynn, Mass., on Sixth-day, the 2d. The rising generation was well represented, the little ones ranging in age from 2 months to 3 years, and they, taken together with the parents and friends, made a large and pleasant company. The meeting was a preliminary one to a more formal service and consecration by the meeting, to take place by request of the parents. It was hoped that the importance of associating the children with the membership of the church would be felt. A social hour followed the meeting, and light refreshments were served. All who attended were much pleased with the entertainment, and much good should result from the work thus inaugurated.

Some of the members of Homestead Monthly Meeting at Pleasant Valley, with others of the community, gave the resident minister and wife a happy surprise on the evening of Ninth month 30th. They were presented with two checks and some other valuable gifts. Supper followed, which was served to all. A good evening was spent, which was closed with prayer, praise, and a "God bless you!" hand-shake.

Cornwall Quarterly Meeting of Friends will be held at Clintondale, Ulster County, N. Y., on Fourth and Fifth-days, Tenth month 21st and 22d. On Fourth-day the Meeting of Ministry and Oversight will meet at 2 o'clock, p.m. A gospel meeting, conducted by Mary J. Weaver and others, will be held at 7 p.m. of the same day. On Fifth-day the quarterly meeting opens with devotional service at 10.30 o'clock, a.m. Business session, 1.30 o'clock, p.m. A quarterly meeting Christian Endeavor Union rally will be addressed by J. Lindley Spicer at 7.30 o'clock, p.m.

Jane B. Votaw, in writing to have her address changed from Newberg, Oregon, to Tacoma, Washington, says:

"My husband and I have come to Tacoma to spend our last days near our children. We are getting along in years. My husband, Jonathan Votaw, is in his eightieth year, and I in my seventy-fourth. We will miss our dear friends and the Friends' Church, but we longed to be near some of our children. The Lord has wonderfully blessed us all along the journey of life, and is still blessing us with a very comfortable home here, and we are sure we will find good Christian friends in other churches; yet we want to keep in touch with our dear old mother church."

Their address is now 634 Steel Street, Tacoma, Wash.

The following communication has been received. The enterprise referred to certainly merits the utmost encouragement from our members:

"The concern to provide the comforts and safeguards of home life for our young members who in their callings are unavoidably exposed to the temptations of city life, having taken tangible shape by opening the well-appointed dwelling, No. 1623 Summer Street, Philadelphia, we extend a cordial invitation to this class, trusting with their kindly co-operation to make it a Christian home.

"We would not lift from the youthful heart its own appointed share of responsibility and accountability, yet we do want to come into helpful sympathy with our young friends in such a way as will best conserve the real interests of all.

"A limited number of young men and women can be accommodated at reasonable rates.

"On behalf of the managers,

"BENJAMIN VAIL."

BORN.

WHITE.—Born to Henry A. and Elizabeth M. White, a son, Murray Meader White, Eighth month 24th, 1903, at High Point, N. C.

MARRIED.

BOND—WRIGHT.—At the home of the bride's parents, in Harveysburg, Ohio, Ninth month 30th, 1903, by Friends' ceremony, in a meeting held under the care of a committee of Woodbury Monthly Meeting, N. J., Grace Lillian Wright to Walker McClan Bond, of Winchester, Va. Their home will be in Philadelphia.

DIED.

ARMSTRONG.—At his home in Plainfield, Ind., Ninth month 29th, 1903, Joshua Armstrong. His was a well-lived life, crowned with a triumphant entrance into the celestial city.

DAVIS.—At his home in Haviland, Kansas, Eighth month 31st, 1903, Hiram M. Davis, aged nearly 59 years. He was recommended as a minister of the Gospel by Timbered Hills Monthly Meeting, Kansas, in 1888. He was a charter member, and for five years resident minister of the meeting at Crestline, Kansas, and for two years was resident minister at Hoisington, Kansas.

JOHNSON.—At his home in Hamilton County, Ind., Eighth month 25th, Wm. H. Johnson, aged 84 years.

WILLIAMS.—At her home in Wayne County, Ind., Ninth month 6th, 1903, Cynthia Ann Williams, aged 70 years and 29 days. She was an elder of West Grove Monthly Meeting.

Events and Comments.

The United States Steel Corporation last week declared a quarterly dividend of one-half of 1 per cent., against 1 per cent. which it has previously paid.

Superintendent Mills, of the West Point Military Academy, has reported that hazing has been practically abolished at that institution.

The postal expenditures of the United States Government last year exceeded the receipts by $4,560,000, but the financial operations of the postal service amounted to more than $1,026,730,000.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, is said to have declared that he believes that "graft" exists in Chicago to a very great extent and that he proposes to hunt it out.

The Trades League of Philadelphia last week adopted resolutions encouraging and inviting the Wabash Railroad to seek an entrance into Philadelphia. These resolutions were forwarded to the Wabash officials. On account of the standing of the Trades League in the community, this action is of more than passing interest in connection with the fight between the Pennsylvania and the Wabash Railroad systems.

ORIGIN

Of a Famous Human Food.

The story of great discoveries or inventions is always of interest.

An active brain worker, who found himself hampered by lack of bodily strength and vigor and could not carry out the plans and enterprises he knew how to conduct, was led to study various foods and their effects upon the human system. In other words, before he could carry out his plans, he had to find a food that would carry him along and renew his physical and mental strength.

He knew that a food that was a brain and nerve builder (rather than a mere fat maker), was universally needed. He knew that meat with the average man does not accomplish the desired results. He knew that the soft gray substance in brain and nerve centers is made from Albumen and Phosphate of Potash obtained from food. Then he started to solve the problem.

Careful and extensive experiments evolved Grape-Nuts, the now famous food. Grape-Nuts contain the brain and nerve-building food elements in condition for easy digestion. The result of eating Grape-Nuts daily is easily seen in a marked sturdiness and activity of the brain and nervous system, making it a pleasure for one to carry on the daily duties without fatigue or exhaustion. The food is in no sense a stimulant, but is simply food, which renews and replaces the daily waste of brain and nerves.

Its flavor is charming, and, being fully and thoroughly cooked at the factory, it is served instantly with cream.

The signature of the brain worker spoken of, C. W. Post, is to be seen on each genuine package of Grape-Nuts.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Well-ville."

At a dinner given by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston to the Honorable Artillery Company of London, while visiting Boston last week, it is said that the cost of each plate was $75, making a total cost for the feast of $60,000.

An attempt was made on the 5th by a violently insane man to reach President Roosevelt at the White House. He was intercepted, and in the struggle that followed he drew a revolver and fought furiously. He disclaimed any intention to injure the President.

It is reported that the Macedonian insurgents are preparing a manifesto declaring that they have decided to suspend operations until spring in order to see whether reforms will then be applied. This information, however, can hardly be relied on. In fact, it is extremely difficult to get any authoritative news regarding the Bulgarian situation.

The airship built by Professor Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, was launched on the 7th. The experiment, which had been carefully planned, and delayed for months, was a complete failure. The immense flying machine, after leaving the track for its flight through the air, was carried by its own momentum and then fell gradually into the Potomac River, whence it emerged a total wreck.

According to information received at Yokohama, the Russian Minister at Peking has informed the Chinese Foreign Office that Russia will never evacuate Manchuria unless her latest demands are granted. Japan is still playing her part and refuses to quietly acquiesce in Russia's aggressive policy in the far East. The differences between Japan and China are very acute, and a crisis is expected at any time. That this will result in war is hardly likely, though it is a possibility.

Compared with the month last year, government revenue during September fell off $3,610,000, most of the loss coming from customs. Expenditure at the same time increased by nearly a million dollars, and the surplus of revenue amounts to $6,538,855, against $11,025,583 a year ago. Whether the loss in revenue is due to the reactionary tendencies in business it is too early now to say. There is every prospect, however, that the public revenue will be considerably affected before the end of the present fiscal year by the turn in the tide of prosperity.

Booker T. Washington, head of the Tuskegee (Ala.) Institute, who is in Paris, has been besieged by French reporters anxious to obtain an expression of his views on the negro question. In order to escape attention he is traveling under the name of "Jones." "I have spent some days in Normandy," Booker Washington said, "where I have studied agriculture, and what I have seen is remarkable from all points of view. The dairy interests particularly attracted my attention." He declined to speak to the French press representative regarding his entertainment by President Roosevelt.

IS YOUR STOMACH ON A STRIKE?

There is Nothing to Prevent Your Employing a Substitute to Do Its Work.

There is such a thing as forbearance ceasing to be a virtue even in the case of one's stomach. There is no question but that some stomachs will stand a great deal more wear and tear and abuse than others, but they all have their limit, and when that limit is reached the stomach must be reckoned with as sure as fate. The best way, and really the only effective way, to treat your stomach when it rebels is to employ a substitute to do its work. This will give the weakened and worn-out organ an opportunity to rest and regain its strength and health.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets relieve the stomach of its work by taking up the work and doing it just as one set or shift of workmen relieves another. They actually digest the food in just the same manner and just the same time as the digestive fluids of a sound stomach do. In fact, when dissolved in the stomach, they are digestive fluids, for they contain exactly the same constituents and elements as the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach. No matter what the condition of the stomach is, their work is just the same. They work in their own natural way without regard to surrounding conditions.

The stomach being thus relieved by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, is restored and renewed by Nature, and the rest of the human body does not suffer in the least by reason of its failure to perform its work.

A Wisconsin man says: "I suffered the pangs of dyspepsia for 10 years. I tried every known remedy with indifferent results until I was told of the remarkable cures of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I bought a box, began taking them and forgot I had a stomach. Three boxes cured me completely. I have had no trouble whatever for a year, and have an appetite like a harvest hand and can eat anything that is set before me without fear of bad results."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50c. a box. The druggist never fails to have them in stock, because the demand for them is so great and so pronounced that he cannot afford to be without them. People who could not get them of one druggist would go to another, and would get in the habit of buying their other drugs there as well as their Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Two little girls, aged six and eight years, were discussing religious matters. The older one said to her sister, "Which would you rather do, live, or die and go to heaven?"

"Why," the young one said, "I would rather live."

Whereupon the older one burst out with the emphatic question, "Sarah B—, what does your religion amount to?"—"Woman's Journal."

Whether we climb, whether we plod, Space for one task the scant years lend,
To choose some path that leads to God,
And keep it to the end.

—Lizette W. Reese.

VERY LOW RATES TO CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA, MEXICO, NEW MEXICO AND OTHER WESTERN POINTS, VIA SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

Any one desiring to make a trip to California, Arizona, Mexico, New Mexico or other Western points, either for business or pleasure can do so now at a small cost.

Daily until November 29th, 1903, inclusive, special one-way colonists' tickets will be sold via Southern Railway at rate of $49.75 from Philadelphia to Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other points; proportionate low rates from other points.

The Southern Railway operates on fast trains, tri-weekly, high-class, personally-conducted vestibuled excursion sleeping cars between Washington, Los Angeles and San Francisco without change, via Atlanta, New Orleans and El Paso, in which the double berth rate is only $7.00.

Excursion sleeping cars leave Washington on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., will take pleasure in furnishing all information.

"The neglect of the English Bible incapacitates the rising generation to read and appreciate the masterpieces of English literature from Chaucer to Browning, and it strikes out of their consciousness one element, and for centuries the controlling element, in the production of your civilization and mine."—Nicholas Murray Butler.

A 100-foot ledge of tin ore is reported to have been discovered near Lost River, in the Cape York District, north of Cape Nome. A hundred pounds of sample rock has been brought down for shipment to Pittsburg.

The

New Century

TYPEWRITER

does the BEST WORK and lots of it, EASILY.

Strong, Thoroughly Built,
Superior in results to any other.

Write for
"THE BOOK OF THE NEW CENTURY."

AMERICAN WRITING MACHINE COMPANY,
1033 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The price for a single insertion of 6 lines is 25c.; 5 lines, 5 times 20c.; 4 lines, 4 times 15c.; 3 lines, 3 times 10c.; 2 lines, 2 times 5c.; 1 line, 1 time 2c. Larger space is charged at the same rate. Cash with order.

FLOWERS AND SHRUBS.—You should plant this Fall. Send for our new Floral Guide, just out.
The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Box X

FOR SALE.—5000 of Amos Kenworthy's "Never fail to bear" Hardy Northern Grown "Friday" peach trees. Write me. JESSE OVERMAN, Knights-town, Ind., successor to Amos Kenworthy.

FOR RENT.—S. W. corner Twentieth and Arch Streets, attractive house, 13 rooms and 2 baths, in thorough order. Would rent to private family at moderate figure. Apply to Girard Trust Company.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE Co., Miami, Ind. Ter.
Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

TWO PLEASANT ROOMS to rent, either with or without board, in a Friend's family, near Logan Square. Address Sarah J. Orr, 1933 Vine Street, Philadelphia.

GIVEN AWAY.—To advertise our Quaker Ointment, we will send free to every reader of this paper a beautiful pair of nickel-plated, gold handle scissors. Davis Mfg Co., Butlerville, Ind.

WANTED.—Young Friend to serve as mother's helper in Friend's family in Philadelphia.
Address T., AMERICAN FRIEND.

ROOMS TO LET.—2 parlors, first floor; 2 rooms, third floor. Call or address, Anna Lightfoot, 4107 Ogden St., W. Philadelphia.

Police Captain: "So you shot the dog. Was he mad?"

Officer Grogan: "No, sor; but th' leddy thot owned him was."—"Epworth Herald."

GAME LAWS EXPLAINED.

The Southern Railway has just issued for the season of 1903-1904 a beautifully illustrated book entitled, "Hunting and Fishing in the South," which is descriptive of the best localities in the South for various kinds of game and fish, and outlines the game laws of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi—the States penetrated by the Southern Railway. Copies of the book can be obtained from Chas. L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

ATLANTA AND THE SOUTHWEST.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway offers excellent service to all points in the South and Southwest. Through sleeping cars from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. A la carte dining car. Address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ballington Booth has been telling his friends about a woman who stood up to testify to her conversion in the days he was with the Salvation Army. She said: "I was very foolish and vain. Worldly pleasures, and especially the fashions, were my only thought. I was fond of silks, satins, jewelry, ribbons, and laces. But, my friends, I found they were dragging me down to perdition. So I gave them all to my sister!"

Knit Underwear

Here are just a few of the remarkable values that the department offers. We venture to say that not so many or such good values can be found in any other one store in the city. But, it must be remembered, few stores in the whole country have the buying power that this one has. Good-sized lots of each of the following:

Men's Underwear—shirts and drawers, of medium-weight mixed natural wool; regular 75c quality—now 50c each.

Men's Underwear—shirts and drawers, of medium-weight French balbriggan—special at $1.00 each.

Men's Fleece Underwear—shirts and drawers in silver gray; all made with covered seams; regular 50c quality—now 39c each.

Women's Vests—of ribbed cotton; good seconds of a 50c quality; we have five hundred dozen, and could sell twice that number if we could get them—special at 25c each.

Women's Gossamer Vests—with long sleeves; women wear these all the year; strictly firsts, and regularly 50c—now 25c each.

Boy's Underwear—shirts and drawers of natural fleece; regular 50c quality—now 25c each.

Children's Ribbed Underwear—vests and pantalets, in a winter weight—special at 25c each.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PHILADELPHIA

We Should Like

to hear from any of our readers who may be considering the subject of advertising. It is not hard to demonstrate the value of space in THE AMERICAN FRIEND, and we are particularly desirous of having the advertising patronage of our own members. It is an excellent way to support the denominational paper, and we can present some facts which make it a strong business proposition. Write for rates and full information.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch Street,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Japan has been called "The United States of the Orient." The name is quite appropriate owing to the fact that our country is being taken as the model of the "new Japan."

SAVE 1/2 YOUR FUEL

or get all the heat you pay for. When you use a Rochester Radiator you do.

Rochester Radiator Co.,

77 Furnace St.,

Fully Guaranteed.
EASY
Write for book-let on heating houses.

Rochester, N. Y.

Some English critics have been aroused by another "American Invasion" in the shape of "reformed spelling." One critic bursts into rhyme in "The Tatler":

"Fonetik speling I abhor,
And nawt can rowz mi bile
Or ruffel up mi temper mor Than Izak Pitman'z stile.

"The Yanky 'theater' and such As folo in its trane
Anoi mi gentl sole so much
That I becum profane.

"A traveler with but wun 'l'
Will make me simply fome,
For foke hoo canot lern to spel
Had beter stop at home.

"Wun nedes to be no pedagog
To shun this horid voge;
Cood he hoo rites down 'catalog'
Be other than a roge?"

A teacher asked her class to name five different members of the "cat" family. Nobody answered, till at last one little girl raised her hand.

"Well?" said the teacher, encouragingly.

"Father cat, mother cat, and three little kittens!"

Who is
MACBETH?
The maker who isn't afraid of his lamp-chimneys.

The Index tells you, in ten minutes, all you need to know for comfort with lamps and the saving of chimney-money; sent free; do you want it?

MACBETH, Pittsburgh.

"SUPPOSE I DIE"

We have helped the people to answer that question for half a century or more; to make provision for their survivors. We do more; we assist men in making provision for their old age, when the money-producing power is waning. Get our free booklet, "The How and the Why." It brushes cobwebs from the brain.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.,
921-3-5 Chestnut Street,
Philadelphia.

ARMSTRONG & McKELVY
Pittsburgh.
BEYMER-BAUMAN
Pittsburgh.
DAVIS-CHAMBERS
Pittsburgh.
FAHNESTOCK
Pittsburgh.
ANCHOR }
ECKSTEIN } Cincinnati.
ATLANTIC } BRADLEY }
BROOKLYN } New York.
JEWETT }
ULSTER }
UNION }
SOUTHERN } Chicago.
SHIPMAN } COLLIER }
MISSOURI } St. Louis.
RED SEAL }
SOUTHERN }
JOHN T. LEWIS & BROS CO
Philadelphia.
MORLEY
Cleveland.
SALEM
Salem, Mass.
CORNELL
Buffalo.
KENTUCKY
Louisville.

DWELLING house in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., built one hundred years ago, has always been painted with Pure White Lead and Linseed Oil—nothing else.

There is not a crack, blister, blemish or imperfection of any kind in the paint. Makers of mixtures, beat this record if you can!

Be sure the brand is right. Those in margin are genuine, and made by "old Dutch process."

If interested in paint or painting, address

National Lead Co., 100 William Street, New York.

ARMED FOR EMERGENCIES.

The bland young man with the large hand-bag rose and bowed low as the lady of the house entered the parlor. "Madam," he said, "while waiting for you to come down-stairs I have taken the liberty of looking about me.

"The charming young girl," he continued, "whose face is framed in that leather case—which I notice has started away from the back at the edges and needs a slight application of a paste which I am here to show you—is your very image. Except that you look too young to be the mother of such a blooming girl, madam, I should say she must be your daughter. As it is, she certainly must be your sister. Now this paste—"

"You needn't get out your paste, young man," said the woman, coldly. "That 'blooming girl,' as you call her, is my husband's daughter by his first wife, and she is now a woman nearly fifty years old, and has lost most of her hair; and that photograph frame is going to be thrown away, and now—"

But the agent had dived into his bag and brought up a half-pint bottle of some dark liquid.

"If you are in communication with her, madam, or will give me her present address," he said, glibly, "I should be pleased to forward, free of expense, this sample bottle of Huckin's 'Hope for the Hair.' It will restore the color, texture, length and curl, and afford no injury to the scalp or nerve-centers."—"Youth's Companion."

Respectability may be contagious, but some people fail to catch it at the right time.

A small voice in a man often has the same effect as a hole in a nickel.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.
DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.
J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer.
C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

A Good Story

bears repeating. Our's is of Life Insurance — Its Value to the Family — And the Profits that go to Our Policy-Holders.

The PRUDENTIAL

Insurance Company of America

JOHN F. DRYDEN
President

Write for Particulars. Dept. 67.

HOME OFFICE
Newark, N. J.

A Matter of Method

IT is pleasant to look back and trace the growth of one's business under the stimulus of work well done.

Starting some eight years ago in a very small way, we have in the course of that time gained as customers many representative concerns, who, attracted by the betterness of our work, have been kept by faithful service and just treatment.

WE have never attempted to do a large or miscellaneous business, but have chosen rather to confine ourselves to the better class of work, within such limits as would enable those most interested in the welfare of the business to give close personal attention to even the smallest detail of every order.

ONLY in this way can the best results be achieved, for the man who takes the order and knows exactly what the customer wants, must also be the one who watches the work at every stage to see that its utmost possibilities are realized.

GOOD equipment counts for much in the prompt execution of orders, and this equipment we have. But after all, it is in the manner of using his tools that the printer shows his standard, his taste, and his knowledge of the printing requirements of the present-day business world. Our work best illustrates these points as they apply to us.

ONE thing more—keeping promises. That, next to the quality of our work, we believe, is responsible for the holding of customers year after year.

MAY we have the pleasure of printing for you this Fall?

The Leeds & Biddle Co.
Incorporated

Makers of the Better Kind of Printing
1019-21 Market Street, Phila.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Autumn term begins Ninth month 22d, 1903.

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.

LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

LEARN SHORTHAND

Taught by mail or in school. Moderate rates.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

WABAN SCHOOL, WABAN, MASS.

A Superior Preparatory School for Boys.

J. H. PILLSBURY, A. M., Principal.

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

A man never realizes how much he can't do until he tries it.

Acker has it — Absolutely Dry Roast.

Stenography, Typewriting,
Mimeographing and Reporting
LYDIA ARETE CONN,
805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and
MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 20 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYRUS CHAMBERS, JR.) 524 & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING
230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

Oklahoma Farms

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address E. J. Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

E. J. VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH
29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL
Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

The American Friend

Vol. X

TENTH MONTH 22, 1903

No. 43

PAGE

EDITORIALS.—England and France Agree to Arbitrate.—The Church of the Living God 719, 720

Re-converted Christians 720
Theodore L. Cuyler.

Canada Yearly Meeting and the Canadian Northwest 721

Samuel Rogers 722
William I. Moore.

In Memory of Lydia M. Henshaw . . 723
Cyrus R. Dixon.

THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON 724
Lesson for Eleventh month 1, 1903.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR 725
Topic for Eleventh month 1, 1903.

CORRESPONDENCE 726

THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES, 727

BORN.—MARRIED.—DIED 728

EVENTS AND COMMENTS 729

THE TRUE CHURCH.

Is the brotherhood then unbroken? Does love prevail? Is Jesus in the midst? Do they pray, and praying receive? Ah, this then is the Church. But, are they full of mutual rivalries, hatreds, and contempts? Have they no discipline of mutual ministry, no prevalent prayer, no test of the inward relation to Jesus? Then, that may be the Church of Rome, or the Orthodox Church, or the Church of England, or an Independent Church, but it is not what Jesus Himself means by His Church at all.

ROBERT F. HORTON, in "The Teaching of Jesus."

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❖ ❖ ❖ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

Y. F. A. Building,

140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.

FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL

Phone Spruce 33-55.

Clerk.

HOTEL EMPIREBroadway and 63d Street,
N. Y. City.A FAMILY AND TRANSIENT HOTEL.

Rooms $1.00 per day and Upwards.

Telephone in every Room.

Fireproof. Accessibly Located. Large Library.
Moderate Rates.

Orchestral Concerts every evening.

All Cars Pass the Empire.

Send for Booklet.

W. JOHNSON QUINN.

The Tonic
Par Excellence.QUINA-LAROCHEis highly recommended as a preventive of Colds and Influenza and as a specific remedy for Typhoid
and Malarial Fevers.E. FOUGERA & CO., 26-30
N. William St., N.Y.Kitchen OutfitsAt Reasonable RatesJ. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET

Free delivery in city and suburbs.

OSTEOPATHYEDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

Bell Telephone

Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SONWall Paper and
Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD

2 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLETBY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street

Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL

Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.

4th Door Below Chestnut St.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET*CAPITAL, $1,000,000*ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.*And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, AS-SIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.*All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.*SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.*BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS*SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.*T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.*J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.
DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.
J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer.
C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.*DIRECTORS:*SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,*ASA S. WING,
PHILIP O. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,*THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.*THE IRON MOUNTAIN Route

TO

TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.Dining Cars Through Sleepers*Rates, information and pamphlets upon applicationW. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A., 335 Broadway, N. Y.*H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.*DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.It is sometimes the mystery of death that brings one to a consciousness of the still greater mystery of life.—Kate Douglas Wiggin.Misses' and Children's ClothesThese are only a few of the good things that will be found in the Misses' Department. Our stock is now at its best, ranging from simple garments that cost little to the most elaborate suits and wraps a dainty miss or a dresy little woman could ask for—and all at the fairest prices.MISSSES' SUITS—made of mixed cloths; plaited blouse jacket, with velvet piping; military collar; double-breasted, with metal buttons; seven-gore flare skirt; sizes 14, 16 and 18 years—$11.50.MISSSES' JUNIOR SUITS—of zibeline; box coat, with side-plaits and belt; double-breasted; skirt made in side plaits, sizes, 12 to 16 years—$18.00.CHILDREN'S REGULATION DRESSES—of blue cheviot; made with emblem on sleeve, shield and collar; full skirt; sizes 6 to 14 years—$5.00.CHILDREN'S DRESSES—made of broadcloth; epaulets over shoulders; waist made with side plaits; trimmed with brass buttons; gored skirt, with deep hem; sizes 6 to 14 years—$4.00.CHILDREN'S RUSSIAN BLOUSE DRESSES— made of cheviot; trimmed in combination colors and fancy braid; skirt made in box plaits; sizes 6 to 14 years—$6.00STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER
PHILADELPHIA

The American Friend

*"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."*

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, TENTH MONTH 22, 1903.

No. 43.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE AGREE TO ARBITRATE.

ENGLISH history seems to the student almost a continuous account of wars between Great Britain and France. If there are two peoples on the earth who have historical right to be called "natural enemies" they would seem to be the English and the French. It would once have appeared a stupendous miracle that these two nations should agree to refer their disputes and contentions to a PERMANENT INTERNATIONAL COURT, but we are so accustomed to "wonders" in this twentieth century that the newspapers hardly think it worth while to proclaim this event. If an English cannon had been fired at one French ship, it would have created a thousand times more excitement than has this agreement not to fight over questions which a court can settle. Here is the agreement:

The Government of the French Republic and the Government of his Britannic Majesty, signatories of the convention concluded at The Hague, July 29th, 1899, for the peaceful settlement of international disputes,—

Considering that, by Article XIX. of that treaty, the high contracting Powers reserve to themselves the right of concluding agreements, with the view to have recourse to arbitration in all cases which they shall consider it possible to submit thereto, have authorized the undersigned to agree to the following provisions:

ARTICLE I.—Scope of the treaty: Differences of a judicial order, or such as relate to the interpretation of treaties existing between the two contracting parties, which may arise between them and which it may not be possible to settle by means of diplomacy, shall be submitted to the Permanent Court of Arbitration established at The Hague by the Convention of July 29th, 1899, on condition, however, that they do not involve either vital interests or the independence or honor of the two contracting States, and that they do not affect the interests of a third Power.

ARTICLE II.—Arbitration bond: In each particular case the high contracting parties, before addressing themselves to the Permanent Court of Arbitration, shall sign a special arbitration bond, setting forth clearly the subject under dispute, the extent of the powers of the arbitrators, and the details to be observed as regards the constitution of the arbitral tribunal and the procedure.

ARTICLE III.—To last five years: The present arrangement is concluded for a term of five years from the date of the signature.

CAMBON, LANSDOWNE.

We are prone to believe, perhaps too often, that nothing comes of all our work to improve the world and to kill out the evil customs of the race. But here is a tangible case which proves that something does come of honest, persevering effort. Ten years ago an international court was a pure dream which practical persons laughed at. But a few men and women,

"who were ahead of their age," believed that it ought to come, and they worked for it in solid faith. Now here are two great nations, "natural foes" for centuries, agreeing to use this court for the next five years, and after that they will make a treaty agreeing to use it forever! It is now proposed to arrange a similar treaty between England and the United States. The world does move to those who take bearings!

THE CHURCH OF THE LIVING GOD.

It is well for us occasionally to rise above our narrow conceptions and take a comprehensive view of things. We hear enough of the Church of Calvin, the Church of Wesley, the church of this sect or that, but we hear too little of the "Church of the Living God." There is too much said of "my church" and "their church," and we divide up into little compartments until the body of believers is cut up into little squares like the surface of a checker board. One of the results is that Christians themselves have grown discouraged in the face of the evil that is in the world, and they have in large measure lost that marvelous faith which so abounded in the Apostolic Church, and another result is that those who are not Christians have formed a low estimate of the value and power of the Church. Ask a hundred persons why they do not go to church, and the answers will furnish food for reflection for many days. Churches are all the time in danger of settling down under a system of dead and crystallized ideas, and of going through with a round of perfunctory services which do not appeal to the mass of people very much. In order to overcome this difficulty, the temptation then is to make religious exercises "entertaining," and to draw a crowd by this means. But this is always a failure in the long run, for no church can prosper and grow if it reduces itself to a place of "entertainment." The "entertaining church" is bound to be short-lived, and "its prosperity is," like that of the fool in Proverbs, "its own destruction."

There is only one way out of the difficulty, and that is to increase the power of the Church. We have seen every one of the modern methods tried without effect. It is useless to try to galvanize a dead body into life. The thing to do is to get back to the original conception of the Church, and to go to work to realize that apostolic idea. It is the Church of the Living God. The very expression sweeps away dividing lines, dead ideas and perfunctory services, gives us a sense of power and takes us at once up to a high level. It opens an inexhaustible background. The Church is not simply a weak company of people, who helplessly stand at bay and repeat the truths which they have inherited. It is the visible instrument through which the Living God speaks and works. It has all the resources of the Eternal Spirit to draw upon. There is no limit to its possible power. Ten men who become really "joined to the Lord," and so form a part of the Church of the Living God, can more mightily affect a community than ten churches which descend to the plan of "entertainment." The discouraged, pessimistic and hopeless feeling which characterizes so many Christians vanishes the moment one enters the Church of the Living God. Its power is irresistible. It is like the forces which swing the world and planets in space. It is like the current of electric force; it moves as small a thing as a compass needle, or as large as a globe with equal ease. "Yes," our readers will say, "but there isn't any such church." No, there isn't yet, to be sure. But the only reason there is no such church is that church members are not ready for it. It is God's idea of the church, and the idea will be realized as fast as we drop our short range views and become joined to the Lord for membership in this Church of the Living God.

THE death of Samuel Rogers, reported in another part of the paper, removes one of our pillar Friends in this country. Only last year he said, "Twenty-two years ago it was shown to me that God wanted business men in the Church, just as much as He wanted men to go as missionaries to China or Africa." He has been one of these consecrated business men in the Church, and he has made his life count beyond anything he knew himself. He has encouraged every line of healthy Christian activity, while to Canada Yearly Meeting he was in truth a "father."

The patriarchal, the Jewish and the Christian dispensations are evidently but the unfolding of one general plan. How sublime the idea of a religion thus commencing in the earliest dawn of time; holding on its way through all the revolutions of kingdoms and the vicissitudes of the race; receiving new forms but always identical in spirit; and, finally, expanding and embracing in one great brotherhood the whole family of man! Who can doubt that such a religion was from God?—Mark Hopkins.

RE-CONVERTED CHRISTIANS.

BY THEODORE L. CUYLER.

"When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren." These words were not addressed by the Lord Jesus Christ to an impenitent sinner; they were addressed to Simon Peter before his disgraceful denial of his Master. "Simon," says the heart-searching Saviour, "Satan has asked to have you that he might sift you as wheat; but I have made supplication for thee that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted strengthen thy brethren." Three important facts stand out in this declaration. The first one is that Peter was not at that time a stranger to true religion; for Christ recognizes that he has "faith." The second fact is that while Satan was about to sift poor Peter with a terrible temptation, Christ had interceded for him that he should not fall away into utter apostasy. The third fact is that Christ foresaw that after his disgraceful fall there should be a recovery, and the impetuous Peter would be one of the most powerful of His apostles.

The word "convert" in the New Testament signifies to face about or to turn around. It describes the movement of a ship when it is "put about" on an opposite course—or the action of a flower when it turns towards the sun. Reconversion is not regeneration. The Bible gives no hint of a second or third new birth of the soul. Reconversion is neither a second awakening of a sinner, or a second regeneration of one who is a true Christian. It is simply a penitent return to God and to the path of duty on the part of an erring and backsliding believer. Peter did not cease to be a Christian on that night of his shameful denial. Nor does many a church member cease entirely to be a Christian during his or her seasons of spiritual declension. There is a life there, but it is life at a pitiable low ebb. Like an apple tree in mid-winter, their roots may be still alive under all the biting cold; but there are no fruits of the spirit on their bare and barren branches.

Peter's heart-process in reconversion was similar to that in original conversion in two vital particulars. He sorrowed for his sin and repented of it. He came to Jesus in genuine faith and entered on a new path of obedience. Re-conversion is a turning unto God; it differs from a first conversion in two respects, viz.: the point set out from is a different point, and the distance traveled over is vastly less.

Tens of thousands of church members are in painful need of a thorough re-conversion. The church gets very little from them except their names on its rolls. The community gets no benefit from their religion. Not only do they not help the work of the Church, they are a hindrance and a reproach. No "revival" is more needed than a re-awakening and a re-conversion of backsliding church members. I once heard the venerable Lyman Beecher say that during a powerful revival in Cincinnati there was a remarkable outpouring of the Holy Spirit in the "Lane Theological Seminary," of which he was then the president. Several of the students whose religious experience had been very shallow and whose spiritual life was very feeble, abandoned their hopes, and dug down deeper to find the Rock. They were re-converted; and the doctor said that these re-converted men were especially effective when they got into their public ministry.

The first thing for every backsliding church member to do is to come back to Christ. If, like penitent Peter, he weeps bitterly, all the better for him. "He restoreth my soul." That is, Jesus Christ re-invigorates the life, imparts new vitality to the heart's blood, new strength to the spiritual sinews, and new elasticity to the footstep in the path of duty. It is not enough for a backslider to cry out, "Oh, that I could again be what I once was!" That is not the point to be aimed at. My friend, instead of vainly trying to get back your former self, and to reach your old mark, strike out for something better! You cannot run your experiences again in an old mould. The less you think of your former self, and the less you attempt to stereotype an old experience, the better it will be for you. Beseech your Master to give you new power, new inspiration, strength for new service and lay hold of the first lines of useful activity that you can discover. Put off that "old man" with his deeds and put on the new man in Christ Jesus. That means re-conversion.

Having thus come back to Jesus Christ in heart contrition and self-consecration it might do your soul good to make an honest confession, not only to your Master, but to your fellow-Christians. A member who had wandered off into scandalous practices came into our prayer meeting one evening, and standing up before the pulpit made a square, manly acknowledgment of his backsliding. He asked his brethren to forgive him, and prayed God to forgive him. From that time he never alluded to the painful subject again, but threw himself into zealous Christian work—in which he continued until his dying day. There could not be a more profitable and God-honoring service in our devotional meetings than for those who have been delinquents or deserters to make frank confession of their sins and shortcomings. General confession of sin in public prayer is cheap and worthless; but to stand up and acknowledge guilt and the wounding of Christ "in the house of His friends" demands an aroused conscience and sincere penitence; it is a genuine evidence of re-conversion.

I have no doubt that the sad story of Peter's sin and recovery is given in the Scripture for the instruction of those who have fallen into spiritual declension, as truly as the experience of Joseph is given to teach the virtue of charity, or that of Daniel to teach the virtue of courage, or that of Elijah to illustrate the power of prayer. Peter's honest tears of penitence and his subsequent "thou knowest that I love Thee" were the prelude to his glorious apostleship. A stronger and more sympathetic man than ever, he was able to help and to strengthen his weaker brethren. With what earnestness might he have sounded that solemn caution, "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall!"

Perhaps this article may come under the eye of some members of Christ's flock whose spiritual thermometer is sinking to zero, and who having a name to live are not much better than dead. Don't rely on a bygone experience already become musty and mouldy. Repent afresh and "do thy first work." Let your earnest prayer be, "O God, renew a right spirit within me; restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation!" Then with Christ's help, begin to live and speak and act and work as a re-converted Christian.

Man-like is it to fall into sin,
Fiend-like is it to dwell therein,
Saint-like is it for sin to grieve,
Christ-like is it all sin to leave.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

CANADA YEARLY MEETING AND THE CANADIAN NORTHWEST.

[Elias Rogers has sent us this report, of which he writes in a personal letter as follows: "William I. Moore's report was received with general satisfaction by Toronto Monthly Meeting, and it is believed that the proposed colony will be a great success. A number of names have already been received as applicants for homesteads, and it is very desirable that Friends generally should know of the project, so that any who are thinking of going to a new country should have an opportunity of joining the colony."—Ed.]

Owing to the rapid development of the Canadian Northwest Territories, and the great immigration that is now going on to that country, Canada Yearly Meeting is desirous that an effort should be made to have Friends located near each other, in order that a strong, religious and educational center may be built up from which work may be carried on in the new territories.

Under a sense of religious duty, William I. Moore, an esteemed minister among Friends and clerk of Canada Yearly Meeting, obtained a minute from Toronto Monthly Meeting Sixth month last, which was later endorsed by the yearly meeting, liberating him to visit the Northwest and see what could be done in the matter. He has now just returned from a two months' trip to that country, having traveled through a very considerable portion of it, visiting many families of Friends located in different parts, and spending a little time at the one meeting which has been established at Hartney, Manitoba. Many of the Friends out there were deeply interested in the movement, and quite a number expressed their intention of joining the colony. In company with John M. Hodgson, a practical Western farmer of Hartney, Manitoba, and L. J. Thomas, of Toronto (formerly of Hesper, Kan.), a trip was made into the Battleford district and after careful examination a number of townships were selected which it is believed will be desirable sites for a Friends' colony. A portion of the land in each township was set apart by the government for homestead purposes and any person (man or woman) who is the head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, can, on application to the government, by the payment of a small fee and doing settlement duties, obtain a free grant of 160 acres of this land. Anyone making an entry for a homestead now will have until the 1st of June next to begin his occupation of the land. These townships are open prairie, slightly rolling. The soil and climate of the whole district make it well adapted for either stock raising or grain growing. This land is now open for homestead entry, and those desiring to join the colony should send in their names as early as possible in order to secure a homestead. Alternate sections in each township have been granted to the Canadian Pacific Railroad, and can be obtained at from $5.00 to $6.00 per acre on easy terms of payment. Fuller information will be furnished on application to William I. Moore, 60 Bleecker Street, Toronto, both as to the plans for the colony and the resources of the country, climate, etc.

The total fees will not exceed $15.00 each for those who join the colony, including the government entry fee for land. It is hoped that a sufficient number of earnest Friends will join the movement to make it a center of moral influence and spiritual power. The sole object of the effort is the building up of the Church and the extension of Christ's kingdom, while at the same time opening the way for those of moderate means to build up a home for themselves and families under exceedingly favorable conditions.

One Friend who arrived at Hartney about ten years ago with about $300.00, last year had over 11,000 bushels of wheat, and this year his crop will be about the same. This Friend has examined the district selected, above referred to, and states that he believes it to be fully equal to the Hartney district.

It seems to be apparent that any settler obtaining a free grant of 160 acres of land has at once a property worth from $800 to $900, with the additional value added of whatever work he may have expended on the property in the way of settlement duties and improvements.

It is hoped that Friends seeking location for agricultural pursuits will get full information in regard to proposed settlement in this district before locating elsewhere.

Dispatches from Germany, Ninth month 8th, state that the next Reichstag will discuss a bill designed to promote temperance by requiring the sale of food and non-intoxicants in saloons in addition to their other drinks, forbidding the drink credit system, and restricting the employment of barmaids.

Temptation is a fearful word. It indicates the beginning of a possible series of lasting evils. It is the ringing of an alarm bell whose melancholy sounds may reverberate in the distant future. Like the sudden, sharp cry of "Fire!" under our windows by night, it should arouse us to instantaneous action, and brace every muscle to its highest tension.—Horace Mann.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

SAMUEL ROGERS.*

BY WILLIAM I. MOORE.

Samuel Rogers, second son of Elias Rogers and Sarah Pearson, was born in the township of West Gwillimbury, Simcoe County, Ontario, on the ninth of Tenth month, 1835. When quite young the family moved to Mariposa Township, and later to Yonge Street, near Newmarket, all early settlements of Friends.

He was married in 1855 to Achsah, daughter of Stephen and Rebecca Cody, of Newmarket, who, with two sons and four daughters, survives him.

He went to Louisville, Ky., in 1869, and removed to Cincinnati, O., in 1872, being engaged in the sewing machine business. In 1876 he came to Toronto, and shortly afterwards engaged in the oil business, with which he was connected until the time of his death.

He was a birthright member of the Society of Friends, and deeply attached to its principles, but it was not till he reached mature years that he accepted Christ in the forgiveness of his sins. He was converted in Cincinnati, in the home of Dr. Taylor, during some meetings held by Henry Moorhouse, and from that time, as he said, "I never doubted my acceptance with Christ." Some years after this he fully consecrated himself to the Lord's service, and as he often said, "It was plainly shown to me that the Lord needed business men in the Church just as much as He needed ministers, and that he would bless me in my business." He often testified that this promise had been abundantly fulfilled, and many who have been helped through his faithful stewardship, will rise up to call him blessed. His interest in all branches of the work of the Church seemed only to increase as the years went by. He was actively identified with the Toronto Monthly Meeting from its establishment. He was a beloved elder of this meeting, and his voice was often heard in exhortation, prayer and praise. It is largely due to his faith and patient effort that the commodious new meeting house has been erected in this city.

He took a very deep interest in Pickering College, and in company with the late John R. Harris, of Rockwood, Ont., visited England and Ireland, in 1890, to solicit funds for the school, which had been closed for a number of years. They met with a very generous response, and it was mainly through this that the re-opening of the college, in 1892, was made possible. Since that time he contributed largely toward its support, and rejoiced greatly in the prosperity and spiritual blessing which the school has enjoyed of late years.

Though in feeble health for the last two or three years, yet the end came as a great shock to all his friends. On Fifth-day, the 24th of the Ninth month, in company with Frederick Andrews and daughter, of Ackworth, England; Gilbert Gilkes, Kendal, Eng., and his brother, Elias Rogers, of Toronto, he visited Pickering College. Though somewhat fatigued, he much enjoyed the visit, and was able to go out to his brother's for luncheon the next day. On returning home he did not feel quite so well, and his physician advised him to keep his bed for a day or two. He was bright and cheerful on the Seventh-day evening, but did not rest very well that night, and soon after 10 o'clock on First-day morning, the 27th of Ninth month, he had a severe attack of the heart. Two physicians were in attendance in a few minutes, but notwithstanding all relief measures, about noon, just as the meeting was closing, he entered into the eternal rest.

*At his home, 107 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, about noon on First-day, Ninth month 27th, 1903, Samuel Rogers, a beloved elder of Toronto Monthly Meeting, aged 68 years.

The funeral was held on Third-day, the 29th, at the Friends Meeting House, Carlton Street, Toronto, a short service being held previously with the family and near relatives at his late residence, 107 Avenue Road. The meeting house was filled with a sorrowing company, among whom were about eighty employees of the firm of which he was president, who attended in a body. The meeting was addressed by William I. Moore, Howard Nicholson, Robert H. Rogers, who read our late friend's favorite hymn, and Dr. Bruce offered prayer. The teachers and scholars of Pickering College, and the employees and staff of his firm, and many others, sent beautiful floral tributes. The interment took place in Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The following are lines from his favorite hymn:

"Gliding o'er life's fitful waters,
Heavy surges sometimes roll,
And we sigh for yonder haven
For the homeland of the soul.

"To our Father, to our Saviour,
To the Spirit, three in One,
We shall sing glad songs of triumph
When our harvest work is done.

"Blessed homeland, ever fair,
Sin can never enter there,
But the soul to life awaking,
Everlasting joy shall share."

Toronto.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

IN MEMORY OF LYDIA M. HENSHAW.

BY CYRUS R. DIXON.

Lydia M. Henshaw was born at Fountain City, Indiana, Eighth month 29th, 1839, and died at her home in Lawrence, Kansas, Ninth month 27th, 1903.

She was the daughter of Nathan and Caroline Thomas. Her father was in the days preceding the civil war an abolitionist of the type which dared to put into action his conviction of right. To this end he was engaged for several years in buying and selling the products of free labor in opposition to slave labor. This was the spirit of the home in which the subject of this sketch was reared.

It was a strong Christian home and she was there trained in childhood to love the Saviour and to yield glad obedience to her Lord and Master. In her education she had the advantage of the "Friends' Boarding School," at Richmond, Ind., known now as Earlham College. She chose teaching as her line of service and began this at seventeen years of age, and continued either as public school teacher or missionary for twenty-five years.

On Ninth month 24th, 1862, she was united in marriage with Nathan Henshaw, with whom she lived in faithful companionship and comradeship for forty-one years and three days. They made their beginning home in Hesper neighborhood, Kansas, where they lived for nineteen years. Here were born two sons, B. W. Henshaw, of Denver, Colorado, who with his father survives, and Leland De Forest Henshaw, who died only a few years since.

In 1881 the family left their first home and settled in their present home in Lawrence, where they have lived continuously since.

Lydia Henshaw's life from childhood has been in the church. She has served her Lord by honoring Him as the head of the Church, and by honoring the Church as His purchased possession. She gave three years of her young life to service in the Friends' Mission work among the Indians in Johnson County, Kansas. In the years 1864 and 1865, she with her husband spent one year teaching the freedmen on Island No. 63 in the Mississippi River, and several months in the same line of work at Helena, Ark. During her residence in Hesper neighborhood she served both her monthly meeting and quarterly meeting as clerk, and she also served the Lawrence Monthly Meeting for several years in the same capacity after coming to this place. At the time of the organization of Kansas Yearly Meeting she was appointed assistant clerk of the women's meeting, which place she held continuously until Drusilla Wilson, the presiding clerk, left the State, when she succeeded to that office and continued in this place until a few years ago, when the women's meeting was combined with that of the men, under one set of officers. She early became interested in the Friends' Mission in Alaska, and served that board as corresponding secretary and treasurer until failing health bade her give up the work. Her genial disposition, her spirituality and good judgment, and her insight into character eminently fitted her for the work and service of an elder in the Church, and this station she has held by official action of the Church for many years. Loving God as she did she was richly endowed with the capacity to love nature. She took into her own soul her Maker's love. As she drank in the beauty of His creation, living thus near to nature's heart, and to God, the source of life, she solved the secret of perennial youth. Though the marks of the years showed in her body, her heart was young. Her life was a full and busy one. However, with all this service for her fellows, she was the life and the sunshine of her home. Her life was well lived, and it seems fitting to adapt the Scriptures, and say of her, "She walked with God all the days of her life, and she was not, for God took her."

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON V.

ELEVENTH MONTH 1, 1903.

DAVID AND ABSALOM.

2 Samuel 15: 1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.—Ex. 20: 12.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Tenth mo. 26.—David and Absalom. 2 Sam. 15: 1-12.

Third-day, Tenth mo. 27.—David's flight. 2 Sam. 15: 13-23.

Fourth-day, Tenth mo. 28.—David's submission. 2 Sam. 15: 24-31.

Fifth-day, Tenth mo. 29.—Shimei's curse. 2 Sam. 16: 5-14.

Sixth-day, Tenth mo. 30.—Absalom's wicked intent. 2 Sam. 17: 1-14.

Seventh-day, Tenth mo. 31.—Causing sorrow to parent. Prov. 19: 20-29.

First-day, Eleventh mo. 1.—Rebellious children. Isa. 1: 1-9.

Intervening Events.—It is not easy to give the order of the events happening between David's sin and repentance and the time of the present lesson. The important events relating to the lesson are Amnon's crime, Absalom's killing his brother, his flight, his return to Jerusalem through the influence of Joab, his reconciliation, after two years, with David.

Time.—Owing to the statement in verse 7, it is difficult to determine the time. If as most scholars think, "forty" is an error for "four," most of the difficulty is cleared up. On this basis the time of the lesson would be about eleven or twelve years after Lesson 1, or about 984 B.C.

Place.—(1) Jerusalem. (2) Hebron, 20 miles south of Jerusalem, the scene of the beginning of the open rebellion of Absalom.

Persons.—David, now about 62 years old; Absalom, about 25 years old; Ahithophel, the grandfather of Bathsheba (2 Sam. 11: 3; 23: 34), a wise man (see 2 Sam. 16: 23); and Hushai, a wise friend of David.

Absalom was the son of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur. Geshur was in Bashan, east of the Jordan, about 40 or 50 miles northeast of the Sea of Galilee. David's marriage with Maacah was doubtless for political reasons. She must have been a heathen and brought heathen customs and beliefs into David's household. Absalom was celebrated for his beauty (2 Sam. 14: 25, 26). His character seems to have been as evil as his person was fair.

It seems that there must have been much dissatisfaction in the kingdom, or Absalom would not have had such a following. Exactly to what this was due is not known. Probably there were several reasons. The laws were perhaps severer than in the past, the taxation heavier, and, if the census referred to in chapter 24 took place about this time, that would be an additional cause of unpopularity, for in those days a census was rarely if ever taken except for the purpose of laying heavier taxes or compelling more men to enter the army. (Compare Luke 2: 1-3.) Undoubtedly Absalom played the part of a demagogue.

1. "Chariot and horses," etc. This was in imitation of foreign monarchs, for chariots and horses were not common among the Israelites.

2. "Rose up early." Owing to the hot climate business in the East is carried on in the morning, and a rest is taken in the middle of the day. "Controversy," better, a "suit." The king gave judgment. Absalom met the people before they reached the king and ingratiated himself with them.

3, 4. "He artfully flatters each suitor by pronouncing a favorable decision on his case, condoles with him on the improbability of his obtaining a hearing, and hints how differently matters would be managed if he were in power."

5. A graphic picture of how he stooped to gain the populace.

6. "Stole the hearts." From David.

7. "After forty years." There is no circumstance from which to date such a period. Josephus reads "four years," and this is probably correct. "Pay my vow . . . in Hebron." It was natural for him to choose this city; it was his birthplace and would arouse no suspicion of his real purpose. Making and paying vows was a common custom.

8. "I will serve the Lord." That is, I will perform a service unto the Lord. This, again, was plausible.

10. "Sent spies." Rather emissaries, who were to prepare the people for a revolt. These doubtless made all sorts of promises to the disaffected. "Absalom is king." The first news the people would have would be that the rebellion was already a success. This would be likely to make them join the rebels.

11. "Two hundred men that were invited." Revised Version. Invited to the ceremonies accompanying the performance of the vow. The idea seems to have been to surprise them into siding with Absalom, or possibly to hold them as hostages.

12. "Ahithophel, the Gilonite." Giloh was a city of Judah a few miles southwest of Hebron (Josh. 15: 51). Ahithophel was the grandfather of Bathsheba and was unfriendly to David partly, doubtless, from David's treatment of Bathsheba while the wife of Uriah, and partly it may be from jealousy. He has been taken as the type of a shrewd evil counselor (compare 2 Sam. 16: 23), and has been compared to Judas. He doubtless was the strength and the brains of the rebellion.

Some think that the reference in Psalm 41: 9 is to him.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. Evil training in youth almost always bears evil fruit in maturity.

2. "Physical beauty will not compensate for moral deformity."

No man or woman of the humblest sort can really be strong, gentle, pure and good, without the world being the better for it, without somebody being helped and comforted by the very existence of that goodness.—Phillips Brooks.

People smile at the enthusiasm of youth—that enthusiasm which they themselves secretly look back at with a sigh, perhaps unconscious that it is partly their own fault that they ever lost it.—Exchange.

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR ELEVENTH MONTH FIRST.

GREAT MEN OF THE BIBLE: WHAT DAVID TEACHES US.

1 Sam. 16: 11-13; Ps. 19; John 7: 42.

Second-day, Tenth mo. 26.—About courage. 1 Sam. 17: 32, 40-49.

Third-day, Tenth mo. 27.—About true friendship. 1 Sam. 20: 16-23.

Fourth-day, Tenth mo. 28.—About mercy. 1 Sam. 24: 2-4; 26: 5-9.

Fifth-day, Tenth mo. 29.—About zeal. 2 Sam. 7: 1-3.

Sixth-day, Tenth mo. 30.—About forgetting grudges. 2 Sam. 9: 1-13.

Seventh-day, Tenth mo. 31.—About repentance. Ps. 51.

David had frank historians, and we know much of his life that, judged by any standards that we can approve to-day, we must condemn. Of some of his acts he had to repent, and from some of his sowing he reaped a long and bitter harvest. "The Lord was with him," but not to make him an exception to the rule of cause and effect. God does not have favorites. "He scourgeth every son whom He receiveth"—not because He delights in scourging, but because thereby are secured the peaceable fruits of righteousness.

All that we know of David's earlier years leaves the record clear. The testimonial given him as a youth by Saul's attendant (1 Sam. 16: 48) suggests high ideals well lived up to. Good natural endowments he certainly had, but he does not seem to have been so well esteemed at home as by this "friend at court." Even his father hardly held this youngest son as worth counting in the family possibilities, and the choice of a king over Israel had to be delayed while this unconsidered lad was looked up and brought in from the fields. The harsh and jealous Eliab was not even then ready to allow anything to the stripling, but after the death of Goliath we next hear of Eliab as David's deputy over Judah (1 Chron. 27: 18). Not only was David not discouraged by neglect, but neither was he embittered by unkindness and false suspicions.

David's thoughts and conduct were on a large scale. As a shepherd lad, where others would see only loneliness and monotony, he was laying up materials for the unsurpassed Twenty-third Psalm. As a fugitive and outlaw, he was drinking in inspiration for hymns of unwavering faith and a trust that triumphed over all that man could do to him. His conquests, his hopes, his plans, were all great, and mark his absorption in things that lay above and beyond his immediate self. The lion and the bear that would despoil his father's flock, and the Philistine who mocked Jehovah's people, he slew; but he spared his bitter personal enemy, Saul, when he lay helpless within his power. God's time was soon enough for his personal advancement, though the present must ever be filled with work for the cause he served.

Full of the cares of the kingdom as was David, and notable as were the achievements of his sword, he stands forth as the apostle of meditation and the sweet singer of the church in all ages. His religion was emotional in the best sense. He knew the value of joy and gratitude as spiritual tonics, and praise seemed to him most comely. He chose and cultivated his states of mind. He dwelt upon God's mercies until his feelings of thankfulness demanded expression. When discouragement and despair sought control he found refuge until his calamities were overpast, and turned his very trials into new provings of the lovingkindness of God who works deliverance.

A MEXICAN ENDEAVORER.

[This appreciative account of our friend, Eucario M. Sein, who has labored for many years in Mexico, should be a source of gladness to us all. The writer of it, James D. Eaton, is an official of the American Board of Foreign Missions (Congregationalist), and speaks with the authority of one who knows. In a personal letter he gives his reason for writing the sketch, as follows:

"We so greatly appreciate the part which is sustained by Eucario M. Sein, of Matehuala, State of San Luis Potosi, in the evangelical work of this country, as preacher, teacher and writer, especially in connection with our Christian Endeavor Societies, that I thought it would be agreeable to your readers, particularly those interested in supporting him as their missionary, to know something of the esteem in which he is held by those belonging to other branches of the Church of Christ.

"It was my privilege to begin work in this State a little more than twenty-one years ago, when there was no other resident missionary of any name in any one of the three northwestern States of Chihuahua, Sonora and Sinaloa."—ED.]

Comparatively few persons have an adequate idea of the territorial extent of the Republic of Mexico, with its fourteen millions of inhabitants. This State of Chihuahua, for instance, has an area almost equal to that of New York and Pennsylvania combined, and from its capital to the City of Mexico the distance is exactly one thousand miles. In the latter city was held in July last the National Convention of Christian Endeavor Societies in close affiliation with the Epworth Leagues, and many delegates from the northern State traveled all that distance at their own charges, which involved large pecuniary sacrifice.

They were not able to secure the national convention for the northern city, but they did "the next best thing" in obtaining the help of the president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor for their State convention that was held last month.

The readers of this journal may not care to be told of all the details of this most enthusiastic gathering of Christian workers, which in many features closely resembled the assemblages with which they are familiar. But they will be glad to know that the Mexican Christians themselves are now sufficiently numerous and capable to take the leading part in these conventions, both national and local.

The strongest personality was that of President E. M. Sein himself, who broke away from pressing engagements in the distant city of Matchuala long enough to spend the days of convention with us. He is a man of wide experience, broad sympathies, excellent judgment and eloquent speech, and his gifts were at the service of all, from beginning to end. At the opening session, which almost coincided with the celebration of Mexico's Independence Day, he thrilled us by his appeal to patriotic sentiments, and by his indignant spurning of the calumnious charge that Mexican Protestants are false to their country.

In the conferences and discussions that followed he was always ready with the timely thought and the wise suggestion that helped to guide to a profitable conclusion. At the farewell meeting a great audience listened intently, at times breathlessly, to his vivid picturing of the act of the woman who touched the border of Christ's garment; and many must have felt impelled to put themselves into saving contact with the Giver of Life, as did she.

Chihuahua holds the oldest Christian Endeavor banner in the country, as it was the first society that was formed under the model constitution; but it would not rest upon its laurels, and it feels it has received a new impulse toward a more vigorous and fruitful life, through the memorable visit of Mr. Sein.

JAMES D. EATON.

Missionary of the American Board.

Chihuahua, Mexico.

Our business is not to build quickly, but to build upon a right foundation and in a right spirit. Life is more than a mere competition as between man and man; it is not who can be done first, but who can work best; it is not who rise highest in the shortest time, but who is working most patiently and lovingly in accordance with the designs of God.—Joseph Parker.

Correspondence.

Editor THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

Dear Friend: It may be of interest to many to know that there was a much earlier proposition for uniting the yearly meetings in this country, and one more nearly like the plan at present in force than was the meeting of delegates noted in the last AMERICAN FRIEND.

Samuel Bowden, in his "History of Friends in America," Vol. II., page 23, says that in the records of Burlington Yearly Meeting, which was established in 1681, two years earlier than that of Philadelphia, and which became one with the latter body in 1685, the following minute was recorded at the session held in 1685.

"Whereas this meeting judged it requisite, for the benefit and advantage of Truth, and mutual comfort of Friends, that a general Yearly Meeting might be established for the provinces in these parts, northward as far as New England, and southward as far as Carolina, that by the coming of Friends together from the several parts where Truth is professed, the affairs thereof may be the better known and understood; and to the end the same may be assented to by Friends in those parts and places, as above mentioned, it is agreed that William Penn, Christopher Taylor, Samuel Jennings, James Harrison, Thomas Olive, and Mahlon Stacy, do take sure methods, by writing, to Friends or speaking, as may best fall out for their convenience, in order to have the same established."

In 1686, it is recorded that Friends were present from New York, Long Island and Maryland. But none being present from Rhode Island, Virginia, or Carolina, "it was agreed that they be writ to again, to request their consent to have this a general Yearly Meeting as formerly proposed."

From the foregoing records it seems probable that had the methods of transportation been anything like as convenient as at our time, there would never have been any question about uniting the yearly meetings in one body in this day, for they would have been so united from the beginning, and it is not unlikely that many misunderstandings and perhaps even the divisions which rent the churches might have been avoided.

Thy friend,

A. FRANKLIN SWIFT.

Editor THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

You will find enclosed a copy of the resolutions unanimously adopted by Western Yearly Meeting at its recent session, which we would be glad to have published in THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

The address on temperance evening was given by Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago. A splendid speech, and listened to very attentively by a very large audience. The work the past year of this department has been very good, and we are beginning a new year with the purpose of making it still better.

Very truly,

E. J. CARTER, Supt.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolutions unanimously adopted by Western Yearly Meeting on the Suppression of the Liquor Traffic:

"Whereas, The result of the liquor traffic in its encroachments upon the rights and privileges of citizenship is robbing the home of love, comfort, peace and happiness, turning boys into vagrants and criminals, and polluting the virtues of the womanhood of our fair land; and

"Whereas, We have repeatedly, together with our sister churches, branded this legalized destroyer of the bodies and souls of so many of our fellow-citizens as the greatest foe of the church and of civic righteousness in government, we believe under a sense of our responsibility to God, the church should speak in no uncertain sound and act in no uncertain way. We believe the voice of the pulpit should be pronounced in its opposition to all participation in legalizing sin, and the membership give this question careful and prayerful consideration. We believe the church should have such advisory oversight of her membership in regard to all their acts which involve the question of morals and of right and wrong, as to keep them from doing anything that might give assistance to any institutions or organizations which openly oppose the best welfare of the church. We, therefore,

"Resolve, That Western Yearly Meeting in annual assembly re-affirm the declarations of last year, that the legal sanction by any form of license, giving it permission, should be withheld, that the endorsement of the license system is incompatible with the spirit of the Friends' Church and the principles of republican government.

"Resolved, That the suppression of the liquor traffic can only be accomplished through a statutory or constitutional prohibitory law, with penalties that will be effective in its enforcement, and in view of the special efforts that are now being put forth in our own State we appeal to the enlightened conscience of our membership, and urge them to withhold their support from any candidate for office who is not known to be opposed to, and who will not pledge themselves to use their official position and influence in favor of the making and enforcement of such laws as will effectually prohibit and suppress the beverage liquor traffic.

"Resolved, That we co-operate with all organizations in bringing such influences to bear on our legislative bodies, in the enactment of such laws as will be more aggressive in the suppression of the beverage liquor traffic.

"Resolved, That we heartily endorse the action of the Five Years' Meeting in calling a conference of all the churches in America in the city of Washington, D. C., in 1906, to formulate a plan by which the temperance forces may become united in action for the suppression of this great evil."

Editor of THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

Soon after boarding the excursion train at Oskaloosa, Iowa, Ninth month 15th, for different points in Indiana and Ohio, the thought that I might once more look into the faces of Western and Indiana Yearly Meetings seemed very dream-like, for forty-nine years had gone by since I attended the latter, and forty-two since being at the former. Then came a vivid conception—a quick consciousness—that while these long years had been silently dropping into the past, the five yearly meetings here in the Middle West, Ohio, Indiana, Western, Iowa and Kansas, had been greatly increasing. No, I do not mean in numbers merely; I mean more than that; something even better; that they have grown in evangelistic and missionary spirit. How one's heart leaps with gladness in the knowledge that Indiana and Western Yearly Meetings, jointly, have reached out, and are taking territory in Mexico, changing priest-ridden Spaniards to Quaker preachers. Filled with a missionary spirit Iowa has gone to Jamaica, and has now gathered into church membership with Friends 600 souls; and yet, more—in her expansive capacity she is reaching out and touching Cuba. Kansas, the youngest of this sisterhood of five yearly meetings, under cover of her evangelical spirit, is bringing the dusky tribes of Alaska into the kingdom of our coming King. Yes, and not only so; she has established a monthly meeting of Friends, made up of Eskimos, under the Arctic Circle. Think of it! Ohio, reaching yet further, has put herself in religious touch with India. And still more inspiring, the American yearly meetings, unitedly, are reaching out their hand to uplift the lost, nude tribes of East Central Africa through the instrumentality of "Friends' Africa Industrial Mission."

E. B. MENDENHALL.

Marshalltown, Iowa.

NORTH CAROLINA REUNION.

Last year, at the instance of the city of Greensboro, the State Legislature of North Carolina passed resolutions inviting residents of other States whose parents or their ancestors were born in North Carolina to visit the State this year in this month at Greensboro. The matter was well worked up in Greensboro and elsewhere in North Carolina. Very reduced rates of travel were secured, and a vast number of people assembled in the large opera house, the Grand, in Greensboro, on First-day, the 11th, at 3 p.m., and heard A. C. Dixon, of Boston, with spell-bound attention, preach on the visions of Ezekiel about the wheels and dry bones as given in the 1st and 37th chapters of said prophet. A. C. Dixon is an eminent Baptist minister, and, of course, a native of North Carolina.

Next day a great throng assembled in the Grand and listened to various speakers from many States speak of the social, material and political conditions of things, and also of the educational status.

Among these speakers in some respects more especially interesting to Friends was the speech of William Futrell, a Friend and Philadelphia lawyer, president of the North Carolina Society of North Carolina people resident in Philadelphia.

On the next day, the 12th, similar exercises were had before a vaster assemblage under a large open arbor in a park of 100 acres, called Battle Ground Park, six miles northwest of Greensboro. This is the site of the Battle of Guilford Court House, in the Revolutionary War. In this battle General Green commanded the American forces and Lord Cornwallis the British. This battle was fought the 15th of Third month, 1781, and led to the early surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown the same year.

The speech in its matter and ability of most interest to Friends in this meeting was that made by Joseph M. Dixon, a Friend and a graduate of Guilford College and Congressman from Montana. There were notable men from twenty-seven States in attendance, with hundreds and hundreds of excellent men and women and children of less note from Montana to Florida. Murat Halstead, of Ohio, was apparently the oldest and probably the most widely-known speaker of this occasion.

The best of feeling and the best of order prevailed throughout these three days of the home-coming of the dispersed of North Carolina. The speeches and written communications of and for the occasion are to be printed in a book. Many Friends from the West came back on a pilgrimage to the land of their birth or home of their forefathers, some to see the campus and buildings of old New Garden, now Guilford College.

The college provided a room as its headquarters in the spacious popular hotel, the Benbow, and the college had two days' outing and holiday.

The State appears to be more prosperous in every way than ever before. Friends seem better contented that they remained in the State now than at any time since the war of 1861. We were very sorry we could not get Timothy Nicholson, of Richmond, Ind., to speak for North Carolina Friends in Indiana at this time. The Governor of the State, with the State officers, honored the occasion by their presence. The Governor made the best speech of all the writer ever heard from him. The meetings were presided over by ex-Senator Ransom, of North Carolina. Next year we hope Western Friends will have a spokesman.

F. S. BLAIR.

Guilford College, N. C.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Wesley Cox has removed from Hollister, Cal., to Whittier, Cal.

We are glad to report the addition of $100 to the Harriet Green Fund, received from Joshua L. Baily.

Elisha Janeway, who has been visiting meetings in Oklahoma and Indian Territory for the last five weeks, returned to his home in Pleasant View Meeting, Kansas, after yearly meeting.

Rufus M. Jones attended Chicago Meeting, First-day morning, the 11th. He also addressed the Christian Endeavor meeting in the evening, at which there was a large company of young Friends.

Dartmouth Monthly Meeting, Mass., was held the 23d ult., with an all-day meeting. Mead Kelsey, from Rhode Island Quarterly Meeting, was present, and preached two heart-searching sermons. Two persons were received into membership by request.

Sandwich Quarterly Meeting was held at Sandwich, Mass., on the 8th inst. Much pertinent counsel was given in the ministry.

Wm. and Susan T. Thompson returned the minute granted them more than one year and a half ago for service in England and Ireland. Though the full graveyard and empty seats had a discouraging effect, yet the signs of the times and promises of harvest are cheering.

George Hull, of Gasport, N. Y., who has taken charge of the meeting at Hartland, N. Y., for the past two years, has resigned the work there, that he may be free to do more in the First-day School work, where he feels an especial call. The meeting is without a pastor, and not able to support one. There are so many "Friends" meetings in like condition. What can be done to help them? George Hull, and his family (consisting of nine workers) have done what they could, driving four miles, receiving no pay, and feeling it a privilege to help the dear people there to pay the expenses of the work. Who will take the work for two years more?

We have received the following items of news from F. S. Blair, of Guilford College, N. C., under date of Tenth month 14th:

"Last week J. Edgar Williams, minister of Friends, resident at Greensboro, N. C., led in a series of meetings among the students of Guilford College. The meetings were held under the auspices of the College Y. M. C. A., the members of which heartily seconded and sustained the efforts of J. Edgar Williams. As a result, 15 or 16 students made profession of salvation through Christ with an evident uplift of the spiritual tone of the student body. It appears from the consensus of opinion that the students are above the average in moral and religious bearing which is indeed gratifying to the faculty, and it is presumed no less so to the parents and guardians.

"Marlboro Monthly Meeting, Southern Quarter, in North Carolina, was held at Poplar Ridge on the 4th inst. Sarah E. W. Winslow, a minister with credentials from Science Hill Monthly Meeting, with her husband, Wm. C. Winslow, had service in the meeting. There was a good attendance. It was a very favored meeting. The Lord's presence and blessing were very sensibly manifest. The meeting continued long without being burdensome. There were Methodists and Baptists participating acceptably in the expressions of thanksgiving and praise. The meeting finished its indebtedness and paid up all dues. A couple were liberated to consummate their marriage. There was not so much life and promptness in the meeting for business as there was in that for worship; hence this part of the day was not so satisfactory. The Pastoral Committee is expected to present the names of 12 or 15 persons for membership to next monthly meeting. A few of these are minors."

Sandwich Quarterly Meeting of Friends, held Tenth month 8th, 1903, united with New Bedford, Mass., Monthly Meeting, in approving the public appearances in the ministry of Augustus Taber Murray. Our friend, Augustus Taber Murray, who is a professor at Stanford University, Cal., is a son of the late Robert Lindley Murray, for many years clerk of New York Yearly Meeting, and of Ruth S. Murray, a well-known minister of New England Yearly Meeting. He is a grandson of the late William C. Taber, of New Bedford, Mass.

At the suggestion of the Junior Class, the trustees, faculty and students of Penn College decided to celebrate the birthday of William Penn, and to make the occasion a time of rejoicing over the raising of the college indebtedness. As a result, the 13th and 14th of this month were set apart for these purposes, William Penn's birthday occurring on the 14th. A large company of old students and friends of the college joined the students in making the celebration a success. Charles Sweet, of Des Moines, gave an interesting account of how the $33,000 were raised. Irving Johnson, a former graduate of both Penn College and Haverford, gave a valuable address on "America's Debt to William Penn." On the afternoon of the 13th a procession of professors, students and alumni marched from the college through the town to the spacious Methodist Church, where the exercises were held. An address was delivered to a large company by Rufus M. Jones on "The College and Its Mission." This was followed by an address on "The Service of Prophecy," by President Storm, of the Iowa State College. A banquet was served in the evening, at which a number of distinguished speakers were heard. On the 14th the college took possession of its new site of fifty acres, and a granite boulder was set up to mark the event. This was accompanied with appropriate exercises.

Rockefeller Hall, the new dormitory of Bryn Mawr College, which will be completed within a few weeks, is a building which has many original features, and is the outcome of much study and experience. Nothing could have been more carefully planned to fill the requirements of a hall of residence for women students. It is built of gray stone and the main wing 347 feet long continues the line of Pembroke Hall, the roof line and "wall of Troy" finish being the same. The stone of Pembroke Hall was taken from a quarry in Bryn Mawr belonging to the late George W. Childs, which is now closed, and with some difficulty stone was found in the Chestnut Hill quarries which exactly matched it. All the stone has been cut on the college grounds, and the blocks of irregular shape were fitted into place by trained stone-cutters, giving a soft and artistic effect. This wing contains the rooms for the students. The hall is to hold 84 students, and about two-thirds of these will be able to have a study and a small adjoining bed-room each. The rest will have single rooms, but these are so designed that the bedstead and necessary furniture will fit conveniently into place. Stationary washstands with hot and cold water laid on are in each room enclosed in cupboards.

The dining-room wing is at right angles to the main wing, and over the dining-room are the kitchens and servants' rooms. The dining-room resembles the dining-hall or common room of an English college, and is panelled to a height of about ten feet in cypress wood of a natural finish. All the woodwork of the building is cypress, and was dried and planed in a mill on the college grounds. The dining-room will hold over one hundred students who will be seated at small square tables, eight at a table.

The main wing and dining-room wing are connected by the tower placed at an angle facing the approach to the college from the station, and forming a gateway or footpath entrance to the college, to be called the "Owl's Gateway." The carving on the stonework and the pendants of the arched roof are figures of owls.

Practically the new building will fill many wants of the college. Under the dining-room are a luncheon room for the non-resident students, a sewing room, a hair-dressing room, cold storage rooms, offices for the Junior Bursar or Steward of the college, and store rooms for supplies in general. In the tower are guest rooms for distinguished visitors to the college, and there are also guest rooms set apart for alumnae visiting their Alma Mater; sitting rooms, reception rooms, and a suite of rooms for the Warden are on the first floor near the entrance.

Miss Marion Parris, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, now Warden of Summit Grove, has been appointed Warden. Two housekeepers, a janitor and about sixteen servants will be needed for the work of the hall.

The late Mr. Walter Cope, of the firm of Cope & Stewardson, the architects of Bryn Mawr College, and of many other college dormitories, planned the building just before his death. Mr. John D. Rockefeller gave the building, costing $145,000, as part of his munificent gift to the college, the other part being the central lighting and heating plant, now extended to light and heat Rockefeller Hall. Mr. A. D. Houghton, engineer of the $250,000 plant of the University of Chicago, is the contractor and engineer. Mr. John Sweatt, of Lowell, Mass., is contractor for the stonework. The best fireproof methods of building are employed. By Christmas the building should be ready for students.

Levi Gregory, of San Jose, Cal., writes of the work there, as follows:

"The reports of San Jose Meeting four years ago show a membership of 56, many of whom were non-residents, with three ministers, one of whom was a non-resident. Many changes have occurred; two of the ministers have passed away, the one is still absent. Of the membership 20 names of the old list remain. At present 134 names, seven of whom are ministers, are on our list, while the attendance on our meetings for worship has greatly increased. The spirituality and influence of the members shows a healthy growth.

"About two months ago it was felt that we should be reaching out more; that with the ministers at hand more work could be carried on. A committee was appointed to look for a suitable opening. Soon a desirable field was found, with an unused chapel, well located. This chapel, it was found, could be had, by paying off a mortgage of $500, which is little more than half the value. This was undertaken. A favorable loan of $400 was secured and the balance raised by subscription, and on the 13th of last month we began what is to be known as Friends' Cottage Grove work. Oliver N. and Isabelle Kenworthy, ministers, are in charge of the work. The location is in the southern part of the city of San Jose, with no other church within a mile's distance. While we have no members in the neighborhood the attendance and interest at the Bible School and Meeting for Worship are such as to assure us that it is of the Lord. It is our purpose to hold a series of meetings at both Cottage Grove and Stockton Avenue in the near future, and with the continued blessing of the Lord the parent and child will still prosper.

"John Henry Douglas, Yearly Meeting Superintendent of Evangelistic and Church Extension Work, recently spent some time in this quarter, attended quarterly meeting at Berkeley, was at the opening and preached a helpful sermon at Cottage Grove and visited all the meetings."

BORN.

KING.—Born to Irving and Alta F. King, Richmond, Ind., Ninth month 24th, 1903, a son, Philip Burk King.

MENDENHALL.—Born to Walter W. and Annie Armitage Mendenhall, a daughter, Deborah Miriam, Ninth month 23d, at Greensboro, N. C.

MARRIED.

SHOEMAKER—LIGHTNER.—At the home of Dr. S. B. Lightner, Sabina, Ohio, Myrtle Sylvia Lightner to Charles A. Shoemaker, Tenth month 7th, 1903. Their home will be San Juan de Letran No. 3, Mexico City, Mexico.

DIED.

HULL.—At her home in Tobias, Neb., Fifth month 3d, 1903, Susanna Hull, an elder, wife of Solomon L. Hull, a minister, member of Triumph Monthly Meeting of Friends, aged 47 years.

HULL.—At Tobias, Neb., Ninth month 25th, 1903, Charles Ezra Hull, son of Solomon L. and Susanna (deceased) Hull, died, aged 15 years, 2 months, 14 days.

PEASLEE.—At the home of her parents, Albert N. and Hannah Peaslee, in South Pittsfield, N. H., Ninth month 21st, Edith Agnes Peaslee, aged 13 years, 9 months. An obedient child, a genial companion, made many strong friends. She was constant in her attendance at meeting and Bible School.

RATLIFF.—At his home in Spiceland, Ind., on the morning of Tenth month 5th, 1903, Eli Ratliff, after a useful life of 81 years, passed from works to reward, in full assurance of the Gospel.

Events and Comments.

Advices from the Far East concerning the relations of Japan and Russia are more reassuring.

John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, in a talk given before the National Civic Federation, which met in Chicago last week, strongly denounced the non-unionist and the strike breaker, whom he likened to a criminal. Such violent language, coming from a man whose actions and words have been heretofore so regularly tempered with moderation, is greatly to be regretted. His own character and the cause of labor are bound to suffer for such expressions.

The trial of James H. Tillman, charged with the murder of N. S. Gonzales, editor of the "State," in North Carolina, on the 15th of last First month, ended in an acquittal on the 15th instant. Tillman is a nephew of Senator Tillman, and at the time he shot Gonzales was Lieutenant-Governor of South Carolina. Gonzales and Tillman were political enemies, and the latter claimed that he shot his victim in self-defense. The acquittal of Tillman is generally regarded as an outrage and a scandal.

The application of Antonio Opisso de Ycaza, a native of the Philippine Islands, for admission to the bar of the District of Columbia, and who was graduated at a law school in Washington last spring, was decided in his favor last week by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. This is the first time that a person not a born or naturalized citizen was admitted to practice before the District Courts.

WINS HER HEART.

Food That Helps Baby and the Family Pleases Mother.

Show a mother how to feed her baby so that it will be healthy, rosy and plump and grow up strong and sturdy, and the mother's gratitude is everlasting.

A mother says: "Five weeks ago I weaned baby, but could not get her to take any kind of food until I tried Grape-Nuts which she relished from the first, and on it she has plumped up and blossomed into a fat, chubby little girl."

"I feed Grape-Nuts to her regularly, and use three packages a week for baby and my three-year-old boy alone, and I find that it regulates their bowels and keeps them nourished, strong and in good health all the time."

"Since feeding my children on Grape-Nuts I have used absolutely no medicine for either of them. Such food as this that does such wonders wins its way to a mother's heart. Please accept our thanks for the good your food has done in our family where we all eat it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Children will grow up strong and healthy or weak and puny according to the food given. Grape-Nuts is a complete and perfect food made on scientific lines, and this is easily proved by trial.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

According to reports received from Panama, there are reasons to believe that Nicaragua and Guatemala are on the eve of declaring war on Salvador and Honduras.

News from Central America received at Panama is to the effect that President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, and President Estrada Cabrera, of Guatemala, are preparing active measures against Salvador and Honduras. Ten thousand Guatemalan soldiers are reported to be marching toward the Salvadorean frontier with a powerful force of artillery. At Santa Ana, thirty-five miles northwest of San Salvador, a Salvadorean army is being organized under General Regalado. Many war elements have been transported from the port of Acajutla to La Union, which is near the Nicaraguan frontier.

John Alexander Dowie, self-styled "Elijah II.," has invaded New York City with his "restoration host," 3,000 strong. Special trains were engaged to convey the Zionists from Zion City, and most careful preparations were made to ensure the success of the movement. The "host" reached New York on the 16th. The object of Dowie's coming to New York with his followers is to preach his doctrines and to establish there if possible such an organization as he has so remarkably built up in Chicago. It is proposed to make a house-to-house visit with practically every family in New York. Madison Square Garden has been secured for the public meetings which will be held. His hopes and ideals are pretty clearly expressed in the following statement which he is said to have made: "The friends of Zion who will come into Zion in the next two years will bring with them property worth $50,000,000." His is a most remarkable personality, and his success in imposing upon the credulity of so many people who have accepted him as their guide in religion is most remarkable.

According to the most moderate estimate, says the Sofia correspondent of the "London Times," there are now 22,000 refugees in Bulgaria from Macedonian and Adrianople vilayets, of whom 19,000 have arrived in the past few weeks. These fugitives are mostly old men, women and children, and this exodus is more eloquent than long lists of atrocities and narratives of hideous cruelties. It refutes unanswerably the assertions of those who are endeavoring to minimize and conceal the happenings in European Turkey, and shows that life has been made intolerable in the Sultan's dominions. Almost all the fugitives are in a condition of total destitution. In a report from Salonica, the news of the death of Boris Saraffoff, the famous Macedonian leader, is confirmed. Saraffoff was the life and soul of the insurgent operations in Macedonia. From the time that he was a boy of 14, when he saw his father and grandfather tortured and dragged in chains to a dungeon, he has

SEABOARD FLORIDA EXCURSION.

For trains of November 11th the Seaboard Air Line will sell cheap excursion tickets to Sarasota, Fla. (the Manatee Country), good fifteen days. For full particulars, booklets on fruit culture and trucking, address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

cherished the utmost hatred for the Turk, and has never lost an opportunity for expressing it in hostile deeds. He is stated to have been the real instigator of the abduction of Ellen M. Stone, in order to procure through her ransom funds to enable the revolutionary committee to organize the insurrection.

The Nicest, Cleanest,
Most Desirable LAXATIVE

for family use.
"Once tried always used when needed."

50c and $1. at Druggists.
The Tarrant Co., New York

IT IS UP TO DATE
GET THE BEST

25,000 NEW WORDS

Revised Gazetteer of the World
Revised Biographical Dictionary

New Plates. 2380 Pages. 5000 Illustrations.

Edited by W. T. HARRIS, Ph.D., LL.D.,
United States Commissioner of Education.

LET US SEND YOU FREE

An instructive and entertaining "Test
in Pronunciation" also our illustrated pamphlet.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO.,
Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and much had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets and contains the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly-concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, the excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease, as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

The University of Grenoble, France, which has 500 foreign pupils, has offered the chair of English to Miss Jameson, an English woman of 25, who is professor at the College of Darlington, Scotland. This is the first woman ever admitted to the universities of France as an instructor.

THE VOICE OF THE NIGHT.

The day at last had passed away,
And all alone I lay,
Bleeding and sorely wounded
From the conflict of the day,
And my soul was filled with bitterness,
And my body full of pain,
As I thought of the morrow's struggles
And of meeting it all again.
And in my bitterness I cried:
"Is this the whole of life,
This ceaseless unrelenting toil,
This never-ending strife?"

"There are better things," the cry came back,

As, gazing at the stars,
The soul within me whispers
Of better worlds than ours.
For then, for one short moment,
I rise on wings of light,
And hold holy communion
With spirits pure and bright.
They whisper to my rising soul
Of that, that ne'er can be,
Till, finished with this empty life,
I'll there these visions see.
Then, turning to the immortal soul
That quivers in this breast
I question why I linger here,
When happiness so blest
Is yonder waiting me,
Where I shall find sweet rest.
"Oh, wondrous dreams that come to me
Sweet tokens of a life
That will be mine
After the toil and strife!
Oh, bear me hence, I would not stay
'Mid toil and pain and care!
Oh, take me to that other world
That is awaiting there!"

Then from the star-lit heavens,
In answer to my prayer,
An angel stood beside me
And whispered, "All is there.
Beyond the reach of mortal ken
Stands forth the city fair.
Go, buckle on your armor.
Go forth into the fight
Never falt'ring, never failing
Stand boldly for the right.
And when the fight is over,
And when the victory won,
Come higher, faithful servant
Enter in. It is well done."

The night too soon had passed away,
And all alone I lay
Still wounded and still bleeding
From the conflict of the day,
But my soul was filled with holy peace,
My frame had lost its pain,
And ready for the conflict,
I strode forth to fight again.

—Thos. Huber Stilwell.

SOME OF THE ADVERTISERS.

Now using THE AMERICAN FRIEND began advertising in the paper over ten years ago. It must have paid them or they would not continue from year to year. We believe that among our regular readers there are those who could use our advertising columns very profitably, but who may not have given particular thought to this feature of their denominational paper. We should like to hear from all such, and we are satisfied that we can demonstrate to them the value of space in THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

Address THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch Street,
Philadelphia, Pa.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The price for a single insertion of 5 lines is 25c.; 5 lines, 5 times costs $1.00, 13 times $2.25, 26 times $4, and 52 times, $7.80. Larger space is charged at the same rate. Cash with order.

FLOWERS AND SHRUBS.—You should plant this fall. Send for our new Floral Guide, just out.
The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Box X

FOR SALE.—5000 of Amos Kenworthy's "Never fail to bear" Hardy Northern Grown "Friday" peach trees. Write me. JESSE OVERMAN, Knights-town, Ind., successor to Amos Kenworthy.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE CO., Miami, Ind. Ter.
Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

TWO PLEASANT ROOMS to rent, either with or without board, in a Friend's family, near Logan Square. Address Sarah J. Orr, 1933 Vine Street, Philadelphia.

GIVEN AWAY.—To advertise our Quaker Ointment, we will send free to every reader of this paper a beautiful pair of nickel-plated, gold handle scissors. Davis Mfg Co., Butlerville, Ind.

WANTED.—Young Friend to serve as mother's helper in Friend's family in Philadelphia.
Address T., AMERICAN FRIEND.

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

If there is a fathomless mystery of sin and sorrow, there is a deeper mystery of God's love.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

7% Net TO LENDER.
FIRST MORTGAGES on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

The Leeds & Biddle Co.

Makers of the Better Kind of

PRINTING

Your order for anything from a card to a catalogue

1019-21 Market St., Philadelphia

Getting Ahead

Many people never get ahead until they go in debt. Debt may be safely and honestly incurred when a good life insurance policy runs along with it. Consult the

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

A BOTANICAL ADVENTURE.

I found a flower named Bouncing Bet
This morning in the roadside grass;
I got my skirts all sopping wet.
I took it to the Botany class
And Teacher showed us very plain
The little pistol that it had,
Beneath the Maggie flying-glass.

And then we wrote down in our books;
"The poplar name is Bouncing Bet
And it is found in wayside nooks,
Escaped from gardens where it grew;
But sometimes cultivated yet."
Dear Bouncing Bet! how spirited
And fine that was of you!

To run away and to escape
From stiff old gardens long ago
And paths made prim by hoe and tape.
A brave adventure to have planned!
Oh, I can see you, stooping low,
Creep slyly underneath the gate,
Your little pistol in your hand.
—Florence Wilkinson, in "McClure's Magazine."

SPOILED CHILDREN

Usually Make Sickly Men and Women.

The "spoiled" child usually makes a weak, sickly man or woman because such a youngster has its own way about diet and eats and drinks things that are unfitted for any stomach and sickness results.

"I was always a delicate spoiled child, and my parents used to let me drink coffee because I would cry for it," says a Georgia young woman; "when I entered school my nervousness increased, and my parents thought it was due to my going to school, so they took me out again. But I did not get any better, and my headaches got worse and weakened me so that I was unfit for any duty. Sometimes I would go a whole day without any other nourishment than a cup of coffee.

"Last spring I had a bad attack of the Grippe, and when I recovered I found that coffee nauseated me, so I could not drink it, and even a few swallows would cause a terrible burning in my stomach. It was at this time that a friend who had been much benefited by the use of Postum suggested that I try this food drink. I found it simply delicious, and have used it ever since, and the results speak for themselves. I have gained 12 pounds, and my nerves are as steady as any one's.

"I consider myself well and strong, and I make it a point now to take a cup of Postum with a cracker or two as soon as I come home from school in the afternoon. Postum with crackers or a biscuit makes my luncheon. It certainly saved my life, for I know coffee would have killed me in time had I continued drinking it.

"I have a young girl friend, a stenographer, who declares nothing strengthens and refreshes her like Postum, and she has a little oil stove in her office, and makes a cup of Postum at noon-time. I have recommended this wonderful beverage to many of my friends who know what it has done for me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

VERY LOW RATES TO CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA, MEXICO, NEW MEXICO AND OTHER WESTERN POINTS, VIA SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

Any one desiring to make a trip to California, Arizona, Mexico, New Mexico or other Western points, either for business or pleasure can do so now at a small cost.

Daily until November 29th, 1903, inclusive, special one-way colonists' tickets will be sold via Southern Railway at rate of $49.75 from Philadelphia to Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other points; proportionate low rates from other points.

The Southern Railway operates on fast trains, tri-weekly, high-class, personally conducted vestibuled excursion sleeping cars between Washington, Los Angeles and San Francisco without change, via Atlanta, New Orleans and El Paso, in which the double berth rate is only $7.00.

Excursion sleeping cars leave Washington on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., will take pleasure in furnishing all information.

Far above the din and strife of business, in the very heart of the downtown business section of New York City, bees buzz merrily as they fly in and out of their busy homes. On the roof of many a tall office building, janitors keep apiaries of from five to twenty hives beyond the view of rushing humanity on the streets below.

The city bee, however, has to hustle for a living, for it cannot, like its country cousins, leave the hive and immediately strike a field of blooming clover or flowering buckwheat, but must stretch its wings and hie away to the blossoming shores of New Jersey, Staten Island or Long Island.

In spite of these handicaps, the rooftop city bees manage to be a source of profit to their owners, and day by day return with rich stores of golden nectar, even though in some instances they have gone five miles from home in order to secure it.

Arranged in a row on the top of an office building in which bankers and brokers scheme, are five to twenty innocent-looking white boxes, or hives, in and out of which the little fellows go. Emerging from their hives, they rise above the smoke and haze of chimneys, and when at the proper height away they go for distant harvest fields. The city bees never get lost, even though they may wander several miles from home; for every one of them is the possessor of compound eyes, which enable it to see great distances, and when returning home to fly in a line so straight that the "bee line" has become proverbial.—Ex.

Wherever souls are being tried and ripened, in whatever commonplace and homely ways—there God is hewing out the pillars for His temple.—Phillips Brooks.

Ah, they are these bits of struggles, in which we learn to fight the great ones; perhaps these bits of struggles, more than the great ones, make up life.—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Autumn term begins Ninth month 22d, 1903.

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.

LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

LEARN SHORTHAND

Taught by mail or in school. Moderate rates.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

LEARN PROOFREADING.—A profession that offers literary opportunity with pecuniary profit is one that intelligent people desire. We, the original proofreading school, can prepare you for the work more thoroughly than any other.

HOME CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL, Philadelphia.

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

Acker has them—those
'Hallowe'en Novelties.

5 to 12%
DIVIDENDS

Some people are satisfied to put their money in the bank, where it pays a ridiculously small rate of interest.

The banker lends it to the manufacturer and they both make a handsome profit on it.

It is very kind to help other people make money, but, would you not rather have a little of the cream yourself?

If so, we shall be pleased to mail you our list of securities of manufacturing companies paying five to twelve per cent.

LANDERS SONS

145 Pearl St. Boston, Mass.

THE BOWERY SAVINGS BANK

NEW YORK

Was incorporated in 1834, and is the Largest Savings Bank in the World. Its Assets are nearly

ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS

Have You a Savings Bank Account?

money in the safest place in the world, The Bowery Savings Bank has introduced a new system of and has issued a booklet describing the simple process. This booklet will be mailed FREE, and a large illustrated one, too, if desired, to anyone, anywhere, on application.

BANKING BY MAIL

This Bank is governed by forty-three prominent bankers, capitalists and merchants of the city of New York. From its beginning it has included a number of the leading Friends of New York Monthly Meeting.

WILLIAM H. S. WOOD, President

JOHN J. SINCLAIR, First Vice-President

ROBERT B. WOODWARD, Second Vice-President

HENRY A. SCHENCK, Comptroller

WALTER COGGESHALL, Secretary

ISAAC P. MAILLER, Assistant Secretary

Be sure to send for a copy of "BANKING BY MAIL." All inquiries courteously answered.

THE BOWERY SAVINGS BANK

128 and 130 Bowery, New York

Stenography, Typewriting, Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,
805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 730). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 10 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.) 52d & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

Raised letters are for the benefit of the blind, but raised checks are not.

ATLANTA AND THE SOUTHWEST.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway offers excellent service to all points in the South and Southwest. Through sleeping cars from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. A la carte dining car. Address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Oklahoma Farms

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address E. J. Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

E. J. VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

SELECT A PEN

Suitable for your handwriting from a sample card of 12 leading numbers for correspondence, sent postpaid on receipt of 6 cents in stamps.

SPENCERIAN PEN CO.

349 Broadway, New York.

6% NET

Sound, conservative first mortgages on improved realty. We examine every security and know every borrower. We make our loans with our own money and turn them over complete. In 28 years we have learned how to select the best. No one now handling western mortgages has had more experience. We give you the benefit of that experience. The quality of the securities now on hand has never been surpassed. Highest references. Write for circulars and full information free.

PERKINS & COMPANY Lawrence, Kan.

Ex The Earthman

The American Friend

Vol. X

TENTH MONTH 29, 1903

No. 44

	PAGE
EDITORIALS. — What Overcomes the World.—Friends in Kansas . .	735-736
Psalm CXIX.—The Bible Student in His Closet	736
Esther Tuttle Pritchard.
In Praise of Poverty	737
Kansas Yearly Meeting	738
Friends' Mohonk Indian Conference Platform	740
THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON	741
Lesson for Eleventh month 8, 1903.
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR	742
Topic for Eleventh month 8, 1903.
MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT	742
THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES, 743
MARRIED.—DIED	744
EVENTS AND COMMENTS	745

FROM "THE MESSAGE OF THE WEST."

'Tis ours to lift our brother from the soil,
From earthly aim and unavailing strife,
And tune his soul to that serener life.
We stand upon the heights our fathers reared;
Higher we stand than they could ever go,
Visions we see that they could never know,
And all because they wrought and prayed and feared.
And ours it is, like them, to sacrifice,
That through our lives and toil our sons may be Higher than we;
That each may live his life, that all may rise
By one man's stature nearer to the skies.

—FRED LEWIS PATTEE.]

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

Y. F. A. Building,

140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.

FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL

Phone Spruce 33-55.

Clerk.

HOTEL EMPIREBroadway and 63d Street,
N. Y. City.A FAMILY AND TRANSIENT HOTEL.

Rooms $1.00 per day and Upwards.

Telephone in every Room.

Fireproof. Accessibly Located. Large Library.
Moderate Rates.

Orchestral Concerts every evening.

All Cars Pass the Empire.

Send for Booklet.

W. JOHNSON QUINN.

Kitchen OutfitsAt Reasonable
RatesJ. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET

Free delivery in city and suburbs.

OSTEOPATHYEDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

Bell Telephone

Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SONWall Paper and
Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHESAs one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.GEO. C. CHILD

2 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

JOSEPH G. FOGG UNDERTAKER AND EMBALMER

S. W. Cor. Sixteenth and Race Sts.

Phone Spruce 44-38-W.

PHILADELPHIA.

Suburban orders promptly attended.

Mud stains are not serious;
Ivory Soap will remove troublesome spots and restore the original freshness to a good piece of cloth. It is because of the purity of Ivory Soap that it cleanses so thoroughly and yet is so perfectly safe.

Ivory Soap
99⁴⁴/₁₀₀ Per Cent. Pure.

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 746). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

It was an Irish philosopher who said,
"Idleness clothes a man with nakedness."—"Christian Work."

ATLANTA AND THE SOUTHWEST.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway offers excellent service to all points in the South and Southwest. Through sleeping cars from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. A la carte dining car. Address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The American Friend

*"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."*

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, TENTH MONTH 29, 1903.

No. 44.

WHAT OVERCOMES THE WORLD.

IN a letter recently, a prominent minister, who has been a recognized religious teacher for half a century, wrote to an aged fellow minister: "Many a time I am ready to thank God, when I see the deadness in the churches and the awful problems to be faced, that I am nearer the end than the beginning of my course." When was there ever a time that there was not deadness, and what period of human history has been without problems? But even supposing that this particular time were the deadeast ever known, and that it bristled with the toughest problems that ever were, what should be the attitude of a true Christian soldier? What would Paul say? "Thank God, I can still keep the faith and fight the good fight." What would John say? "This is the victory, even your faith." What would Christ say? "All things are possible to him that believeth."

All this talk about deadness, and problems, and the weakness of truth comes from lack of faith, and generally from lack of knowledge of what is actually being done in the world. As a man grows older he does, of course, see more to do; he realizes more clearly how great the task is, and he learns of difficulties which he did not hear of as a boy. But he ought to learn also as he grows in experience how much greater the resources are than he dreamed of in boyhood. The scholar finds that the more he learns the more there is to learn; the more he discovers the wider his circle of ignorance remains. But it does not discourage him. It makes him just so much more eager. Who can imagine a scholar saying, "I am glad I am an old man, and am almost done with this discouraging task of seeking truth!" No, he never says that. He wishes he could live a thousand lives and pursue truth farther and ever farther. Just such a spirit should be in every Christian teacher and minister. The longer he lives the more he ought to believe in God and in the ultimate victory of truth? The more he sees which needs change and improvement and reconstruction the more thankful he ought to be that he still has vigor left to strike at the evil and to enlarge the sphere of goodness. "Thank God I am near the end"? No, quite the reverse.

"Would God I had a thousand hands and an unwearied body and years enough to do what is here to be done!" That is the cry of the man of faith. He goes to his work with the assurance of victory, for like his Master he overcomes the world with his faith.

Those who are preaching the message—it cannot be called "gospel"—of discouragement, and who are telling the long tale of woes which beset us in these days, see only one side of things, and they have lost "the heavenly vision" which is the real source of power. They spend their efforts with small visible results, and they conclude that the world has grown deaf. Their congregations get tired of them. Of course they do! Even a cow knows the difference between grass and burdocks. She soon tires of burdocks. All men want something which kindles hope and inspires courage. They want good news, something which makes the heart thrill and the blood warm. Half the deadness of the churches is due to the doleful note of the preaching, the lack of outlook, the absence of the high note of faith in the message. May no minister who calls himself a follower of George Fox ever rejoice that he is near his end and almost done with his earthly work. Let him turn and read the dying words of that man who faced deadness and problems enough: "All is well; the seed of God reigns over all, and over death itself. And though I am weak in body, yet the power of God is over all." That is the way to face life clear through to the end.

FRIENDS IN KANSAS.

It is cause for great rejoicing that Kansas Yearly Meeting has succeeded in raising the $50,000 endowment for the University at Wichita, which was the condition on which James M. Davis agreed to present the university buildings, grounds and a large number of city lots to the yearly meeting. This has not only been done, but it is done nearly a year ahead of the time required. And more than that, nearly $10,000 have been subscribed toward a second endowment of $50,000. All this money, with the exception of a gift of $500 by a Friend in Philadelphia, has been given by Kansas Friends. The events of this year have shown that at last Friends are learning how to give, and to give liberally; and our hopes that Kansas would rise to the good example set by California and Iowa have been more than realized. The yearly meeting just past was not only noted for its practical zeal for education; it was awake and alive to all the great causes and interests which belong to the work of a true Church. The sessions were unusually large, and there was a readiness to contribute to all the departments of Christian activity. This yearly meeting is now thirty-one years old, and it is just half a century since the first Friend's family settled in the State, then a Territory. Those days when the first settlements were made were stormy times indeed. The desperate issue was being decided whether Kansas was to be "free" or "slave," and no Northern sympathizer was safe from "border ruffians." Those who left their peaceful homes to go into such new fields needed courage and stern fibre and a real faith in God. It was men and women of such qualities who laid the foundations of this yearly meeting. It is an interesting fact that during all the chaos and bloodshed which marked this early period not a single Friend lost his life or seriously suffered. The little meeting, which was first held in a log house, grew rapidly, and the first quarterly meeting (then called Kansas Quarterly Meeting) was established by Indiana Yearly Meeting in 1862. In ten years more these far-away Friends were given a yearly meeting of their own. Many of those still active in the councils of the Church were among these pioneers, and sat in the first session of the yearly meeting thirty-one years ago. Since the yearly meeting was established two new Territories have been settled—Oklahoma and Indian—and Friends have been prominent in these new settlements. Kansas Yearly Meeting probably covers a larger territory than does any other American yearly meeting. It includes Kansas, Missouri (which has one large quarterly meeting), Oklahoma, Indian Territory (with about six hundred Indian members) and a quarterly meeting in Nebraska. With all the pressure of home work upon them and the necessity for large outlay in behalf of denominational education in these wide stretches of country, they have also carried on an aggressive missionary work in far-off Alaska, where they have labored with marked results to Christianize and educate the natives. The increase in membership and the religious activities of these thirty-one years are encouraging, and particularly so in face of the difficulties which have existed. The writer can only hope that the next generation will see a proportionate increase and an equal gain in spiritual power.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

PSALM CXIX.—THE BIBLE STUDENT IN HIS CLOSET.

BY ESTHER TUTTLE PRITCHARD.

It would be interesting to know the name of the writer of this poem, especially as it would throw light on the amount of Holy Scripture to which he had access; but since the Word is silent on the question it cannot be of vital moment. Charles Spurgeon said he had "weighed each word and looked at each syllable with lengthened meditation," and he felt a "kind of 'critical certainty' that it was David's—yea, altogether his own."

There was a time when it was to the present writer simply the longest poem in the inspired Psalmody, curiously written in acrostic form, its 176 verses divided into octave sections by the Hebrew alphabet, and holding throughout to the one theme of the law; but an unexpected flash of illumination, one day, transformed it. Thenceforth it was no longer dull and monotonous, but realistic and graphic. A vision of the author broke out from its lines like a self-revelation, and the whole poem read like a spiritual autobiography rather than a mere eulogy on God's law.

For weeks I found myself getting closer to the heart of the writer, communing with him, studying his attitude and expression, feeling admitted to his library and closet of devotion, in touch with him as he prayerfully bent over the sacred Hebrew rolls, learning his estimate of the Word, his object in searching it, its seasonableness to all his circumstances, and the results in his spiritual life.

Not for a moment did he doubt the divine authority and authenticity of the Book. Over one hundred times he witnesses to its inspiration in terms like these: "Thy word," "Thy commandments," "Thy precepts" and "Thy statutes." Fortunately for him there was no nineteenth century Bible critic at his elbow to cut the nerve of his faith, telling him that the religion of Israel—the revered faith of his fathers—was "one of the principal religions of the world, nothing less and also nothing more."

Our first glimpse of this writer's personal history is in verse nine. He is asking wherewithal a young man may cleanse his way, and answering the question as one who has had experience. It is easy to see he had been a wayward youth, for he confesses that before he was afflicted he went astray, that the rod of correction has driven him back, and that now he keeps the Word.

First changed and then a student, he comes to the law of the Lord with his whole heart—every attribute of his personality committed to its observance. His quest after divine knowledge is moral rather than intellectual; he seeks to know in order to do, and is possessed with a holy ambition to translate the truth into his life. With firm step he walks in the way of the commandments, no matter what they may lead him out of or into; nor is there any slavish fear of hearing too clearly what God requires.

Listen at his closet door as he studies. Hear his brief ejaculatory prayers for illumination: "Open thou mine eyes!" "Give me understanding!" "Teach me!" And before the Psalm closes, note his testimony, "Thou hast taught me," and "Thou teachest me"; it is both a past and present experience.

He was a truth miner whose claim was a boundless continent of unsearchable riches—a man mining for treasures to use, not merely to hoard up or exhibit. He knew how to strike the rich veins of truth and bring up the nuggets. As he proceeds he grows enthusiastic and enraptured over the Word, and breaks out in exclamations: "Oh, how I love thy law!" "Thy words are sweeter than honey to my taste!" He says the Word gives him as much joy as all riches and is better to him than thousands of gold and silver. Like Frances Havergal, he has "findings" and rejoices over them as one that findeth great spoil. Like George Fox, he has "openings," vistas of truth like an illumined landscape. As time passes his love for the Word grows so intense that he thirsts after it as an animal, on a mid-summer day, pants after water. To such a student the morning paper, the religious (?) romance, or even the spiritual manual of devotion would be stale beside it. Nine times he uses that beautiful word "delight" to express the pleasure that it gives him. And the more he values it the more he deplores the disobedience and indifference of the careless. Hot indignation takes hold upon him because of the wicked who forsake the law. Again he is grieved because of the treacherous dealers who do not observe it, and finally his heart breaks because of this and his eyes run down with rivers of water.

The more he studies the more he craves a spiritual experience, and the prayer grows frequent that God will quicken him according to the Word. The truth becomes to him, as to every sincere student, a mirror reflecting his own imperfection and need. The more he drinks in the thoughts of God the more are his spiritual standards corrected and the stronger are his aspirations after conformity to Divine ideals. He is in love with genuineness and hates every false way. He hates double-mindedness—a mind to know but not a mind to do. Steadily and increasingly all lines converge until his heart becomes a unit in the fear of God.

In point of wisdom, using the word in the Biblical sense, he has to admit that the study of the Scriptures has done more for him than human teaching or long years of living could do. It has made him wiser than his enemies, his teachers, or the aged. For what a man has dug out is his own and is invested with a personal value that does not belong to the most brilliant of other men's findings. For this individual, Spirit-illumined research there can be no substitute if one would become a master in the Scriptures. A pleasure and privilege it is, truly, to listen to Bible teachers and increase one's treasures from their storehouse, but the class room or lecture room must never supersede closet study.

And now our Bible student grows skillful in applying the Word to his providential necessities; it becomes his constant counselor. No matter what the exigency or the trial, he flies to the Word. Sick, his soul cleaving to the dust, he takes his case to God; when under great depression, his soul melting for heaviness, he asks to be strengthened, according to the Word. He keeps to scriptural lines and asks only for what the Bible sanctions and offers.

Sometimes his faith is tested by delays and some precious promise withholds its fulfillment until his eyes fail with watching. There are close places and dark days, but every time he casts his anchor where the anchor holds in the immutable Word.

When there comes to him, as sooner or later there must come to every unsanctified heart, a painful sense of inward antagonism to God's will, he turns prayer into entreaty, beseeching the Lord to lay hold upon his tendencies, to "make" him go in the path of His commandments, and to "incline" him to His testimonies.

Finally, his character gathers strength like the strength of ten. He is no truckling time server, no weakling, ready to hedge and draw back when truth needs a defender and its cause a promoter. Everybody knows just where to find him, from his nearest neighbor to the king on his throne.

He is a marked man in his community, a Bible-made man, and hence a living rebuke to crookedness, personal duplicity and public corruption. The solid granite of his well-built character stands four-square, and, as might be expected, storms of persecution burst upon him. To evil doers he is an uncomfortable element to have about, and one to be gotten rid of. The proud ridicule him and dig pits for him; princes sit and talk against him, and the wicked despise him. He knows what it means to be well hated, but he has recourse to prayer and meditation on the Word. A companion of all them that fear God and of such as keep His precepts, he can well afford to be ostracized by the titled of earth. He belongs to the aristocracy of the eternal kingdom, the aristocracy of character, and finds abundant compensation for the reproach of the proud in the conscious favor of God and the delightful comradeship of the saints.

Kokomo, Ind.

IN PRAISE OF POVERTY.

Professor James tells us that "we have grown literally afraid to be poor"; and any one who candidly considers the subject, and looks abroad at the life of the people around him, will see how very true this is. We are all so absorbed in the pursuit of wealth, and so accustomed to look upon poverty as an evil, that we are apt to forget the supreme advantages as a training for souls that belong to that condition. If we look upon this life as given us that we may be trained here for the endless life hereafter, how pitifully small and contemptible do these cravings for wealth and luxury seem! Instead it becomes all-important to live in the best possible environment for the growth of the soul, while to spend our energies on providing luxuries and soft living for the body, and starving the immortal part of us, seems trivial and foolish.

No candid mind reading the Gospels for the first time could fail to note how our Lord acknowledges the blessedness of poverty, and how frequent are His warnings against riches. We are so familiar with the New Testament that its meaning sometimes hardly reaches us, and if it does we are apt to put it from us as applicable to Palestine in the time of our Lord, but not to England in the twentieth century. But it remains true now as then that it is "hard for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven," and that all the luxuries of our modern life, our large houses, our servants, all the so-called advantages of wealth, are in reality not advantages at all when looked at in the light of eternity, but heavy weights in the spiritual race, which he will gladly cast aside who means to run it and attain the prize of his high calling.

How congenial a soil for the cultivation of the fruits of the Spirit does Poverty provide! Self-sacrifice, love and helpful service seem almost, one might say, the natural thing. So much is this the case that the kindness of the poor to one another in time of trouble is proverbial, while the middle-class, in their respectable terraces, carefully hold themselves aloof from every one but their personal friends.

It is impossible to over-estimate the value to a child of having been brought up in a home where the "simple life" is being not talked about but lived, where from his earliest years his highest aspiration is to "help." Let him go through life with the same aspiration, and a very blessed life may be his. A blessed life, because lived in harmony with the Lord's will, and looking at things from His, not this world's, point of view. For things appear utterly changed when looked at from God's standpoint. Our Lord's view of blessedness is just the opposite to that held by the world. He that would be great in the kingdom of God must be the servant of all. "I serve" should be the watchword of the disciple of Jesus, and his chief happiness. But alas, there are few who realize this, and many who see things only from this world's standpoint, and believe the chief thing to be desired is to heap together riches so that other people may serve them.

If all who profess to follow the Master would be willing to live a life of simplicity for His sake, the problem of Poverty in our large towns would soon be solved. If there were only one such family in every village, living in a simple cottage home, mixing in a kindly neighborly way with those around them, such a home might be a center of light and high influence. Its perfect cleanliness and daintiness would in itself, without a word said, preach a much-needed lesson to the women. They would unconsciously learn numberless other lessons—of gentle kindly manners, of the wise management of children, of love of books and music and all elevating pursuits.

It seemed a hard saying of our Lord to the young man, "Leave all thou hast and follow Me." He did not see his way to do so, and went away sorrowful. Our Lord is calling afresh to those who would be His disciples in the present day to leave all and follow Him—to follow Him in an utter disregard of this world's empty show and luxury—to follow Him in a life of great simplicity—to be in the world as He was, "as one that serveth." So shall we come to know the true joys of life, which are free to all; and though our earthly possessions are few, we shall know that in God "all things are ours," and shall begin to understand what Paul meant when he said, "Having nothing, yet possessing all things."—L. J., in the "British Friend."

KANSAS YEARLY MEETING.

The meeting of ministry and oversight of Kansas Yearly Meeting met the 8th instant at Friends' University, Wichita, with a good attendance. The reports showed an advance during the year in spiritual life and power. A special concern was manifest for the proper care and encouragement of those who give evidence of gifts for the ministry and other lines of Christian service.

On the 9th the thirty-second annual session of the yearly meeting convened. An unusually large number was present, and the attendance throughout was excellent. The goodly number of young people who attended and took part was encouraging. Nineteen ministers and nine other visiting Friends with minutes were present from other yearly meetings, as follows: Ministers—Miriam A. Johnson, Iowa; George K. Hobson, Western; Anna M. Ray, New England; Benjamin H. Hutchins, Indiana; Marion E. Reisinger, Iowa; William P. Sopher, Iowa; Martilia N. Cox, Western; John J. Danks, Oregon; David H. Harold, Western; Leanah Hobson, Western; Willard L. Peckham, Iowa; William J. Thornburg, Indiana; Nathan T. Frame, Wilmington; Esther G. Frame, Wilmington; Stella Hammond, Indiana; Nixon Rush, Indiana; Louisa Rush, Indiana; Willis R. Hotchkiss, Ohio; Fred Coppock, Iowa. Others—President L. Lyndon Hobbs, North Carolina; Mary E. Reisinger, Iowa; William R. Guyer, Western; Lucy B. Harold, Western; Orlando Hobson, Western; Elizabeth Peckham, Iowa; Griffith Wright, Western; Benjamin J. Tomlinson, Ohio; Edna Hill, Western.

No particular line of work received preeminence, but a lively interest and determination to move forward was manifested throughout. Two thousand eight hundred dollars was appropriated for the legitimate expenses of the yearly meeting for the coming year.

STATE OF SOCIETY.

The reports on the State of Society revealed a good interest in the meetings for worship in nearly every section of the yearly meeting. The Bible Schools and Christian Endeavorers were frequently mentioned as being especially helpful in maintaining the spiritual life of members and in developing new workers. The statistics showed that greater care was exercised this year in making reports than heretofore. One hundred and eighteen monthly meetings and forty-five other points where meetings are regularly held were reported. Four new ministers, all men, were recorded. Twenty-two meetings were without local ministers.

EPISTLES.

Epistles were read from all the American yearly meetings except Wilmington, and from the Alaskan Mission; also from Dublin and London. The Dublin epistle expressed hearty appreciation of the American Friends on the temperance question. The epistle from London exhorted the Friends of this country to make the throne of grace their constant resort, and was altogether one of the strongest and most striking letters from the mother Church ever read in Kansas Yearly Meeting. It was ordered printed in the minutes with direction that it be read in all subordinate meetings.

EDUCATIONAL.

The educational report from six academies showed a total enrollment of about 230, more than half of which were Friends. A comparison of the proportionate number of children of school age who pursue studies in advance of the common school course in the quarterly meetings supporting academies, with the proportionate number in the quarterly meetings, which do not, gave 17 to 2 in favor of the former, and nearly all those pursuing branches beyond the common schools in quarterly meetings not supporting academies are doing so in undenominational schools. These facts were given as a plea for more loyalty to church schools. A collection of $60.43 was taken to aid in improvements at Friendswood Academy, Texas.

Friends' University reported a total enrollment last year of 242, with the following graduates: From the School of Arts, 11; from the School of Education, 10; from the School of Music, 4. Haverford College granted scholarships to two of the graduates from the arts course—John Charles and Burt Wells. The present enrollment is 63 in the School of Arts and 127 in the preparatory and normal departments. Twenty are taking work in the Biblical department.

The endowment fund for Friends' University was raised by subscriptions and bequests from $39,115.18 to $58,155.00, $8,155.00 in advance of the required endowment necessary for the transfer of the property to Kansas Yearly Meeting. The conditions having been met, James M. Davis and his wife, Anna T. Davis, gave the yearly meeting a clear title to the university building, apparatus and campus, together with two large dormitories and 620 city lots. In his address before the yearly meeting James M. Davis emphasized the thought that this was but the first step toward making the institution Friends' University.

Pres. L. L. Hobbs, of Guilford College, was given a half hour in which to present the claims of the Harriet Green Memorial Fund. He received contributions during the meeting amounting to more than $200.00.

MISSIONS.

The report of the Indian mission work showed that the ten stations in the Indian Territory and Oklahoma were flourishing. There were 1,340 meetings held during the year, with fifty-four reported conversions and fifty accessions to the Church. The six mission schools did excellent work, with an enrollment of 230. Thirty-three hundred and sixty-four families were visited by the superintendents.

The Alaska Mission Board sustained the loss of two of its most valued workers in the death of Hannah E. Sleeper and Dillon H. Dillon, but the work at the mission progressed. Efforts are being made to establish an industrial school on the old missionary farm. Collections for the Alaskan work last year amounted to $1,616.02; $564.32 were subscribed in the face of the yearly meeting for the work. A concern for a teacher was expressed in the report, and before the close of the yearly meeting Annis Peebles felt called to offer herself as a candidate for the place.

The needs of the home mission work in Wichita were also brought before the meeting, there being at present a favorable opening for Friends near Dold's packing house in that city. The prompt response of Alvin George in expressing what he felt was God's call for service in that field and the lively interest of other Friends seemed to point to a divine summons for immediate and aggressive work.

EVANGELISTIC AND CHURCH EXTENSION WORK.

The report of the secretary of the yearly meeting Evangelistic Committee showed that much satisfactory work had been done. Three hundred and seventy-three dollars and thirty-eight cents was expended by the committee.

The superintendent visited every organized meeting in the yearly meeting, and some of them twice. He held 277 services, and found 73 ministers located in meetings as pastors.

The special needs of the work were presented, and a collection and pledges amounting to $670.70 were taken. A proposition was then made to purchase a tabernacle for the use of the Evangelistic Board, and a fund amounting to $115.90 was raised, which was more than enough to secure the desired tabernacle.

An approved course of Biblical instruction, to be conducted by means of correspondence with the Biblical department of the University, was reported. It is hoped that ministers and workers may thus be enabled to gain some of the advantages of an education while actively engaged in Christian service.

TEMPERANCE.

Much aggressive work was done by the Temperance Committee during the year in securing abstinence pledges, lecturing and distributing literature. Over $1,880.00 was raised for the work during the year. A preamble and query relative to the care of Friends in voting for candidates who are opposed to the liquor traffic was ordered printed in the minutes, to be acted upon next year. Resolutions asking Congressmen to use their influence for the enforcement of the Anti-Canteen Law and the enactment of the Hepburn bill; also the enactment of a law making State or county license a prerequisite for government license were passed. The action of the Five Years Meeting in asking for a temperance conference of all denominations was endorsed. Secretary Edwin Dinwiddie delivered a lecture at the evening temperance session, and a collection of $60.43 was taken and shared equally between the yearly meeting committee and the Anti-Saloon League.

BIBLE SCHOOLS.

The report of the Sabbath School department showed an encouraging year's work. There are 151 schools with an attendance of 7,000. There are 202 in the home department. Nearly a thousand dollars was raised for the work during the year.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Yearly Meeting Christian Endeavor Union secured the services of a traveling evangelist, Perry Hadley, who visited nearly all the subordinate meetings during the year. Several new societies, both Senior and Junior, were organized. The Union was made a department of the yearly meeting by the adoption of the recommendation: "That there be created a department to be known as the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor Work." The Christian Endeavor Society is to nominate a general superintendent and an Executive Committee of five, which are to be subject to the approval of the yearly meeting. The organization is to be perfected in quarterly meetings, the same as other departments of work, and the yearly meeting is to appoint an advisory committee of five to co-operate with the Union. A collection and subscriptions amounting to over $370.00 were secured at the Christian Endeavor session.

MEMORIALS.

A new method was adopted for making permanent memorial records by having them typewritten on uniform paper, bound together and filed as a book of memorials, rather than having them printed in the yearly meeting minutes. There were six of these memorials presented, all of which gave a history, more or less brief, of men and women who as church workers have done much within the limits of Kansas Yearly Meeting and elsewhere, and whose lives were a testimony to the genuineness of their professions. They were: John Carter, Plymouth, Kan., aged 91 years; Penelope Gardener, Hesper, Kan., aged 85 years; Macajah Pickrell, Cherokee, O. T., aged 70 years; Dillon H. Dillon, North Branch, Kan., aged 57 years; Thomas H. Stanley, Americus, Kan., aged 83 years; Hiram M. Davis, Haviland, Kan., aged 59 years.

RELIGIOUS MEETINGS.

A high spiritual life was manifested throughout the entire yearly meeting. The addresses of Willis R. Hotchkiss and the sermons of Nathan and Esther Frame, Leanah Hobson, David Herold and others were inspiring. Souls were seeking special blessing in nearly every service. Testimony meetings were usually closed for want of time. Often several were standing at once seeking an opportunity to speak in order. Such was the life and spirit of the meeting from beginning to end.

FRIENDS' MOHONK INDIAN CONFERENCE PLATFORM.

The Indian problem is approaching its solution, leaving us confronting the larger problem of our duties toward the people who have recently become subject to our government and dependent to our care. In dealing with the Indians the objects are no longer questioned that are to be accomplished; they are the abandonment of the reservation system; the discontinuance of Indian agencies; such education of all Indian children as will fit them for self-support and self-government; access to the courts for the protection of their rights; amenability to the law in punishment for their crimes; the same liberty that white men enjoy, to own, buy, sell, travel, pay taxes, and enjoy in good government the benefits enjoyed by other taxed citizens; and by these means a speedy incorporation of all Indians, with all the rights of citizenship into the American commonwealth.

The best methods to secure these results are not wholly clear, but the experience of the past points to the following conclusions: The agency should be discontinued in all cases where the land is ready for settlement, and the Indians, when necessary, should be temporarily placed under the care of a bonded superintendent, with limited powers, and the policy of the Indian Bureau in this direction is strongly commended. Wherever practicable the education of Indian children should be provided for in the schools of the States or Territories if necessary for untaxed Indians at Federal expense, or out of the Indian funds. Wherever this is not practicable, provision should be made by the Federal government in Indian schools. The Indian should be encouraged in industrial arts, both in the preservation of his own and in the acquisition of ours. The end should always be their industrial and moral development. The work of the government, whether National, State or Territorial, in providing for secular education, does not lessen the responsibility of the churches for the religious education of the Indians. We regard with interest and hope the recent action of the Secretary of the Interior opening the way for the religious work of the Churches in connection with government schools, and we urge the churches to co-operate with each other and with the government in this work. The same principle should govern us in all our dealings with other dependent people. Their civil rights should be scrupulously safeguarded; liberal provision should be made by Congress for their development and civilization; their industries should be encouraged; and their education should be so provided for, that, whatever may be their final political relations to the United States, they may be equipped, at the earliest possible day, for self-support and self-government.

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON VI.

ELEVENTH MONTH 8, 1903.

DAVID'S GRIEF OVER ABSALOM.

2 Sam. 18: 24-33.

GOLDEN TEXT.—A foolish son is a grief to his father.—Prov. 17: 25.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 2.—David's anxiety. 2 Sam. 18: 1-6.
Third-day, Eleventh mo. 3.—Absalom's defeat. 2 Sam. 18: 9-17.
Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 4.—David's grief over Absalom. 2 Sam. 18: 19-33.
Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 5.—David's return. 2 Sam. 19: 9-15.
Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 6.—Destruction of the ungodly. Psalm 52.
Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 7.—Honor to parents. Matt. 15: 1-9.
First-day, Eleventh mo. 8.—Counsel to the young. Prov. 4: 14-27.

Intervening Events.—Absalom marched towards Jerusalem; on hearing this David made every preparation for flight. At first sight this seems strange, but it was the wisest thing he could do, (1) because he was unprepared to make any resistance; (2) the rebellion might come to naught; (3) he did not wish to fight against his son if possible; (4) delay would be more hurtful to the rebels than to him; (5) it would show him who were faithful. David, followed by a large number of men and his band of six hundred, left Jerusalem and went eastward. The high priest and the Levites bearing the ark joined him, but he sent them back with the ark, for the ark, he thought, should not be taken from Jerusalem, and moreover the priests and Levites would be his friends. Several incidents took place on his journey. The company encamped near the fords of the Jordan and waited for news. Then crossing the Jordan the company went on until Mahanaim, a fortified town near the Jabbok, was reached. This was made the temporary capital.

Meanwhile Absalom, on reaching Jerusalem, took possession of it, and held a council. Ahithophel counseled immediate pursuit of David; Hushai, secretly a friend of David, advised delay and greater preparation. This latter advice was taken, and it gave David time to get ready to meet the attack. Ahithophel was now so sure of Absalom's failure that he committed suicide.

After three months Absalom attacked David's army under Joab and was defeated. David had given special orders that Absalom should be spared, but having been caught in his flight by the branches of an oak, he was slain by Joab.

The graphic account of all this as given in 2 Sam. 15: 13 to 18: 23 should be read. There is nothing to support the common story that Absalom was caught by his hair.

Time.—Immediately following the last lesson, about 984 B.C.

Place.—Between Jerusalem and Mahanaim, and Mahanaim. The battle was probably somewhere east of the Jordan, not very far from Mahanaim (2 Sam. 19: 2.)

24. The whole narrative is full of life. "Two gates." The inner and the outer.

25. "If he be alone," etc. If the army had been defeated a number of fugitives would have been seen.

26. David recognizes that these are messengers.

27. "Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok." David rightly concluded that so distinguished a messenger would bring good news. (Compare 2 Sam. 17: 17-20.)

28. Ahimaaz spoke truly as far as he spoke, and so far as he referred to the cause of David, and also gave a hint of the fate of Absalom.

29. David's heart yearned over his son. Ahimaaz deliberately concealed the truth. From verses 19-23 it would appear that this was done from a selfish motive. It would not have been strange if David had treated him harshly if he bore bad news of Absalom.

31. "And behold the Cushite." Revised Version. That is an Ethiopian, a slave. Cush was the name of a son of Ham, apparently the eldest. It is also used as the name of a country in Africa. In one place (Gen. 2 :13) some other country seems to be meant. "The Lord hath avenged thee of all them that rose up against thee." Even the Ethiopian is still somewhat ambiguous at first.

32. "Is it well with the young man Absalom?" Revised Version. David is determined to have a definite answer regarding his son. The slave, because he was a slave, had little to fear from the king, and so he gave in Eastern fashion a direct answer. "May the enemies of my lord the king, and all who rise up against thee be as the lad is!" There could be no doubt what these words meant.

33. "Was much moved." This translation is hardly strong enough. "He was sore troubled." "Chamber over the gate." A room over the gateway was a common feature in such buildings. He went there that he might be alone in his sorrow. He also knew that he would have many who would sympathize with him. "And thus he said in his weeping: My son Absalom! my son Absalom! Oh, that I had died for thee, Absalom, my son, my son Absalom!" David, doubtless, felt every word he said. He recognized his own indulgence of Absalom in years past, his own shortcomings, and longed that Absalom might have another chance to repent and amend.

There are few scenes in literature more full of pathos than this.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. An evil life is almost sure to have an evil end. "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

2. The consciousness of his own misdoings aggravated David's grief.

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR ELEVENTH MONTH EIGHTH.

GREAT MEN OF THE BIBLE: WHAT ELIJAH TEACHES US.

2 Kings 2: 1-12; Matt. 11: 14; Jas. 5: 17, 18.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 2.—That God will provide. 1 Kings 17: 1-6.
Third-day, Eleventh mo. 3.—That power is for service. 1 Kings 17: 21-24.
Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 4.—That God hates sin. 1 Kings 18: 40-46.
Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 5.—That the best men faint. 1 Kings 19: 1-10.
Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 6.—To train our successors. 1 Kings 19: 19-21.
Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 7.—That God gives victories. 2 Kings 1: 9-18.

Our first view of Elijah is as he stands before King Ahab to make known to him the judgment by which God sought to recall to Himself His apostate people. There was nothing apologetic or uncertain in what the prophet had to say, even to this cruel and arbitrary king; and Ahab clearly recognized him as associated with the fulfillment of this prophecy made in the name of Jehovah.

Like Xerxes scourging the sea for breaking his flimsy bridge of boats, Ahab overlooked his own folly and crime and charged Israel's calamity upon the messenger who forewarned him. Not only was the charge boldly turned back upon its author, but a decisive test was proposed, or at least so it must have appeared to Elijah. The overthrow of the prophets of Baal was complete enough to have convinced any one who wished to know the truth, but the will of Israel, ruler and people, was against wisdom, and Elijah had to learn that the coming of God's kingdom is not by might nor by power, but by the still, small voice of the Spirit.

The high hopes of the prophet were overthrown and left him a despondent fugitive. The man whose faith could bridge over long months of famine with only a handful of meal and a little oil as the visible supply, and, under God, could restore the dead child to its mother, fainted in spirit before Jezebel's wrath and pleaded for release from the unceasing conflict.

With new duties and new encouragements the wanderer is sent back to dwell in his own land with the spiritual companionship of one whom God gave to be his co-worker and successor. It may well be, moreover, that Elijah was master not only of Elisha, but of the sons of the prophets at Bethel and Jericho—a sort of dean of the prophets' schools.

Elijah's despair led him into an error which some are guilty of to-day through a sort of spiritual overweeningness. The "advanced" Christian who withdraws from the fellowship of others, and the discouraged believer who thinks himself left alone in Israel alike need to learn that the most Godlike zeal is one that is mixed with a faith for the "other sheep" which the Good Shepherd has, though they be not of the same flock with ourselves. The "man of like passions with us" is not a complete example, but it is a great thing for us to have known of his spiritual struggles and reverses, and to know how he was made "more than conqueror" in chariot of fire, as Messianic forerunner and as counselor at the Mount of Transfiguration. And we are partakers of like precious promises.

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

TOKIO WORK.

Tokio, Ninth month 29th, 1903.

To Our Friends in the Homeland:

As the news of the fire which destroyed the Friends' Girls' School, on Twelfth month 13th, 1902, was carried to our friends in the homeland through THE AMERICAN FRIEND, we wish now to send a message of thanks to all who have shown an interest in the work at this time, and also to tell the glad news that new buildings were ready for the opening of the present term of school on the 11th of Ninth month.

Those who know the history of the new buildings feel deeply that they are given back as a direct answer to prayer. While the flames were still devouring the remains of the former buildings the students and teachers having collected in the mission residence, which, though standing only thirty-eight feet from the school, escaped the flames, offered up praise for personal safety and prayer for guidance and God's provision for the future. In answer to the prayers of those on the field and of those in the homeland, it has been possible to increase the capacity of the school by the erection of larger buildings. The former buildings would accommodate thirty boarding pupils and thirty additional day pupils. The new dormitory is built for fifty-five boarders and the school building for about fifty-five or sixty additional day pupils.

Although the work was not entirely completed, we were glad to be able to open the autumn term of school in the new buildings. It was a scene long to be remembered by those who had seen the former buildings consumed by the hot breath of the destroying flames, and then had watched the hand of God reach out of the darkness (lighted up by faith) and place the buildings upon the hill once more.

On the morning of Ninth month 11th the students, teachers and a few friends were gathered in the assembly room for the opening of school. There were tears in some eyes at least as the memory of God's goodness was called up afresh by this scene and all that it meant. It was no wonder that all sang with much meaning the Japanese hymn, "God is Love."

The dormitory and school building are now filled to hardly half their capacity, but there are new self-supporting ones coming in, and there is a general increase of interest in the community in which the school is located. Perhaps the thing which now appeals most strongly to those on the field is the large number of applicants who wish to enter the school, but whose parents are unable to support them, even when the expense for a whole year is only fifty dollars. At this writing there are eighteen or twenty such girls who have made application for entrance, and for whom no support has been pledged.

Past experience is decidedly favorable to receiving such girls, knowing with reasonable assurance that from five to seven years in the school will give them such a Christian training as will fit them for useful and happy lives, some of them becoming witnesses for Christ in homes where He is not now known. A few days ago there came to the school a girl of some thirteen years who had traveled alone nearly all of the way from the Loo Choo Islands, hoping that she could be received into the school with her sister, who entered a year or two ago. Sorrowfully we had to refuse her and many others in whom we are deeply interested, and this only because we had no support for them.

The prospects are "bright as the promises of God" for a year of blessing in Japan. In the furtherance of the gospel,

GILBERT BOWLES.

A VETERAN'S PERSONAL FAITH.

"In my fifty years of preaching I have learned to adhere to the same message; God, a sovereign; man, a sinner; Christ, the Son of God, a Saviour by His vicarious sacrifice; the Holy Spirit, the regenerator, the sanctifier; the gospel of Christ, the means for the redemption of the world; the word of God, the revelation of His character and the chart of redemption. I have learned as to the method of preaching to care more for the facts of the salvation scheme than for the philosophical analysis of it; I have learned to take the proved results of scholarship and of science as in harmony with the Divine Word."—Joseph E. Roy.

What we are all doing, as we stand in our lot, steady to our manliness or womanliness in our black days, is to tell, in its measure, on the life and faith of every good man coming after us, though our name may be forgotten.—Robert Collyer.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Wesley Cox now receives his mail at Whittier, Cal., instead of Hollister.

Oscar Moon is getting nicely settled in his work in the meeting at Knightstown, Ind.

Mabelle Edwards, of Newberg, is taking work in Earlham College the present year.

Mary L. Hinshaw, of Marion, Ind., has gone to Portland, Ore., to spend the winter.

The yellow fever is still raging in Victoria, Mexico, but all the mission workers are now well.

Nathan and Esther Frame were present at the Friends' University meeting First-day, 18th instant.

David E. Sampson and Clara Cox closed a series of meetings at Friends' Mission, Virginia, the 1st of the month.

Leannah Hobson labored in a series of meetings with East Side Friends, Wichita, Kan., after Kansas Yearly Meeting.

Nixon and Louisa Rush, of Fairmount, Ind., attended Kansas Yearly Meeting and expect to labor in the yearly meeting for three months.

Professors H. C. Fellow and Jinkens, of the Territorial Normal School at Alva, Okla., attended a number of the sessions of Kansas Yearly Meeting.

Esther Tuttle Pritchard has been in delicate health during the summer, but the bracing air of these autumn days has given her new strength and vigor.

The World's Young Women's Christian Association has issued a call to a week of prayer for the young women of the world Eleventh month 8th to 14th.

George U. and L. E. Hartley, of Miami, I. T., are planning to attend the World's Bible School Convention at Jerusalem next Fourth month. They ask to be remembered in prayer.

James M. Davis, wife and daughter attended Kansas Yearly Meeting throughout nearly the entire session. Their presence added much to the interest and inspiration of the occasion.

Richard Cox and Lydia Chase, two of the pioneer members of Kansas Yearly Meeting, were in their accustomed places at this year's session, with interest as fresh as in days of yore.

Willis R. Hotchkiss spent a few days in Stella Quarterly Meeting, Oklahoma, after Kansas Yearly Meeting, and went from there to points in Eastern Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa.

Never before in the history of Kansas Friends have they given so liberally of their means for church work. Over $21,000 was raised at the yearly meeting for the various departments.

Willis R. Hotchkiss will spend the entire Sabbath, Eleventh month 1st, with Indianapolis Meeting, the evening service being held under the auspices of the Delitha Butler Harvey Circle.

M. Anna Draper, of the Training School, Los Angeles, Cal., is now in charge of the Bible Study classes of the Friends' Sunshine work, San Francisco. Her address is No. 930½ Harrison Street.

Samuel Jay, resident minister of Albion Meeting, Marshall County, Ia., has been chosen pastor for the present, and William I. Kent and Thaddeus Talbott have been recorded ministers.

Our friend Joseph Taylor, who has for two or three years been engaged in the London Training School for foreign missionaries, has returned to his old field of work in Hoshangabad, C. P., India.

Fred L. Coppock of Des Moines Quarter has accepted a call to be field Evangelist for Kansas Yearly Meeting. The Church Extension Committee paying all his expenses while in the work, and railroad fare.

John Howard, John Casto, F. H. Clark, Mary Foldier and Edith Smith, all professors from Kansas academies, were present at the educational meeting of Kansas Yearly Meeting, and remained over First-day.

Wilbur K. Thomas, a student in Friends' University, spent the summer at Elwood, Neb., laboring in the Friends' meetings. Two Christian Endeavor Societies were organized during his stay there, which are prospering.

Josiah Butler will serve as general superintendent of evangelistic and church extension work of Kansas Yearly Meeting for another year, and Perry Hadley will remain State Evangelist for the Christian Endeavor Union.

Pacific College opened for regular work with a public chapel exercise Ninth month 30th. Dr. Lathrop, of Portland, gave a lecture to the college public on the 7th instant on the subject of moral vigor. The lecture was able and highly appreciated.

Willis R. Hotchkiss spoke in Friends' meeting at Keith, Okla., Sixth-day morning, the 16th instant. It was a blessed service, and many were brought to realize their duty to Christ as never before. The meeting thankfully contributed to the F. A. I. M.

Thomas Armstrong is now located in the meeting at Newberg, Ore. He began his services early in the Ninth month. A reception was held in the basement of the meeting house on the evening of the 3d instant in honor of him and wife and Professor C. E. Lewis and wife.

Sixty-seven members of Stella Quarterly Meeting attended Kansas Yearly Meeting at least part of the session, most of them remaining until the close of the meeting. Many of these Friends live more than a hundred and fifty miles from Wichita, where the yearly meeting was held.

The day school at Friends' Mission, Virginia, is in charge of Etta Johnston, of Maine, and Sallie C. Marshburn, of North Carolina, this being the eighth year that the latter has been in the school. Over ninety are enrolled. The public school commences soon, and the enrollment will be much larger.

A tea meeting for members and attenders of Twelfth Street Meeting, Philadelphia, was held Second-day evening Tenth month 26th, 1903. The subject, "Why Am I a Friend?" was considered, and many answers given from members. An article on the subject, written by the late James E. Rhoads, was also read.

Wilfred Rowntree and wife, who have recently returned from Ramallah, Palestine, attended Kansas Yearly Meeting. He spoke at the missionary session and gave an interesting description of some of the customs of so-called Greek Christians and other Eastern peoples. Edith Dillon, from the Tokio Mission, who is spending a year in her homeland, spoke of some of the religious customs of the Japanese.

Kansas Yearly Meeting is asking its quarterly meeting superintendents of evangelistic work to act as official correspondents for THE AMERICAN FRIEND from their respective meetings. We hope that this or similar plans may be taken up in other yearly meetings. If the work is carefully and systematically done the result will be a mutual blessing both to the meeting reported and to the Church at large.

Joseph W. Lamb, who is a Mexican by birth, and who has labored extensively in the Friends' Mexican Mission work, has accepted a position as agent of the American Bible Society in Porto Rico. His wife, Antonia Gonzalez, will accompany him in this new service. She was educated in the Mexican Girls' Boarding School, under the care of New York Yearly Meeting, and afterwards spent a year in Earlham College.

The American Friends' Board of Foreign Missions, at its recent meeting approved the recommendation of the Gibara meeting of ministry and oversight to record Juan Francisco Galvez, a minister of the gospel, the first Cuban Friend regularly recorded a minister. Zenas Martin says of him: "A humble man of prayer and faith, simple, teachable, but not without originality, a good Bible student, a warm-hearted preacher and soul-winner, loved by all."

During the past three months Alvin J. George spent most of his time visiting families and holding meetings in different parts of Kansas Yearly Meeting. He traveled by private conveyance over 850 miles, visited 110 families, held 57 meetings, attended 9 monthly meetings and 3 quarterly meetings, distributed tracts and did other Christian service as the way opened. Many were led to accept Jesus as their Saviour, some were renewed, and others established in their religious life through his efforts.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Friends' Meeting at Indianapolis, Ind., has been reorganized with a large membership. The attendance at the last meeting was over fifty. At the suggestion of Morton C. Pearson, a new feature has been introduced, which is enlisting both the interest and attendance of the young people of the meeting. Instead of following the usual topics in the Sabbath evening meetings, the society is taking up the systematic study of John's Gospel. Each evening is devoted to a single chapter. At the conclusion of this study it seems probable now that a twelve-lesson course in the history of the Friends' Church will be undertaken. This new feature is proving a blessing.

Farmington Quarterly Meeting, held at Hartford, in Niagara County, N. Y., was attended by J. Lindley Spicer, superintendent of evangelistic work, of New York Yearly Meeting. On Third-day evening, the 6th instant, the Christian Endeavor Union was conducted by Anna Sands Leggett, and, after preliminary business, several took part. J. Lindley Spicer gave an address upon the subject, "Chirp Up and Help a Little." On Fourth-day evening the Bible School Conference was conducted by J. Irving Dillingham. Reports of schools were given showing interest and progress. Hannah H. Leggett gave a brief history of the "International Series" in Bible study. J. Lindley Spicer spoke from the subject, "The Book We Study," illustrating it by a chart. On Fourth-day morning the Evangelistic Committee met—J. D. Piper, chairman. The ministers of the quarterly meeting were in attendance, with the exception of Rebecca W. Flagler, who is removing to Ohio. Our friend, Walter J. Aldrich, was very acceptably at the quarterly meeting, after which he went to Collins.

Some six months ago, under the supervision of Albert J. Brown's wife, a few young women in the Indianapolis Meeting organized a Foreign Missionary Society, to be known as the Delitha Butler Harvey Circle. It was decided that in the main the African Industrial Mission should receive its support, although one-fourth of all funds raised goes to Western Yearly Meeting's field in Mexico. It has been thought wise to invite the young men to join in this work, also young married people, and so great has become the interest in the last few weeks that more than sixty young people have already enrolled, with others to follow. This society now meets monthly at night for business and program work. Having a desire for larger information relative to missions, the society spends one-half hour after prayer meeting twice each month with the local minister, Morton C. Pearson, in study. There is much promise in this organization.

Twenty-nine ministers are now located in Kansas meetings, as follows: L. Clarkson Henshaw, Wichita, Kan.; David S. Pickett, Argonia, Kan.; Nathan D. and Mary C. Perry, Friendswood, Tex.; I. Lindley Pitts, Fruitland, Kan.; Asher Mott, Emporia, Kan.; Nathan Ridgeway, Cottonwood, Kan.; Robert Norris, Tonganoxie, Kan.; I. Emory Pearson, Lawrence, Kan.; Nathan Brown, Stella, O. T.; Ira S. Bundy, Stefling, Kan.; John J. Danks and Eliza P. Williams, Horsington, Kan.; Constance Day, La Crosse, Kan.; G. M. Fortune, Stark, Kan.; John A. Laughlin, Center Hill, Kan.; Samuel A. Johnson, Laharpe, Kan.; Lewis McFarland, Lowell and Timbered Hill, Kan.; Frances E. Litter, Willow Springs, Mo.; Henry Dalrymple, Mt. Ayr (Alton P. O.), Kan.; F. H. Clark, North Branch, Kan.; Susie Allen, Bethel, O. T.; Edna Hill, Liberty, O. T.; John E. Snively, Cherokee, O. T.; Mahlon Davis, Ringwood, O. T.; Elwood Haworth, Spring River (Varek P. O.), O. T.; Susie Fox, Edgewood, Mo.; Anna J. Winslow, Glen Elder, Kan.; Anna M. Ray, Hillside, I. T.; Abijah Pickering, Friendship (McCrone, R. F. D. 2), Kan.

MARRIED.

VALENTINE—BIRDSALL.—On the evening of Ninth month 24th, at the home of the bride's parents, George H. and Eleanor C. Birdsall, Westfield, N. J., Florence Eleanor Birdsall and Warren Powell Valentine, formerly of Richmond, Ind.

DIED.

FOUST.—At Darlington, Ind., Tenth month 7th, 1903, Lettie Foust, wife of Walter Foust and granddaughter of Henry and Sallie Coat. She was converted in early life, and during her sickness of long duration expressed her hope of the beyond, saying, "I am not afraid to die."

JOHNSON.—At his home in Carmel, Ind., Eighth month 25th, 1903, William Harrison Johnson, son of Timothy and Michal Johnson. He was a life-long Friend, who was often heard praising God, and left a bright evidence behind that he was going home.

KELLY.—At his home in South Yarmouth, Mass., Tenth month 19th, 1903, David Kelly, in the 95th year of his age. An elder of Sandwich (Mass.) Monthly Meeting.

QUIGG.—Near Crawfordsville, Ind., Eighth month 19th, 1903, Francis S. Quigg, son of Joseph and Lydia Quigg. He was a recorded minister for several years. While returning home his horse became frightened at an approaching storm, fatally injuring him so that his death resulted in a short time.

STETSON.—At her home in South Yarmouth, Mass., Eighth month 6th, 1903, Elizabeth C. Stetson, in the 75th year of her age. A minister of Sandwich (Mass.) Monthly Meeting.

SWAIN.—At the home of her son-in-law, D. E. Barnard, in Rush County, Ind., Tenth month 14th, 1903, Louisa Coffin Swain, aged a little more than 82 years. She was a member of Little Blue River Monthly Meeting of Friends, and was a faithful attender of the Bible School and meeting.

WING.—At the home of a daughter in Amesbury, Mass., Ninth month 22d, 1903, Elizabeth C. Wing, in the 89th year of her age. A minister of Sandwich (Mass.) Monthly Meeting.

Events and Comments.

Both branches of the French Parliament reassembled last week. The absence of important issues minimized the interest in the event, but the galleries were well filled with people desirous of witnessing the opening scenes.

Secretary Moody again puts high his naval estimates for the ensuing fiscal year, the figures being at about $102,000,000. Last year he presented estimates almost as high, and Congress cut them down some $25,000,000. Like action is probable in the coming session.

Cresceus broke the world's trotting record for a mile at Wichita, Kan., the other afternoon, going the distance in 1.59½, beating the previous record held by Lou Dillon and Major Delmar by a quarter of a second. The day was ideal and the track could not have been better.

It is said that the collection of animals received in New York recently for the zoological gardens in Bronx Park is the finest ever brought to this country. There are twenty-nine in all, and two giraffes alone are worth $15,000. Fourteen of the specimens represent eight different species of antelopes.

The slack in the iron industry has started some 4,000 workers from the coke region around Pittsburg in search of employment elsewhere. About half of them are returning to their former homes in Europe. This will be preferable to their remaining here in idleness, and if the great mass of surplus low-class labor which pours in here from Europe during flush times would dispose of itself in like manner during dull times the country would look upon the immigration problem as less serious than it has appeared to be.

BUSY DOCTOR

Sometimes Overlooks a Point.

The physician is such a busy man that he sometimes overlooks a valuable point to which his attention may be called by an intelligent patient who is a thinker.

"About a year ago my attention was called to Grape-Nuts by one of my patients," says a physician of Cincinnati.

"At the time my own health was bad, and I was pretty well run down, but I saw in a minute that the theories behind Grape-Nuts were perfect, and if the food was all that was claimed for it, it was a perfect food, so I commenced to use Grape-Nuts with warm milk twice a day, and in a short time began to improve in every way, and I am now much stronger, feel 50 per cent. better, and weigh more than I ever did in my life.

"I know that all of this good is due to Grape-Nuts, and I am firmly convinced that the claims made for the food are true. I have recommended and still recommend the food to a great many of my patients with splendid results, and in some cases the improvement of patients on this fine food has been wonderful.

"As a brain and nerve food, in fact, as a general food, Grape-Nuts stands alone." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

It is asserted in Washington dispatches that the attitude of Southern members of Congress is changing toward Cuban reciprocity. Ratification of the treaty will be opposed by beet and cane sugar interests, but it is confidently predicted that the better market opening for cotton goods under reciprocity will benefit the South, and that this consideration will not be without effect in improving the chances of ratification.

Late last month there was dedicated at Berkeley, as the gift of W. R. Hearst to the University of California, the first Greek amphitheatre that has been built since the ancient classic civilization flowered at Athens. It is said to be a very impressive structure, erected in the hollow of the Berkeley Hills. As it now appears, the amphitheatre is built of concrete, modeled on the antique lines, yet still adapted to use in modern California.

Some 79,000 passports have been issued over the name of Secretary Hay since he became head of the State Department, the largest number ever issued by an American Secretary of State. Secretary Hamilton Fish, whose term was three years longer, issued only 52,450 passports. Americans going abroad do not ordinarily secure passports unless they intend traveling in remote countries. The presumption is, therefore, that such traveling is very greatly on the increase.

A dispatch from Dawson says that winter is closing in quickly, and several thousand tons of freight will not reach Dawson this season. Freight charges are phenomenally high, and prices of certain staples are going skyward. Hay in Dawson is selling for $130 a ton. Snow is several inches deep in the Mayo district, and the streams are freezing. The gold output will only be about a million less than last year, despite the extreme drouth, which cost the miners six weeks' loss of time. Many people are leaving for the outside, fearing a severe winter. The number of those going out exceeds that of last autumn by several hundred.

The news that the Alaskan Boundary Commission has decided the main points of the controversy in favor of the United States is received in this country with gratification, but without surprise. By the verdict of the commission the United States retains all its present Alaskan territory, shutting Canada away from the sea along the entire length of the Alaskan "pan-handle," except at the southern extremity, where a small strip given to the Dominion enables her to control the Portland Canal and its islands, which overlook Port Simpson, the proposed terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad. Canada is thought to gain more by this concession than we lose by it.

It is considered a remarkable coincidence that on the day before Overseer Dowie and his followers started on their New York crusade the New York State Court of Appeals should hand down the first decision made by a higher court in the United States against faith-healing. The court condemns a "Dowieite," J. Luther Pierson, of White Plains, N. Y., to pay a fine of $500 or spend 500 days in jail for permitting his infant daughter to die of pneumonia without medical treatment. This is the first time in the history of New York, or any other State,

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

where the law has been made certain by the decision of the higher courts. The higher courts of England have upheld convictions in similar cases, the prisoners there being found guilty under indictments of manslaughter.

IT IS UP TO DATE
GET THE BEST

25,000 NEW WORDS

Revised Gazetteer of the World
Revised Biographical Dictionary

New Plates. 2380 Pages. 5000 Illustrations.

Edited by W. T. HARRIS, Ph.D., LL.D.,
United States Commissioner of Education.

LET US SEND YOU FREE

An instructive and entertaining "Test
in Pronunciation" also our illustrated pamphlet.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO.,
Springfield, Mass., U. S. A.

SAVE ½ YOUR FUEL

or get all the heat you pay for. When you use a Rochester Radiator you do.

Rochester Radiator Co.,

77 Furnace St.,

Fully Guaranteed.
Write for booklet on heating houses.

Rochester, N. Y.

NATTY STYLES IN WALKING SKIRTS

WHEN we say natty, we do not mean expensive; for the lowest-priced number that we offer is natty in every sense of the word, and has little style-touches on it that one would look for only on Walking Skirts costing much more—sometimes twice as much:

At $5.00 Walking Skirts of black melton cloth; seven-gore, with cluster rows of pinch tucks on each gore; tabs of same material at hips and knees, finished with small buttons; full flared.

At $6.50 Walking Skirts of broken plaid Oxford mixed cloth; seven-gore, one-inch strapping on seams, a neat design in strapping at hips forming yoke; flares gracefully at bottom; inverted plait back.

At $7.00 Walking Skirts of gray mixed homespun; panel front; one-inch strapping over hips and down front gore ends in three small tabs, finished with covered buttons; well shaped and entirely new.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER
PHILADELPHIA

"Hard work, cemented with good judgment, makes good building material for a successful future."

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

The British Friend

Published on the 15th of each month.

Being the only religious and literary review written chiefly for the general public, but from the standpoint of the Society of Friends, The British Friend offers a unique opportunity for spreading "The Truth" among thoughtful enquirers.

The October issue contains:

"Secondary Education," by M. E. Sadler.
"Ethics of the Tariff Issue," by J. A. Hobson, M.A.
"The Roots of Quaker Ministry."
"In Praise of Poverty."
"The Subliminal Self," by J. W. Graham, M.A.
"Under Sunn v Skies."
"Boys' Brigades and Quaker Principles."
"The Birthright Member," by ***

A distinct feature is made of Reviews and Notices of Books, especially such as are likely to be helpful to preachers and social workers.

Subscription: 6s. 6d. ($1.58) per annum, post free
Specimen copy on application.

Editor and Publisher:

EDWARD GRUBB, M.A.
Devonshire Chambers Bishopsgate, Without. Lon. E. C.

Active participation in the duties of this world seems to be the surest safeguard for the health of body and mind.
—Lydia Maria Child.

On a recent Sunday for the first time it was impossible to leave London by train during the hours conventionally set aside for morning church service. At Victoria no trains left between 10.30 and 1.30 o'clock, and from Paddington none left from 11 to 1.15 o'clock!

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD TRAIN PORTERS.

A popular feature of the through trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad which leave New York daily for the West at 7.55 a.m. and 1.55 p.m., and leave Pittsburg daily for the East at 3.00 a.m. and 7.30 a.m., are the train porters stationed in the day coaches.

Their duty consists of keeping the cars clean and rendering whatever service passengers may require. The Pullman porter has long since demonstrated his usefulness; the Pennsylvania Railroad train porter serves the ordinary coach passenger in the same capacity as the Pullman porter serves those who ride in parlor and sleeping cars.

The day coaches on the above-mentioned trains, as well as those on trains leaving New York at 5.55 p.m. daily for the West and leaving Pittsburg at 7.10 p.m. daily for the East, are equipped with lavatories, in connection with which the services of train porters are especially convenient.

The Leeds & Biddle Co.

Makers of the Better Kind of
PRINTING
Your order for anything from a card to a catalogue
1019-21 Market St., Philadelphia

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The price for a single insertion of 5 lines is 25c.; 5 lines, 5 times costs $1.00, 13 times $2.25, 26 times $4, and 52 times, $7.80. Larger space is charged at the same rate. Cash with order.

FLOWERS AND SHRUBS.—You should plant this Fall. Send for our new Floral Guide, just out.
The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Box X

FOR SALE.—5000 of Amos Kenworthy's "Never fail to bear" Hardy Northern Grown "Friday" peach trees. Write me. JESSE OVERMAN, Knights-town, Ind., successor to Amos Kenworthy.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE CO., Miami, Ind. Ter.
Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

RED LETTERED TESTAMENT
GOLD EDGES, full leather, 50c postpaid. Address
HOWARD BOOK HOUSE Elwood, Ind.

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

A RARE ENGRAVING (3½x8 ft.) Elizabeth Fry in Newgate prison, London, may be bought with frame and glass by addressing, THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Be careful to go strewing in and out
Thy way with good deeds, lest it come about

That when thou shalt depart,
No low, lamenting tongue be found to say,
The world is poorer since thou went'st away.

But make so fair and sweet
Thy house of clay, some dusk shall spread about When death unlocks the door and lets thee out.

—Alice Cary.

We need not all be in the same regiment to take part in the same battle. There may be separate banners while all fight under one national flag. To keep a united front is the thing.

IF YOU WANT

a perfect cream, preserved without sugar, order Borden's Peerless Brand Evaporated Cream. It has a delightful, natural flavor and is superior to the richest raw cream you can buy, with the added assurance of being sterilized. Prepared by Borden's Condensed Milk Co.

Oklahoma Farms

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address E. J. Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

E. J. VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

7% Net TO LENDER.
FIRST MORTGAGES
on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

THE COMING OF HIS FEET.

In the crimson of the morning, in the whiteness of the noon,
In the amber glory of the day's retreat,
In the midnight, robed in darkness, or the gleaming of the moon,
I listen for the coming of his feet.

I have heard his weary footsteps on the sands of Galilee,
On the temple's marble pavement, on the street,
Worn with weight of sorrow, faltering
up the slopes of Calvary,
The sorrow of the coming of his feet.

Down the minster aisles of splendor,
from betwixt the cherubim,
Thro' the wondering throng, with motion strong and fleet,
Sounds his victor tread, approaching with a music far and dim—
The music of the coming of his feet.

Sandaled not with shoon of silver, girdled not with woven gold, Weighted not with shimmering gems and odors sweet,
But white-winged and shod with glory in the Tabor light of old—
The glory of the coming of his feet.

He is coming, O my spirit! with his everlasting peace,
With his blessedness immortal and complete.

He is coming, O my spirit! and his coming brings release.

I listen for the coming of his feet.
—Lyman Whitney Allen, in "Independent."

DOCTOR KNEW.

Had Tried it Himself.

The doctor who has tried Postum Food
Coffee knows that it is an easy, certain, and pleasant way out of the coffee habit, and all of the ails following, and he prescribes it for his patients as did a physician of Prospertown, N. J. One of his patients says: "During the summer just past I suffered terribly with a heavy feeling at the pit of my stomach, and dizzy feelings in my head, and then a blindness would come over my eyes, so I would have to sit down. I would get so nervous I could hardly control my feelings.

"Finally I spoke to our family physician about it, and he asked if I drank much coffee, and mother told him that I did. He told me to immediately stop drinking coffee, and drink Postum Food Coffee in its place, as he and his family had used Postum and found it a powerful rebuilder and delicious food drink.

"I hesitated for a time, disliking the idea of having to give up my coffee, but finally I got a package and found it to be all the doctor said. Since drinking the Postum in place of coffee my dizziness, blindness and nervousness are all gone, my bowels are regular, and I am again well and strong. That is a short statement of what Postum has done for me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

THE LANTERN BEARER.

BY CHARLES CLINTON JONES.

Do you chance to pass where the factory wall
Grazes the midnight sky,
And darkness rests like a dismal pall
Over the chimneys high,
Blotting the lines and angles out,
And leaving their shape and size in doubt?

If you linger a moment, across the night
Sudden a lantern flares,
The steady gleam of its feeble light
Taking you unawares;
Casting shadows grotesque and dim
On opposite fence or leafy limb.

'Tis the lantern bearer with sleepless eyes,
Doing his lonely work;
Into the darkest place he pries
That no evil thing may lurk;
A human link between day and day,
Pacing the solemn hours away.

Thro' the panes you see him among the looms,
Going his hourly round;
The smooth-trod floors of the hollow rooms
To his steady tread resound;
While empty spaces, remote and vast,
Echo back the treads of the past.

He may not sleep when the city sleeps,
Nor even pause to rest,
But ever his watchful vigil keeps,
Bringing his will to test.
A thousand feet on his trust await To throng at morn thro' the safe-kept gate.

O watchman lone, in the moral dark
"Twixt glow and glow of time;
The steady gleam of your feeble spark
Forges a link sublime,
Welding the chain of truth and right
Up thro' the gloom of darkest night.

The gracious heart has two windows —one toward God and one toward the world. Both should be kept ever open—to receive and to give out again.

God does not always give money for money. He has greater gifts than gold, and He does not always think it best for us to have more worldly goods. But a greater gift than ours He will send us always.

No true disciple was ever yet without the grace of giving. If the "pocket nerve" is paralyzed, a man's religion is never healthy or vigorous. God is the eternal giver, and to be godly is to be like God. The Christian who cares nothing for missions, and buttons up his pockets tight, is a counterfeit, not a real disciple.

Salvation is free. But faith without works is dead. The man who clutches at salvation as a free gift from God, and then refuses to give anything to anybody, is a pitifully mean person. Giving is one of the essential laws of godly living. Withholding from God shrivels the soul.—Exchange.

"There are times when silence is sin and speech is golden."

The dealer who sells lamp-chimneys to last, is either a shrewd or an honest man.
MACBETH.

How to take care of lamps, including the getting of right-shape chimneys, is in my Index; sent free.

MACBETH, Pittsburgh.

Law wears iron shoes and never cares where it steps.

Lace Curtains FREE! Do not send any money. Just send us your name and address and we will send you, express paid, six boxes of QUAKER OINTMENT to sell among your friends at 25c. each. When sold send us the $1.50, and we will send you absolutely free a fine pair of lace curtains. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best-known remedy for Catarrh, Eczema, and all surface irritations. It is easy to sell because it is an honest remedy. Sold under guarantee. A few moments of your time is all that is required to get a pair of these beautiful curtains, or your choice of many other premiums. Write to-day.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET

BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street

Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL
Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

Don't Be Too Late

How often does the examining doctor have to say to applicants for life insurance:
"If you had applied a year ago you would have passed."
Don't you be too late.

Shall we send you some literature?

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

SEND THEM TO BED WITH A KISS.

O mothers, so weary, discouraged,
Worn out with the cares of the day,
You often grow cross and impatient,
Complain of the noise and the play;
For the day brings so many vexations,
So many things going amiss;
But, mothers, whatever may vex you,
Send the children to bed with a kiss!

The dear little feet wander often,
Perhaps, from the pathway of right;
The dear little hands find new mischief
To try you from morning till night;
But think of the desolate mothers,
Who'd give all the world for your bliss,
And, as thanks for your infinite blessings,
Send the children to bed with a kiss!

For some day their noise will not vex you,
The silence will hurt you far more;
You will long for the sweet children voices,
For a sweet childish face at the door,
And to press a child's face to your bosom.
You'd give all the world for just this;
For the comfort 'twill bring you in sorrow,
Send the children to bed with a kiss!
—"New Orleans Picayune."

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial
Autumn term begins Ninth month 22d, 1903.

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.

LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

LEARN SHORTHAND

Taught by mail or in school. Moderate rates.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

Stenography, Typewriting, Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

Acker has them—those 80c.
Bon Bons at 39c.

ARMSTRONG & McKELVY } Pittsburgh.
BEYMER-BAUMAN } Pittsburgh.
DAVIS-CHAMBERS } Pittsburgh.
FAHNESTOCK } Pittsburgh.
ANCHOR } Cincinnati.
ECKSTEIN }
ATLANTIC } BRADLEY }
BROOKLYN } New York.
JEWETT } ULSTER }
UNION }
SOUTHERN } Chicago.
SHIPMAN }
COLLIER }
MISSOURI } St. Louis.
RED SEAL }
SOUTHERN }
JOHN T. LEWIS & BROS CO } Philadelphia
MORLEY } Cleveland.
SALEM } Salem, Mass.
CORNELL } Buffalo.
KENTUCKY } Louisville.

DON'T be confused by all this talk about White Lead chalking, for this is one of its most desirable properties. Pure White Lead properly applied will not crack, peel or scale, but when it fails will do so gradually from outside wear.

It will protect whatever it is applied to as long as a vestige of the paint remains, and does not require to be scraped or burned off when repainting becomes necessary.

If interested in paint or painting, address

National Lead Co., 100 William Street, New York.

Heaven is only a step from the penitent sinner, but millions of miles from the hypocrite.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 20 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted.

Scientific Bread Mach. Co.
(CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.)
522 & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.

BELL TELEPHONE.

We begin to backslide the moment we think we have religion enough.

The man who does not love his neighbor as himself is not the friend of Christ.

By IRA D. SANKEY.

REGULAR EDITION

270 SONGS—100 NEW with the SELECT of the OLD. SEPARATE EDITION for

Christian Endeavor Societies
Handsomely bound in silk finish cloths.

Each 25 cts. a copy, or $25.00 per 100.
Returnable sample sent on request.

THE BIGLOW & MAIN CO., New York & Chicago.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-President.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

ASA S. WING, Vice-President.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer.

SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

The American Friend

Vol. X

ELEVENTH MONTH 5, 1903

No. 45

PAGE

EDITORIALS.—Home Churches.—Emma Booth-Tucker.—The Miami Centennial.—The Memorial Fund 751

The Home Mission Association of Women of Indiana Yearly Meeting 752
Rhoda M. Coffin.

1803—Miami Monthly Meeting—1903, 754
Paul H. Wright.

SOME VIEWS ON PRESENT TOPICS:
Sermonizing from the Friends' Standpoint 755
I. Emory Pearson.

TEMPERANCE DEPARTMENT 757

THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON 759
Lesson for Eleventh month 15, 1903.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR 760
Topic for Eleventh month 15, 1903.

MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT 760

THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES, 762

BORN.—DIED 762

EVENTS AND COMMENTS 763

WHERE THE RECORD IS KEPT.

Could the young but realize how soon they will become mere bundles of habits, they would give more heed to their conduct while in the plastic state. Every smallest stroke of virtue or of vice leaves its scar. The drunken man excuses himself from every fresh dereliction by saying, "I won't count this time." Well, he may not count it, and a kind heaven may not count it, but it is being counted, none the less. Down among the nerve cells and fibres the molecules are counting it, registering and storing it up, to be used against him when the next temptation comes. Nothing we ever do is, in strict scientific literalness, wiped out. Of course, this has its good side as well as its bad one. As we become permanent drunkards by so many separate drinks, so we become saints in the moral, and authorities and experts in the practical and scientific spheres, by so many separate acts and hours of work.

—PROFESSOR WILLIAM JAMES.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

MORSE'S PARABLE.

The late Henry G. Morse, president of the New York Shipbuilding Company, was one day visited by a man of questionable repute who wished to borrow money wherewith to launch a questionable enterprise. President Morse gave some polite excuse for his unwillingness to lend, and the man declared that he regarded this excuse as somewhat fishy. Thereupon, smiling grimly, President Morse said:

"Let me tell you a little story. Once upon a time an Arab went to his neighbor and said:

"Lend me your rope."

"I can't," said the neighbor.

"Why can't you?"

"Because I want to use the rope myself."

"What do you want to do with it?" the borrower persisted.

"I want to tie up five cubic feet of water with it," was the reply.

"How on earth," the other sneered, "can you tie up water with a rope?"

"My friend," said the neighbor, "Allah is great, and he permits us to do strange things with a rope when we don't want to lend it."—Exchange.

Emily: "You don't mean to say you failed to pass your exams again this year?"

Maud: "Yes, failed again."

Emily: "What was the trouble this time?"

Maud: "Why, they asked the same questions they did last year."—"The Columbia Jester."

Washable Waists

The few numbers we mention are reduced, though we consider them unusual values at regular prices. There should be brisk selling while these lots last:

WASHABLE WAISTS—of cream linen etamine; cluster-tucked back, front fastened with four large pearl buttons; full sleeves, cuffs and collar finished with hemstitched pique turnover and three hemstitched tabs; were $5.25—now reduced to $4.50.

WASHABLE WAISTS—of mercerized checked white vesting; French back, stole front, finished with small pearl buttons, plaits each side to waist line; bishop sleeves, cuffs and stock collar finished with stitched turnover; were $6.00—now reduced to $5.

WASHABLE WAISTS—of mercerized figured vesting; box plaited front and back, plain sleeves, plaited into cuffs; stock collar finished with stitched turnover; were $4.25—now reduced to $3.75.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PHILADELPHIA

The Business World

has little use for the man not prepared to meet its requirements. A policy payable to your estate is a good guarantee for your debts. Insure in

The PRUDENTIAL

INSURANCE COMPANY OF AMERICA.

JOHN F. DRYDEN
President

HOME OFFICE
NEWARK, N. J.

Write for Rates

Dept. 67.

The Tonic
Par Excellence.

QUINA-LAROCHE

is highly recommended as a preventive of Colds and Influenza

and as a specific remedy for

Typhoid and Malarial Fevers.

E. FOUGERA & CO., 26-30
N. William St., N.Y.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 10 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.) 52d & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

Acker has it—its name's
Mo-Kof-Fee.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.

LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean, —no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL

or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

Stenography, Typewriting,
Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

The American Friend

"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, ELEVENTH MONTH 5, 1903.

No. 45.

HOME CHURCHES.

Most of the apostolic churches began in private houses, and all through the primitive period the Christian home was a center of religious activity. Many of our readers would doubtless be surprised, if they made a careful study of Acts and the Epistles of Paul, to find how frequently these "house-churches" are mentioned. The Christian home is actually the mother of the Church, and the New Testament gives an overwhelming amount of evidence which points in this direction.

The Jerusalem Christians in the first period seem to have met frequently in the home of Mary, the mother of Mark, which may well have been the house with "the upper room." (See Acts 12: 12.) They evidently ate the memorial meal from house to house, and made these times of "breaking bread" spiritual occasions of a remarkable sort. In fact, in these earliest days private homes were the sole centers of worship and ministry. Twice at least there are passages which indicate that the home of James, "the Lord's brother," continued for some time to be in some sense headquarters for Christian activity. When Saul was making havoc of the Church, he did it by entering houses and haling men and women to prison, which implies that he found here and there little bands of Christian worshippers, or "home congregations."

As soon as we turn to Paul's letters the "house churches" are constantly in evidence. There was one in the home of Prisca and Aquila (Rom. 16: 3-5). Philemon had a "church" in his house. (See Philemon, verse 2.) There was another in the home of Stephanas, who was "the first fruit of Achaia" (1 Cor. 16: 15). Nymphas of Laodicea had one in his house (Col. 4: 15.) Gaius is called not only Paul's "host"—i.e., entertainer—but the host of the whole Church, which means of course that it met at his house. (See Rom. 16: 23.) These are only a few examples, and the careful reader can extend the list for himself. Perhaps for the sake of the women we ought to add to Prisca or Priscilla, already mentioned, the beautiful case of Lydia in Philippi, who made her home headquarters for the first Christian activity in Europe (Acts 16: 14, 15.)

Only three years ago excavators in the Roman forum discovered the ground plan of one of the earliest church edifices ever built in that city. It is an interesting fact that this building was modeled not after the public hall or lecture room, but rather after the assembly room in the homes of the well-to-do citizens. This first architect drew his plan under the influence of the actual fact, that he and his friends were accustomed to meet in private homes. One of the earliest liturgies which has been preserved contains this significant sentence: "Mothers, take up your children. Let us stand upright to present unto the Lord our offerings with fear and trembling." This presupposes meetings where the entire family is gathered, and the mothers with their babies in their laps take part in the worship.

Gradually church buildings took the place of private houses, and these "home churches" in large degree ceased to exist. It is no cause for regret that the central churches of our neighborhoods have increased, but it is cause for regret that the home church idea has at the same time decreased and become so nearly extinct. We want large centers for the entire congregations to meet. But what a difference it would make in our total power if we had these "home churches" also maintained! If, in other words, every Christian home was, as it ought to be, a local church—a little group of two or more who worship together and gather their forces for positive spiritual results—how all our Christian energy would multiply. The home was the mother of the Church. Now we want a Church which is made up, not of individuals, but of homes that are in themselves miniature churches. If this ideal could once become a fact many of our difficult problems would vanish. The way to help it come is to make one such "home church" in your house! *

EMMA BOOTH-TUCKER.

WE join with all other Christian denominations in lamenting the tragic death of Emma Booth-Tucker, Consul of the Salvation Army in America. She was the second daughter of General Booth, who put her in command of the American work in 1896. Her spiritual gifts and her responsible position as a foremost leader in the Salvation Army had made her a remarkably useful woman. She was a noble example of the power of consecration. Nothing daunted her, and nothing was too hard for her to undertake if the call came to her. She had a remarkable career of sacrifice and hardship in India before she came to America, where, during these seven years she has thrown herself heart and soul into the great work of saving the masses. Such a woman never can be spared from a human point of view. But now that her work is done somebody else must take it up and learn how to be God's instrument in her place.

* This editorial was suggested by a reading of T. M. Lindley's new and valuable book, "The Church and Ministry in the Early Centuries."

THE MIAMI CENTENNIAL.

ONE of the most important settlements of Friends west of the Ohio River was that made in the region bordering on the Miami River, in Western Ohio, now known as Waynesville. Bush River Monthly Meeting, in North Carolina, migrated almost in a body to Miami Monthly Meeting, which was established one hundred years ago. Many prominent Friends have come out of this locality, and this meeting has, during its one hundred years of life, been a strong, influential body. Owing to the lamentable separation of 1828, the meeting was divided into two branches, which have flowed along ever since as two separate streams.

At the recent celebration of the centennial anniversary of the founding of the monthly meeting, both branches united, and the ancient event received a worthy commemoration. Our readers will find in another column a good account of this interesting celebration.

THE MEMORIAL FUND.

WE are very glad to report that the Harriet Green Memorial Fund is steadily gaining. One thousand three hundred and fifteen dollars and two cents have come through THE AMERICAN FRIEND. The following subscriptions have been gathered through the summer in the yearly meetings: North Carolina, $466; Iowa, $185; Western, $498.44; Indiana, $410, and Kansas, $326, making a total of $1,885.44. We have also received $200, since the last report, from Kansas Friends, which brings the amount actually received to the present date up to $3,400.46. According to our information, about $2,000 have been up to date subscribed by English Friends. This would make the fund at present $5,400. Many small amounts are already promised, and some larger ones, and the fund will undoubtedly go on steadily growing. But it must be kept constantly before Friends, and we shall continue to report all sums received. If some of our readers who have expected all the time to give and have not yet done so, would now send in their subscriptions, the fund would take a decided start ahead, and that would increase the enthusiasm. We know of some who intend to give, but who do not actually get to the point of doing it. It is this last step which really counts!

Amount previously reported received through THE AMERICAN FRIEND	$1,211.02

Elma M. Jones	2.00
Joshua L. Baily.....	100.00
S. B. Hoge.....	2.00
Kansas Friends	200.00

Total$1,515.02

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

THE HOME MISSION ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN OF INDIANA YEARLY MEETING.

BY RHODA M. COFFIN.

After the great meeting held by the young Friends, during the session of Indiana Yearly Meeting in 1860, there sprang up in the minds of many a conviction that a more thorough, active, aggressive work was needed. To accomplish this it was thought necessary to have some organization free from Church trammels, one so formed as to be adjustable to the various needs.

Women Friends were not accustomed to organized effort among the women and in our church organization there was but little for the younger portion of the members to participate in. The voice of a woman in church action was rarely heard in expression of a personal opinion. The usual manner was "I unite" or "I am free," and never (I think I may say) to evolve a system of organized work, which should bring out the energies of the younger portion of the members.

Much life had sprung up, and many had received Christ and heard the command, "Let your light shine," but there was little opening. The women Friends were earnest, but timid, some of them frightened at their own voices and fearful to take hold and step out into a new field. Something must be done. The new life received, the new zeal kindled would dwindle, and thus the Church and the world would be deprived of this vast amount of spiritual energy.

An association had been started in England, led by Rebecca Thursfield, with whom I had corresponded for some time. This work, though small, at that time was the subject of the correspondence. John Henry Douglas and Murray Shipley, whilst on a religious visit to that country, had mingled with the work, and were ready to throw in their mite to strengthen the few women Friends on whom the Lord had laid the work of organizing for entrance into our field.

These women were Harriet Steer, Sarah J. Smith, Mary J. Taylor and Anna M. Pugh, of Cincinnati; Elizabeth Hopkins, and myself. After much thought and prayer for guidance and wisdom, we finally decided that the "set time had come," and met for prayer and action at our house one morning during the yearly meeting of 1866 and invited Murray Shipley, Charles F. Coffin and John Henry Douglas to meet with us. A constitution and by-laws were drafted, the names of the officers were selected, and the names of Friends from all the quarterly meetings were selected to act as correspondents, whose duty it would be to organize in all the monthly meetings. It then became a question as to how to get the meeting called so that it would not be hampered by church restrictions. We requested Elizabeth L. Comstock, who was a minister from Canada Yearly Meeting, to call or appoint a meeting for women to consider the subject, to which she agreed, the meeting to be in the large old meeting-house.

Just as we were going into the meeting she said to me, "I am afraid to call the meeting without consulting the elders." I was much annoyed. Everything had been arranged for the meeting, and I knew that consultation would kill it.

With an intense burning in my soul for the advancement of the work, and all absorbed in the purpose, and fearing that I was about to break the rules of the church, I knelt down by one of the benches in the porch, and, taking an old envelope and a pencil, wrote, "A meeting will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in this room for the purpose of organizing a Women's Home Mission Association of Friends. All are invited." As I was at the table as assistant clerk (and had been for several years), and the announcements were always read by me, I read it with the other announcements. We invited J. H. Douglas, Murray Shipley and C. F. Coffin to meet with us and give some information as to the needs of a constitution and by-laws. An executive committee and the name of a woman Friend from each quarterly meeting as correspondents were selected, to have charge of the work by awakening an interest and as far as possible organize monthly meeting associations.

We met at the time appointed and found seven hundred women assembled. Persons had been selected to speak in the work. The association was organized by electing Rhoda M. Coffin for the president, Sarah J. Smith, secretary, and Elizabeth Hopkins, treasurer, and correspondents were appointed as selected, the names of whom will be found in the first annual report, which I now enclose.

It was a meeting of interest. A membership fee of $1 for annual membership; many joined. Life membership, $25. Mary J. Taylor, Anna M. Pugh and Rhoda M. Coffin became life members—thus providing funds for the necessary expenses. It was a wonderful meeting. The women were ripe for the work, and took hold with much interest, joyful to have some opportunity to labor for Christ. Our men Friends present could give experience to the rest of us and words of encouragement.

The work done the following year was remarkable: Cottage prayer meetings held, Sunday Schools organized, jails, prisons and poor houses visited, tracts distributed, meetings started.

One woman Friend, as she thought of what she could do, after she went home took a horse, and a little son riding behind her, took her bag of tracts and started out on her mission. The cause she cared not to search out. She found one school district where there was no Sunday School nor place of worship. She went from house to house, giving tracts and talking with the people and praying. She procured the use of the school house; others joined her in tract readings, cottage prayer meetings, distributing Bibles. The people were delighted, and soon much interest was manifested. Gershum Purdue, an elder full of the Holy Ghost, of advanced age, but full of love to his fellows, was one of the faithful workers. Others, both ministers and elders, lent their help to the work. A protracted meeting was held, and a large number were converted and joined Friends. A meeting was established.

Work to a similar character, but not to so great extent was done throughout the various quarterly meetings, all under the care of the Women's Home Mission Association for six years. At the end of these years of labor it was thought best to invite the men to participate and the yearly meeting to adopt the work. The proposition was brought before the annual meeting for consideration. It at first met with considerable opposition.

Whilst the women were far behind the men in the commencement in practical united work, now they were far in front. The field had become so large and important we felt it should receive the united energies of the Church. The men needed the revivifying of mission work, and the Church needed it. After a time of prayer, it was unanimously decided to invite the men to participate and the Church to assume the work.

The following minute was forwarded to the men Friends, then in session:

"The Home Mission Association of Women Friends of Indiana Yearly Meeting, which was organized by the women members in 1866, and has been so zealously and efficiently prosecuted by them, resulting in the conversion of many to Christ and great benefit to the Church at large, and the field opening for successful labor, women Friends have decided that the time has fully come to invite men Friends to co-operate.

"It was joyfully responded to, and a large assembly met. Reorganizing, officers and an executive committee composed of men and women Friends from each of the quarterly meetings were chosen. I then resigned the presidency, which I had held from the beginning, as I had quite as much as I could do well, and wished as soon as possible to take up another line of work, the needs of which had been developed during the years of active service. Levi Mills was appointed to the position, and was most efficient.

"The following minute was then forwarded to the yearly meeting in session Tenth month 7th, 1873:

"To Indiana Yearly Meeting:

"The Home Mission Association, which was organized by Women Friends in 1866, and has been so zealously and efficiently prosecuted by them, resulting in the conversion of many souls and great good to the Church, desires to inform the yearly meeting that the work has become so great and the field opening up for labor so extended that women Friends have thought it right to call upon men Friends for their assistance and support in the home mission work. In response to this call a new organization has been effected—officers and an executive committee chosen of men and women Friends from each of the quarterly meetings, who are now ready to prosecute the work. Believing as we do that in unity there is strength, and desiring the united sympathy and prayers of the entire body, we suggest to the yearly meeting that it recognize our association as one of the committees of the yearly meeting and that we report annually to the yearly meeting the result of our labors.

"LEVI MILLS,

"President of Home Mission Association."

The meeting agreed to the request and directed the annual report to the yearly meeting and of the result and remarkable success in the many years of labor we are all familiar.

Thinking it might be of interest to some of later years, who may wish to know something of the rise and organization of the Home Mission Association of Friends, as at first organized and put into operation, and, being in possession of the facts, I have written a short account, it being of historical interest, showing the result of the first organized effort of women in Indiana Yearly Meeting for carrying out the teachings of Christ.

Of the six women Friends on whom this work was laid five have passed over and are receiving their reward, whilst their labor continues to follow.

I have been permitted to remain and enjoy a foretaste here. I know my race is nearly run, but, full of faith and love, I rest, knowing that I am safe in the arms of Jesus.

Chicago, Ill.

Oh, that every soul might feel the love in which it is embosomed, and might send heavenward the blended anthem of all its powers and affections, "Bless the Lord, and forget not all His benefits"!—A. P. Peabody.

"Joy and sorrow, gain and loss, come from one source, and tend to one end, as surely as the opposite motions of two cog wheels working into each other result in the forward motion of the hands of a watch."

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

1803—MIAMI MONTHLY MEETING—1903.

On the 16th and 17th of Tenth month there were held at Waynesville, Ohio, services commemorative of the centennial of the establishment of Miami Monthly Meeting. These services were under the care of committees appointed by the quarterly and monthly meetings of both branches of Friends. The meeting called together Friends from far and near, and was held in great unity of spirit. A contemplation of the history of the past hundred years, and of the fundamental doctrines and principles of Friends, together with the testimonies which they have borne and do bear against evil and in favor of all kinds of reform movements, deeply impressed the meeting with our present-day responsibility.

The meeting opened on Sixth-day morning, in profound silence and reverent waiting before God. Charles A. Brown, of Waynesville, the presiding officer from the Hicksite branch, told in fitting terms of the arrangements for the centennial, and welcomed the visiting Friends. Clarkson Butterworth, of Waynesville, related the history of the monthly meeting for the first twenty-five years from its establishment on Fourth-day, Tenth month 13th, 1803. Eli Jay, of Richmond, Indiana, then gave the history of the Orthodox branch since 1828.

At the afternoon session Seth H. Ellis, of Waynesville, the presiding officer from the Orthodox branch, gave a hearty endorsement to the welcome voiced by Charles Brown. Davis Furnas, of Waynesville, related the history of the Hicksite branch since 1828.

A paper written by Mary Batten Boone, of Richmond, Ind., on "What Quakerism has Done for the Recognition of Women," was read by George Thorpe. Three important elements in elevating the position of women were chivalry, the revival of learning and the influence of Christianity. The rise of the Society of Friends, however, among whom woman's true equality with man was recognized, forms an epoch in woman's history. Mention was made of the service of Mary Fisher, Anne Whitehead, Rebecca Travers, Elizabeth Fry, Mary Dyer, and other early Friends.

May Pemberton, of West Milton, Ohio, read a most interesting paper on "Quakerism and Slavery." She told of the awakening of Friends to the iniquity of holding property in human flesh, of the persecutions they endured as a result of freeing their slaves, and of the important part they took in carrying on the "underground railroad." Dr. Robert E. Pretlow, of Wilmington, Ohio, spoke on "Quakerism and the Ordinances." He ably presented the viewpoint from which Friends look upon the ordinances. They have maintained that it was more important to live in the spirit of Jesus than to perpetuate rites or ceremonies.

Esther Pugh, of Selma, Ohio, spoke on "Quakerism and Temperance." Friends early felt the burden of clearing their own conduct of connection with the liquor traffic. They not only exhorted their members to keep clear of rum themselves, they were conscientious as regards selling grain to distilleries, and they cried out against the evil of selling liquor to the Indians. Later, they have been very active in all lines of temperance reform, particularly in the W. C. T. U., and now they have taken the lead in calling an interdenominational conference on the subject.

A very interesting feature of the centennial was a series of biographical sketches of some of the leading men in the early history of Miami Meeting. These were of Joel Wright, by Jesse Wright, of Springboro, Ohio; of Robert Furnas, by Mary F. Frame, of Waynesville, Ohio; of Samuel Linton, by Mary Bailey, of Waynesville; of Abijah O'Neill, by Ella Keys, of Waynesville; of Samuel Kelly, by Mabel Wilson, of Selma, Ohio.

On Sixth-day evening Prof. J. B. Wright, of Harveysburg, Ohio, read a paper on the "Trend of Modern Religious Thought toward Quakerism." He proved, by many quotations from authors both of theological works and of works of general literature, that many of the fundamental doctrines for which Friends have stood have, in the last fifty years, been coming into more and more general acceptance. The spirit of the centennial was caught in verse in a poem read by Esther Stratton Wallace, of Richmond, Ind. Wilson Doane, of Indianapolis, had for his subject, "Has Quakerism a Vital Message for the World To-day?" A telegraph system may be perfect in equipment, but without a message it is useless. The early Friends certainly had a real message for the world. And the great work which they began looks to us who reverence their memory to carry it on.

Seventh-day morning Prof. Elbert Russell, of Earlham College, spoke on "Peace and Arbitration." Friends have contributed to the cause of peace largely in three ways—by their refusal to bear arms, by breaking the linking of militarism and patriotism, and by holding up a true conception of citizenship. William Penn's "Holy Experiment" proved the possibility of a state without an army. His "Plan for the Peace of Europe" also deserves mention. The services in later times in the cause of peace of Benjamin Trueblood and Albert Smiley were spoken of. Finally, there is a great need to-day of our maintaining a positive testimony on this subject.

President Robert L. Kelly, of Earlham College, then read from the journal of Stephen Grellett his account of his visit to Miami Monthly and Quarterly Meetings in 1809. President Kelly then spoke on the "Influence of Quakerism on Education." There is no doubt that the select schools early established by Friends, and the teachers who belonged to the Society, had a vast influence on the educational history of the Northwest Territory. Three fundamental principles of Quaker education have been—the freedom of the individual, the duty of the individual to society in general, and the close connection of religion and education. Professor Haines, of the Ohio State University, said that sympathy was the keynote of the success of Quaker educators. Dr. Walton, of the George School, said that we should teach the child to distinguish between right and wrong, between the true and the false, and between the beautiful and the ugly.

In the afternoon Martha Nicholson McKay, of Indianapolis, spoke of the sacrifices of the early Friends on account of their protest against slavery and militarism.

Dr. Joseph S. Walton, president of the George School, Pennsylvania, then spoke on the "Fundamental Doctrine of Quakerism; the In-dwelling and In-speaking Spirit of God." The latest utterance of modern psychology voices the thought expressed by Fox more than two centuries ago. The psychological activities which make up the human mind are of themselves insufficient to satisfy the soul. There is a felt need of something outside ourselves. Men have tried to satisfy this longing with the pleasures of sense, of society and of culture, with theological systems as Confucianism and Brahmanism, with chivalry, with conquest, with wealth, with luxury; but they have failed. Christ taught that we were to find the satisfaction of these longings in communion with the Spirit of God. This was the revelation to Luther, and this was the message of Fox.

Albert J. Brown, president of Wilmington College, spoke on the "Message of Quakerism to the World." It is, "God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him." George Fox was one of the most wonderful men in the world, because he had an insight of God as He is, and so he was able to lead men to live as in the presence of our Father. To Fox came the vision of the unity of mankind as children of a common Father. And so brotherly love is the keynote of the stand Friends have taken for reform and for the elevation of the world.

A few remarks were made by various Friends, and then the meeting concluded with a season of prayer and praise.

PAUL H. WRIGHT,
Secretary of the Centennial.

Some Views on Present Topics.

SERMONIZING FROM THE FRIENDS' STANDPOINT.*

BY I. EMORY PEARSON.

The purpose of a sermon should always be to edify both mind and heart. It should appeal to the finer sensibilities of the whole being, to the highest and best motives in men. It should lead them into a closer daily walk with God.

Having found in its fullest meaning that "in the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God," it should be the purpose of the Friends' sermon to present things of the Spirit and facts of life. God by His Spirit did call, fill and equip for specific services His servants of the olden times, and worked out His purposes concerning humanity through man, His chosen instrumentality.

* Extracts from a paper read before the Biblical Institute at Lawrence, Kansas, Seventh month, 1903.

"This is a sacred partnership, wherein man is helpless apart from God. God chooses to be helpless apart from man." We must be workers together with God. He came Himself and dwelt among men, and took upon Himself flesh and blood of humanity, and subjected Himself to all the difficulties and temptations of men. He became weary, hungry and thirsty like us; He was the poorest of the poor, and had not where to lay His head. Subject to these ordeals, He taught men the lesson of life with God and emphasized the true purpose of God and the relationship man beareth to Him. He overcame every obstacle and difficulty known to man among the facts of life, manifesting His power over death the last enemy of humanity. He then promised His followers that "greater things than these shall ye do." He delivered the keys of His kingdom on earth to His apostles and promised them the Holy Spirit. These are some of the things of the Spirit and facts of life that Friends' sermons should teach.

Questions of moral reform, intemperance, gambling, the social evil and kindred vices, that so much infest our cities and districts of congested populations, will claim the attention of the minister. They may be dovetailed into sermons. The greatest caution should be exercised that these matters may be so presented that they will appeal to the better judgment of an active, thinking public mind and heart, rather than to the popular clamor for the sensational, which usually dies with the shouting. Problems of State and of the government, labor and capital, the rights of man, peace vs. war, and international arbitration should not be neglected, but should rightly claim the consideration of the minister from a broad, comprehensive view of their relation to the good citizen and good government. From the fact that Jesus condemned the concision and He would tolerate neither clan nor craft, in the treatment of these problems, Friends should avoid every semblance of political or denominational preference. By all means avoid isms, as Paul would have Timothy shut fables and endless genealogies, "which minister questions, rather than a dispensation of God, which is in faith."

Surely such a sermon fraught with the issues of the whole problem of life on earth, and of life eternal, and the glory of heaven above; ought to "be more spiritual and less theological; more practical and less dogmatical"; more fully dealing with the affairs of life and Christ-like living and less ceremonial and mixed with the traditions of the past than they have too often been. There should be much less of words and notions, which produce only much confusion and weariness of mind and heart, and almost endless unprofitable controversies, which are a savor of death rather than a savor of life to the unsaved. The Friends either have or ought to have become tired of the theories and formulas concerning cardinal Christian doctrines, which theories and formulas are both of doubtful construction and often unknown scriptural authority. Friends ought to be likewise tired of the contention with so much zeal and enthusiasm, that these theories and formulas are absolutely essential doctrines of the gospel of Jesus Christ and of Friends, and of insisting that the people must accept them as the balm for the defects of the past methods of work and teachings of the Church. I have thought such theories and formulas too pharisaical in form, and too much burdened with the isms of the past and of this day, for the free spirit of the truly-qualified and rightly-equipped Friends' minister. They appear to me to be simply a play with words and notions, which should be eliminated from the Friends' sermon.

The sermon may be written. God inspired holy men to write the scriptures. Jesus said, "In them ye think ye have eternal life and they are they that testify of me." Then may the Friends write much. They should carefully and prayerfully prepare for the ministry when the Lord shall call. The mind ought to be stored with thoughts on gospel truth, and very often the eyes ought to see these thoughts on paper. They should be written with the heart filled with love and the soul aglow with the fire of His immortal energies. Mind, heart and soul tempered together by the Holy Spirit. Yet go before the people depending upon the leadership of the Holy Spirit. Never read the well-prepared manuscript, nor recite, parrot-like, its contents to the public audience, else it may be only a public entertainment, spiritless and lifeless, which cannot touch the vital spark in man nor command divine approval or human sympathy. Remember that the essential attainment is, and must ever be, a willing mind, a broken and a contrite heart, a spiritual filling, with full dependence upon the Lord.

Be ever full of courage and ready for action. Take the lessons from every-day life: in the fields, prairies and forests; in the rills, rocks and rivers; in the long water courses, the great lakes and the deep, mighty seas; from the grassy lawn, the beautiful flowers and the foliage of the trees; from every natural and artificial structure; from everything animate or inanimate which the Lord hath made for the use and comfort of man and for His own glory, and weave them into sermons. Blending them with scriptural truth, they will aid the presentation of the gospel, as did the parables aid the truth for Jesus.

There is no demand at this time especially among Friends for the sermon cut to the pattern of "the world is growing worse." It has neither logical, scriptural nor truthful foundation. For Christianity is much better than heathenism, Protestantism better than Puritanism and the persecutions of the seventeenth century. Christ is risen. He gave us His gospel, promised victory, not defeat. He gave the Holy Spirit to be with us to the end of the race. His hosts are marching that way, very largely with the courage of their leader. To doubt Christian progress is to deny the truth and dishonor the Lord's name.

It is well to take account of the critics, high or low, measure their strength by the measure of Christ, classify them by the test of the Holy Spirit; then, armed with the Sword of the Spirit, meet the objectionable and sceptical manfully and at the same time cheerfully commend the good. For it was from the hands of the higher critics that we have our English and other Bibles, with their repeated revisions, which have been helps, not hindrances, to the Truth. Let us never shout philippics into the ears of the people simply to hear the shouts. It goes nowhere, helps nobody, hurts nobody, unless it be the shouter. It is effort lost, a profligate waste of time, talent and energy, which should find better employment.

Never leave the subject matter of your message for the sake of a choice phrase or flights of oratory. Look to God, be led of the Holy Spirit, preach the gospel, good news. Tell about beauty for ashes, and the oil of joy for mourning. Make men feel that they are in God's world, and that it is something to be a Christian, something to be a Friend. Try the joy of ministry, and show that Christ does something in your life. The plan will work anywhere. "The common people were always glad to hear Him tell His good news of God's love and man's hope."

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things," and then put them in your sermons. "And the pulpit will be (as it should be) the greatest power in all human life, and the organized Church will, as it should, throb and pulsate with divine energy."

Lawrence, Kan.

Temperance Department.

Issued Monthly, under the care of the

TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION OF FRIENDS, OF PHILADELPHIA
YEARLY MEETING.

All communications should be addressed to

ANNA EASTBURN WILLITS, Editor, 343 E. Main Street, Haddonfield, N. J.

The executive meeting of the Friends' Temperance Association, on the 26th ult., in Philadelphia, was of "live" interest. Ella B. Greene, who has traveled under the auspices of Friends in Pennsylvania and New Jersey for nine years, in the interest of scientific temperance instruction, was present and explained her method of work and her itinerary for the next two months. Her labors are with the ministers, superintendents and teachers in quiet talks rather than public addresses. Ten hundred and ninety-five pages of literature have been distributed the past month, twenty-four portions of Scripture, and sixty temperance papers. The pamphlet on "Intoxicating Drinks," from the Meeting for Sufferings, and a personal letter, will be sent to 3,300 members of the Westtown Old Scholars Association in a few weeks. A committee of physicians has consented to examine school text books on physiology, at the request of this Association.

The Pas-a-Pas Club, the successful Chicago organization composed of and entirely managed by deaf people in that city, has a strict rule that "no intoxicating liquors of any description shall be brought into the rooms at any time."

Elaborate arrangements have been completed for the National W. C. T. U. Convention, in Cincinnati, Eleventh month, 13th to 18th.

The National Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, at Pittsburg, has decided to raise a large fund annually for the defense of saloon interests in Congress and the State Legislature.

Before Parliament closed its sessions Sir Wilfrid Lawson introduced in the House of Commons a liquor-seller's liability bill. The object of the bill is to establish the principle that those who profit by the licensed sale of intoxicating drink should be under liability to provide compensation for certain of the injuries resulting from such sale. It provides that "certain classes of persons, upon sustaining injuries from the act of an intoxicated person, or in consequence of his intoxication, habitual or otherwise, shall have a right of action in damages against the persons who, by selling them liquor, produce such intoxication or contribute thereto in whole or in part."

A few years ago a committee of five was appointed by the Pennsylvania Medical Society to examine school text books on physiology. This committee, of which Dr. L. J. Lautenbach, of Philadelphia, was chairman, published a series of articles in the "Pennsylvania Medical Journal," reviewing fifty-four books on physiology and hygiene, and pointing out what is considered erroneous teaching. Our organization answered in detail all the criticisms on the text books endorsed by the W. C. T. U., and published criticisms and answers in a pamphlet entitled "Science the Arbitrator." Copies of this pamphlet were sent last spring to nine thousand Pennsylvania physicians. The text book committee presented a report to the recent convention, which severely criticised the books in general use, especially those endorsed by the W. C. T. U., and condemned the methods of our organization. This report met with much opposition, and when it came up for action in the executive council it was laid on the table by the decisive vote of 35 to 5. The text book committee was discontinued because of its offensive allusions to the W. C. T. U., and a new committee of five appointed in its stead to continue the work of examining text books. This action of the Pennsylvania Medical Society is very much appreciated by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Opponents of scientific temperance instruction often assert that too much time is given to temperance teaching in the schools. Where this is the case it is because the plan of work outlined by the W. C. T. U. is not followed. Our organization asks that during nine school years not less than thirty lessons a year of 20 minutes each shall be given on physiology and hygiene, and that one-fifth of this time shall be devoted to teaching the advantages of abstaining from alcohol, tobacco and narcotics. Surely two hours of each school year is not too much time to give to a subject of so much importance to health and morals. The one desire of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is that the children of to-day, who will soon be the citizens, and therefore the rulers, of our country, shall be thoroughly equipped for the duties of citizenship.—W. C. T. U. Correspondence.

The Chicago "Standard," a national Baptist journal, scans the political economy horizon with peculiar significance when it says: "Sentiment in favor of prohibition of the use of intoxicating liquors is steadily growing. This is especially noticeable among business men. The traveling salesman who attempts to heat the imagination of his customer by 'treating' him to hot drinks is liable to be 'fired' by his employer. One by one the railways are compelling their employees to be temperate. It was only the other day that several additional railways having headquarters in Chicago issued orders declaring that men in their employ must not be users of intoxicants or cigarettes. More recently the Western Electric Company, of Chicago, one of the largest manufacturers of electrical apparatus of every sort, notified its employees that 'playing the races,' the use of cigarettes, and other forms of immoral conduct, so impair the usefulness of workmen that men who practice these habits are not regarded as desirable employees and are subject to dismissal. In a company of Chicago gentlemen, last week, a successful banker and capitalist declared that in his belief the time had come to prohibit the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors. Immediate assent was given to this statement by two other members of the group, each of them men of affairs and each a former partner of the leading merchant of the West. Furthermore, one of these two, himself a zealous upholder of Republican policies, asserted that if a Prohibition law could be voted upon free from partizan issues, the size of the favorable vote would be a surprise to a great many people. If Christian business men would cease to be so everlastingly timorous in their opposition to the saloon power the bright day when the rum-sellers would be cowed would dawn more speedily."

SALOONS AND THISTLES.

Cleland B. McAfee, at the Forty-first Street Presbyterian Church, Chicago, on Ninth month 6th, said:

"We try to restrict evil at times, try to say to it, 'You may stay unmolested, if you will only stay within these blocks.' Evil will never be so kind. Say to saloons, 'You must stay out of Hyde Park; give the city one residence section that will be safe and clean of your influences.' But be sure, before your breath is wasted on the air, that the law-abiding citizens who run our saloons will be planning some device to get into your prohibited territory. Assigning a district to evil is like a farmer's assigning one acre of his farm to thistles, with the distinct understanding that they must not spread anywhere else. You cannot herd sin. You cannot corral evil. It is steadily at work doing its damage, and if the Church is to correct it, it must be about it constantly and immediately."

ALCOHOL AND MENTAL DISEASE.

Germany's association for the investigation of mental disease has been making inquiries about the influence of drinking customs on mental disease. Some of its conclusions are startling. Out of every 100 cases of mental disorder in State asylums 73 per cent. are the result of intemperance, either personal or inherited. Last year 340 persons afflicted with mental disease took their own lives, of whom 298 were drunkards or the children of drunkards. Among these 340 persons were twenty-seven children, all addicted to drink. The number of lunatics committing suicide in asylums is small, owing to the strict watch upon them. The 340 mad persons who killed themselves last year killed, besides, eighty-nine persons, of whom fifty-two were their own children. Women who grow mad from drink show, says the report, a singular propensity to kill their children. The statistics of the past four years show that lunatic mothers have killed four times as many of their own children as lunatic fathers. In all cases where a mad woman has killed her child her madness is caused by drink.

Such sad results of the use of liquor are not limited to the insane. They reveal themselves in all varieties of crime, poverty and disease. The people of the world are becoming tired of the burden the liquor traffic puts upon them. Politicians will do wisely to recognize this fact and not attempt to defeat the people's will.

ALCOHOL NO FOODSTUFF.

"American Medicine" combats the view of Professor Atwater that alcohol has nutritive value in any practical sense, says the "Baltimore Sun." It is conceded that a small quantity of alcohol is oxidized in the body. This may be true without justifying the placing of alcohol among useful foodstuffs. According to Herr Kuhne, the oxidation of a substance in the body does not prove that its effect is useful. Faust holds that "morphine, like alcohol, may be oxidized in the body in increasing quantities," but no one contends on this account for the use of morphine as an article of diet. The Professor's contention—on the basis of experiments with three persons—that alcohol in small quantity can be substituted for carbohydrates and fats is not admitted. The important action of alcohol when taken with other food is indirect, modifying, as it does, "the metabolic processes of the body." Professor Atwater argues that alcohol has an indirect drug action on the nervous system as well as a direct action as a food, but errs, says "American Medicine," in assuming that the food benefit can be obtained without the nervous injury. Horseley is cited as "a neurologist of quite the first rank," who maintains that "alcohol, even in small amounts with meals, is injurious to the nervous system." Our medical contemporary does not even concede that alcohol is, as Professor Atwater thinks he has proved, a probable source of muscular energy, and quotes with glee his admission that "practical experience indicates it to be a poor food for muscular work." The conclusion reached is that Michael Foster, the eminent physiologist, is about right when he says that "no distinct physiologic dicta concerning the usefulness or the opposite of alcohol as an article of diet can at present be enunciated. Any physiologic opinion which may be given is of less value than the teachings of general experience."

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON VII.

ELEVENTH MONTH 15, 1903.

DAVID'S TRUST IN GOD.

Psalm 23.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.—Ps. 23: 1.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 9.—David's trust in God. Ps. 23.
 Third-day, Eleventh mo. 10.—Confidence. Ps. 25: 1-10.
 Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 11.—Isaiah's song. Is. 26: 1-9.
 Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 12.—God's mercy. Ps. 118: 1-10.
 Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 13.—Thanksgiving. Is. 12: 1-6.
 Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 14.—The good Shepherd. John 10: 1-11.
 First-day, Eleventh mo. 15.—The great supper. Luke 14: 16-24.

The authorship of the Twenty-third Psalm is ascribed to David.

Time.—It is not possible to fix any time for its composition. The early part of the Psalm refers to a shepherd's life, such as had been the early life of David, while the latter part of the Psalm would seem to refer to a time when there was a "house of the Lord" in Jerusalem. The language, however, is chiefly figurative, and so the Psalm could have been written at any period in his life. "The Psalm is unrivaled for calm serenity and perfect faith. The Psalmist's words admit of the most universal application to all needs, temporal and spiritual, in every age." Probably no one of the Psalms has been so often translated, or versified, as this; certainly no one is more familiar both to youth and to age.

1. "The Lord is my shepherd." A most natural metaphor in a pastoral country. Jehovah is often spoken of as the shepherd of Israel, specially in the Psalms. See 74: 1; 77: 20; 78: 52; also compare Mic. 7: 14; Is. 40: 11; Heb. 13: 70; 1 Pet. 2: 25, etc. The metaphor cannot appeal to us as much as it did to the Jews, for in Palestine no flock is ever without a shepherd. "I shall not want." This is the keynote of the Psalm. It was at once the language of experience and of hope. Compare John 10: 14, 27, 28; Ps. 34: 9, 10. Note that this is a personal expression.

2. "Lie down." Just as the sheep needs rest, so does the man. There are times when rest and retirement are not only needful to recruit from weariness, but also to accumulate strength for future effort. He leadeth me beside the waters of refreshment or of rest. Not waters that flow quietly are meant, but waters where refreshment may be found. Compare Is. 32: 18. "Leadeth." The oriental shepherd never drives, but always leads his flock.

3. "Restoreth." Renews and sustains. "He guideth me." Revised Version. "Paths of righteousness." The paths of right living. Step by step He guides as a shepherd does his flock. "For his name's sake." "In order to prove Himself such as He has declared Himself to be." He would not be a true shepherd if He did not do this.

4. "Yea, though I walk." Even if I walk. The metaphor changes now, and the rest of the Psalm does not specially refer to sheep, but rather to a wanderer or traveler. "Valley of the shadow of death." This is now, perhaps, most often applied to the approach of death, or when in imminent danger of death, but literally it means "in deep gloom." Of course the presence of the Lord will drive away fear in either case. "For thou art with me." "God's presence is His people's strength and comfort." Compare Josh. 1: 5; Is. 43: 2. "Thy rod and thy staff." These two words mean the same thing. The shepherd's crook was used for defense, and also for controlling the sheep. It was the symbol of the shepherd's power and authority. "Comfort." The word implies to strengthen, to encourage, as well as comfort in the more modern meaning of the word.

5. "Thou preparest a table." Or spreadest it. "In the presence of mine enemies." Even though his adversaries are near he does not fear them. The idea is that he is under the protection of a powerful friend who entertains him hospitably, and, more than that, who protects him. "Thou hast anointed my head with oil." Revised Version. It was an oriental custom to sprinkle the hair and beard with sweet-smelling oils or ointment. The word used here is not that used for describing the anointing of kings. Compare Ps. 45: 7; 92: 10; Amos 6: 6. "My cup runneth over." He is no niggard host, but bountifully supplies, and even anticipates, the needs of his guests. He gives "good measure, pressed down and running over."

"Surely goodness and mercy." The word translated "surely" is more frequently rendered "only." Then the idea would be that when one is under the direction and care of the "Good Shepherd" only goodness and mercy can follow him. "Mercy." "Loving-kindness." American Revised Version. "Shall follow me all the days of my life." Shall go along with me throughout my life. "And I shall dwell in the house of Jehovah." American Revised Version. It is not a promise that he will, but a consequence following from the fact of the abiding presence of the Lord with him. "I shall dwell." "House of Jehovah." This may refer to the Tabernacle or Temple, but the words are probably to be understood figuratively. "Forever." Literally, "for length of days." Compare Rev. 7: 16, 17. Revised Version.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. "God is our Shepherd, our Protector, our Provider, our Guide, our Restorer."
2. "A personal knowledge of God as the Good Shepherd gives confidence for the present and for the future."

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR ELEVENTH MONTH FIFTEENTH.

HOW MAY WE HELP ABOLISH THE SALOON?

Eph. 6: 10-13. (Temperance.)

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 9.—Strength for the fight. 2 Tim. 2: 1-7.
Third-day, Eleventh mo. 10.—Armor for the fight. Rom. 13: 11-14.
Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 11.—Our adversary. John 12: 30, 31.
Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 12.—Our Captain. Heb. 2: 9, 10.
Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 13.—Assurance of victory. 1 John 5: 1-5.
Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 14.—Our reward. Rev. 2: 7, 11, 17.

About twenty-five years ago the question of the return to the use of gold and silver as currency was pressing for solution, and plans and methods of resuming specie payment were proposed and discussed and put aside. Some prosaic philosopher declared that the way to resume was to resume. When the party in power concluded that the time had come for resumption it passed a law declaring that on a fixed day greenbacks would be received at par, and the matter was settled.

What is the way to abolish the saloon? We shall find the way when we are ready. A mere willingness to see it abolished, or even a preference to have it abolished, is quite beside the mark. "This kind cometh not out save by fasting and prayer." The evil is too deeply rooted for its extinction to be affected incidentally.

Greed of gain and depraved appetite are its main bulwarks. But the victims of these lusts would be like chaff before the wind were they not tolerated and in effect encouraged and supported by a sentiment that is silenced and held in check, if it is not completely satisfied, by revenue and so-called restrictive measures. Yet others deplore the evils of the traffic and would willingly refuse the blood-money if the way out did not lead away from old associations.

But as long as alternatives take a higher rank, so long the saloon will flourish. When the Church believes that the one confronting hindrance to the improvement of society and of government and to the spread of the truth is the legalized liquor traffic, it will declare that the way to abolish the saloon is to abolish it—and will prove it; and it is beyond dispute that with it will disappear the greatest single agency of the powers of darkness at present operative among the civilized peoples of the globe. Moreover, since we cannot believe that a man is a better statesman because of personal use of intoxicants, or because of complaisance toward those who drink or sell, we will not anticipate that in the triumph of the saloon's enemies any item of good government would suffer.

We can help abolish the saloon, then, by confidently affirming—and proving from experience—that the whole effect will be unmixed good. Furthermore, we are required to find sufficient reason for its destruction in the clear principles of the forces in conflict, the one good and the other evil.

Many years ago Thomas Clarkson said of our Church: "The Quakers generally reason upon principle, and but seldom upon consequences." If we would be true to our portraiture thus drawn, we must determine our conduct, not by rules of policy, but of moral right.

No agency that closes one saloon or rescues one drunkard, or safeguards one boy or girl, but has place and value. But the purpose that stops short of the absolute demolition of a politically entrenched system of protection and shared emoluments is inadequate; and, if its representatives are not without excuse, it is our duty to so enlighten them that all defenses shall speedily be broken down.

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

A LETTER FROM MEXICO.

Several of the friends of our Mexican Mission have written asking for information in regard to the epidemic of yellow fever with which our town has been scourged for the past three months, and I take this opportunity to answer them, and also to acquaint others with the condition of our field here.

The fever broke out in unmistakable form about the 1st of Eighth month, though there had been some cases with strong symptoms of the disease previous to that time.

The first death officially reported in the records of the health department was the servant of a priest living in front of our new meeting house. In a day or two, two or three other cases appeared, and families who were able were beginning to flee to cooler climates. We, with George C. Levering's family, then thought of leaving also, but, as many even of the physicians thought the disease would not spread here, and as the exigencies of the work seemed to demand my husband's constant personal attention, we remained.

Meanwhile a heavy storm swept away five bridges between us and Monterey to the north. The fever raged fearfully in Tampico to the south. The carriage road to Tula, into the mountains, was rendered impassable. We decided it would be unwise to go to any ranch, as there we would be obliged to suffer greater inconveniences and exposures, and would be out of reach of medical aid in case of sickness.

By the time the railroad to Monterey was in repair a strict quarantine was settled upon us, so that here we have remained throughout the summer, believing that our Father had His own purpose in so arranging it.

The authorities have been strict in enforcing health regulations—distributing literature explaining cause and prevention of the disease, exacting the frequent fumigation of public and private buildings, the covering of wells and all water deposits where mosquitoes are bred, etc., etc.—but they have labored against the great obstacle of the ignorance and superstition of the lower class, who have no confidence in the new ideas nor faith in the doctors, and who refuse to report cases of sickness and sometimes even of death in their households. Many sad and horrible stories are told of these people hiding away some loved dead. The better class almost as a whole has helped to combat this condition, and I believe it will be much easier to stamp out such an epidemic in the future.

The government has provided canopies of mosquito net, stretched over a frame made in the form of a little house, which sits down over a cot. Some of these are large enough to admit two or three persons and a chair beside the cot. When a case is reported, unless he is provided with adequate protection against the mosquito, four policemen are sent to carry one of these canopies to his home. If the home cannot receive it, he is carried to the hospital on a bed provided with a similar covering, and there immediately enclosed and treated.

During the latter part of Eighth month the fever was very bad in the neighborhood of the mission, there being four deaths within a block of us in about two weeks. One afternoon, as I sat on our little upstairs balcony, reading to our three little girls, an unusual gathering at the little store and saloon across the corner from the Girls' School attracted us. We soon learned that a young man, an attendant, was dying. In less than two hours afterward he was carried to his grave, which was ready for him beforehand.

We had received the impression from one of the leading physicians here that small children were seldom attacked (he may have given it unintentionally), and we had so expressed ourselves to the children, and at least three different times our little 5-year-old Anita had said, "I'm not afraid of yellow fever because papa says that little children like James and me don't have it," but on the 2d of Ninth month she became very ill with what appeared to be bilious fever. The attack was very similar to others she had had, and for which I had provided myself with remedies upon the advice of excellent physicians in the United States. These we began at once to use, but they seemed in no way to relieve her, and, after two days of almost constant vomiting and extreme restlessness, at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 4th the so often fatal symptoms of black vomit appeared. This symptom recurred twelve times, not being entirely checked until in the night of the 5th. Two physicians were called—one an old Frenchman, who first knew the disease in Yucatan in 1853. He gave us almost no hope of her recovery, but was faithful and energetic in his treatment. On Sabbath afternoon, Ninth month 4th, after hours of pleading with my Father to save our darling, but when hope had almost gone, I sat watching her. She turned and said with difficulty, "Mamma, when we were alone the other night and thought a drunk man was going to get in the house, Lorena said if we would pray a real, true prayer Jesus would save us." I saw by her pleading expression, though she could say no more, that she was applying it to her present case, and I answered, "Yes, darling, and Jesus did save you," and with a strange and sudden hope I added, "And I think He will save our little Anita now if we pray. Shall mamma pray?" She lifted her dark eyes to my face with a smile of relief and pleasure I can never forget. I knelt, feeling the pressure of the omnipotent arm. It was so clear to me that my little one had brought His holy presence.

The next day after our French physician had made a visit we asked him to tell us exactly what he thought. He answered, "We cannot tell yet; we will do all we can; and you who are friends of God plead with Him for your child." As he is a man deeply steeped in sin and corruption, one who usually professes to disbelieve in God or any religion, we felt it was an acknowledgement which God might reward. Oh may he and many others receive a true awakening and turn to God! [The child is convalescing.—Ed.]

Many of the members and attenders of our meetings have been stricken, and our public services have been small, but have been kept up regularly without exception.

Many lessons have been learned in regard to the promptness and vigor with which the disease must be dealt with, and we believe there is reason to hope the scenes and experiences of this summer may not be repeated, at least in so serious a degree.

I have opened the door to our heart feelings and home life at the request of friends, and only with the hope of bringing comfort to some suffering one, and glory to our blessed Father.

Yours in His cause,

ANNA M. T. KELSEY.

Victoria, Tampas, Mexico.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

C. H. Allen is now located at Silver Creek, Neb., where he will engage in religious work.

Thomas C. Hodgin, late from North Carolina, who is now located at Tecumseh, Mich., recently held a ten-days' meeting at Hanover, Mich., with excellent results.

Elwood S. Hinshaw, of Lynn, Ind., has accepted a call to the meetings at Barber's Mill and Pleasant View, Ind., for the coming year. His appointments are the first and third Sabbaths of each month.

Yadkin Valley Quarterly Meeting was held the 17th ult. at Harmony Grove, near Yadkinville, N. C. John M. Watson, a minister of Hillside, Indian Territory, was in acceptable attendance. David E. Sampson was granted a minute to attend Baltimore Yearly Meeting. The meeting adjourned to meet at East Bend, the second Seventh-day in Twelfth month, instead of the regular time, third Seventh-day in First month.

Rufus M. Jones gave a Peace address before the Moorestown, N. J., Peace Association of Friends on the evening of Tenth month 31st.

Baltimore Yearly Meeting begins on Sixth-day, the 6th of the present month. It will be the last of the series of yearly meetings for 1903, and we trust it will be an occasion of great blessing within and beyond the membership.

An interesting tea meeting was held at Haverford, Pa., on the evening of the 30th ult. The meeting was attended by a large company of Friends, and was addressed by George A. Barton, who spoke of his experiences during a year's sojourn in Palestine.

The attenders of Haverford and Twelfth Street Meetings, Philadelphia, Pa., enjoyed a tea meeting on the evening of the 26th ult. After a time of pleasant social intercourse the meeting was called to listen to a number of answers to the question, "Why Am I Friend?"

On the evening of the 20th ult., the members of the meeting at Earlham, Iowa, made a surprise donation to their local minister, Albert Wright, and wife. The many donations and good wishes of the people showed the high esteem in which these Friends are held in the meeting.

The Friends' Bible Institute Extension Course, conducted by Indiana, Western and Wilmington Yearly Meetings, is ready for the year 1903-1904. Syllabi may be had of Albert J. Brown, Wilmington, O., and the text-books of Peter Raidabaugh, Plainfield, Ind. The cost of syllabi is fifty cents, and the two books seventy-five cents each.

Henry Bartlett, of Friends' Select School, Philadelphia, attended the Conference of Secondary Schools called by Northwestern University; and held at Evanston, Ill., from the 29th ult. to the 1st inst., inclusive. He read a paper on "The Place of the Endowed Academy or Select School for Boys and Girls in Our Present System of Education."

The Monthly Meeting of Friends of Philadelphia for the Western District (Twelfth St.) recommended last summer that John B. Garrett should be recorded a minister of the Gospel. The Quarterly Meeting of Ministers and Elders at its session last Seventh-day united with the action of the monthly meeting. The gift of our friend, John B. Garrett, is thus acknowledged.

William J. Sayers, of Fall River, Mass., closed a successful series of meetings, of seventeen days, at New Burlington, O., on the 18th ult. The preaching was clear and his illustrations unique and forcible. As a result of the meeting about twenty-two were definitely blessed, either in conversion, renewal or sanctification, and four united with Friends. The church in general was greatly benefited and built up.

The Woman's National Sabbath Alliance, seeing the increasing desecration of the Lord's day, appeals to members of every church to unite to restore the rest and sanctification of the Sabbath, the blessed inheritance of our forefathers, by a strict observance of it themselves and the distribution of literature on the subject. The Alliance has published leaflets covering every phase of the Sabbath question, including two new ones on attending church. A sample package will be sent for 10 cents (including postage). Margaret E. Sangster, President, Room 709, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Friends' Educational Association, Philadelphia, will hold a meeting at 140 North Sixteenth Street, Philadelphia, on Seventh-day, the 14th inst., at 2.30 p.m., to which all persons interested in educational matters are invited. The program is as follows: 1. "The Value of Educational Associations to Teachers," Isaac Sharpless. 2. "The Boston Meeting of the National Educational Association," J. Henry Bartlett. 3. "The Clark University Summer School of 1903," Wm. F. Overman.

J. Elwood Cox, the treasurer of the Harriet Green Memorial Fund, has received the following amounts from the treasurer of Guilford College to apply on the fund: Lydia N. Blair, $2.00; J. Gurney Frazier, $4.00; Gertrude W. Mendenhall, $2.00; Elizabeth W. Nicholson, $2.00; Abigail Blair, $1.00; R. N. Wilson, $2.00; P. B. Hackney, $2.00; H. C. Hackney, $2.00; Adam Hinshaw, $2.00; Valina Millis, $2.00; Clarkson Starbuck, $2.00; Eunice N. Worth, $50.00; L. L. Hobbs, $2.00; Mary M. Hobbs, $2.00; Walter M. Hobbs, $2.00; Louis L. Hobbs, $2.00; A. Wilson Hobbs, $2.00; Richard J. M. Hobbs, $2.00; Gertrude M. Hobbs, $2.00, amounting in all to $87.00.

Pleasant Valley Monthly Meeting met at Pleasant Valley the 24th ult. Presiding clerk being absent, John S. Bond was appointed clerk for the day. Those received into membership with Friends were Able J. Bond, his wife and two of their minor children, by certificate, issued by Farmington Monthly Meeting, Kansas; also Harrison M. Shrader, by request. Marion Risinger, a minister from Iowa Yearly Meeting, was present. His ministry and counsel was encouraging and edifying. He is now holding a series of meetings at Antioch, which is well attended and great interest is shown. The Sabbath School at Antioch, Kansas, is doing nicely with Howard Titus as superintendent. The Christian Endeavor is also progressing. Nearly all of the young people take part. Bert Hoskinson is president. Able J. Bond and wife, John S. Bond, A. R. Wall and Sarah Crawford attended Kansas Yearly Meeting, and returned telling of the spiritual blessings received while there.

We have received the following program of the next semi-annual meeting of College Park Association of Friends: The twenty-ninth semi-annual meeting will be held on Seventh-day, Eleventh month 7th, 1903, at the meeting house on Morse Street, near Davis Street, Oakland, Cal.

Meeting for worship at 10 a.m., to be followed by a short business session.

Lunch to be served at the meeting house at 12 m.

Business to be resumed at 1.15 p.m.

Program for the afternoon:

1. Repetition in Concert—The Twenty-third Psalm.
2. "The Problem of the Poor in Our Large Cities," Augustine Jones.
3. General Discussion, opened by Sarah M. Severance.
4. Recitation, Sarah Walton.
5. "The Summer School at Woodbrooke, England," Joel Bean.

ELIZABETH H. SHELLEY, Secretary.

WILMINGTON YEARLY MEETING.

Fairfield Quarterly Meeting Bible Institute began the 20th and closed on the 24th ult. The Institute has grown in interest and spiritual power from the first. Many said, as they listened to the clear, forcible teaching, "The Bible has become a new book to me," and many purposed in their hearts to live up to the precepts of the "dear old Book," and study it with a clearer comprehension of its meaning. The instructors were Emma B. Malone, Cleveland, O., President Albert J. Brown and Professor Mendenhall, of Wilmington College, and Emma S. Townsend, Wilmington.

BORN.

BOND.—To John S. Bond and wife, Stafford, Kan., Tenth month 1st, 1903, a boy.

CARSON.—To R. S. and Cora A. Carson, Logansport, Ind., Tenth month 27th, 1903, a son, Robert William.

HOSKINSON.—To Charles Hoskinson and wife, Stafford, Kan., Tenth month 1st, 1903, a boy.

TYLOR.—To Joseph S. and Beatrice N. Tylor, Downer's Grove, Ill., a son, Arthur Sparks, Tenth month 16th, at Downer's Grove, Ill.

DIED.

BARBER.—In the hospital at Salisbury, N. C., Fourth month 4th, 1903, sixteen days after Harriet Green's death there, Nancy Emma Barber, wife of George W. Barber, Guilford College, N. C., aged over 39 years. She came a few years ago from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to Friends. She was honored of the Lord, and New Garden Monthly Meeting by being called to the superintendency of the Bible School, which place she filled acceptably up to her decease.

CLARK.—At the residence of her daughter, Eliza C. Armstrong, Plainfield, Ind., Tenth month 22d, 1903, Anna Clark, wife of Alexander Clark, at the ripe age of 91 years. "Faithful unto death" can be most truly said of her.

DERBYSHIRE.—At Manton, Mich., Ninth month 26th, 1903, Lydia, wife of Aaron Derbyshire, aged 67 years. She was a life-long Friend, and served several years in the station of an elder.

HOSKINSON.—At Stafford, Kan., Ninth month 16th, 1903, the infant child of Walter A. and Mary E. Hoskinson.

KNIGHT.—At the home of his father, Julius Knight, Guilford College, N. C., Ninth month 28th, 1903, Fuller N. Knight, aged 22 years. He made public profession of salvation through Christ more than a year before his death and joined Friends.

KNIGHT.—At the home of her son, Jabez Knight, near Guilford College, N. C., Tenth month 26th, 1903, Aletha C. Knight, aged 82 years. She came from the Methodist Protestant Church thirty-five or forty years ago to Friends, and was a faithful member to her death.

Events and Comments.

The matrimonial fever in the United States Senate has now caught the venerable Stewart, of Nevada, who at 76 has taken another wife in Georgia. This makes three Senators of 70 or over who have married a second time within the past year.

The importations of coal into the United States during the first nine months of the calendar year have amounted to 2,687,081 tons, against 1,546,112 tons in the corresponding months of the preceding year, an increase of 1,140,969 tons.

Lou Dillon, owned by C. K. G. Billings, of Chicago, and driven by Millard Sanders, has again proved her right to the title of queen of the turf by trotting a mile under adverse conditions in the remarkable time of 1.58½, at Memphis, Tenn.

An official dispatch from Mukden, Manchuria, says: "A detachment of Russian troops entered the town yesterday and reoccupied the guard house. This action was in consequence of the weakness displayed by the Chinese authorities, who do not fulfill their promises, and owing to the general ferment prevailing here."

President Roosevelt celebrated the forty-fifth anniversary of his birth the 27th ult. Many beautiful and touching reminders of the event were sent to him from every part of the country. Hundreds of telegrams and letters of congratulation were received at the White House during the day. When the members of the Cabinet assembled for the usual semi-weekly meeting they joined in extending cordial congratulations to the President.

A FOOD RESCUE.

What a Physician's Wife Found Out.

The wife of a well-known physician of Oakland, Cal., was brought back to health and strength by food alone at a time when she had prepared to die.

She says of her experience: "I am the wife of a physician, and have suffered from catarrh of the stomach more than ten years, during which time I suffered untold agonies of mind and body, for I could not eat solid food, and even liquid foods gave me great distress.

"I was brought at last to confront the crisis of my life. I actually made ready for my departure from friends and husband, for I expected to die. When in that state I was induced to try Grape-Nuts, and the wonderful effects of this food prove completely that all my trouble was due to improper feeding.

"I began to improve immediately, and my weight increased until I have gained 20 pounds since I began the use of Grape-Nuts, while my stomach is as sound and well as ever it was, and my husband gives all the credit for my wonderful recovery to Grape-Nuts. I have no set time for eating Grape-Nuts, but just feast on it whenever I please. I wish I might tell my sisters everywhere of the marvelous health- and strength-giving, flesh-building elements of Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

What looks like a victory for the radical temperance principle is the issue by the imperial health office in Berlin of a pamphlet indorsing total abstinence from intoxicating drinks. It is said that a bill will be introduced in the Reichstag restricting the sale of liquors in the German Empire, prohibiting credit to patrons of saloons, and requiring saloon-keepers to keep on sale non-intoxicants, like lemonade, milk, tea and coffee.

A proposal to use the telephone in rural districts in connection with the post office has been put forward by Senator Fairbanks, of Indiana. In its main feature, it seems to be a plan to allow correspondents who so desire to have the contents of their letters telephoned to the recipient from the post office, just as telegrams are now often telephoned from the telegraph office. The sender would purchase and affix to the letter a special stamp indicating this desire to the receiving postmaster.

Belief in the exhaustless nature of the oil discoveries in Texas and California is shown in a substantial way by the Santa Fe Railroad officials, who have decided to equip all their engines for oil-burning on the lines of the company extending as far east as Kansas City, as engines running west from Albuquerque have hitherto been equipped. The cost of converting a locomotive from coal to oil-burning is considerable, but the saving in fuel expense much more than justifies the outlay, provided the supply of oil does not give out yet awhile.

The Secretary of the Interior has completed his estimate of the appropriations necessary to conduct the affairs of the Interior Department for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1905. The total requirement for the department is $156,000,000, which is about $3,000,000 less than the appropriation for the current year. The proposed reduction will be made in the Pension Bureau and the Indian Office. The estimate for pensions is $136,800,000, or $1,700,000 less than the appropriation made for this year. There also is a cut of $1,300,000 in the estimate for the Indian Bureau.

The new British Ambassador to the United States, Henry Durand, comes from Madrid with a reputation for success throughout his diplomatic career. He has served chiefly in India, whose civil service he entered in 1873, and in Persia. For ten years he was the foreign secretary of the Indian Government, and from 1894 to 1900 he was the British Minister at Teheran. His promotion to an ambassadorship came in 1900, when he was sent to Madrid. There appears no special reason for sending him to America, except that he is in the line of promotion and wants to come. He has not an American wife, unlike so many European diplomatists who go to Washington.

What is probably the greatest gold strike since Indian George Carmack discovered the Klondike seven years ago is on the headwaters of the Sushitna River, in Western Alaska, during Eighth month. Two men shoveling for fifteen days into two lengths of sluice boxes cleaned up 100 ounces of gold. Four miners arrived at Valdes recently with $1,800 in coarse gold, constituting the first output of the new district. They say that gold is evenly distributed through gravel and bedrock. The work of the two men for fifteen days shows that, by the crudest methods they washed out $50 per day each.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

FLOWERS AND SHRUBS.—You should plant this Fall. Send for our new Floral Guide, just out.
The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Box X

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE Co., Miami, Ind. Ter.
Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

HUNTING IN THE MAINE WOODS, LAW OFF ON MOOSE, OCT. 15.

The rush is on. Hundreds are now journeying towards the Maine woods. The sportsman who has tired of blazing at the numerous deer, is now waiting for a shot at the big fellows. The law was off on moose last Thursday, and this giant of the forest, the king of the Maine woods, is crashing through the brush of the celebrated Moosehead, Aroostook, Rangeley and Washington County regions, pursued by the enthusiastic Nimrod.

Get your gun, and enjoy a week or two in Maine's timber lands. Health and sport await you. Send a two-cent stamp to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, for the beautiful illustrated booklet called "Fishing and Hunting." It tells all about the game region of Maine and New Brunswick.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and much had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets and contains the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly-concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, the excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease, as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

To rise each morning with a thought of God in the soul, left over to fill a new mission from the night before; to kneel ere descending the stairs for the consecration of your life and the renewed assurance of His guidance of you, just for that day—this is true preface of a beautiful life.—Exchange.

FRIENDS' LIBRARY,

142 North Sixteenth Street, Philadelphia.

Open on week days from 11.30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

We note the following new books in the Library:

Abbott, Evelyn, "History of Greece. (3 vols.)"

Burton, E. DeW., "Records and Letters of the Apostolic Age."

Curtis, W. E., "The Turk and His Lost Provinces."

Johnson, Clifton, "Land of Heather."

Lawton, W. C., "Introduction to Classical Greek Literature."

Palmer, F. H. E., "Russian Life in Town and Country."

Rawnsley, H. D., "Lake Country Sketches."

Rhees, Rush, "Life of Jesus of Nazareth."

Wood, C. W., "Norwegian By-Ways."

The rainfall has been much greater than usual in England since spring, especially in and near London, the fall at Greenwich exceeding the average by 9.6 inches. But the excess in other parts of the kingdom was not so great, being but 3.1 at Aberdeen. There was a cold August, as in this country, the mean temperature being below the average every day save three.

The condition of women wage-earners in Japan is pitiable. Wages average three cents a day, and the laborer is isolated and treated as a slave. The crown prince of Japan is taking a keen interest in the movement which aims at making life less miserable to his female subjects.

In the highest civilization the book is still the highest delight.—Emerson.

Oklahoma Farms

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address E. J. Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

E. J. VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

"SUPPOSE I DIE"

We have helped the people to answer that question for half a century or more; to make provision for their survivors. We do more; we assist men in making provision for their old age, when the money-producing power is waning. Get our free booklet, "The How and the Why." It brushes cobwebs from the brain

PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE Co.,
921-3-5 Chestnut Street,
Philadelphia.

As snow is itself cold, yet warms and refreshes the earth so afflictions, though in themselves grievous, yet keep the soul of the Christian warm and make it fruitful.—John Mason.

7% Net TO LENDER.

FIRST MORTGAGES on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

6% Net First GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands. Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

6% NET

Sound, conservative first mortgages on improved realty. We examine every security and know every borrower. We make our loans with our own money and turn them over complete. In 28 years we have learned how to select the best. No one now handling western mortgages has had more experience. We give you the benefit of that experience. The quality of the securities now on hand has never been surpassed. Highest references. Write for circulars and full information free.

PERKINS & COMPANY Lawrence, Kan.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

ASA S. WING, Vice-President.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer

SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

Y. F. A. Building,
140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.
FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.
 Convenient, Restful, Homelike.
Table d'hote, 25 cents.
 Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.
 Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.
COMFORTABLE ROOMS:
 One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.
 Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
 2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL
 Phone Spruce 33-55. Clerk.

HOTEL EMPIRE

Broadway and 63d Street,
N. Y. City.

A FAMILY AND TRANSIENT HOTEL.

Rooms $1.00 per day and Upwards.

Telephone in every Room.
 Fireproof. Accessibly Located. Large Library.
 Moderate Rates.
 Orchestral Concerts every evening.
 All Cars Pass the Empire.
 Send for Booklet. W. JOHNSON QUINN.

The
New-Century

TYPEWRITER

does the BEST WORK and lots of it, EASILY.

Strong, Thoroughly Built,
 Superior in results to any other.

Write for
"THE BOOK OF THE NEW CENTURY."

AMERICAN WRITING MACHINE COMPANY,
 1033 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

"We reach our Olivet by way of Gethsemane and Calvary."

ATLANTA AND THE SOUTHWEST.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway offers excellent service to all points in the South and Southwest. Through sleeping cars from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. A la carte dining car. Address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND. ALWAYS TRUE.

BY GEORGE M. DICKS.

I will not fail the Lord, false to Him never,
 Loving Him, fearing Him, faithful, and ever
 Doing His will.
 May my soul know the Lord, if comes repining!
 Still may it know the Lord, heavenward inclining,
 When comes night's chill!

Naught can dis sever the love of my Master
 From my soul's needs, ever fast and still faster
 Love for Him beating,
 Points me each day to His purposes, steering
 My will as it should be steered, loving, revering,
 Never retreating.

So I am true to Him, aye, and forever Place my own hand in the hand of the Giver
 Of life and of love,
 Place my own hand in His hand, never doubting
 If there comes silence still, or His praise, shouting
 Of cohorts above.

So at life's ending I know that the Master,
 In spite of storm's stress and the world's fierce disaster,
 In glory I'll see.
 Aye, I shall see Him there, and life eternal,
 Passing all earthly life, fragrant, supernal,
 My portion will be.
 Glenville, Ohio.

Few can fail to be interested in "The Missionary Review" for Eleventh month. The variety of the subjects treated and the uniformity of excellence makes it a notable issue. "Who's Who in Missions," by Belle M. Brain, gives a list of two hundred noted missionaries with a few words designating that which makes them famous or worthy of fame. H. H. Jessup, the honored veteran missionary of Syria, gives "Twenty Hints for Young Missionaries." Other articles well worth reading are "A Journey into Borneo," written and illustrated by B. F. West; "The Caste System of India," by W. E. Hopkins; and "The Great Opportunity in South Africa," by Clinton T. Wood. Published monthly by Funk & Wagnalls Company, 30 Lafayette Place, New York. $2.50 a year.

The outlook for a higher education of women in Russia is bright. Already many schools open their doors to women, and there is no feeling or rivalry on the part of men students.

THERE IS GREAT DANGER IN CATARRH.

If Left to Run Its Course Unchecked, It Often Causes Death.

Catarrh scatters its poisons throughout the entire system. The stomach and lungs are affected by the droppings that fall into the throat and are swallowed during sleep. Dyspepsia, inflammation of the stomach, bronchitis and consumption are the results. The blood also becomes contaminated and carries the poisons to all parts of the system. Frequently in the more advanced stages, the bones of the head become decayed, and the air passages are a putrid mass and create a stench so foul and offensive as to be unbearable. The expression, "rotten with catarrh," is not overdrawn or exaggerated.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets strike at the root of this terrible, odious disease and eradicate it from the system. They are a constitutional remedy that cleanses the system thoroughly of all poisons and purifies the blood. Under their influence the head becomes clear, the discharges at the nose and droppings into the throat cease, the lost sense of smell is restored, the eye brightens, the foul breath becomes pure and sweet and the odious, disgusting disease is thoroughly expelled from the system.

A Cincinnati man says: "I suffered the misery and humiliation of catarrh for twelve years. My case became so aggravated that it seriously interfered with all my business relations. The disease became so offensive that I would not venture into any one's presence unless it were absolutely necessary. I tried every remedy that I could get hold of. Some helped me temporarily, but as soon as I ceased taking them I would relapse into the old condition.

"Finally a friend told me of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and insisted that I try them. I had about despaired of ever finding help, but bought a box anyway. I began to notice the improvement within twenty-four hours after I began taking them. Before the first box was gone I felt like another man. I kept up the treatment till I had taken three boxes and was entirely cured. I have never had a recurrence of the trouble from that day to this. My head is clear and well, and none of the offensive symptoms of the disease ever trouble me. It has been two years since I stopped taking them."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box.

Professor (discussing organic and inorganic kingdoms).—"Now, if I should shut my eyes—so—and drop my head—so—and remain perfectly still, you would say I was a clod. But I move, I leap. Then what do you call me?" Voice from the rear—"A clodhopper."

"What God sends let us humbly receive. His gifts cannot be for evil."

ESTERBROOK'S

THE STANDARD PENS EVERYWHERE.

STEEL PENS

150 Styles Fine, Medium and Broad Points.
Sold by All Stationers.

Works, Camden, N. J. The ESTERBROOK STEEL PEN CO. 26 John St., New York.

THE WINTER RESORTS reached by SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

The Southern Railway announces the sale of round-trip winter excursion tickets to all the principal resorts of the South, beginning October 15th, 1903.

The winter resorts of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida are especially inviting to those in search of health or pleasure. In these States are such noted resorts as Pinehurst, N. C.; Camden, Aiken, Summerville, S. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Augusta, Savannah, Brunswick, Jekyll Island and Thomasville, Ga.; Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Ormond, Daytona, Palm Beach, Rockledge, Miami and Tampa, Fla.; also the resorts of Porto Rico and Cuba, best reached via Southern Railway.

Tickets on sale up to and including April 30th, 1904, limited to return until May 31st, 1904.

Winter tourist tickets are also now on sale to the noted resorts of the Gulf Coast, Mobile, New Orleans, Mexico and California.

The Southern Railway affords elegant train service, with the latest Pullman Drawing-room Sleeping Cars, operated through between principal cities and resorts, elegant Dining Car service, and everything for the comfort and pleasure of the traveler. The route of the "Washington and Southwestern Limited" and "Sunset Limited."

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., will take pleasure in furnishing all information.

LOW-RATE HOMESEEEKERS' EXCURSION TO FLORIDA.

For the benefit of homeseekers, the various railroads to Florida will sell on November 11th special excursion tickets from Washington to the following points at rates quoted:

Sarasota, Fla.		$30.05
Braidentown, "		29.70
Ellenton, "		29.70
Palmetto, "		29.70
Manatee, "		29.70
Punta Gorda, "		30.90
Arcadia, "		30.15

These tickets will be good going on November 11th only, and to return within fifteen days, and will not be good to stop off in either direction.

In connection with these excursions, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell one-way tickets to Washington, at regular rates, from all stations on its lines east of Pittsburg and Erie, together with exchange orders on the railroads out of Washington for an excursion ticket from Washington to the above-mentioned points at rates quoted.

"Come now, Johnnie—say your speech for the gentleman, and I'll give you a penny."

"Really, mother," replied Johnnie, "I should like to oblige you, but—the gentleman has already given me a dollar to keep quiet."—"Atlanta Constitution."

Mrs. Caudle: "Wake up, Jeremiah. I do believe there's a man in the room."

Caudle: "Yes, dear, and he's trying his best to get a few winks of sleep. Good night."—"Tit-Bits."

KISSING THE ROD.

O heart of mine, we shouldn't Worry so!
What we've missed of calm we couldn't Have, you know!
What we've met of stormy pain,
And of sorrow's driving rain,
We can better meet again,
If it blow!

We have erred in that dark hour
We have known,
When our tears fell with the shower,
All alone!
Were not shine and shadow blent
As the gracious Master meant?
Let us temper our content
With His own.

For we know not every morrow
Can be sad;
So, forgetting all the sorrow
We have had,
Let us fold away our fears,
And put off foolish tears,
And through all the coming years
Just be glad.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

A well-known English surgeon was imparting some clinical instruction to a half dozen students who accompanied him on his rounds the other day. Pausing at the bedside of a doubtful case, he said:

"Now, gentlemen, do you think this is or is not a case for operation?"

One by one the students made their diagnosis, and all of them answered in the negative.

"Well, gentlemen, you are all wrong," said the wielder of the free and flashing scalpel, "and I shall operate to-morrow."
"No, you won't," said the patient, as he rose in his bed; "six to one is a good majority; gimme my clothes."—"St. James's Gazette."

Politician: "Congratulations, Sarah, I've been nominated."

Sarah (with delight): "Honestly?"
Politician: "What difference does that make?"—"The Detroit Free Press."

PARLOR CARS TO CAPE MAY.

Several Hotels Still Open.

The season at Cape May is extending every year, and it is now practically an all-the-year-around resort. For the accommodation of its increasing patronage the Pennsylvania Railroad is providing daily parlor-car service between Philadelphia and Cape May on trains leaving Market Street Wharf at 4.08 p.m. weekdays and 9.00 a.m. Sundays, and on trains leaving Cape May at 7.30 a.m. weekdays and 4.45 p.m. Sundays.

The Windsor, which has a large and attractive sun parlor, the Chalfonte, and the Ebbitt—all good hotels—will remain open all winter. In fact, Cape May is very attractive at this time.

Lace Curtains FREE! Do not send any money. Just send us your name and address and we will send you, express paid, six boxes of QUAKER OINTMENT to sell among your friends at 25c. each. When sold send us the $1.50, and we will send you absolutely free a fine pair of lace curtains. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best-known remedy for Catarrh, Eczema, and all surface irritations. It is easy to sell because it is an honest remedy. Sold under guarantee. A few moments of your time is all that is required to get a pair of these beautiful curtains, or your choice of many other premiums. Write to-day.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.

BANK BY MAIL.

4%
ASSETS $14,500,000.00

A Safe and Profitable place for your money is an Investment Account with this bank—pays Four per cent. compound interest on all amounts from One Dollar up. Our Banking by Mail system brings our Bank to your postoffice. Write to-day for explanatory booklet A. F.

PITTSBURGH BANK FOR SAVINGS
SMITHFIELD & FOURTH AVE.
ESTABLISHED 1862 PITTSBURGH PA.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO

TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Kitchen Outfits At Reasonable Rates

J. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET
Free delivery in city and suburbs.

OSTEOPATHY

EDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Bell Telephone Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SON

Wall Paper and Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

PHYSICAL AND CHEMICAL PROPERTIES OF RADIUM.

As the electric furnace has given us carborundum, artificial graphite, and a series of absolutely new carbides, because with it we have attained temperatures of height unknown before its introduction—so radio-active bodies may give us the means of identifying substances that all our former means of observation have escaped, and it may be that we shall have a new series of elements.

Somewhat as feathers, paper, and other light objects are attracted by pyroelectric substances, and iron, nickel, and cobalt by magnets, and these themselves may in turn become electrified or magnetized, so we may have substances that respond to radio-activity or to ultra-violet light, or Roentgen rays—either or all.

The chemical action of radium upon glass is so strong that the colorless glass tube in which the 300,000-activity radium was placed, when exhibited at the Museum of Natural History, became almost black in twenty-six days. A second tube is now colored the same way in the same time. It requires but a few days to change many forms of glass to a violet color; evidently producing a chemical change in the iron and manganese, or both, which are used in glass manufacture; hence, the author suggests the use of rock-crystal as a medium for holding radium; which at the end of one month is found without any visible change having taken place in the crystal. Radium is one of the few substances that maintain a temperature of from two to five degrees above the surrounding atmosphere. This is a most anomalous prop-

LIKED HIS "NIP."

Not a Whiskey but a Coffee Toper.

Give coffee half a chance, and with some people it sets its grip hard and fast. "Up to a couple of years ago," says a business man of Brooklyn, N. Y., "I was as constant a coffee drinker as it was possible to be; indeed, my craving for coffee was equal to that of a drunkard for his regular 'nip,' and the effect of the coffee drug upon my system was indeed deplorable.

"My skin lacked its natural color, my features were pinched and my nerves were shattered to such an extent as to render me very irritable. I also suffered from palpitation of the heart.

"It was while in this condition I read an article about Postum Food Coffee, and concluded to try it. It was not long before Postum had entirely destroyed my raging passion for coffee, and in a short time I had entirely given up coffee for delicious Postum.

"The change that followed was so extraordinary I am unable to describe it. Suffice it to say, however, that all my troubles have disappeared. I am my original happy self again, and on the whole the soothing and pleasant effects produced by my cup of Postum make me feel as though I have been 'landed at another station.'

"Not long ago I converted one of my friends to Postum, and he is now as loud in its praise as I am." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota

THEY are the best, gilt-edged, rock-ribbed, guaranteed 6% investment in America. Safe as government bonds and pay better.

I have been selling these mortgages for 18 years, and have never had to foreclose, and never lost a cent of principal or interest for a single customer.

I personally know every farm covered by the mortgages, as well as the farmers giving them. I know them both to be right, or I have nothing to do with them. Their land is increasing in value every day, thus increasing the value of the security.

I collect both the interest and principal free, and remit in New York exchange, without the least trouble or bother of the customer.

I will be pleased to put you in the way of finding out all about me. Write me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON

Investment Banker

LISBON, NORTH DAKOTA

erty, and one that involves, or at least suggests, the most far-reaching results in our conceptions of physics.

We are informed that there is now being imported a sample of German radium of great activity and yet not luminous. That it is not a luminous property in radium itself that induces luminosity in the willemite, diamond, etc., is clearly proven by the fact that we may cut off every possible form of light access, with rubber, iron, copper, lead, and wood, and then, as with the Roentgen rays, it is not the light but a radio-activity that produces the effects. That luminosity is not responsible for the activity can be shown by a sample of low luminosity—radium barium carbonate—that scarcely shows the faintest light and yet acts immediately, either when placed near or when mixed as granules or powder with willemite, diamond, zinc sulphide, zinc oxide, anthracene, and other like substances. It acts instantly even with the interposition of the pasteboard box—which surely further precludes any possibility of light passing through.

These are evidently gamma rays; or else the facts may indicate, as has before been suggested, that we may find two elements in radium—as we have oxygen and nitrogen associated in the air.—From "Radium and Its Wonders," by George F. Kunz, in the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" for November.

"God's promises to pay are negotiable anywhere. His notes are as good as cash."

"One of the joys of eventide is remembering the toils and triumphs of the day."

About the future, all unknown,
Ne'er think the Master is forgetting
About his own—his purchased one.

—Jean H. Watson.

"The medicines for the cure of loneliness are portions of generosity, thoughtfulness for others and self-sacrifice, taken in large doses."

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD

2 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET

BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL

Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

DO YOU WANT YOUR

printed matter to have the artistic setting that will make it worth while?
Consult us.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO., Inc.

Makers of the Better Kind of Printing.

1019-21 MARKET STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

LEARN PROOFREADING.—A profession that offers literary opportunity with pecuniary profit is one that intelligent people desire. We, the original proofreading school, can prepare you for the work more thoroughly than any other.

HOME CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL, Philadelphia.

LOWEST PRICES EVER KNOWN

THINK OF IT! This great religious library, which formerly sold for $41.00, now offered for a limited time FOR ONLY $10.00. We offer a few hundred sets at this astounding price before the holidays. WE ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEE every book to be perfect in paper, printing and binding, safe delivery by freight or express and entire satisfaction or money refunded.

A WONDERFUL AND GENUINE BARGAIN IN BOOKS

TAKE NOTICE
FORMER PRICE, $41.00

NOW ONLY $10.00
YOUR CHOICE OF 6 VOLS.
$6.50

1524 pages 9½ x 6½ x 3 in.	985 pages 9½ x 7½ x 2½ in.	1055 pages 10 x 7½ x 2 in.	1380 pages 11 x 8 x 3 in.	753 pages 10½ x 7½ x 1½ in.	735 pages 9½ x 7 x 1½ in.	756 pages 9½ x 7½ x 1½ in.	1024 pages 9½ x 6½ x 2½ in.	1014 pages 9½ x 6½ x 2½ in.
-------------------------------	-------------------------------	-------------------------------	------------------------------	--------------------------------	------------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------------	--------------------------------

Jamieson, Fausset & Brown's Bible Commentary.

By Robert Jamieson, D.D., St. Paul's, Glasgow, Rev. A. R. Fausset, A.M., St. Cutbert's, York, and David Brown, D.D., Professor of Theology, Aberdeen.

A complete commentary—critical, explanatory and practical—on the Old and New Testaments, 1380 pages, bound in cloth. Former Price, $7 50. Far in advance of the older works now in use, it is also the most practical, suggestive and scientific. Rev. J. H. Vincent, Bishop M. E. Church: "It deserves a place on the table of every Bible student."

Critical and Expository Bible Cyclopædia.

Compiled and written by Rev. A. R. Fausset, A.M., joint author of the Jamieson, Fausset and Brown Commentary. It contains 750 three-column pages; 600 illustrations. Regular price, cloth binding, $5.00.

This great work is the result of seven years of labor by the author, contains three thousand seven hundred articles, and presents a completeness, conciseness and thoroughness, such as to make it a perfect Bible Cyclopædia.

J. W. Bashford, D.D., President Ohio Wesleyan University: "It is a most admirable aid. I hope ten thousand teachers will use it inside the next six months."

The Complete Works of Flavius Josephus.

The Celebrated Jewish Historian, translated from the original Greek by William Whiston, A.M. Large octavo, Cloth, 1056 pages, nearly 100 illustrations. Former price, $4.00.

In this great work is contained the History and Antiquities of the Jews, Destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans; also Dissertations concerning Jesus Christ, John the Baptist, James the Just, and the sacrifice of Isaac.

Illustrated History of the Bible.

By Rev. John Kitto, D.D., F.S.A. It contains 735 double-column pages, 220 engravings, printed from excellent plates, on good paper, strongly bound in cloth. Former price, $4.50.

No modern writer has contributed more largely to enrich the biblical literature of our time, or to clothe with a fresh and living interest the main personages and incidents in Bible History than John Kitto in this magnificent work. Deeply interesting and instructive, and abounding in striking pictorial illustrations, it should have a place in every home. Over 100,000 copies of this popular work have been sold.

Edersheim's Life and Times of Jesus the Messiah.

(2 Vols.) The Authorized American Edition. By Alfred Edersheim, M.A., Oxon., D.D., Lecturer, Oxford University.

Two volumes, Former price, $6.00. Royal 8vo, handsomely bound in silk cloth. The Sunday School Times: "It is positively refreshing to read a life of the Saviour which is critical in the best and truest sense of the word, and is biblical at the same time."

Concise Cyclopædia of Religious Knowledge.

Biblical, Biographical, Theological, Historical, Geographical and Practical. Edited by Rev. E. B. Sanford, D.D., assisted by a brilliant galaxy of Biblical Scholars and Divines. Complete in one volume. Nearly 1,000 pages, beautifully illustrated. Regular price, cloth, $3.50.

To the seekers after knowledge this work will prove a surprising storehouse of information regarding Church History, Doctrines, Denominations, The Early Church, The Story of the Reformation, Young People's Societies, Theologians, Churches, etc.

Smith's Dictionary of the Bible.

Edited by William Smith, LL.D., Classical Examiner of University of London. It formerly sold for $4.50.

Contains 1024 large octavo pages, printed on excellent paper, finely illustrated, and handsomely and strongly bound in cloth. An indispensable aid to ministers, teachers, families, Sunday School Superintendents and Bible readers generally.

The Life and Epistles of Saint Paul.

By the Rev. W. J. Conybeare, M.A., of Cambridge, and J. S. Howson, D.D., of Liverpool. Formerly sold for $4.50.

Contains 1014 large octavo pages, many fine illustrations, maps, charts, etc. There is no work that will compare with this in giving a lifelike picture of the great apostle and the work which he did.

Cruden's Complete Concordance.

By Alexander Cruden, M.A. Former price, $1.50.

Contains 756 large octavo pages, clearly printed and handsomely and strongly bound in cloth. Scripture is the best interpreter of Scripture, and, next to the Bible, no volume is of greater value to the Bible student than Cruden's Concordance.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING.

Send $10.00 and we will forward the ten books at once.

Send $2.00 and promise to pay $1.00 a month for ten months, making $12.00 as complete payment, and we will forward the ten books at once.

You pay freight or express charges on above plans and we guarantee safe delivery to any point in the United States or Canada.

Send $6.50 and we will forward any six volumes you may select at once.

Send $2.00 and promise to pay $1.00 a month for six months, making $8.00 as complete payment, and we will forward your selection of six volumes at once.

We will forward by prepaid express a selection of any book in above list on receipt of $2.50.

Take Notice! We will take back any or all books that are not satisfactory in ten days after examination, and will return money, deducting only the return freight or express charges. This marvelous offer is limited, and money will be returned if the books are exhausted, and we cannot fill your order.

As to our responsibility, we refer to the American Friend, or to any Commercial Agency. Established 1866.
"It is our pleasure to say that the S. S. Scranton Co. are handling the largest business of this kind in the country, and are thoroughly reliable in every way."—The American Friend.

THE S. S. SCRANTON CO., PUBLISHERS, HARTFORD, CONN.

The American Friend

Vol. X

ELEVENTH MONTH 12, 1903

No. 46

	PAGE
EDITORIALS. — The Blood of Christ Cleanses from Sin.—A Ministry Baptized in the Holy Spirit.—Our Responsibility in Panama	771
The Message of the Society of Friends to the Twentieth Century	772
Allen C. Thomas.
The Defeated Candidate	774
Wm. S. Jerome.
Woodbrooke Permanent Settlement . .	775
Joshua Rowntree.
THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON	775
Lesson for Eleventh month 22, 1903.
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR	776
Topic for Eleventh month 22, 1903.
MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT	777
THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES,	777
MARRIED.—DIED	778
EVENTS AND COMMENTS	779

LIGHT AND SHADE.

*All things that shine give shade ;
And waste contains a fire ;
And life that blooms the most, the most shall fade.
Rendered to earth or air,
The things that once were fair
Show by their deaths an unappeased desire.*

*From all that shines comes shade ;
So man's lost Eden throws
Shadows from her bright trees
On every tree that grows.
Where'er the glory falls, there, too, the grief ;
And not a leaf spreads in the sunlit glade,
But, with its wings, spreads also wings of shade.*

—LAURENCE HOUSMAN.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

Y. F. A. Building,140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.*FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.Address ELIZA H. WORRELL

Phone Spruce 33-55. Clerk.

HOTEL
EMPIREBroadway and 63d Street,
N. Y. City.A FAMILY AND TRANSIENT HOTEL.

Rooms $1.00 per day and Upwards.

Telephone in every Room.

Fireproof. Accessibly Located. Large Library.
Moderate Rates.

Orchestral Concerts every evening.

All Cars Pass the Empire.

Send for Booklet.

W. JOHNSON QUINN.Kitchen OutfitsAt Reasonable RatesJ. FRANKLIN MILLER1626 CHESTNUT STREET
Free delivery in city and suburbs.OSTEOPATHY*EDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON*Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

Bell Telephone

Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SONWall Paper and
Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHESAs one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—
established three generations ago—and up-to-date
in every feature of the business, we are able to offer
the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.GEO. C. CHILD*2 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)*JOSEPH G. FOGG*UNDERTAKER AND EMBALMER*S. W. Cor. Sixteenth and Race Sts.

Phone Spruce 44-38-W.

PHILADELPHIA.

Suburban orders promptly attended.

Care and precision are the characteristics of Ivory Soap manufacture. Each cake is just as good as any other, and all are as pure as soap can be made. For these reasons the continued use of Ivory Soap gives confidence. It never varies. You can always rely on the same satisfaction and delight from the use of the next cake that you did from the last one.

99 ⁴⁴/₁₀₀ Per Cent. Pure.

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 782). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

The lesson of the missionary is the enchanter's wand.—Charles Darwin.

ATLANTA AND THE SOUTHWEST.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway offers excellent service to all points in the South and Southwest. Through sleeping cars from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. A la carte dining car. Address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The American Friend

*"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."*

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, ELEVENTH MONTH 12, 1903.

No. 46.

NOTICE.

New Subscribers to THE AMERICAN FRIEND may receive the paper the remainder of this year and the whole of next year for $1.50. Sample copies will be sent free. Address,

*THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch St., Philadelphia.*

THE BLOOD OF CHRIST CLEANSSES FROM SIN.

THIS was one of the greatest notes in Paul's preaching—"the blood of Jesus Christ cleanses from sin." He was powerfully impressed by the majesty and goodness of Christ's life, and he put a very great emphasis upon the significance of His resurrection, but one can hardly fail to see that in dealing with sin he goes at once for his efficacious remedy to the blood of Christ. He glories in the cross. In the primitive Church there can be no question that Christ was thought of as the Lamb of God whose death makes atonement. It is, too, a fact that the preaching of the cross affected the pagan races in the early Christian centuries as no other message ever did. Paul says that he depicted Christ crucified before the eyes of his hearers. He made the scene so vivid that they could almost see the suffering Saviour. The great revivals from Luther's day down to our own have generally come, if not always, through the effective preaching of the cross. The revival comes because men are made to feel that Christ died for them. When the message of the cross—the redeeming power of the blood of Christ—grows feeble, the effects of preaching become weak upon the masses; and when a man comes who can make the atonement seem real, men listen, as of old they did to Paul among the Galatian hills.

Why is it that the message of the blood of Christ has such little power in the world to-day? Because it has been used so often and so long as a formula—as a mere meaningless phrase. There is no more value or power in a formula than there is in circumcision or in baptism. A man is no more saved by the use of good phrases than he is by the use of a sacrament. They are just as dangerous as the ritual is or as any rite is. They can be used without any spiritual insight and without any inward transformation. They work no magic by themselves. They do not raise life to a higher level until the soul sees beyond the phrase or the formula and realizes what it means in actual life and power.

There are a few Christians who say that the actual material blood of Christ saves. But on that view we should be of all men most miserable, for no Protestant believes that there is a drop of the actual blood of Christ now in existence. So that salvation on that basis would be impossible. No Protestant Church has ever held this material view, and it is undoubtedly heretical. Some deeper interpretation than this crude and impossible one must be sought if we are to give a message which will move men. Salvation is a spiritual change, a change of heart and life, and it can be wrought only by something which reaches the soul and moves the springs of life within. How does the blood of Christ do that? What is the power of the cross? It stands for the sacrifice of God. Christ shows in His death what our sin costs God. Sin always and everywhere makes God suffer. His love for us is so real and actual that there can be no sinning which does not touch and pierce His heart. The sinner thinks of God as offended and angry. Christ shows Him suffering with the sinner and agonizing over his sin, just as a human parent does, only in an infinite degree. Every drop of blood tells of the love and suffering of God. In the light of Jesus Christ upon the cross you may read how much God cares for you, and what He suffers to make you feel the drawing power of His love.

If all that is true, and it is, His blood becomes the great reconciling and atoning force in the world. It is no longer a formula; it is no more a magic phrase. It is, as Paul said, "the power of God unto salvation." "He loved me and gave Himself for me," while I was a sinner; henceforth I live no more unto myself, but unto Him who died for me. No form of Christianity is permanently efficacious which fails to make the atonement a vital thing, which grips the heart and moves the soul. It soon loses its hold if it is presented in an irrational way; it grows weak if it is proclaimed simply as a phrase. Sin is of all things a reality; it is an actual power in our lives, and it can be conquered and abolished only by a greater power. Who of us could live on in his sin, if he saw in the cross what that sin was costing God and how he was making his infinite Father suffer. The love of Christ—the blood of Christ—would compel him to die to sin and become alive to God in Christ.

A MINISTRY BAPTIZED IN THE HOLY SPIRIT.

Our English Friends are in the midst of an earnest discussion of the problems of the ministry in Friends' meetings, with especial attention to the question whether ministers should be recorded or not. This question has been ably discussed in a symposium in the "Friends' Quarterly Examiner," which we hope at a later date to reprint for the benefit of our readers. We want particularly at present to give American Friends this splendid passage from the article of John Wilhelm Rowntree, who was one of the writers in the above-mentioned symposium:

Let us set ourselves sternly against the artificial sermon, the minister who is elaborate in the mere pride of his intellect, ornate in the mere vain-glory of an oratorical gift. For such utterance let there never be a place, but for all ministry that is in the life, whether it be the broken articulation of an overflowing soul or the molten torrent of the prophet's flaming speech, or the ordered sequence of the teacher setting forth the ways of God to man, let there be room. And do not let us talk too much of "the relative place of the ministry." The ministry of power has a larger place than we are likely to fill. In those strenuous days when the Quaker was persecuted for his faith, his preaching stirred all England. If a great Quaker preacher arose to-day, who will define the limits of his service? We need to be watchful lest we make of Quakerism a cult, convert the love of simplicity into an æstheticism, and thus destroy the life we would preserve.

On every side we meet the steady competition of the business life, the life of the everyday world clamoring for the output of our energy, and often monopolizing it to exhaustion. The roar of the traffic of Babylon is in our ears, for not one stone is left of the high wall of social exclusion which deadened the sound and shut us off from so much of outward activity and intercourse. The affairs of our little church, once the stock topic of conversation, seem strangely remote to a generation that has all the world to engage and interest it. The temptation was never so strong to be satisfied in meeting for worship with that which costs little, to treat the ministry as a leisure pursuit, an exercise for such poor energy as we may chance to spare. Even the briefest spontaneous utterance that is quick with the life of the Spirit, if it is the benediction of worship, is also the fruit of labor. Whatever be the range of the ministry, and it is wide, there can be no power without the strenuousness born of conviction and a sympathy that is touched with passion. Tempted to sin, tasting sorrow and knowing death, men can never be sustained on mere anecdotal tit-bits, or interesting thoughts picked up by chance, and garnished for presentment with a pleasing decoration of words. The sure guide of experience teaches us that no religious community can permanently flourish without the stimulation of strong, thoughtful, penetrating ministry, baptized in the power of the Holy Spirit.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY IN PANAMA.

THE United States wants a canal across the Isthmus of Panama. This great undertaking has been blocked by the failure of the State of Colombia, to which the Isthmus belongs, to negotiate a satisfactory treaty with us. The Panama section of Colombia has revolted and is setting up a government of its own. It is universally recognized that the real cause of the revolution is the desire on the part of the Panama leaders to make a bargain with the United States for the passage of the canal.

If they have acted on their own initiative, with no suggestions from Washington, and with no complicity with anybody in the administration, then, of course our hands are clean, and so far our course is honorable. But there must be no question on this point. Our moral standing before the world is at stake upon it, and the President must make it absolutely clear by his further action that the revolution has not been inspired from headquarters in this country. However much we want a canal, it is better to go round Cape Horn to the end of the ages than to build a canal on disgraceful terms. We are being made solemn enough over the revelations of underhanded work and positive wickedness in the formation of some of the great trust combinations. May our national government secure no trade advantages which are not straight and honorable and open to the full light of day.

President Roosevelt has had complicated situations to deal with, but none which has called for greater wisdom and straightforwardness. We shall now have a greater test of his courage and manliness than in anything he did on San Juan Hill. We hope that we may come through this moral crisis with no uncertainty, with no smell of fire on our garment, and we trust that no foreign nation may ever be able to point the finger and say, "You helped to dismember a State to get a canal for commercial purposes, and you must now keep still while we clutch what we want from weak and helpless people." *

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

THE MESSAGE OF THE SOCIETY OF FRIENDS TO THE TWENTIETH CENTURY.

BY ALLEN C. THOMAS.

Perhaps the most striking thing in the religious history of the past twenty-five years, and particularly of the past ten years, is the breaking down of the walls of sectarianism. If an Evangelical Alliance were to be started to-day it is hardly likely that the two ordinances and the Apostles' Creed would be demanded as a necessary condition for membership. Loving the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity would now be a sufficient test of fitness.

Denominationalism, to a large extent, has taken the place of sectarianism. It is generally recognized that certain points of doctrine, and especially of practice, may be more acceptable to some men than to others, and that therefore those who agree on these may wish to unite in order to be with those who have like sympathies. This union, it is now acknowledged, need not be followed or accompanied by any feeling of "I am holier than thou," or, "My way is right and yours is wrong." It is simply a union for mutual comfort and help, forming a part of the church militant, a division of the great army of Christian believers which is fighting the battles of righteousness, albeit with peaceful weapons.

* Events since this was written have shown how vain were these high hopes of ours.

Most of the Protestant bodies now seem to be saying to each other, "Be friendly with me; we are not so far apart as we used to think." The large conferences on Foreign Missions, the great Young Men's Christian Association conventions, the huge international Christian Endeavor meetings, the Northfield and Keswick conventions, are proof of good fellowship. Under such circumstances, and with the undoubted tendency toward the obliteration of hard-and-fast lines of sectarianism, has any denomination any special message to the Church and to the world? You might as well ask, "Has any individual any special gift or any special service?" At once the question rises, What is that message? but, just as it is not always easy to answer in the case of an individual, so it is not always easy to answer in the case of a denomination. The question, however, should be asked, and should be answered in the affirmative, or the denomination has little reason for its existence. So we ask, "Has the Society of Friends any special message to the twentieth century, and if so, what is that message?" That the Society had a clear message to the seventeenth century no one acquainted with its history can for a moment doubt. But, no matter what the message of the early Friends to the seventeenth century was, it must not be taken for granted that we are to deliver the same message. In fact, the keynote of George Fox's teaching and preaching was, that there should be a fresh anointing for every service, and whether the message might be old or new, it must be a message freshly sent, and delivered under a fresh impulse of the Holy Spirit. Therefore, the message of to-day must be fitting, not because it is old or even inherently excellent, but because it is the present suggestion of the Spirit, and has, we believe, His present approval.

Notwithstanding the breaking down of so many walls of partition, there is still room for special gifts and special service at the hands of denominations, and if so then there is one for the Society of Friends. At least one, perhaps more than one.

There is no doubt that authority—the authority of the Church, of tradition, of custom, or of creed—plays an important part in the polity of most Christian denominations. That it has its value cannot be denied; that it tends to rigidity, to exalt statement above fact, doctrine above life, must be acknowledged. There are, at present two tendencies clearly evident in the thoughts of men regarding religion: one towards authority and all that is implied in the word. Not a few men listen to an exhortation something after this fashion: "Follow the directions of the Church; believe without question what she tells you; attend her services, contribute to her support, and you are, or will be, all right." Such teaching is very attractive to many. It allows large latitude in daily living, and apparently shifts a great deal of responsibility on some one else.

Another tendency is that which minimizes the need for any special form of religion, but particularly for the external adjuncts of religion, such as church services, church membership, church organization, missionary effort, etc. "What is the need," say those who yield to this tendency, "of going to church on Sunday? It does me a great deal more good to go off into the country, or to take a walk, or to read a good sermon in the Sunday newspaper." "I do not believe what the minister of our church says," or, "He is uninteresting," or, "He speaks of that of which he knows little," or, "I get no help," or, "I do not go to church to hear politics," or, "If I wish music I should rather go to a concert." Others will say, "I have no need for religion, and the lives of those who profess it do not commend it to my acceptance." The number in this class is large, larger than some of us are apt to imagine. It is composed of persons in all ranks of society, and some of the most valuable citizens of our country must be included in it. It is constantly growing, and, while chiefly made up of men, not a few women must be included, and their numbers seem to be increasing. Reckon up among your acquaintance those who have during the past few years dropped out of regular attendance at a place of worship; count those who seldom, if ever, attend church services; you will probably find that the number is greater than you would name if asked off-hand.

There are, of course, other tendencies in the thought of to-day, but these seem to call for special attention.

Let us take up these two classes separately. Those who compose the first class fall into two divisions: First, those who do not feel willing to give up all religious practice, and yet wish to enjoy "the world." These find it attractive and convenient to throw off most of their personal responsibility on the Church, and have their religious life, if it may be so called, regulated by authority. Second, a large class, who, honestly dissatisfied with themselves and their efforts, find a relief in letting the Church settle their difficulties for them. These difficulties may be of practice, or of doctrine; there may be doubts as to what is truth, questions as to the Bible and its inspiration and interpretation; the pettiness or bickerings among professing Christians may repel; or there may be other things which tend to make one weary of unrest.

To such as these the Society of Friends has a definite message. It is, that Christianity is not a method; it is not a creed; it is not ordinance; it is power, it is life. You may discuss the theory of electricity, you may reason learnedly and logically concerning the conductivity of this or that metal, you may describe an ideal lamp, but what do they accomplish, practically, until the electric current goes through them? The creeds, ordinances, organizations, and all the external accompaniments of religion are, in themselves, dead forms, but they may be made conductors of spiritual life and aids to its development and its practice. They may be changed as occasion requires, just as iron wire has given place to copper, and old lamps to new. The message of Quakerism is, first, get the life; that is the essential thing; all else is comparatively unimportant, and can never give life. Therefore, you need not worry about differences of administration, or practice, or creed, or interpretation, or whether this particular book was written by this man or by that. The all-important thing is, does it speak to your soul? Does it "find" you? Is your spiritual life strengthened? Is your soul uplifted? Does spiritual power come into you? Quakerism says, it is the indwelling power of the Spirit that transforms a man and guides into all the truth. Prove the truth in your own experience, not by reasoning about it, not by giving yourself into the keeping of some one else, but by acting upon it yourself. Christ speaks primarily to the individual soul, and, as He is listened to and followed, the clouds will break and the Sun of Righteousness will rise with healing in His wings. This is what Quakerism says to the restless, unsatisfied soul in the twentieth century. Others say it, too, but none has the vantage ground of the Friend.

To the other class—those who neglect or who discard religion,—the message is again, true religion is of the heart, true worship is in spirit and in truth. Come and sit down with us in quiet and in simplicity before the Lord, and let Him speak to you in the silence. Come and listen, not to political, or economic, or philosophical discourses; but it may be to the simple words which a brother or a sister may feel called upon to speak—words often not of man's wisdom, but spoken from a personal experience and out of a full heart. Come with us, and you will find that where there is a democracy where all are upon the same level, that there is a strength in the union of worshipping souls, that there is a power which comes through a communion of spirits. In your quiet moments do you not feel the need of something higher and holier than an ethical principle? In seasons of rough weather do you not long for power to lift you above the strain and turmoil of the strenuous life?

To both of these great classes Quakerism says, "There is one, even Christ, who can speak to your condition." The world and the Church still need to get nearer Christ as the revealer of the Father, as the great pattern, as the Saviour from sin, and as the life and strength of those who believe. To do this, Quakerism says, there is no need of rite, ceremony, or creed, or priest. Christ comes to the individual heart, and, as He is received, light and life are imparted, and grace is added to grace. This was the message to the seventeenth century, and under greatly altered conditions, it is the message to the twentieth century. From their democratic organization, from their freedom from a clerical class, and from rite and ceremony, and from a formal creed; from the simplicity of their doctrines, no denomination can deliver this message so forcibly or so attractively as the Friends. Shall they let it be taken from them and entrusted to others?

THE DEFEATED CANDIDATE.

BY WM. S. JEROME.

"And the lot fell upon Matthias." So runs the record of the appointment of an apostle in place of the traitor Judas. Matthias was the successful aspirant. But how about the defeated candidate? How many of us have ever given a thought to him, or asked ourselves what must have been his feelings at his defeat? Matthias has a lesson for us, in his success. Has not his opponent also a lesson, in his failure?

We know very little about him. He appears but once on the inspired page,—here in the story of his unsuccessful candidacy. His name was Joseph, the son of Sabba. He had been an associate of Christ through all His ministry, a hearer of His words, a witness of His miracles, and of His resurrection. Now he is put forward as one of the two candidates for the vacant apostleship. But the lot falls upon his rival, Matthias. Barsabas fails of his ambition. The office he seeks is given to another. History records him, as it does the names of many in political affairs, simply as the defeated candidate.

Barsabas has many successors, even if they are not in the apostolic succession. Defeated candidates are found everywhere. The politician who fails in his struggle for office is not the only representative of the class. Who has not often failed in his efforts? Who has not seen his hopes frustrated, his plans brought to naught? Who has not experienced the sharpness of defeat, and learned how bitter a thing it is to look into happiness through another's eyes?

Such disappointments are trying experiences. Of all life's disciplinary lessons, probably none other comes to us with just its peculiar pang. To fail in a right ambition, a worthy desire, is a test of character which few men can meet. To see others preferred to ourselves, to accept gracefully and graciously the position of the defeated candidate, is a rare attainment.

One would like to know how Barsabas bore his disappointment. It may be that he felt that the Church had made a mistake, and endangered its future success. But we prefer to believe that he accepted loyally the decision which destroyed his hopes. He seems to have had the true apostolic spirit, and that spirit would not perish with his aspiration to office. The young man who is providentially prevented from entering the ministry is not thereby released from the duty of Christian service. The number of disciples is always larger than the number of apostles.

We cannot all be apostles, but we can all be disciples. We may have the apostolic spirit, even if not of apostolic station. We may enjoy apostolic success, even though not belonging to the apostolic succession.

A negro slave was asked by an intending purchaser, "If I buy you, will you be honest?" His reply was, "I will be honest, whether you buy me or not." So the true disciple does not make discipleship depend upon success or circumstances. The follower of Christ will be faithful and diligent whether elected or not; whether prosperous or unprosperous, whether in higher or lower station. That is no true Christian spirit which says, "If I get what I desire I will do my duty." The layman who is not elected elder should be as zealous and loyal as if he had attained his desire. It is possible to make a success out of failure, to show a nobler spirit in defeat than others display in victory.

"Glorious it is to wear the crown
Of a deserved and pure success;
He who knows how to fail has won
A crown whose luster is not less."

—"The Interior."

WOODBROOKE PERMANENT SETTLEMENT.

BY JOSHUA ROWNTREE.

After the doors of Woodbrooke open as a permanent settlement we may hope that the publicity of many paragraphs may not be inflicted upon it. Its growth would seem likely to be the more natural and healthy if it is in the main silent, and without much observation from without. There are, as I understand, likely to be from eleven to fifteen of us of both sexes in residence in the first week, with an accession of some attenders at the classes from outside. It is probably best in every way that the Settlement should make a modest start, and its truest friends will be found amongst those who only allow themselves modest anticipations of what it will be, and what it may accomplish in the early stages of its history.

When so much is necessarily tentative, it would be unwise to attempt to lay down any absolute conditions of success. One hopes greatly that with a large catholicity of pursuits and aspirations on the part of settlers there may be the uniting influence of loyalty of spirit to the Highest, and a common interest in service, however diversified in kind. We are going with some confidence that this will be so even from the outset.

Friends and those in general sympathy with their aims and actions are mainly busy people, and but few can set apart months for special study. But when one considers the years given, and rightly given to ordinary university work, it does not seem unreasonable to expect that some students may finish their mental training by the insight into some of the ways, both of adding to it and of applying it, that ought to be obtainable at Woodbrooke. Again, there must be some 2,500 Friends and their associates teaching in Sunday Schools of one kind or another. Which of them does not wish for a pause now and again from teaching, with a chance of learning instead, both from an inspiring teacher like Rendel Harris, a richly-supplied library, and, not least, from personal visitation to the most varied and efficient schools, clubs, and institutes to be found in the Society?

Yet, further, are there not many quiet workers, each in his or her own way, who may be glad of an occasional retreat into congenial, is it too much to say refreshing and helpful, fellowship in the pleasant surroundings of Woodbrooke? For any poor soul, for instance, battling according to his light for the advancement of the kingdom among men, and puzzled by the new crusade for enrichment by retaliation and improved physique by adding to the cost of bread and lowering the price of tea, what can be better than a short sojourn at Birmingham with glimpses back through the ages to the time when new and potent forces of love brought a new spring-time to a weary and decadent world, or to when Fox and his coadjutors, drawing very near to God in spirit and in life, saw two hundred years ahead of their fellow-men, or even to the humanitarian teaching and New Testament precepts of the late John Bright?

Lastly, may we not hope that occasional groups of Friends from quarterly meetings or monthly meetings may manage by arrangement to get a week or two now and then at Woodbrooke to study for themselves and their own districts how a thousand lay Christians in and about the midland city draw ten thousand men, women and children around them, and help them upward and onward in life? If all churches were to do the same all over England, the face of the whole country would speedily be changed for the better.

The conditions of modern life, the necessity laid upon us to provide more equality of opportunity for our members, seem to me to point to Woodbrooke almost as a necessity of the future. But because we are as yet few, and pretty firmly set in our ways, time and patience must be given as well as faith and love to the new institution.—"The [London] Friend."

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON VIII.

ELEVENTH MONTH 22, 1903.

THE CURSE OF STRONG DRINK.

Proverbs 20: 1; 23: 20, 21, 29-35.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Wine is a mocker.—Proverbs 20: 1.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 16.—Curse of strong drink. Prov. 23: 29-35.
Third-day, Eleventh mo. 17.—God's judgment. Isa. 5: 8-16.
Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 18.—Anger of the Lord. Isa. 5: 18-25.
Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 19.—The mocker. Prov. 20: 1-11.
Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 20.—Sudden destruction. Naham 1: 1-10.
Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 21.—Desolation. Isa. 24: 1-12.
First-day, Eleventh mo. 22.—His portion. Matt. 24: 42-51.

"The Book of Proverbs consists of eight unequal parts: A Prologue on the whole subject of Wisdom, chapters 1-9; then from chapters 10 to 29 four collections, great and small, of proverbs proper, popular sayings lying loose, for the most part, without arrangement as to subject or style; then in chapter 30 a number of enigmatic or numerical proverbs in a more or less artificial form; then the warning of a mother to her son against women and wine; and finally the incomparable eulogy of the virtuous woman." From what has been said it is clear, as it must be to any one who reads the book, that but a small part can be ascribed to Solomon. The book belongs to the "wisdom literature" of the Jews, to which also belong Job, Ecclesiastes, and some of the Psalms, as 37, 49, 73. Several books in the Apocrypha also belong to this class. The term Wisdom as used in this connection has no narrow meaning. It "is not the slow prudent thrift of life, gathered by petty experiences more or less sordid and selfish; but is the reverent and whole-hearted acceptance of great principles, such as capture the heart, stir us to enthusiasm and lift us above ourselves."

Though the authors of the book of Proverbs were not acquainted with the modern alcoholic liquors and spirits, they were well acquainted with the effects of intoxicating drinks. Drunkenness is one of the oldest sins spoken of in the Bible. Noah and Lot were overcome by it, and it seems to have been not uncommon among the priests in the days of Eli (1 Sam. 1: 13). The prophets also knew what intoxication meant. See Joel 1: 5, etc. The Book of Proverbs, as we now have it, was doubtless formed after the return from Babylon, though it can hardly be doubted that a large portion was written before the Exile.

20: 1. "Wine." When the Proverbs were written, whiskey and such like were unknown, and wine was taken as the representative intoxicant. "Mocker." Because it promised pleasure and forgetfulness, and in the end brings their opposites. "Strong drink a brawler." Amer. Rev. Ver. This is clearer than the old version. For the proof of this statement one need only read the reports of the police courts of any one of our large cities. The man who is deceived by the intoxicant forfeits any claim of being wise.

23: 20. "Be not among winebibbers; among gluttonous eaters of flesh." Amer. Rev. Ver. Why? The reason is given, the result is clear—poverty and rags. Examine the records of any almshouse, poor farm, jail, and there will be found abundant proof that these statements of the wise man of old are still true.

29. The literal translation of this verse is, "Who has oh! who has alas!" Who has strifes Who complaints? Who has wounds without cause? Who redness of eyes?

30. The answer to the questions in the preceding verse. Its truth cannot be questioned. Compare Is. 5: 11, 22. There are many sorrows in the world which one cannot help, but the sorrows of the drunkard are almost always of his own making. Exactly what the "mixed wine" of the Hebrews was is not known; it is sufficient to know that it was highly intoxicating. Compare Prov. 9: 2, 5; Ps. 75: Isa. 5: 22; 65: 11.

31. The writer now passes from description to advice and warning. Red wines were the most highly esteemed in the East. "When it sparkleth in the cup, when it goeth down smoothly." Amer. Rev. Ver. There is a fascination in wine drinking, and few who indulge can wholly resist it. How many, who have been sure that they could not be seduced, have had their wills so weakened by drinking that they could not resist the siren!

32. The writer proceeds in his description towards a climax. "The wine cup promises pleasure, but it is a deceiving mocker. That is, it first deceives and then mocks its victims." Its action is compared to the gliding, unsuspected approach of the serpent, and also to the serpents bite. "Adder." The word translated "adder" represents an unknown variety, doubtless "adder" correctly represents the idea.

33. "Thine eyes shall behold strange things, and thy heart shall utter perverse things." Amer. Rev. Ver. This translation is to be preferred. It seems to describe delirium tremens. How often a man will utter things while drunk of which he is thoroughly ashamed when sober!

34. The exact meaning of this verse is not clear, though the general lesson is unmistakable. The meaning may be: A man would inevitably be drowned if he trusted to the smooth, glassy appearance of the sea and lay down upon it; so will it be with the man who becomes a drunkard. Or it may mean: Asleep on a vessel in a storm and unconscious of his danger. "Upon the top of a mast." A more unsteady place can hardly be imagined, and in such a place is he who indulges himself in strong drink.

35. A graphic description which we all know to be painfully true to the facts.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. Total abstinence is the only absolutely safe course.
2. Never begin to drink.
3. Do all you can to lessen this great evil.

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR ELEVENTH MONTH TWENTY-SECOND.

WHAT ARE YOU THANKFUL FOR?

Ps. 33: 1-22. (Thanksgiving.)

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 16.—For His Word. Ps. 119: 105-112.

Third-day, Eleventh mo. 17.—For His works. Jer. 10: 12, 13.

Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 18.—For His loving kindness. Ps. 119: 57-64.

Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 19.—For His watchfulness. Job 36: 1-7.

Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 20.—For His deliverances. Acts 12: 6-11.

Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 21.—An old-time thanksgiving. Neh. 12: 37-43.

Thanksgiving is praise for a reason, and there are reasons that support it which are far more valid and trustworthy than the forces of the material world about us—though they too are reasons.

We are apt to think of praise as dependent on states of mind, and our states of mind we are often unwilling to vouch for beforehand. The weather, our condition of health, the success or failure of some business venture, some misunderstanding or impatience at home or in the office—these and similar incidents are allowed to determine for us whether we shall be in a spirit of praise or of fault-finding, of happiness or gloom, of cheer or discouragement.

The Psalmist confidently foretells that "our heart shall rejoice in Him." Again, the psalm just following our lesson opens, "I will bless the Lord at all times." Contingencies seem to be ruled out. Paul ranged all time and space and found no answer to the question, "What can separate us from the love of God?" We might say that when that separating force or creature is found we shall have found something that can justify the withholding of thanksgiving.

Over and over we read in the Psalms some announcement as to praise or rejoicing, some exhortation to thanksgiving and the ascribing of glory, and then a deliberate review of reasons until the glum-mest old Scrooge that reads—if a Scrooge could be a psalm reader—can hardly withhold an acknowledgment of God's overflowing goodness.

Imagine ourselves citizens, if we can, of the most cultured country the world has ever known apart from Christendom and contrast our lot there with the present facts. The wisdom of Greece, the power of Rome, or the splendor of India could none of them compensate for the light that lighteth every man who has known Him by His self-revelation.

No time and no people have been so favored, yet what we have received and enjoy to-day is hardly a foretaste of what would be if the Jehovah of mercy and truth and righteousness were indeed the God of our nation. But He waits to be gracious; there is no greater present cause of national thanksgiving than that. We owe gratitude for the realized and actual, and no less for the promised and potential; and no more genuine honor and praise could be given than to undertake in living faith and confidence in God to bring to pass for this people the very best and highest of His purposes concerning it. If we cannot bring the whole nation thus in obedience to Him, we can at least each bring one himself.

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

THE TOKIO WORK.

We continue to have interesting letters from our friends in Tokio. They give good reports of the progress of the work on the buildings, and are delighted with their appearance and the fitness of the rooms. They send messages of thanks to their kind friends at home for giving them so pleasant a place to work in.

The school opened on the 11th of Ninth month. Forty-five girls collected in one of the rooms of the new school building for the exercises, and all were bright and in good spirits. Several more girls were expected in the following week.

The group of workers had previously welcomed Sara M. Longstreth to their midst. She is spoken of as "ready for anything," and her willing service will soon be enlisted in generous assistance to those whom she can most fitly serve.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

Minnie P. Bowles, under authority as corresponding secretary of the Friends' Foreign Missionary Committee in Japan, writes urgently of the need of a renewal of scholarships, as well as of additional ones. A fund given some years ago by an interested friend for this purpose, is now nearly exhausted, and it is to continue and also enlarge the work done by this fund that this appeal is made. Any contributions may be sent to the treasurer of the association, Ellen W. Longstreth, Bryn Mawr, and will be used at the discretion of the committee for needy and promising girls. There are seven of these who have been in the school for longer or shorter periods, and who are very desirous to remain, but their parents cannot assume this outlay. There seems to be no form of direct Christian work of greater or more far-reaching value than help given to place these girls under the Christian influence of the mission. Fifty dollars will support a girl for one year. Any friend contributing this amount and desiring to correspond with and be responsible for one of these needy children, may make this request when sending the money, and as soon as possible will receive from the treasurer the name of the little ward, with the necessary information.

R. W. C.

The books asked for in the letter from Susan G. Shipley, published in THE AMERICAN FRIEND of Tenth month 1st, 1903, have been provided for by the Book Association of Friends.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Ida Parker is now located in the meeting at Centerville, Ind. Sanford Pickering has taken work in a meeting in Nebraska.

Emma F. Coffin attended Minneapolis Quarterly Meeting on the 24th and 25th ult.

Henry W. Dalrymple is located in the meeting at Mount Ayr, Kan., for the ensuing year.

Allen Jay, of Richmond, Ind., left home on the 4th inst. to attend Baltimore Yearly Meeting.

Fred Smith and wife, who were formerly located in the meeting at Farmland, Ind., are now living in Richmond, Ind., and attending Earlham College.

President L. L. Hobbs was present in the meeting at Kansas City, Mo., the 1st inst., and gave some earnest, practical teaching, which was much appreciated.

Anna M. Votaw, a minister in Richmond, Ind., has gone to spend the winter with her son, Albert Votaw, in Washington, D. C. She will engage in gospel service, as the way may open.

Anna J. Winslow, of Alton, Kansas, expects to remove to Glen Elder soon. She will serve in the Glen Elder and Fairview Monthly Meetings. Her address will be Glen Elder, Kansas, R. F. D., No. 2.

On Sixth-day evening, Tenth month 30th, a social reception was given at Friends' Meeting House in Knightstown, Ind., to welcome the new local minister, Oscar Moon. About 150 persons were in attendance. The pastors of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian churches and other ministers were present, all of whom made appropriate remarks. Hymns were sung, and recitations given by members of the meeting, and a pleasant time was had.

Mary V. Couch, a minister from the meeting at Curtisville, Ind., is making an extended visit in Nebraska and Iowa. She will locate in some meeting if the way opens. She can be addressed at Vanmeter, Iowa.

Nixon and Louisa Rush, of Fairmount, Ind., recently labored in Mount Ayr Quarterly Meeting, Kansas. They visited all the meetings, and held a two-days' meeting at Mount Ayr. Their labors were much appreciated. They went from there to Glen Elder, Kansas.

Jonathan E. Rhoads and William Evans, of Moorestown, N. J., attended and the former had service at a meeting of Friends at Evanston, Ill., First-day, the 1st instant. The meeting was held at the home of Robert R. Tatnall and wife. There are very few Friends in or near Evanston, and the presence of the visiting Friends was appreciated.

The Friends at Traverse City, Mich., recently gave their local minister, Henry McKinley, and wife, a surprise reception. A very delightful evening was spent by all, and the guests were treated to fresh walnuts and butternuts which Henry McKinley and wife brought with them from their recent visit in Indiana. The guests presented Henry McKinley with a gold watch and his wife with a gold chain.

On the evening of the 2d instant about eighty Friends of Danville, Ind., gathered at the home of the local minister with Z. H. and Leona B. Doan, who have located in the meeting. Each one brought something, and a little from each home made a plentiful supper for all. A social hour was spent in a way that was enjoyed by every one. The occasion brought the members closer together and enabled them to know each other better in the work of the year before them.

The following-named ministers have visited the meeting at Rose Hill, Kansas, in the love of the gospel since yearly meeting: George Hobson and Wm. Guyer, of Western Yearly Meeting; Benjamin H. Hutchins and Joseph Winslow and Griffith Wright, of Indiana Yearly Meeting, and Leah Bales, William Perry and Isaac L. Pitts, of Kansas Yearly Meeting. Their presence was greatly appreciated, and they go to other fields with the prayers, good will and confidence of all.

The first contest in debating for the scholastic year at Guilford College occurred on the evening of the 31st ult. between the Senior and Junior classes on the subject, "Resolved, That Trusts are more beneficial than detrimental to industry." It was a "strenuous" effort, the Juniors winning on the affirmative. The next contest will be between the sophomores and freshmen. The winning class in that debate will contest finally in Twelfth month with the Juniors for the championship.

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Thomas and Mary J. Branson was celebrated at their home near Amo, Ind., Ninth month 19th, by their children and grandchildren, and many relatives. Eliza A. Carter and Elwood Hockett were present, who witnessed the ceremony performed fifty years before. They received a number of presents suited to the occasion. All partook of a bountiful dinner, and spent a few hours pleasantly. The company then departed, wishing the couple many more happy and prosperous years.

A large and interesting meeting was held, 31st ult., at the time of the Falmouth Quarterly Meeting at Windham, Maine, under the auspices of the yearly meeting's Committee for the Suppression of the Liquor Traffic. The meeting was favored with a most interesting and able address from the chairman of the committee, George L. Crossman, ex-Mayor of Saco, who held the profound attention of his audience while he discussed the question, "Resubmission in Maine—Do We Want It?" George L. Crossman also had excellent service in the First-day morning meeting.

On Sixth-day, the 30th ult., President Isaac Sharpless lectured to the faculty and students of Guilford College, and neighbors gathered in Memorial Hall at 3 p.m., on "William Penn and Pennsylvania History." In the evening at 7.30, in the same place, an "The Relation of Smaller Colleges to the Universities," and Seventh-day after a ten-mile ride around through Guilford Battleground Park, he lectured to the great satisfaction of all on "The Theory of Friends' Worship" at 10.30 o'clock. After the lecture Sixth-day evening the faculty of the college gave an informal reception to President Sharpless and some invited guests from such of the alumni and friends of the college as were in the immediate neighborhood, at which the guest of the evening discoursed on Quaker education in a helpful manner. The four lectures of President Sharpless and the social opportunity with him were encouraging and uplifting to the college and community.

Greenville Quarterly Meeting, Iowa, was held at Okoboji, Iowa, 9th to 11th ult., and was a season of refreshing. Five of the home ministers were in attendance. Those from abroad were Harry Hayes, John F. Hanson and Edgar J. Sanders. The gospel in its fullness was preached with power. An interesting and helpful missionary meeting was held on Sixth-day evening.

In a union temperance meeting at Knightstown, Ind., the 25th ult., E. G. Saunderson, Indiana State Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League, paid a high tribute to the Friends for the forward move they made at the Five Years' Meeting by calling the Temperance Congress in 1906. He said the Friends were the first religious organization to take definite official action against the saloon, and that the two-fold object of the Congress, as suggested in the call, viz., to make "united inquiry" and "a prayerful seeking for divine guidance," would result in a nearer approach to the solution of America's problem than has yet been reached.

New Garden Monthly Meeting, held at Guilford College, the 24th ult., was attended by the following ministers: Eli Reese, from High Point; Rodema Wright, South Fork Monthly Meeting Western Quarter; Mary E. Cartland, Greensboro, and Ada E. Lee, Germantown, N. C. The meeting considered a strong protest against the admission of the gambling appliances and demoralizing side shows to the annual Central North Carolina Agricultural Fair, held in Greensboro; also a petition for the moral purification of the annual fairs hereafter. The meeting endorsed this paper unanimously, with much emphasis, and directed the clerk to send a copy to the managers of the Fair Association and to secure the publication of it in the Greensboro papers. In the evening the Evangelistic and Church Extension Committee held a meeting and planned for more systematic and aggressive work. On the following day Mary Woody preached in the First-day morning meeting to a congregation composed of the people of the village and the college students. It was announced near the close of the meeting that six new members—their names being given—were added to the monthly meeting. A collection was taken for Annie Edgerton's work in India. In the evening Eli Reese preached.

MARRIED.

CHAPMAN—STANTON.—At the home of the bride's mother, Catharine A. Stanton, Springboro, O., Eleventh month 4th, 1903, Mary E. Stanton and Charles F. Chapman, of Waynesville, O.

WRIGHT—NICCOLLS.—At the home of the bride's parents, J. G. and M. Nicolls, 2745 Holmes Street, Kansas City, Mo., Eleanor Nicolls to Henry Wright, son of Francis A. and Mary C. Wright.

DIED.

CHARLES.—At his home in Marion, Ind., Eleventh month 3d, 1903, Herbert Charles, son of Matthew and Eliza Charles. He leaves a wife and two children.

COSAND.—At his home in Carmel, Ind., Ninth month 17th, 1903, Aaron Cosand, aged nearly 80 years. The deceased was a minister forty-five years. During the years of his greatest activity he was often engaged in religious service in his own and other yearly meetings, as well as in holding meetings with those not in membership with Friends. Thoughtful, cautious and somewhat conservative, he was a wise and safe counsellor. He remained a student to the end of life, and so maintained an intelligent interest in the world's best thought. He was faithful and prompt in business, religious and secular. He was deeply interested in all foreign and home missions, and every thing of a philanthropic nature, and contributed to each according to his means.

GAY.—At the home of her son-in-law, James Austin, in South China, Maine, Tenth month 17th, Elizabeth T. Gay. She was a valued member of China Monthly Meeting of Friends, an earnest Christian, and beloved by all who knew her.

GIFFORD.—At her home, Fall River, Mass., Tenth month 25th, 1903, Ruth B., widow of Thomas Scattergood Gifford, aged 89 years.

JESSUP.—At the home of her son, near Lynn, Ind., Eleventh month 2d, 1903, Rebecca H. Jessup, wife of the late Levi Jessup, the latter a prominent minister among Friends.

KNIGHT.—At Guilford, N. C., Tenth month 26th, 1903, Aletha Knight, aged 82 years. She was a noble example of Christian motherhood.

Events and Comments.

The House of Representatives of the Fifty-eighth Congress, which assembled in extraordinary session this week, consists of 386 members and four delegates from the Territories. Its political division stands: Republicans, 207; Democrats, 178, with one vacancy. Practically nothing will come up for consideration outside the joint resolution affecting the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

A business depression of wide extent and great severity is prevalent in South Africa, but the most prominent financiers in that region insist that the situation is "sound, on the whole." Business depression in South Africa is not surprising, now that the vast stream of money which England poured into the country to conquer the Boers has been cut off. Besides, the mines have not regained their ante-bellum prosperity.

This year's cotton crop is estimated to be no larger than, if it equals, that of last year, which was 10,727,000 bales, according to a special report to be issued to-day by Bradstreet's. Although the general consensus of opinion is that the crop will be smaller than a year ago, it is pointed out that the higher price ruling, the advance on last year being 1 to 1¼ cents, makes the crop potentially as valuable in a money way as a year ago.

History is made rapidly in these days. Changes of government, divisions, reunions and redivisions, have been of fre-

HAPPY DAYS.

When Friends Say, "How Well You Look."

What happy days are those when all our friends say, "How well you look."

We can bring those days by a little care in the selection of food just as this young man did.

"I had suffered from dyspepsia for three years, and last summer was so bad I was unable to attend school," he says. "I was very thin, and my appetite at times was poor, while again it was craving. I was dizzy, and my food always used to ferment instead of digesting. Crossness, unhappiness and nervousness were very prominent symptoms.

"Late in the summer I went to visit a sister, and there I saw and used Grape-Nuts. I had heard of this famous food before, but never was interested enough to try it, for I never knew how really good it was. But when I came home we used Grape-Nuts in our household all the time, and I soon began to note changes in my health. I improved steadily, and am now strong and well in every way, and am back at school able to get my lessons with ease and pleasure, and can remember them too, for the improvement in my mental power is very noticeable, and I get good marks in my studies which always seemed difficult before.

"I have no more of the bad symptoms given above, but feel fine and strong and happy, and it is mighty pleasant to hear my friends say, 'How well you look.'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

quent occurrence in the South American republics, but not often has a new sovereignty declared itself and obtained such instant recognition as the government at Washington has accorded to the hastily-proclaimed Republic of Panama, which declared its independence last week and received recognition within four days.

A dispatch to the "Times" from Shanghai says the officials and press there are following with keen interest the course of events in Peking. It is generally recognized that the situation is critical, and that the government must decide whether the advice of the patriotic Chinese Viceroy shall prevail and China make an effort to preserve its sovereign rights in Manchuria, or whether Prince Ching and other corrupt advisers of the throne shall be permitted to hand over the country to Russian dominion.

The estimates for the next fiscal year for the postal service point to a larger deficit than ever, mainly due to the rapid extension of the rural free delivery. The next great reform in the service will doubtless apply to the charges of the railroads for the carriage of the mails. It is very well known that the roads are imposing upon the government a rate for mail transportation which is about what it was twenty years or so ago, while ordinary railroad rates have been greatly reduced.

F. W. Crosby, who is collecting specimens for the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, has gone to Oregon City, Ore., from Lodi, Cal., to see the meteor reported a few days ago, and has pronounced it not only a genuine meteor, but the largest that has ever been found in the United States, and the largest ever discovered in the world. It weighs between ten and twenty tons. He says from appearances it may have been buried in the hill where it was found for many centuries.

The retreat of Dowie from New York took place last week, and no one felt the slightest interest in the event. Dowie's collapse in the East has been complete. For a week the whole East was somewhat interested in Dowie—in his gigantic assumptions, his funny egotism and vanity, and his rakish billingsgate. Then interest fled and Dowie was ignored. If he has converted anybody in New York, the name has not been mentioned. If he has won the respect of any one whose respect was worth having, the world is ignorant of the fact.

The elections held in the several States Third-day were interesting in their results. Ohio, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Iowa remained true to their Republican colors. Maryland and Kentucky are true to Democracy, while small contests made matters lively in Colorado and Nebraska. New Jersey was excited in spots by local contests. Of course, the greatest interest centered in New York city, where George B. McClellan, the Democratic (Tammany) candidate, was elected Mayor by 63,617 plurality, carrying every borough in the city except Richmond.

President Palma's annual message to the Cuban Congress, which met last week, gives an encouraging exhibit of insular affairs, and indicates that the country is making measurable progress in the direction of self-rule. Improving conditions are particularly noticeable in the schools. The president calls attention to the fact that the prosperity of a country depends upon ample means of internal communication, and therefore recommended a generous annual expenditure for road making. The message declared that the outlook for the negotiation of the $30,000,000 loan in the United States was hopeful.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure.
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

Misses' and Girls' Clothes

Plenty of garments of just the right sort, and prices throughout that are hard to match. For this sale, these are among the extra values—staple styles and fresh goods:

$10.00 Full-length Coats are $7.50. For girls; of fine cheviot; made with circular cape and velvet collar, full box back and double-breasted front; 6 to 14 years.

$13.50 Kersey Jackets now $10.00. For misses; satin-lined throughout. Deep shoulder cape, finished with cloth applique; velvet collar; full box back, double-breasted front; fancy sleeves, with turnback cuffs. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

Walking Skirts special at $3.00. For misses; of fancy mixed cloth. Seven-gore flare, with several rows of stitching around bottom. Sizes 35 to 39 inches.

$16.75 Tailored Suits now $15.00. For misses; of fancy mixed cloths. Skirted blouse or plaited collarless jacket; finished with stitched silk in contrasting color. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

$19.75 Tailored Suits now $17.50. For misses; novelty cloth; full box jacket, velvet collar; finished with belt at back; plaited flare skirt. Sizes 14, 16 and 18 years.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PHILADELPHIA

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS AND PLANTS

These You may have in Abundance by Planting our Select Bulbs and Plants.

To introduce our Bulbs into many new homes we make the following

Special Offer.

For 35 cents we will send postpaid 35 grand winter-blooming bulbs, all beautiful and of decided merit. This collection includes Hyacinths, Tulips, Crocus, Narcissus, Ixias, Freesias and many others. This collection is composed entirely of new varieties and strong sound bulbs sure to give satisfaction.

For 50 cents we will send postpaid the above collection and also one Hardy Magnolia Tree which will grow and flourish anywhere and give an abundance of its grand blooms with their most exquisite fragrance.

When ordering send us the address of people interested in flowers or plants and receive a fine lot of extra bulbs free.

We invite correspondence on all matters pertaining to Fruits, Flowers or Ornamental Planting. We answer all questions free of charge.

Catalogue of Trees, Plants and Bulbs Free.

T. C. FURNAS & CO.

Box 272

Indianapolis, Ind.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO

TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

New Archdale

St. James
Place

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.

JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

There is money enough in the hands of church members to sow every acre of earth with the seed of truth.—Josiah Strong.

THE YELLOW YEAR.

The yellow year is hastening to its close;
The little birds have almost sung their last,

Their small notes twitter in the dreary blast—

That shrill-piped harbinger of early snows:—

The patient beauty of the scentless rose,
Oft with morn's hoar crystals quaintly glassed,

Hangs a pale mourner for the summer past,

And makes a little summer where it goes;

In the chill sunbeam of the faint, brief day

The dusk waters shudder as they shine;
The russet leaves obstruct the straggling way

Of oozy brooks, which no deep banks define,

And the gaunt woods in ragged scant array,

Wrap their old limbs in sombre ivy-twine.

—Coleridge.

"To live a life of childlike confidence in God is a duty that each man owes to himself."

"Get the best"—this to the public; "make the best"—this to themselves, has been the motto of the publishers of Webster's International Dictionary. Their aim has been to make the best popular dictionary in the English language, in respect to accuracy, clearness, fullness, convenience, and usefulness to all classes of consulters. Comparison is not here made with the many-volumed and encyclopedic works, but with those whose size and form adapt them to quick and easy use; the one-volume books which aim to serve all classes from the erudite scholar to the school child. The International is in practical, universal use by the National and State Supreme Courts, Chief Justice Fuller says: "I regard it of the utmost value in accuracy of definition, and have found it in all respects complete and thorough." The public school systems of the forty-five States are practically a unit in favor of the International. Every one of their State superintendents recommends it in the highest terms. In every State normal school it is the accepted standard. Wherever State funds have been appropriated for the purchase of a large dictionary for the schools, Webster's has been the book. The school books of the country, wherever they are of such character as to require a standard in spelling, pronunciation, and definition, follow the International with hardly an exception.

LET YOUR STOMACH HAVE ITS OWN WAY.

Do Not Try to Drive and Force it to Work When it is Not Able or You Will Suffer All the More.

You cannot treat your stomach as some men treat a balky horse; force, drive or even starve it into doing work at which it rebels. The stomach is a patient and faithful servant and will stand much abuse and ill-treatment before it "balks," but when it does you had better go slow with it, and not attempt to make it work. Some people have the mistaken idea that they can make their stomachs work by starving themselves. They might cure the stomach that way, but it would take so long that they would have no use for a stomach when they got through. The sensible way out of the difficulty is to let the stomach rest if it wants to and employ a substitute to do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work of your stomach for you, and digest your food just as your stomach used to when it was well. You can prove this by putting your food in a glass jar with one of the tablets and sufficient water, and you will see the food digested in just the same time as the digestive fluids of the stomach would do it. That will satisfy your mind. Now, to satisfy both your mind and body take one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating—eat all and what you want—and you will feel in your mind that your food is being digested because you will feel no disturbance or weight in your stomach; in fact, you will forget all about having a stomach just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act in a natural way because they contain only the natural elements of the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach. It makes no difference what condition the stomach is in, they go right ahead of their own accord and do their work. They know their business, and surrounding conditions do not influence them in the least. They thus relieve the weak stomach of all its burdens, and give it its much-needed rest and permit it to become strong and healthy.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine. In fact, physicians are prescribing them all over the land, and if your own doctor is real honest with you, he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

NATURE'S MISSION.

What a holy thing it is, this nature-love; what a pure, sweet, religious thing! You cannot put it into a creed, or even into a psalm; but it lifts you, somehow, until you feel that you are very near to God, and near to the heart of that which gives joy to immortal beings. I believe we shall never know, until it is revealed to us in the other life, how much the birds—the innocent, pure singers of the air—have done to lift humanity above its baser instinct, and make men more worthy to be called the sons of God.—James Buckham.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SONGS OF PRAISE

REGULAR EDITION

270 SONGS—100 NEW with the SELECT of the OLD. SEPARATE EDITION for Christian Endeavor Societies

Handsomely bound in silk finish cloths.

Each 25 cts. a copy, or $25.00 per 100.

Returnable sample sent on request.

THE BIGLOW & MAIN CO., New York & Chicago.

By IRA D. SANKEY.

A PRAYER FOR A MOTHER'S BIRTH-DAY.

Lord Jesus, Thou hast known
A mother's love and tender care:
And Thou wilt hear, while for my own Mother most dear I make this birthday prayer.

Protect her life, I pray,
Who gave the gift of life to me;
And may she know, from day to day,
The deepening glow of Life that comes from Thee.

As once upon her breast
Fearless and well content I lay,
So let her heart, on Thee at rest,
Feel fears depart and troubles fade away.

Her very wish fulfill;
And even if Thou must refuse
In anything, let Thy wise will
A comfort bring such as kind mothers use.

Ah, hold her by the hand,
As once her hand held mine;
And though she may not understand Life's winding way, lead her in peace divine.

I cannot pay my debt
For all the love that she has given;
But Thou, love's Lord, wilt not forget Her due reward—bless her in earth and heaven.
—Henry van Dyke, in "The Outlook."

Probably the most of the difficulties in trying to live the Christian life arise from attempting to half live it.—Henry Drummond.

HARD ARGUMENTS.

Coffee Uses Them Whether One Likes or Not.

The ill effects of coffee are present in many coffee drinkers, but some people pay no attention to the warning signals like dyspepsia, insomnia, nervousness, fluttering of the heart, etc., until coffee finally uses a knock-down argument which means collapse on the part of the coffee drinker.

"I am 30 years old, and have drank coffee since I can remember until four years ago when I broke down completely with nervous prostration and indigestion. I simply cannot describe the agony I suffered.

"Doctor told me he could not help me if I did not leave coffee alone, so I bought some Postum to give it a trial.
At first I did not know how to make it, and was disappointed in the taste, but after reading the directions on the package carefully, made it right, and then I thought it better than coffee. At that time I weighed 140 pounds, and now I weigh 185 pounds. That's quite a gain, isn't it? I never have indigestion now, and the headaches are all gone, and I am otherwise entirely well and strong.

"I never had any troubles that were not due to drinking coffee, and these disappeared and health came in their place when I shut off coffee and drank Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB.

AS AUSTIN DOBSON WRITES IT.

A little lamb had Mary, sweet,
With fleece that shamed the driven snow.
Not alone Mary went when she moved her feet;
For a little lamb had Mary, sweet;
And it tagged her 'round with a pensive bleat,
And wherever she went it wanted to go.
A little lamb had Mary, sweet,
With a fleece that shamed the driven snow.

AS ROBERT BROWNING HAS IT.

You knew her?—Mary the small—
How of a summer—or, no, was it fall?
The latter I think—a lamb she received?
You'd never have thought it, never believed,
But the girl owned a lamb last fall.

Its wool was subtly, silky white,
Color of lucent obliteration of night—
Like the shimmering snow—or of Clothild's arm!—

You've seen her arm—her right, I mean—
The other she scalded a-washing, I ween—

How white it is and soft and warm?

Ah, there was soul's heart-love, deep,
true, and tender.

Wherever went Mary, the maiden so slender,

There followed, his all-absorbed passion
inciting,

That passionate lambkin, her soul's heart delighting.

Ay, every place that Mary was sought in
That lamb was sure to soon be caught in.

AS LONGFELLOW MIGHT HAVE DONE IT.

Fair the daughter known as Mary,
Fair and full of fun and laughter,
Owned a lamb, a little he-goat,
Owned him all herself and solely;
White the lamb's wool as the Gotchi—
The great Gotchi, driving snowstorm.
Hither Mary went and thither,
But went with her to all places,
Sure as brook to running river,
Her pet lambkin following with her.

HOW ANDREW LANG SINGS IT.

A wonderful lass was Marie, petite;
And she looked full fair and passing sweet;

And, oh! she owned—but cannot you guess?

What pet can a maiden so love and caress

As a tiny lamb with a plaintive bleat

And mud upon his dainty feet,

And a gentle vally odor of meat,

And a fleece to finger and kiss and press,

White as snow?

Wherever she wandered, in lane or street,

As she sauntered on, there at her feet

She would find that lambkin—bless

The dear!—treading on her dainty dress,

Her dainty dress, fresh and neat,

White as snow.

WALT WHITMAN'S WAY.

The little girl, bright-eyed, fair, Mary-named, making me think of the fresh fields, the flowers and spring,

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking, or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion; it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or, rather, in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Possessed, solely, by herself, in her own right, a blithe, frisk, rejoicing little he-goat.

White was its hide, white as snow or as sunshine, or my fair girl's arms, white as the seafoam when the wind
churns it uglily;

And to what part soever of the corners of infinitely far spreading, all-covering universe Mary adjourned,

There followed the little flea-bitten, snow-white he-goat, omnipresent, ubiquitous, infinite in everywhere-ness.
—"Chicago News."

Expect great things from God; attempt great things for God.—William Carey.

WHY MODIFY MILK

for infant feeding in the uncertain ways of the novice when you can have always with you a supply of Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, a perfect cow's milk from herds of native breeds, the perfection of infant food? Use it for tea and coffee.

STALL'S BOOKS

THE SELF-AND SEX SERIES has the unqualified endorsement of

Dr. Joseph Cook
Rev. C. M. Sheldon
Rev. F. B. Meyer
Dr. Theo. L. Cuyler
Dr. Francis E. Clark
Bishop Vincent
Anthony Comstock
Pansy
Frances E. Willard
Lady H. Somerset Eminent physicians, and hundreds of others

4 BOOKS TO MEN. By Sylvanus Stall, D.D.
WHAT A YOUNG BOY OUGHT TO KNOW.
WHAT A YOUNG MAN OUGHT TO KNOW.
WHAT A YOUNG HUSBAND OUGHT TO KNOW.
WHAT A MAN OF 45 OUGHT TO KNOW.

4 BOOKS TO WOMEN. By Mrs. Mary Wood-Allen, M.D., and Mrs. Emma F. A. Drake, M.D.
WHAT A YOUNG GIRL OUGHT TO KNOW.
WHAT A YOUNG WOMAN OUGHT TO KNOW.
WHAT A YOUNG WIFE OUGHT TO KNOW.
WHAT A WOMAN OF 45 OUGHT TO KNOW.

$1 per copy, post free. Send for table of contents.

Canvassers Wanted

4 NEW BOOKS.—"Faces Toward the Light," devotional (Stall). A splendid book for spiritual quickening, $1, net. "Manhood's Morning" (Conwell). A book of high ideals for young men. A golden gift book, $1, net. "Maternity" (Drake), 50c., net. "Pastor's Pocket Record" (Stall), 50c., net.

Vir Publishing Co. 1154 Real Estate Trust Bldg., Philadelphia, Pa.

The surest method of arriving at a knowledge of God's eternal purposes about us is to be found in the right use of the present moment.—F. W. Faber.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

FLOWERS AND SHRUBS.—You should plant this Fall. Send for our new Floral Guide, just out.
The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Box X

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE CO., Miami, Ind. Ter.
Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

FROM SALOON TO PULPIT. 138 pages, illustrated. 12 cents postpaid. We have 10,000 fine books to give away. Address, Howard Book House, Elwood, Ind.

FRIENDS WISHING TO LOCATE in the great wheat, corn and alfalfa belt, of Oklahoma, should write us for information. Well-improved farms sell for from $25 to $50 per acre, and ranches from $5 to $10. This is a Friends' community, the land is rich, and opportunities are excellent. Congenial surroundings are assured, educational facilities are excellent, and in every particular the means for establishing a comfortable home are far above the average. References gladly given. Votaw & Setzer, Cherokee, Woods Co., Oklahoma.

TO INTRODUCE OUR BULBS we offer to send for 35 cents thirty-five grand winter-blooming bulbs, all beautiful and of decided merit. These include hyacinths, crocus, narcissus, ixias, freesias, and many others. For 50 cents we will send the above collection, and will include one hardy magnolia tree, which will grow and flourish anywhere and give an abundance of its grand blooms with their most exquisite fragrance. T. C. Furnas & Co., Box 272, Indianapolis, Ind.

A FATHER'S LOVE.

Much is said and written in glorification of mother love. Father love is less in evidence, but one little girl's opinion of it appears in the following story:

A young rector was in charge of a large church in the West End of London, whose wife died, leaving a motherless child. The people hoped that some aunt, sister or niece would come to look after the child, but none such appeared.

Gradually it came to be known in the parish that their scholarly and eloquent rector was as much at home amid the mysteries of the nursery, the warming of a child's mug of milk, the washing of "baby's" face, etc., as he was familiar with the mazes of theology and the changing phases of Biblical questions.

Four years slipped by, and one Easter Sunday, when the church was adorned with wreaths and lilies of sweet perfume, the child was placed, as usual, in the corner of a front pew, and the service went on until the sermon began.

This was on the Mother of Christ—her agony of heart at the Cross, her wonder at the news of the Resurrection, and from this he turned to tell of the sadness and misery of those who "feel the mother want in this world."

The face of his motherless child inspired unusual earnestness as he pictured that wonderful mother love.

In conclusion he said: "Think what a child's life is without a mother's love? Who can tend, who cherish, who can love—who—but a mother?"

And in the depth of his feeling the rector's strong voice halted, as if for an answer.

In the hush of the great congregation a little voice spoke out very sweetly from that front pew:

"A faver (father) would do just ev'y bit as well, papa, dear!"

The rector closed the service somewhat abruptly, his voice trembling as he gave the benediction.

The little child ran into the vestry, and the rector clasped her to his heart, as the little one, in a half-frightened tone, asked: "You arn't angry wif me, are you, papa, dear? I forgot ev'ybody was a-lis'ning!"

VISION.

I but open my eyes, and perfection, no more and no less

In the kind I imagined, full fronts me, and God is seen God

In the star, in the stone, in the flesh, in the soul and the clod.

And thus looking within and around me, I ever renew

(With that stoop of the soul which in bending upraises it, too)

The submission of man's nothing-perfect to God's all-complete,

As by each new obeisance of spirit I climb to His feet.

—Robert Browning, in "Saul."

SAVE 1/2 YOUR FUEL

or get all the heat you pay for. When you use a Rochester Radiator you do.

Rochester Radiator Co.,

77 Furnace St.,

Fully Guaranteed.

EASY Write for booklet on heating houses.

Rochester, N. Y.

MACBETH, on a lamp- chimney, stays there.

My Index tells what chimney fits your lamp. If you use that chimney, you get perhaps twice as much light, and save a dollar or two a year of chimney-money,

I send it free; am glad to.

MACBETH, Pittsburgh.

OKLAHOMA FARMS

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

DO YOU WANT YOUR

printed matter to have the artistic setting that will make it worth while?
Consult us.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO., Inc.
Makers of the Better Kind of Printing.
1019-21 MARKET STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

Lace Curtains FREE! Do not send any money. Just send us your name and address and we will send you, express paid, six boxes of QUAKER OINTMENT to sell among your friends at 25c. each. When sold send us the $1.50, and we will send you absolutely free a fine pair of lace curtains. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best-known remedy for Catarrh, Eczema, and all surface irritations. It is easy to sell because it is an honest remedy. Sold under guarantee. A few moments of your time is all that is required to get a pair of these beautiful curtains, or your choice of many other premiums. REV. ASA WOODARD, pastor Friends' Meeting, Butlerville, Ind., says: "We are using QUAKER OINTMENT, and find it an excellent remedy." MRS. CLARA CHANEY, R. F. D. No. 3, Warren, Ind., says: "I have never found anything as good as QUAKER OINTMENT for nasal catarrh, sores and skin diseases." Full size box sent to any address upon receipt of 25 cents.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.

BANK BY MAIL

4%

SETS $14,500,000

A Safe and Profitable

place for your money is an Investment Account with this bank—pays Four per cent. compound interest on all amounts from One Dollar up. Our Banking by Mail system brings our Bank to your postoffice. Write to-day for explanatory booklet A.F.

PITTSBURGH BANK FOR SAVINGS
SMITHFIELD & FOURTH AVE
ESTABLISHED 1862 PITTSBURGH PA

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN, Principal. LINDLEY M. STEVENS, Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL

or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

Stenography, Typewriting, Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

Acker has them—those Molasses Kisses.

BOOK NOTICE.

"What a Young Boy Ought to Know." The first book in a Self and Sex series to boys and men, by Sylvanus Stall, D.D. Vir Publishing Co., Hale Building, Philadelphia. Price, $1.00.

This admirable little book handles a difficult subject in a delicate way. It is scientific, but can be understood by a child, and is as readable as a fairy story. For purity, clearness and intensity it is without a rival in literature of its class. There is universal need for a book of this kind, and it should be read not only by every boy, but by every man, preacher, mother and especially by every teacher in the country. To what extent and in what way teachers in the public schools should impart information upon this subject depends upon the tact of the teacher and the conditions in the community; but that every teacher should be intelligent upon this subject of personal purity for boys and girls there can be but one opinion. This book has been read and is commended in highest terms by such persons as Theodore L. Cuyler, Joseph Cook, Josiah Strong, and many other equally prominent persons, and we desire to add our heartiest approval and commendation.

GOVERNMENT LANDS TO BE IRRIGATED.

IN THE FAMOUS SALT RIVER VALLEY, Arizona, near Phoenix, the capital, there is, now belonging to the government, a large tract of beautiful rich desert land, needing water only to make it of great value. The Verde Water and Power Company has been organized for the purpose of creating power and irrigating this land. The enterprise has been planned and is being financed in the interest of the land owners, rather than for the usual purpose of earning large dividends for the share holders.

ELECTRIC POWER. The water will be stored in a mountain reservoir, which expert engineers pronounce one of the largest and finest natural reservoir sites in the country. Over $50,000 has been spent in perfecting the surveys and engineering for the enterprise. Before the water is spread over the land for irrigation, it will be used to develop electric power. The company will develop 12,000 horse power, for all of which there is a present demand at high prices.

THE LANDS. The wonderful fertility and crop capacity of these lands has been demonstrated by cultivation under a dozen canals in the immediate vicinity. The soil is very deep and rich. A crop of wheat and a crop of corn are frequently harvested in one year from the same piece of ground. With a full water supply, four or five heavy crops of alfalfa hay can be cut from April until November; in addition, the fields can be grazed through the winter season. No grain is fed to beef cattle or milch cows. Southern California is only 200 miles distant. All the fine fruits of that section are raised here.

WATER-RIGHTS. We are now selling the water-rights for these lands, which will enable the purchaser to obtain title to the land and guarantee adequate water for its cultivation.

This beautiful country will develop rapidly. Towns, churches, schools, electric railways—a highly Christian community, will arise rapidly when the water is ready for service; thus the usual discomforts of settling a new country will be largely avoided. New places will soon be surrounded with plenty of fruit and shade, and all the comforts of older eastern homes.

We shall gladly send free, statements from numerous Arizona farmers and testimonials of reliable Christian people from half a dozen States, who have made a trip to Arizona to study this enterprise; also maps and other printed matter describing our plans.

Please address, mentioning this paper,

JOHN G. HUDSON,

WATER-RIGHT AGENT,

43 PICKERING BUILDING.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.

NOTICE—Water-right sales reached 102,330 acres (over two-thirds of our total area) October 2nd. They are selling faster and faster, and all will probably be sold by November 15th, 1903.

"Better is a duty near at hand than a hope that is far off."

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 10 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.) 52d & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

Save Money

Even if it be but little at a time.

IT IS ASTONISHING How rapidly small sums regularly put aside increase in a good Savings Bank. $1.00 a week deposited in The Bowery Savings Bank, at compound interest, in five years, grows to $286. Ten years, $627. In twenty years, $1514. In forty years, $4,544. These are figures to think about!

The Bowery Savings Bank

NEW YORK

Is the Largest Savings Bank in the World. It has nearly

ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS OF DOLLARS OF ASSETS

Too much to be easily comprehended, and yet it would like to help you to save, even a little, but all you can. IT IS A MUTUAL BANK. There are no stockholders; the trustees get no direct or indirect pecuniary pay for their services. It was incorporated seventy years ago by a number of benevolent men of the city of New York, among whom were several Friends, and it has ever since had a greater or less number of members of the Society of Friends in its board of trustees. To make it easy for those who live anywhere to put their savings in a safe bank, it has recently started a system of through which anyone may avail themselves of its facilities for safe-guarding money, and returning a fair rate of dividends, as if the bank was "just around the corner."

BANKING BY MAIL

Send for a copy of the new booklet, "Banking by Mail." It will tell you how to do it. You should have it anyhow, whether you wish to open an account now or at some future time.

Address THE BOWERY SAVINGS BANK, 128 and 130 BOWERY
NEW YORK

Getting Ahead

Many people never get ahead until they go in debt. Debt may be safely and honestly incurred when a good life insurance policy runs along with it. Consult the

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

Where you are is of no moment, but only what you are doing there. It is not the place that ennobles you, but you the place; and this is only by doing that which is great and noble—Petrarch.

FREE HOMES IN CANADA

Friends desiring to locate in the wheat belt of the Canadian Northwest on free grant lands should communicate with Wm. I. Moore, 60 Bleecker Street, Toronto, Ont., with a view to joining the Friends' Colony.

See article in The American Friend of Tenth month 22, page 721, entitled "Canada Yearly Meeting and the Canadian Northwest."

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer

C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

DIRECTORS:
ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

7% Net TO LENDER.

FIRST MORTGAGES on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

6% Net FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands. Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

THE FAIRHART COLLEGE LIBRARY

FAIRHART COLLEGE LIBRARY

American Friend

Vol. X

ELEVENTH MONTH 19, 1903

No. 47

PAGE

EDITORIALS.—The Forgotten Face.—
Denominational Journals.—Editorial Notes 787

Historical Sketches.—Where the Early Friends Preached 788
Amelia M. Gummere.

Two Types of Religious Thought . . . 790

Looking at Ourselves 791
J. R. Miller.

Baltimore Yearly Meeting 791

THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON 792
Lesson for Eleventh month 29, 1903.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR 793
Topic for Eleventh month 29, 1903.

MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT 794

CORRESPONDENCE 795

THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES, 795

BORN.—DIED 796

EVENTS AND COMMENTS 798

The season is at hand when, according to the custom of our people, it falls upon the President to appoint a day of praise and thanksgiving to God.

During the last year the Lord has dealt bountifully with us, giving us peace at home and abroad, and the chance for our citizens to work for their welfare unhindered by war, famine or plague. It behooves us not only to rejoice greatly because of what has been given us, but to accept it with a solemn sense of responsibility, realizing that under heaven it rests with us ourselves to show that we are worthy to use aright what has thus been entrusted to our care. In no other place and at no other time has the experiment of government of the people, by the people, for the people, been tried on so vast a scale as here in our own country in the opening years of the twentieth century. Failure would not only be a dreadful thing for us, but a dreadful thing for all mankind, because it would mean loss of hope for all who believe in the power and the righteousness of liberty.

FROM PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S
THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

The principal literary event of the year in Quaker circles is the issuance of

GEORGE FOX:

An Autobiography

Being the Story of his Life as told in selected passages from his Journal.

EDITED WITH EXPLANATORY NOTES AND AN INTRODUCTION BY

RUFUS M. JONES.

GEORGE FOX is one of the most striking figures of a marvelous period. His life was crowded with dramatic situations and exciting episodes of the most fascinating interest. His historic stage,—The England of the Seventeenth Century,—was one of the most magnificent, the richest in actors and scenic accessories, the most momentous in far-reaching influence in modern history.

Yet the narrative of his life, written by his own hand, has never taken its rightful place in literature as a historic story of compelling interest. It has been accepted by the Society which he founded as one of its fundamental charters, and as such has been revered more than it has been enjoyed. But youth has never been largely drawn to it, and even persevering students of mature years have confessed their difficulty in reading it to the end.

The difficulty is in Fox's own outlook. Theology looms too large in his view; life itself is almost overlooked. Simple and living as was his message to the world, its contest was with a theological opposition which to modern apprehension was often verbose, tedious and unmeaning. Thus his survey of the field is that of one who sees Truth lost in mazes of casuistry, and his own unending conflict with these theological entanglements seems much like a continuous tilting against windmills.

In this edition the point of view has been completely changed. The simple, thrilling story of Fox's life has been retained; the theological disquisitions have been dropped. The speech and bearing of the man, his courage and steadfastness in his long fight for Truth, are very ample witnesses to his essential belief and inmost faith, and the dropping of the controversial parts leaves the simple and moving narrative to shine out unobstructed. The essential completeness of the story is in no way affected by this simplification.

The supreme value of this autobiography is its naïve story of personal experience. All recent students of the psychology of religion have drawn upon it and found rich illustration in it.

It is one of the most valuable documents in existence for the study of personal, inward religious experience, and this aspect receives special emphasis in the Editor's Introduction and notes to the present edition.

The Introduction is a study of Fox's relation to the religious movements of the Commonwealth, of the root idea of which he was the exponent, and of the unique psychological characteristics of the man himself. The Journal is full of material for a study of the inner life of the Seventeenth century, for Fox was an indefatigable traveller, and he never went far without some dramatic episode which reveals the conditions of the period.

The religious message of Fox is especially suited to our present age. It has been somewhat obscured by the undue emphasis placed upon unimportant peculiarities and by the fact that he has been supposed to belong to a sect. He belongs, however, in the succession of the prophets, and this autobiography will be found to be no story of a sect, but the battle of a remarkable man for universal spiritual truths and practices, which are now fairly winning their way.

The value as well as the interest of this edition has been greatly increased by a liberal use of illustrations. The scenes among which George Fox lived, and worked, his home and home surroundings, the prisons in which he suffered, his various portraits, contemporary illustrations of his career, and even imaginative pictures of some dramatic scenes in his life, have all been drawn upon.

Two volumes, 12mo, cloth, gilt top, 600 pages, with numerous illustrations, and with maps of George Fox's travels in England and America, prepaid, } $4.00 Net READY EARLY IN DECEMBER. ORDER AT ONCE TO ASSURE DELIVERY BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

FERRIS & LEACH, Publishers, PHILADELPHIA

The American Friend

*"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."*

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, ELEVENTH MONTH 19, 1903.

No. 47.

NOTICE.

New Subscribers to THE AMERICAN FRIEND may receive the paper the remainder of this year and the whole of next year for $1.50. Sample copies will be sent free. Address,

*THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch St., Philadelphia.*

THE FORGOTTEN FACE.

How few of us can remember how we look. We see our faces many times a day. We know the color of our hair, the shape of our nose, the tint of the eye, and yet we cannot see how our own face looks. Most persons can visualize the faces of distant friends. They can see how they would look if they were present. But, strangely enough, they cannot visualize themselves. The Apostle James had evidently discovered this interesting fact. He could think how Cephas or Paul or John would look, but he could not think how he looked himself. He beheld again his natural face in the glass and then straightway forgot how he looked. Why is it that we forget our own face? Because the image of it in the mind would be of no use. We never need it to identify ourselves by. We always know who we are without thinking how we look! Now an idea or an image of which we make no use soon fades out and ceases to have any real place in consciousness. It is an unwritten law that the mind does not keep anything which it fails to use.

If this is true the Apostle James had an excellent illustration for the point which he wished to make. He wanted to show what happens to a person who is a "hearer" of some truth, and who is not a "doer" of it. He is like a man who forgets how he looks. In other words, "hearing" is no advantage, unless one puts what he hears to some actual use. An unused truth is no better than the sight of your face in the glass; it will slip away and leave no power.

The high emotion which comes in the revival meeting, or which may come in a silent meeting, or which may come in high church service or during the playing of lofty music—this emotion is worse than nothing if it evaporates and does not set the life to work in higher channels. It is then like the face that was seen in the glass, but which vanished as soon as seen. The value of an idea, or an emotion, is discovered in its motor effect—i.e., by the way in which it sets the life moving. Resolutions which are never put into practice, spiritual impressions which produce no motor effects, wishes for a better life which never get beyond the stage of "wishes," add no cubits to anybody's spiritual stature and count no more than the lost image of the face which was seen in the glass this morning. All this applies to those who listen to sermons. It is a very serious thing to hear a good sermon. If it comes as a fresh truth and stirs your heart and makes you see a larger view of life, and if, however, it produces no "motor effects," you are soon to lose all the truth you heard as you lose the image of your own face. But worse than this, you are on the dangerous course of becoming "gospel-hardened." Next time the truth will roll off easier and will stir you a little less. Next time the chances of motor effect will diminish. This is not meant especially for the "unsaved." It is just as true for any of us. Why is the Church so full of cases of arrested development? It is because these persons have never done anything with the truths and emotions which the sermons produced in them. They heard great calls and saw visions opened; they felt their hearts throb as they listened; they wept warm tears as they realized the truth; but they did nothing with inward states; they let them evaporate. They went on living as though nothing had happened. The thing that really happened was the arrest of their development. They became well-nigh stationary. Their great visions grew as ineffectual as the images of their faces in a mirror. All this happens, too, with those who make religion a thing of formula or of rite. Religion now falls to the level of a habit. It is no longer a thing of vision and power. It may sink to the level of mechanical acts, like that of winding the watch or buttoning one's coat. There is no longer a living idea pushing behind the act. Nineteen hundred years ago this Christian in Jerusalem saw the danger of dallying with truth, of hearing a truth or of holding a truth which produces no motor effects. Everything we have learned since confirms what he said, and the stoutest person would tremble if he saw how solemn it is to sit and enjoy an "opportunity" which leaves nothing behind except a vanishing emotion and some unused ideas.

DENOMINATIONAL JOURNALS.

Most of the denominational journals in America have a constant struggle for existence. The financial problem is the sternest difficulty, and one which confronts nearly every religious publishing house in the country. In the small denominations the difficulty is correspondingly great, but the annual reports show that religious periodicals, even in great denominations, have their financial trials as well.

A much more trying and perplexing difficulty is the lack of denominational loyalty, which does much to take the pith and spirit out of any editor. If he sees his own membership unconcerned in the affairs of their own Church, careless whether their own denomination fails or succeeds, he is naturally wounded at the heart. All editors who are large enough for their task welcome criticism and suggestion. The one thing they cannot face bravely is the I-don't-care attitude. It is that which makes a religious body—whether it is large or small—a weak and ineffectual body, and sooner or later the denomination which treats its periodical as a matter of slight importance and lets it sag down to a low level will find its power disappearing and its message gone.

What is the mission of a denominational journal? It is not to say over from week to week the things which everybody already knows and nods approval to. It is not to present its readers with a warmed-over collection of ancient views. If its readers always agree with all its utterances, that is pretty sure proof that it has no progressive message and that it is living on past achievements. A true religious journal is prophetic literature. It forecasts the way of the Lord and heralds the better future of the Church. It does not rest content with things as they are. It gives a vision of things as they ought to be. It deals with the living issues of the time. It proclaims a virile Christianity which is concerned with everything which touches human life for good or evil. It voices a victorious optimism and refuses to hear the noisy cries of those who have lost faith in God or in Man.

There is still a place for such literature as this, and it is the duty of the Church to promote it, and foster it. Friends need a periodical which fills this prophetic service. We plead with our members to help us produce it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE death of Henry Wood, of Mount Kisco, N. Y., removes a Friend who has for half a century been devoted to the Lord's work and the advancement of the Church. His tall, commanding figure and his emphatic word upon the affairs of the Church have impressed all who have attended New York Yearly Meeting for a generation. He was a student of Friends' literature, a solid authority on all matters of business and discipline, and, best of all, he was loyal and faithful to his heavenly King in the exercise of the gifts which he had received.

SINCE our last report of the Harriet Green Fund President L. L. Hobbs has received $365. The subscriptions from Indiana Yearly Meeting have risen to $523.17, those from Western to $863, and the reports from England indicate that subscriptions there amount to nearly $2,500.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES.—WHERE THE EARLY FRIENDS PREACHED.

BY AMELIA M. GUMMERE.

"See the ingenuity of Truth, who, when she gets a free and willing hand, opens herself faster than the pace of Method & Discours can overtake her."—Milton: Areopagitica.

The year 1652 marks, perhaps, the most notable epoch in Quakerism. Fox had begun to preach in the fields and public places in 1648-9. It was in 1652 that he came to Swarthmoor, and that same year saw the conversion to Quakerism of many of his immediate followers, who afterward became famous. Two years later "The Truth" was preached in London, when Fox sent out from the North his sixty preachers, who, like veritable apostles of a new faith, went into various parts of England with their great message. We may for a moment profitably consider the character of those open-air meetings for the multitude, which so soon became general, as well as the meetings in private houses and hired halls of inns, and the like, which were the scenes of some of the most wonderful convincements and sermons, before Quakerism possessed a single meeting-house of its own.

Field preaching was new in England, and had heretofore been practiced chiefly by the friars and wandering monks of the Roman Church. Moreover, the English middle and lower classes at this time were singularly little given to moving about. A man often spent his entire life within the confines of his own parish, after the manner that George Eliot so loves to paint. Quakerism, however, at once set a man moving; and I do not find mention of any body of people, outside of the army, who were such inveterate travelers as the new-made Quakers. In the absence of better opportunities, they took to the fields, and became the pioneers in field preaching.*

There was, of course, a strong prejudice against such methods, and this prejudice continued for a long time. We find John Wesley expressing himself thus, and showing his conservatism to the ideas of the Establishment: "I could scarce reconcile myself at first to this strange way of preaching in the fields . . . till very lately. I should have thought the saving of souls almost a sin if it had not been done in a church." It came to him that "the Sermon on the Mount was a pretty remarkable precedent for the adoption of this method, and next day he preached from a slight hill in the suburbs of Bristol." This, however, was so late as the year 1739.

Gardens and fields have always been the scenes of deep religious experience, as well as the places of inspiration for Hebrew prophet and Greek poet. Gethsemane had its agony, and the woods of Valley Forge saw the patriot leader on his knees. Quakerism may well record the many garden and orchard scenes, where souls have struggled in the search for Truth. There was one memorable moonlight night in 1651, when George Fox, after a crowded meeting in a private house, escaped to the orchard with William Dewsbury and his wife, and there "opened" to the seeking pair the inspiration that had been revealed to him, sending them on their way rejoicing to live and die in the same faith. William Edmundson's first meeting with Fox was when the latter took him into the orchard at Badgeley (Leicestershire) to pray with him. Edmundson, convinced by Nayler, first heard of the Quakers from two women who had preached from the market-cross at Chesterfield. Like so many others also, both Dewsbury and Edmundson were soldiers in Cromwell's army at the time of their conviction. Street preaching was a method well adapted to the needs of the seventeenth century, but not to those of to-day, with a similar class of people. The crowds reached by Salvation Army preachers now are of a lower grade in society than those to whom the traveling Quaker of that day made his appeal. There were also more men disturbed by the same sort of religious problems than now; there was far less diversity. A widespread, very general movement, affecting all classes of Englishmen, made it certain for a street preacher to gain the ear of the multitude in the days of Fox. A rather amusing anecdote which shows how completely the Quakers were associated with field preaching, occurs in the journal of Samuel Bownas. He says of himself and his friend: "The chief street was very broad, with a considerable ascent, and near the top of the ascent was a place made to cry things on, to which we walked, where we paused a little, but I had nothing to do there at that time. Returning back to the market-cross, which was at the foot of the hill, and had an ascent of three or four steps, and a place to sit on at the top, we sat down; but we had not sat long before a man came to us with a bunch of keys in his hand and took me by the hand and said I must go with him into the Tolbooth, meaning the prison. I asked him for what? He said, for preaching. I told him we had not preached. 'Ay, but,' quoth he, 'the provost (meaning the mayor) has ordered me to put you in the Tolbooth.' 'For what?' I again replied. 'I tell you for preaching.' I told him I did not know whether we should preach or not, but it was soon enough to make prisoners of us when we did preach. 'Ay,' says he, 'I ken very well that ye will preach by your looks!' Thus truly did the canny Scot read his man."*

The early stage of Quakerism is one of missionary zeal, and Fox and his contemporaries preached from haystacks, the market-cross, the chapel benches, the church steps, the highways and hedges, great stones in the shady orchards, and the windows of their prison cells. Their field was the world, their seed was the Word, their church the hearts of the people, and their opportunity the passing moment. Great multitudes were gathered in these outdoor assemblages long before the first Quaker meeting house was built. Horsleydown Meeting, one of the oldest in existence, began in 1655 in "the Widow Webb's garden." She was a woman of property, and the meeting house which she helped to build, torn down in 1670, was rebuilt the following year.

All over England, after 1649, the Quakers began holding meetings in private houses. In North of England parlance, "house" meant particularly the parlor or chief sitting-room. With the Pilgrim community, this part of the dwelling in John Robinson's abode was called "the meeting-house." William Crouch says quaintly: "The Friends, having opened their hearts to receive the Word of Life, they opened their doors for meetings in their homes." In 1677, Friends in London recorded of these home meetings, "It is the mind and counsel of this meeting that if a meeting of Friends be at the house of any particular Friend, and it appear that the Friend of that house committ anything that is dishonourable to the Truth, then forthwith the meeting be removed from that house."†

One of the first meetings in a private house of which we have much detailed history occurred on a certain winter's day in 1652, when Fox arrived at Swarthmoor Hall, and held his meetings in the hall of the manor house, where we may still go and picture to ourselves the waiting group of receptive listeners. "For after this manner," says Margaret Fell, "I had been inquiring and seeking about twenty years." Let this be emphasized to the hasty reader of Quaker history, who so often exclaims at the rapidity of the conversions to Quakerism in the seventeenth century. In almost every instance the convert had been seeking, with a zeal characteristic of the period and the nation, for a satisfactory setting forth of a faith to which he had nearly or quite attained. The seed fell on the most remarkably prepared soil that perhaps it was ever the lot of husbandman to cultivate, and here is the clue, rather than in any miracle of superhuman intervention, to the unprecedented growth of this always remarkable sect.

* The "camp-meeting" proper originated in Kentucky in 1799. See H. Horne, "Historical Collections of the Great West," page 216. (Cincinnati, 1857.)

* "Life of Samuel Bownas." Friends' Library, Vol. III., page 14.

† Beck and Ball, "History of London Friends' Meetings." page 119.

In all the many halls and kitchens where the early Quakers preached, the platform nearest at hand was an inverted tub. In many old prints these tubs are conspicuous, and so general was their use in the improvised meeting-places when churches were closed to them, that not only with the Quakers, but the other sectaries as well, "tub-preaching" became a generic term for all doctrine of dissent, and was in use long after the first generation of Quakers were in their graves. Swift was using a well-understood term when he wrote his satirical "Tale of a Tub," directed against the dissenters of his day. The Friends were in all cases careful to have their meeting-houses or private houses where meetings were held, properly recognized as such, and to conform to the law existing upon the subject. The most notable instance of their observance of legal forms in this connection is that of Gilbert Latey, whose foresight saved his own and many other houses in consequence.*

Most of us are familiar with the accounts of the enormous meetings held in London at the "Bull and Mouth," after Friends acquired that property, near the middle of the century. Thousands hastened to the spot, and preacher after preacher seems to have taken his turn on the edges of the crowd, where the central speaker's voice failed to reach. More than one veteran was, as Fox puts it, "spent" among them. These meetings, however, did not satisfy the longings of the earlier converts, to whom the privilege of silent meetings had grown dear. They therefore established what corresponded to our regular meetings for worship in their own houses or elsewhere. In addition to these, there seem to have been "Retired Meetings," in which a number of the Friends who were regular attenders at meetings, but who for physical or other reasons, could not labor with success in the larger field, might worship according to the practice of Friends and be undisturbed. These were usually held in some upper room of a Quaker inn, or a private hall. Thus we find three varieties of meetings being held in London through the latter part of George Fox's lifetime, besides the meetings for discipline: the "Retired Meetings," just mentioned, the ordinary public meeting for worship, and the great meetings to "thresh" the people in the thronging multitude.

A close study of the preachers and their methods at the rise of the Society cannot but be illuminating to the student of history; for it must continue to be reiterated in the ears of Quakerism that ignorance of their church history and intelligent grasp of the present perplexing situation are utterly and hopelessly incompatible.

Haverford, Pa.

TWO TYPES OF RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

No person can study the prophetic writers of the Old Testament in distinction from those of priestly tendencies without feeling that one broad difference between the two is found in the emphasis which the former put on the relationship of the spirit of man to God, as opposed to the stress laid by the latter upon eternal rites or ceremonies. On any possible construction of the Old Testament history Samuel stood near the sources of the prophetic order. And it is from the lips of Samuel that we have that noble sentence: "To obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams." That germinal thought was fructified in the message of all the subsequent prophets, and later it became one of the central thought of the New Testament.

We see these prophetic and the priestly tendencies of the Old Testament times reproduced in types of our modern Christian. On the one hand, we have the sacerdotal cult, on the other the evangelical and the mystic. Authority in the Old Testament can be cited for either. All depends on the particular class of passages to which you resort, and then upon your interpretation of them in the light of the Christian revelation.

Not to go outside our own country, you can hardly go into any community without confronting the two tendencies. The Roman Catholic and Episcopal communions are not alone in adopting the sacerdotal and sacramentarian view. The savor of that theory still lingers in many churches of the prophetic type.

On the other hand there are increasing numbers everywhere who take their stand with the prophets. They believe that obedience is always more than sacrifice, that the external rite is always of less importance than the inner disposition; that when the rite does not rest upon explicit divine command it hardly can bind the conscience at all, and that it is the privilege of every human being to receive immediate light and help from the Lord.

The growth of sacerdotalism has been so great as to lead some to fear that the sacramentarian view might finally prevail in all Christian churches. We do not believe it. The prophetic view is so entrenched in the Scriptures, it is found upon such a profound philosophy, and is so in accord with the noblest instincts of human freedom and responsibility, that it is impossible to believe that the priestly theory will prevail.—"The Watchman."

The humblest man or woman can live splendidly! That is the royal truth that we need to believe, you and I who have no "mission," no great sphere to move in. The universe is not quite complete without my work well done.—W. C. Gannett.

* The account may be referred to in detail in Beck and Ball's "History of London Meetings," a volume which in its way is invaluable to the student.

LOOKING AT OURSELVES.

BY J. R. MILLER.

Most earthly saints still have in them faults or idiosyncrasies. We cannot look at our own faces, and we do not see ourselves just as other people see us. Some one advises, "When anything goes wrong, blame yourself." That is not the way we usually do—we like to blame the other person. But it will help much in working out the problem, if we admit that the trouble may be at least partly with ourselves, partly our fault. This admission will make us more patient with others. Then it will make us more willing to try to learn the lesson set for us. The self-conceit that never confesses mistake or fault is incapable of being made better, is indeed hopeless.

The trouble with too many of us is that we are not willing to do this. We are not disposed to overlook things in others which do not fall in with our ideas of the way they should treat us. We are not willing to accord to them the rights which they claim, or to be lenient toward their uncongeniality and tolerant with their faults. We insist upon their coming up always to our requirements and doing only the things that please us. A little honest thought will show us that this is not the Christly way. Instead of insisting that others should think always of Him and minister to His comfort, Christ put it the other way and sought to minister to them. It is worth our while to think this out for ourselves.

Some good people are ready to claim that there is a limit to our duty of giving up. But not many of us are in danger of going too far in this phase of loving. We need only to recall the Master's teaching about turning the other cheek and letting the relentless litigant have our cloak as well as the coat he demands, and then to remember also the Master's own example of giving up and submitting to wrong and injustice, in order to find what the law of love really means. St. Paul also counsels Christians as far as in them lies to live peaceably with all men, of course including the quarrelsome. He tells us also that the servant of the Lord must not strive—that is, must not be contentious, but must be gentle unto all men. Then, in that matchless picture of love, which is a New Testament classic, we are taught that love suffereth long and is kind, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not its own, taketh not account of evil.

One of our Lord's beatitudes is, "Blessed are the peacemakers." This applies not only to our personal relations, but also to our influence upon those about us. We see a man now and then who, without being officious or a meddler in other people's affairs, is always dropping oil in most timely fashion on little frictions. When he meets a friend who is excited, he says a gentle word which acts as a charm in quieting him. When one complains to him of a slight or an injury received, he allays the hurt feeling by suggesting the Christly way of looking at it. Wherever he goes he is a peacemaker. He carries in his own life an influence which makes men ashamed of unlovingness and inspires them with the desire to live sweetly and in patient love.

Philadelphia, Pa.

BALTIMORE YEARLY MEETING.

The sessions of Baltimore Yearly Meeting each fall have a certain interest to Friends at large because they complete the series of yearly meetings, and close the record of official action for the year. In several recent years action upon questions relating to closer organic union has been awaited with interest, but this year almost nothing outside of details of our own work was brought before us. While this takes away, possibly, something of the attention of others, it is encouraging to note the large attendance and close attention to business of our own members. The experiment was tried this year of closing one day earlier than we have been doing, the closing session being held on Fourth-day afternoon, the 11th instant. This forced the holding of three afternoon sessions, instead of two, and the surrender of one devotional meeting, but was felt to be a relief to some of our busy members who can hardly spare the extra day which the former plan required.

Not for many years have we been favored with so many visiting ministers, and they were all helpful, each in his own way. There were present for part or all of the time ministers and others: Allen Jay, Anna M. Votaw and Minnie Bassett, from Indiana; John M. Watson, from Indian Territory; Charles E. Peasley and companion, Leslie O. Meader, of New England; David E. Sampson and David Farrow, Jr., of North Carolina; Lindley M. Stevens and wife, Elizabeth Ferris Stevens, of New York; Hiram S. Wollam, of Ohio; Willis R. Hotchkiss, of the African Industrial Mission; H. Edwin McGrew, president of Pacific College, Ore., and Rufus M. Jones, editor of THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

Allen C. Thomas and Anna King Carey were re-appointed clerks, and the present custom of holding all sessions jointly was continued. The business was transacted in entire harmony and love, the usual ripple which follows the report of the Temperance Committee not being a real exception. This year the report of the committee contained a suggested minute to be sent down to subordinate meetings which contained the advice that "Friends be careful in exercising their right of suffrage to cast their ballots for such candidates as are known to be opposed to the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors for beverage use." A considerable number of Friends felt that this would be action by the Church in a field which was out of its province and the minute was withdrawn. The report of the committee showed active and efficient work and was heartily approved. They had sent a protest to President Roosevelt against licensing the sale of opium in the Philippines. They provided an excellent speaker, Dr. Charles H. Mead, of New York, for the temperance meeting on Third-day evening, and were rewarded with a good attendance.

The Foreign Mission work of the yearly meeting seemed to be in good shape, in spite of the fact that the funds contributed were not so large in amount as the year before, probably for special reasons. Gertrude Marriage, of Iowa, was with us on her way to her field in Jamaica, and gave an interesting report of the work there. Willis R. Hotchkiss reported the progress in his work in Africa, and with Asa S. Wing, of Philadelphia, who spoke for Japan, interested the public meeting on Second-day evening and stimulated every one present to greater zeal.

For those nearer home who need our help David E. Sampson spoke for the Blue Ridge Mission, in the support of which our Friends have been interested for some years. And the Indian work has quite a place, one of our Friends who died a few years ago having left a sum of money the income from which is used for the Indians. Our regular appropriation was made for the Associated Executive Committee.

The Home Mission Committee reported in an encouraging tone, work among the children being the special feature. For some reason the report of the Bible School Committee did not receive the attention it deserved, for they have done fine work for the promotion of intelligent Bible study. One member of the committee gave fifty dollars to be used in placing reference books in the school libraries. Normal lectures had been given and conferences held, and very earnest efforts made to find out how best to help the schools. There is not much chance for "hurrah" in this work, but it lies near the foundation of our Church structure.

The public meeting on Seventh-day evening was under the care of this committee, and Rufus M. Jones, who addressed it, gave us all much food for thought as he laid down some fundamental principles of Bible teaching.

The Societies of Christian Endeavor elected Lindley D. Clark, president; Edward J. Raiford, vice-president, and Mary O. Reeve, secretary. Their meeting on First-day afternoon drew a large audience, all of whom were stirred by Willis R. Hotchkiss's earnest words. The appointment of the huge Christian Endeavor Convention for Baltimore in 1905 was referred to in our epistles to other yearly meetings, and Baltimore Friends will doubtless exemplify Southern hospitality at that time.

The Committee on Washington Meeting House are still under an uncertainty because the lot may be taken for a public building, and they were not sure that it would be wise to complete the house until the question was settled. The basement is in use, and about $1,100 on hand for the completion. Probably a few months will settle the question.

Earnest work for Peace was reported, and the Educational Committee keeps close watch over our children that they may not grow up uneducated. They spent $1,200 last year for their work, $250 of it appropriated by the yearly meeting, over $500 contributed by Friends, and the balance income from invested funds.

References to Harriet Green in the London and other epistles awoke a responsive chord in many of us who had been helped by her faithful ministry, and a small committee was appointed to receive contributions toward the memorial fund for a Biblical Chair at Guilford College.

The spiritual condition of the yearly meeting, as brought out by the quarterly meeting reports and the Evangelistic and Church Extension Committee, was encouraging on the whole. Statistics show a decrease in membership owing to a "weeding out" process in one or two places, which really represented the losses of several years, and in some places the outlook is not bright. But Friends are earnest in the work at most places, and in some meetings there are very encouraging developments. The religious meetings during the yearly meeting were strong and helpful. Three meetings were held First-day morning, two at Eutaw Street and one at Light Street, and two were held at night, one at each place. Devotional meetings at 9 o'clock each week day, on Sixth-day and Fourth-day evenings, and on one afternoon, the Christian Endeavor meeting First-day afternoon and the Young Women's Christian Fellowship Union on Third-day afternoon, were all occasions of spiritual help, several persons giving direct testimony to forward steps which they had been able to take.

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON IX.

ELEVENTH MONTH 29, 1903.

DAVID'S CHARGE TO SOLOMON.

1 Chronicles 28: 1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Trust in the Lord with all thine heart. Prov. 3: 5.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 23.—David's charge to Solomon. 1 Chron. 28: 1-10.
Third-day, Eleventh mo. 24.—Love for God's house. 1 Chron. 22: 1-19.
Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 25.—A good desire. 1 Chron. 17: 1-12.
Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 26.—David thankful. 1 Chron. 17: 16-27.
Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 27.—Joy of service. 1 Chron. 29: 10-19.
Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 28.—Charge to Timothy. 2 Tim. 4: 1-8.
First-day, Eleventh mo. 29.—Perfect heart. Matt. 5: 43-48.

The Books of Chronicles from which the lesson is taken belong to the later books of the Old Testament. They were compiled probably about 300 B.C. Who the compiler was is not known. They originally formed one book, and are closely connected with Ezra-Nehemiah. The books cover the same period as the books of Samuel and Kings, but are for the most part an independent narrative. The aim of the compiler or compilers of Chronicles is quite different from that of the writers of Samuel and of Kings. The Chronicles are far more ecclesiastical, and there are frequent allusions to the Law, of which in the other books there are hardly any; great stress is laid on religious observances, while in the others they are incidentally treated; for instance, nothing is said of the priestly organization in Samuel or in Kings, while in Chronicles full accounts are given. Little is said in the earlier books about temple worship, while in Chronicles it is dwelt upon very fully. Indeed, it would seem to be a main object of the compiler to impress upon his readers the great importance of the temple worship. Another purpose was "to bring all events and all individuals to a religious and moral test."

Intervening events.—After the defeat and death of Absalom David returned to Jerusalem and remained there during the rest of his reign, which some think was months, others years. The eldest living son of David was Adonijah. In many respects he resembled Absalom. Like him he resolved to proclaim himself king before the death of his father. How far he went and the failure of his plans is related in 1 Kings 1: 5-53. This attempt led David, through the influence of Nathan and Bathsheba, to proclaim Solomon as his successor and have him anointed as king. See 1 Kings 1: 11-53.

Persons.—David, now about 70; Solomon, about 20; Nathan, the prophet; Bathsheba, David's wife, and the mother of Solomon.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Time.—Either 1015 B.C. or 977 B.C.

1. "Assembled all the princes." It seems to have been needful to get the assent of the tribes. "Israel." There was of course but one kingdom at this period, and it was called Israel. "By course." That is, in turn. Each served one month in the year.

2. "Stood up upon his feet." The king usually spoke sitting. His rising shows the importance of the occasion. "I had in mine heart." Compare 1 Chron. 17: 1; 2 Sam. 7: 2.

3. "But God said," etc. Compare 2 Sam. 7: 5, 13. The shedding of blood was thought to render a man unclean. Num. 31: 19. The Temple was to be a place of peace.

4. David in this verse does not intend to boast, but to recount what the Lord had done for him; how he had been taken from an unlikely position to be the king of Israel.

5. "He hath chosen Solomon." This must have been indicated through Nathan.

7. "If he be constant to do my commandments." All God's promises are conditioned upon obedience. It is the great law which runs through everything. No one can have good health if he persistently disobeys the laws of health. It is the same in the spiritual world.

8. David now appeals to the people. In order for Solomon's reign to be a successful one, the people would have to co-operate with him in doing that which was right. David reminds them that if they did not obey the commandments of the Lord their children would not inherit the land. Compare the charge of Moses to the children of Israel before he turned over the command to Joshua. Deut. 30: 19.

9. "And thou Solomon." David now turns to Solomon and impresses upon him the importance of following the only course which will lead to happiness, prosperity, safety and the continuance of his kingdom. "Know thou the God of thy father." Compare Is. 1: 3; Jer. 31: 34. "With a perfect heart." That is, with an undivided heart; it is equivalent to "a single eye." The aim of his life should be to serve the Lord. "Willing mind." Readiness to do the will of God as soon as known. A halting or grudging obedience is not real obedience. "The Lord searcheth all hearts." He knows the actual state of the heart, and no attempt at concealment, or denial, will avail. 1 Sam. 16: 7; Ps. 139: 2-4. "If thou seek him, he will be found of thee." No one seeks the Lord and does not find Him; honest desire always meets with fulfilment. "But if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off forever." Continual rejection of God will of course be followed by separation. If it were otherwise, man would not be a free agent. In the Old Testament the Lord is often represented as doing that which is done by man himself. God makes the laws which man carries out, or disobeys, or neglects, and so in one sense the action is done by God.

10. "The Lord hath chosen thee." The choice implies ability, therefore David could say, "Be strong and do it."

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. "God's gifts are equal to His requirements, and His requirements are equal to His gifts."
2. "Be strong and do it."

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR ELEVENTH MONTH TWENTY-NINTH.

A MISSION STUDY OF INDIA.

Zechariah 8: 1-8.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 23.—A land of famines. Joel 2: 18-22.

Third-day, Eleventh mo. 24.—A gracious prophecy. Micah 7: 16-20.

Fourth-day, Eleventh mo. 25.—Returning to God. Zech. 1: 1-6.

Fifth-day, Eleventh mo. 26.—Pardon promised. Isa. 1: 18-23.

Sixth-day, Eleventh mo. 27.—Plenty and peace. Jer. 31: 3-9.

Seventh-day, Eleventh mo. 28.—From the east country. Matt. 2: 1-12.

A land of extremes of wealth and want, of aristocratic culture and of utmost degradation, of burning sands and frozen peaks, containing more than one-sixth of the world's population, having within its borders a greater number of distinct languages than are found in all Europe—such, in brief, is India, the home of a native civilization, of high development, and yet in appalling need of the message of life.

The vast majority of the Indian races to-day accept as their faith a degenerate Hinduism. Religion and morality are so divorced that a priest may be guilty of the grossest immorality and yet be revered by the people as a devout worshiper of the gods. Where the light of Christianity has reached, there is an acknowledgment of the corruptness of the modern forms of their religion. Many who are unwilling to receive Christ admit the superiority of Christianity in its moral teachings and wish their sons to be instructed in them. Others would purge Hinduism by incorporating into it certain ideas that they profess to have discovered in the ancient Vedas, but which are really taken from the teachings of the Bible; so that the influence of mission work extends far beyond those who actually accept Christ as Saviour.

What has been directly accomplished it is impossible to summarize. The great majority of converts to Christianity have come from the outcasts of the land, ignorant and degraded when found, but brought by the power of the new faith and hopefulness to a life of respectability and honorable usefulness. The women, whose lot in this land of boasted civilization was for centuries so wretched that death was often a relief, have much to rejoice in, as the abolition of suttee and the breaking up of cruel and immoral practices with reference to female children, both within and without their forms of wedlock. And these changes are due, not to governmental activity, as one might suppose, but to missionary effort which by its urgency and appeals to public opinion finally secured the enactment of the necessary legislation.

Though Protestant missions were established in India two hundred years ago, it is only since 1857 that they have really had a free field and governmental encouragement. To-day the movement is extending as rapidly as means will allow. High caste Brahmans, as well as the lowly Shanars are brought to Christ. The schools and colleges reach hundreds and thousands and disabuse their minds of their hostility to Christianity, even if they do not win entirely to it. The relief work among famine sufferers has touched the hearts of many. Medical missionaries and Zenana workers gain access to those otherwise inaccessible.

"The faith of all India in its ancient system is shaken. We, your missionaries long to press the decisive assault, but we are too weak. We send an appealing voice to our home churches in all the lands that support us, and beg of them to send on the needed reinforcement."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTE.

An appeal has been issued by the officials of the International Society for the observance of Twelfth month 1st as a day of prayer for young people. It is addressed to pastors. The body of the appeal is:

"We ask you, dear brethren, earnestly to invite your young people, and all others who will, to set apart Third-day, Twelfth month 1st, as a day of united and individual prayer for a revival of spiritual power, with a special meeting for prayer for this object, if possible either in the evening, at sunrise, or some other hour of the day. Encourage them to pray that a great awakening may come this very year, that it may be widespread and permanent in its effects, that it may counteract the prevailing worldliness and indifference of the day; that multitudes may be converted and brought into our churches, and there set at work for Christ, and that all young people may learn the blessedness of whole-hearted service and out-spoken devotion."

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS FROM CUBA.

R. S. Holding writes from Banés, October 5th: "Two Sabbath mornings have been especially precious to me during the past month. They were times of conviction, and several seekers came forward. One Sabbath we held a reunion of the candidates [for church membership]. It was a really glorious time—about thirty present. The week-day prayer meetings increase in interest. Many requests for prayer are made from day to day by persons under conviction and in distress, and by converts for relatives and friends. Many of the converts have united with us in our efforts for definite results, and God has abundantly blessed. It has been very gratifying to me to note the unity of feeling among them. There seems to be a Christian fellowship in them all. I have been made to praise God at some of our recent meetings upon hearing new converts say how they wanted to carry the glad tidings to some one who does not know the joy there is in serving such a Master as Jesus. When I think of the vast amount of good that manifestly is coming from the feeble efforts of us few workers, I wonder why so many of our home folks can remain so indifferent to missionary appeals. I remember once, before I came to Cuba, after I had given a missionary talk, that one of the staunch members arose and said he thought 'charity should begin at home.' 'Plenty to do at home.' As a matter of fact, the 'plenty to do at home' has quite as much to do with home Christians as with 'home heathen.' Home Christians absorb more time than 'home heathen,'—leaves the majority of our fellow-men without the possibility of hearing of God's love while we preach to a few people over and over again. If there should be a little town with a half a thousand Christian workers in it, and one of them should be misguided enough to talk of going to preach the gospel to poor, suffering, priest-ridden Cuba, should we come down upon him at once and show him how wrong it would be for him to go, seeing that in his own town might still be found some 'home heathen' lurking around? I would not minimize home work. I recognize its solemn importance. But Christ said, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel,' and I believe if home churches did more abroad there would be less to do at home.

"I have felt a special burden for home workers since receiving a letter from one of the home Christian Endeavor Societies, which said 'it seemed as though God was leaving them and going to newer fields.' It is my earnest desire that there may be so close union and hearty co-operation between home and foreign workers that God's blessing one place will thrill the other. And may our consecration be complete."

Sylvester Jones writes from Gibara: "I have just returned from a seven-mile trip into the country. The visit was in the home of Guillermo Velasquez, one of the candidates. I went early in the morning, and the family left their work, dressed themselves in their best clothes and listened eagerly during almost the entire day to the conversation about the Bible and Christian doctrine. Guillermo has acquired a wonderful knowledge of the Bible since he purchased one five months ago. There is scarcely a Bible story or parable that he cannot repeat, and he shows an unusual spiritual insight in the interpretation and application of doctrinal texts. This is all the more remarkable when we consider that he is only a poor charcoal burner, ignorant, but alive to his spiritual interests. We had an earnest season of prayer, and the wife, who is a devoted worshipper of Mary, tried to pray as we knelt and prayed together. Her few broken words and the flood of tears showed the struggle of her darkened soul as it reached toward the light. They promised to establish a family altar in their home, the young people joining heartily in the request for family prayers."

I cannot admit that, with regard to the origin of life, science neither affirms nor denies Creative Power. Science positively affirms Creative Power. It is not in dead matter that we live and move and have our being, but in the creating and directing Power which science compels us to accept as an article of belief. We only know God in His works, but we are absolutely forced by science to believe with perfect confidence in a Directive Power—in an influence other than physical, or dynamical, or electrical forces. There is nothing between absolute scientific belief in a Creative Power, and the acceptance of the theory of a fortuitous concourse of atoms. Forty years ago I asked Liebig, walking somewhere in the country, if he believed that the grass and the flowers that we saw around us grew by mere chemical forces. He answered, "No, no more than I could believe that a book of botany describing them could grow by mere chemical forces." Every action of free-will is a miracle to physical and chemical and mathematical science. Do not be afraid of free thinkers! If you think strongly enough you will be forced by science to the belief in God, which is the foundation of all religion. You will find science not antagonistic but helpful to religion.—Lord Kelvin.

Correspondence.

TO THE AMERICAN FRIEND:

Again in London, and even to be in England seems almost to be in the city, so great are its proportions and so mighty its influence. It seems so very different from the quiet coasts of Norway, with its bright clear sunshine, and its good-natured people who glide along rather than go, whose honesty is proverbial in these days of deceit and sham. How restful it was to be among the hills of the daring Vikings, and know that when a man said he would do anything you could depend on him to do it.

After many days of travel and much experience, we returned to Stavanger, where we felt to remain for some weeks, strengthening the Friends in the city and outlying country round about. When we attended their annual meeting, the 13th and 14th of Sixth month, we had good service with them. But some were inclined to think we were too sure of what the Lord could and would do for us, and it remained until this last visit to really find them awakening to new strength and life. Many were converted, and friends who had grievances were content to cast them aside; while the entire meeting took on new life, and was baptized afresh with a missionary spirit, having already sent a missionary out to help in the work in the Vikten Islands. This was a wonderful advance step for them to take, but they do not regret it. At our farewell meeting in Stavanger we organized a young people's meeting, and since we have returned to England we have had exceedingly good reports from them. They find that this meeting is a great help to them. Thorstein Bryne, their yearly meeting clerk, writes: "We have not had so much real life in the meetings since I can remember." We left them on the 6th of Tenth month, for Hull, where we have just finished a two-weeks' meeting, with very satisfactory results. We now purpose visiting various meetings in England during the winter. We have had much kindness manifested to us, and the spirit of the Lord is very near. We truly feel He has sustained us in all our way.

Our address while in England will continue to be in care of Isaac Sharp, Devonshire House, 12 Bishopsgate Without, London, E. C.

CHARLES AND MAY REPLOGLE.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Tilman Hobson has been assisting a very successful series of revival meetings in Long Beach, Cal.

Charles E. Peasley and Leslie Meader, of New Hampshire, were acceptably at the general meeting of Friends held at Rich Square, N. C., Tenth month 30th.

Abijah Weaver, of Glens Falls, N. Y., has had valuable and acceptable service in a number of the quarterly meetings in the limits of New York Yearly Meeting.

Robert E. Pretlow, of Wilmington, O., recently gave a valuable lecture in Friends' Meeting House, Cincinnati, on "George Fox, the Flower of the Reformation."

We sincerely regret to learn of the sudden death of Chloe Douglas Taylor, wife of J. Frank Taylor, of Newburg, Ore., and daughter of John Henry Douglas.

After ten years of continued service in the meeting at Hesper, Ia., Philip Slack has severed his relations with it, and is going to New Sharon, Ia., to serve in that meeting.

Herbert W. Reynolds, formerly of Sand Creek, Ind., has located in the meeting at Bridgeport, Ind. He succeeds Nereus M. Hodgkin, who has taken up the work at Monrovia.

Allen Jay attended Baltimore Yearly Meeting and expects to remain for some time in the East. It will be a part of his mission to help increase the endowment fund of Guilford College.

Nixon Bush and wife, ministers, from Fairmount, Ind., have been visiting meetings in Walnut Creek Quarterly Meeting, Kansas. They go from there to Haviland Quarterly Meeting, Kansas.

Vassalboro Quarterly Meeting was for the first time held at South China, Me., on Sixth, Seventh and First-days, the 13th, 14th and 15th instant. It was attended by Alfred T. Ware and Jennie Crosman.

Friends of Bethel Meeting, Oklahoma, were greatly blessed by a short visit in Tenth month from Willis R. Hotchkiss, who spoke on the needs of the African race. Those present received a deeper interest in the cause. One hundred and thirty-one dollars in cash and subscriptions were given for the work, and the Junior Endeavorers are undertaking the support of an orphan.

Fred T. Coppock held a ten-days' meeting, beginning Tenth month 27th, at Vernon, Kansas, Cottonwood Quarter. It rained so much and the roads were so bad the meetings were small. But the Lord gave spiritual showers also. There were three professed conversions and one renewal, and believers were strengthened. Fred T. Coppock is now laboring in Oklahoma.

Gertrude Marriage, of Hillsboro, Iowa, is returning to mission work in Jamaica. She attended Baltimore Yearly Meeting, and sailed from Philadelphia for Jamaica on the S. S. Schley Fifth-day the 12th. She is going out as a missionary to labor especially among the inhabitants of the island who have been brought over from India.

Minneapolis Quarterly Meeting was held on the evening of the 24th ult. The attendance was much larger than formerly. There were present Emma Coffin, H. W. Pilot, of Oskaloosa, Iowa, and Edgar Sanders. The meeting was very interesting. The audience on First-day morning was large, and a well-attended meeting was held in the evening at 7.30, following the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6.30 p.m. The services of the Friends present were satisfactory and helpful, and their company was greatly appreciated.

At the close of the current school year in Fifth month, or in Ninth month, at the latest, the Blue Ridge Mission Committee will wish to secure the services of suitable persons—a man and wife—to serve as superintendent and matron of the mission home. We feel sure that there are many who would enjoy this work, and we advertise thus early in order to secure the most suitable persons. Mahlon and Martha Lindley have served very satisfactorily in this capacity for a number of years, and we are loath to give them up, but they have decided that this year ought to be their last; hence the need of the Blue Ridge Committee as stated above. Communications to be sent to D. E. Sampson, East Bend, N. C.

Eliza P. Williams was present at La Crosse Monthly Meeting the 7th instant and preached a most appropriate sermon to the spiritual condition of those present. Twelve members were received: 1 by letter and 11 by request, resulting from evangelistic meetings at Hargrave, Kan., in charge of E. P. Williams. The meeting First-day morning gave the right hand of fellowship to the new members, and one more request for membership was announced. The revival still continues. Constance Day is located in the meeting, and all feel she is the right one in the right place. Martha E. Carr has the endorsement of the monthly meeting for evangelistic work. She expects to labor in Rose Hill Quarterly Meeting and to commence meetings at Argonia about the middle of this month.

Denver Meeting, Col., is in a very prosperous condition. The prayer-meeting on Fourth-day evenings has been well attended the past summer and this fall. It has been led by different members of the meeting. On the 11th ultimo one of the Sabbath School teachers gave an account of the destitution in the island of Jamaica and proposed that a birthday offering be given by the school. In the meeting for worship which followed, the local minister, George D. Weeks, felt impressed to speak on the blessedness of giving, and at the close of his sermon an opportunity was given for those who desired to contribute to the immediate needs of the sufferers in the island. In less than twenty minutes $55 were raised. Before that $16 had been raised and forwarded. The amount has since been increased to $76.

Nine Partners Quarterly Meeting was held at Clinton Corners the 4th and 5th instant. The ministers present from other quarterly meetings were: Abijah Weaver, of Glens Falls; Mary J. Weaver, of Farmington, and Edward Ransome, of Cornwall. The meeting on Fourth-day evening, addressed by Abijah J. Weaver and others, was crowned with a sense of the living Presence. On Fifth-day morning Mary J. Weaver led the service with earnest words from Nehemiah 2: "The God of heaven will prosper us, therefore we, His servants, will arise and build." At the meeting of ministry and oversight a loving greeting was received from our friend Seneca H. Stevens, who has lately removed to Butternuts Quarterly Meeting. The meeting Fifth-day evening, under the auspices of the Missionary Committee, was addressed by Miriam Platt, who for some years has been a resident missionary in Turkey.

Marlboro Monthly Meeting, Eleventh month 7th, 1903, was well attended. Rufus P. King, a minister from Deep River Quarter, discoursed in a loving, tender manner to the edification of the congregation. The business of the meeting progressed with dispatch. One person was disowned, and twenty-four were received into membership. Of these, half came after professed conversion and by conviction of Friends' views. One of them was a small orphan boy of twelve years. On First-day the Bible School was well attended and well conducted. Rufus P. King was present at 11 a.m. and preached in a manner that reached the hearts of many. In the afternoon was held the regular monthly meeting of the local temperance society. An interesting program was carried out, including an excellent address from Nathan Dix. He called himself a reformed drunkard who now claims the strength of divine grace to keep him. Marlboro Monthly Meeting appears to have more spiritual life than for many years past.

Skiatook Monthly Meeting meets at Hillside, Indian Territory. It belongs to Elk River Quarterly Meeting, Kansas. The quarterly meeting was held at Hillside in the Eighth month for the first time. George N. Hartley, general superintendent of Friends' Indian Missions in Oklahoma and Indian Territories, was present and preached an able sermon in the grove meeting on First-day morning. His theme was prayer. A two-weeks' series of meetings followed, conducted by Anna M. Ray and Edna Hill, with encouraging results. The average attendance at Sabbath School is about 50. There is also a good attendance at First-day meetings, and at Christian Endeavor services, which are held on Sabbath evenings. Friends are arranging to organize a meeting at Vera, a point seven miles away. This is the result of a successful series of tent meetings conducted by J. W. Elder and wife. With the exception of one Methodist congregation these are the only organized meetings within a radius of twenty miles. There are a few school houses where Sabbath Schools and occasional preaching services are conducted. The Friends' School at Hillside, Indian Territory, has enrolled 97. A little more than half are Indians, of which most are Cherokees. The nearest school is at Vera. A large number of children, both whites and Indians, have a very poor opportunity for attending school. The school is under the management of the Friends' Associated Board of Indian Affairs. Josiah Butler, superintendent of evangelistic work in Kansas Yearly Meeting, recently visited the meeting and school for a few days.

BORN.

CHAPIN.—Born to Oscar Chapin and wife, of Tonganoxie, Kansas, Seventh month 5th, 1903, a son, Edward Chapin.

DILLON.—Born to Asa Dillon and wife, of McLouth, Kansas, Seventh month 9th, 1903, a daughter, Josephine Ruth Dillon.

JONES.—Born to Elmer Jones and wife, of McLouth, Kansas, Seventh month 17th, 1903, a daughter, Elma Jones.

DIED.

CHAPPELL.—At his home, near Carthage, Ind., Tenth month 3d, 1903, John W. Chappell, aged nearly 41 years. A man of solid worth and sterling character is gone.

FRYE.—In Dover, N. H., Tenth month 6th, 1903, Sarah M., eldest daughter of Wm. and Anna Frye, of Salem, Mass., aged nearly 89 years. She lived a consistent Christian life.

JESTER.—At the home of her parents, 135 State Street, West Lafayette, Ind., Tenth month 30th, 1903, Mary Jester, oldest daughter of Wm. P. and Elizabeth Jester, aged nearly 22 years. The deceased was a bright Christian. She possessed an excellent soprano voice, and used it efficiently in the Bible School at Penn College and in other services in Oskaloosa, Iowa, where she spent the past two years.

LEWIS.—At the homestead, Newton, Kan., Ninth month 20th, 1903, Lavina H. Lewis, in her 89th year. The deceased has lived for a number of years in Iowa and Kansas, but her membership with Friends remained in Baltimore Yearly Meeting.

MOFFETT.—At her home, Toledo, Kansas, Tenth month 20th, 1903, Sarah Moffet, wife of John Moffet, aged 72 years. She was an elder of Toledo Monthly and Cottonwood Quarterly Meeting. This position she filled to the honor of the Church.

THOMPSON.—At her home in Earlham, Iowa, Tenth month 18th, 1903, Elizabeth A. Thompson, wife of Nathan D. Thompson, in her 58th year. She was a faithful member of Friends.

WARDER.—At Dayton, Ohio, Tenth month 28th, 1903, Anna A. Warder, of North Bend, Ohio, in her 67th year. She was a beloved member and elder of Cincinnati Monthly Meeting.

WHITE.—At his home at Iowa Falls, Iowa, Tenth month 7th, 1903, Joseph White, aged 75 years. He was a birthright Friend, and died trusting in Jesus as his Saviour.

WILLIAMSON.—At his home in Haviland, Kan., Fourth month 29th, 1903, Wm. Asher Williamson, aged nearly 66 years, a member of Haviland Monthly Meeting.

TRIP TO ARIZONA—THE SALT RIVER VALLEY FOR CHRISTIAN SETTLEMENT.

Phoenix, Ariz., Eleventh mo. 4, 1903.

We left Chicago the 20th ult., at 10 p.m., over the Santa Fe road, with a train of 13 coaches, mostly tourist sleepers, all filled to their utmost capacity with "home seekers." We reached Kansas City at 11 a.m., the following day, and stopped for dinner at Topeka. Supper time brought us to Newton, Kansas, and at 7.00 next morning we found ourselves at La Junta, Col. (pronounced La Junta). From La Junta the Santa Fe road continues to ascend, till it strikes the New Mexico boundary at Raton Pass, where the altitude of the track is 7,608 feet. Passing into New Mexico we soon discovered the mud or adobe houses of the Mexicans and Indians. The territory of New Mexico is composed of high table lands and mountains. The average altitude of the whole territory is said to be equal to the tops of the Adirondack Mountains. Las Vegas, 6,000; Albuquerque, 14,000, and the Capital, Santa

BAD HABITS.

Improper Food Often Leads to Tobacco and Drink.

Improper food creates abnormal tastes, and there are many cases on the medical records where the liquor habit and tobacco habit have been caused by wrong food, and have easily been cured by the use of the scientific food Grape-Nuts which so thoroughly nourishes and rebuilds the nerves that they stop the cry for stimulants.

A business man says: "For 30 years I smoked on an average of 10 or 15 cigars a day, and then my nervous system collapsed, and I had about made up my mind that it was all up with me, for I had tried many times to break off from the tobacco, but it always failed.

"Last May I was so run down I only weighed 111 pounds, and I realized that I must stop smoking and stuck to it for about 10 days, but was so nervous and out of sorts my family told me I had better go back to smoking, as it was impossible to live with me. It was just about this time my wife brought a package of Grape-Nuts on the table one morning, and as I could eat nothing else she induced me to try a little of that. So I took a teaspoonful of it, and strange to say it tasted good, and by the time I had it down I knew it had gone to the right spot, so I took some more, and it was the first food I had relished for weeks.

"So I kept up the use of Grape-Nuts, and as my appetite came back added other foods, and I am now back to my old weight of 133 pounds, never felt better in my life, and strange as it may seem, I have no further craving for the tobacco, and I thoroughly believe that only the courage and ambition I got out of the food Grape-Nuts has given me the strength to quit smoking. If everyone knew the power of this wonderful food you would not be able to build a factory big enough to supply it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous, little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Fe, are the important towns of New Mexico. Passing into Arizona we soon reach Adamanta, six miles south of which is the petrified forest where large trees have been turned into agate rock. At Ashfork we leave the main line for Phoenix, and taking the Phoenix branch road we descend nearly 4,000 feet in going the 193 miles.

The Capital of Arizona is a beautiful city of 12,000, situated in the middle of the Salt River Valley. The Valley is about 25 miles wide, and we can see mountains in all directions. The palm trees along the streets and in the yards give the city a tropical appearance. The hotels and lodging houses abound, for it is said that more than a thousand people come here to spend the winter, some for health and others because the winter here is so delightful.

At present writing I have been ten days in this valley. In company with our friend, Jno. L. Moore, of Indianapolis, and others, I have driven about 100 miles over the irrigated, cultivated portion of the valley. We have seen thousands of fat cattle feeding on the alfalfa; we have seen orange orchards full of fruit; we have seen the great olive trees loaded almost to breaking; we have gathered pomegranates, such as Joshua and the children of Israel found in the promised land; we have questioned many farmers as to the quantity and profitableness of their products, till we are abundantly satisfied of the wonderful richness of the soil and salubriousness of the climate.

Our main object being to investigate the plans of the Verde Water Company, and see the government lands proposed to be irrigated by them, we have driven about 100 miles over the desert lands and into the mountains to the site of the reservoir and dam for the storage of the water of the Verde River. We stood on the natural rock wall 150 feet high, between the mountains, extending across the valley, leaving an opening for the river about 300 feet wide at the bottom. When a dam is put in this narrow opening 190 feet high, as proposed by the engineers, it will hold back the water, making a lake two to four miles wide and seven miles long, 150 feet deep, estimated by the engineers to hold water enough to cover 150,000 acres of land two feet deep. There is no question about water supply, say the engineers. We went through the tunnel, 12x14 feet, 900 feet long, already blasted through the granite, designed to be used in taking water from the bottom of the reservoir. This tunnel has cost about $30,000. We drove over thousands of acres of as beautiful land as we ever saw that is proposed to be watered from the Verde reservoir. When watered it will produce the splendid crops and fruits that we have seen growing in this valley. We saw the 20 miles of canal already built.

We chanced to be here just at a time when some of the most distinguished engineers of the United States were here examining this reservoir site, and dam site and canal line, and quantity of water, in order to report to certain interested persons as to the feasibility of the water company's plans for construction. We were delighted to learn that these high authorities say two things: (1) The construction is feasible; (2) the water supply is abundant.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

After all we had seen and all we had heard pro and con, the writer doubled his subscription for water rights, because he felt doubly assured the proposition was a safe one. It is a safe one for the subscriber, because the water company do not ask for any money till they have built the dam, dug the canal and have the water brought to the boundary line of each 80 acres to be watered. Could there be a more honest proposition than that?

Friends have subscribed for about seven thousand acres of this government land and Verde water rights, and a number of others want some of this land if the scheme is honest and straight. Hence I have felt it my duty to dwell upon the matter as fully as I have. The engineers pronounce the scheme feasible, and the plans of the company carry the evidence of honesty in the very provisions of them.

WM. G. HUBBARD,
Columbus, Ohio.

I am very glad to endorse the above statements, and to say I am greatly pleased with the land and water prospects.

JOHN L. MOORE,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Don't Be Too Late

How often does the examining doctor have to say to applicants for life insurance: "If you had applied a year ago you would have passed." Don't you be too late.

Shall we send you some literature?

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

Events and Comments.

Spain's surplus this year is $60,000,000, which was simply unheard of in the palmy days of empire before the late war. Spain now has a future, for she is attending to business right at home.

More than 10,000 coal miners in Colorado went on a strike last week for an eight-hour day, increased wages, and other concessions. The strike was ordered by the national executive officers of the United Mine Workers of America after the coal companies refused to confer with union representatives concerning the demands of the men.

It is reported that the political speeches of Chamberlain and other first-grade speakers made in the present campaign in the provincial towns of England are reported directly to the London "Mail" offices without the aid of stenographers or telegraphers, the electrophone being used. A verbatim report is on the streets within half an hour after the speech is finished.

A Moscow dispatch to the "Times" says that the opening of the new Russian steamship line to America is fixed for Eleventh month 28th. A cargo is booked at South Russian ports, and a satisfactory complement of emigrants has been secured at Naples. The service is inaugurated by the volunteer fleet vessels, and it is the first instance of a Russian long-distance steam line, except between Russian ports and the Far East.

According to the American Jewish Year-Book, just issued, which says that there are no reliable figures giving the Jewish population in this country, within eighty years that population has increased from 6,000 to 1,127,000. The Jews hardly became an appreciable element in American life till about twenty-five years ago, but they are more numerous and more influential here now than in any country except Russia and Austro-Hungary.

The City Council of Chicago has taken action which ought to lead the way for similar action throughout the country. An ordinance was passed recently which prohibits the sale of toy pistols in that city. The wonder is that such action has been so long delayed. Each "Fourth of July" has rolled up its great quota of deaths from tetanus, directly induced by the toy pistol, and nothing has been done until now by those charged with protecting the public to stop the deadly foolishness.

A telescope that will enable the observer to read the temperature of an object merely by looking through it would seem to be something of a curiosity. Such an instrument, which will work under certain conditions of high temperature, has been invented under the name of the "thermo-gage" for the purpose of determining the temperature of incandescent metals, especially in the working of iron and steel. This it does by comparison of the light given by a heated filament within the telescope with that emitted by the object whose temperature is to be measured.

Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, has been chosen to the minority leadership of the National House, in accordance with expectations. Representative Williams combines intellectual brilliancy with aggressiveness and parliamentary skill to a much greater degree than his predecessor. It deserves to be noted that he will probably be in close touch and complete sympathy with Senator Gorman, the minority leader in the Senate, since he comes from a section in which Senator Gorman is now very popular.

The next Governor of Ohio will be the first of that State clothed with the veto power. An amendment to the Constitution conferring this power and extending it to single items in money bills was approved by the people of the State at the late election, and so, after 100 years of vetoless experience, Ohio is brought into the company of most of the other States of the Union. This action is indicative of a growing rather than a receding popular distrust of legislative bodies. Another amendment adopted in Ohio makes stockholders in business corporations liable only for the unpaid part of their stock. Heretofore they have been subjected to a double liability.

The report of United States Commissioner of Education Harris for the year 1902, just issued, shows that the total enrollment of pupils in educational institutions of all kinds—private and public, lower and higher, secular and sectarian, for that year was 18,080,840. Of this number 15,925,887 were in the public free schools of the villages, towns and cities, 69 per cent. of the total number enrolled in the public schools being in attendance every day of the year. The implication of these figures is that more than 20 per cent. of the population of this country now is withdrawn from industry and toil for support during the plastic years of youth and is gaining an education more or less complete at the expense of the family or the State, the Church, for purposes of popular education, being a negligible factor. Less than 28 per cent. of the teachers of these pupils are males.

The objects of the educational commission which Alfred Moseley, of London, is at present conducting through the United States are set forth in his own words: "The trades-union delegation which I brought to this country was the outcome of an original plan to bring a body of educators to this country. I felt that your educational methods and system were largely the cause of your success. That feeling was aroused by my observations of Americans in South Africa. I encountered there American engineers, and, let me say, that the success of South Africa is not primarily due to Englishmen, but to Americans. The men who have come with me are England's picked men as educators. They have done me the honor of crossing the ocean to give investigation to your educational system, for the purpose of determining the reasons why it produces such successful results." The commission has already visited New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago, and will close its tour in Boston.

Walter L. Williamson, of Lisbon; N. D., who comes of Friends' lineage, has the following interesting information to give of North Dakota, and of the business in which he is engaged:

"It has now been more than twenty-two years since I left Philadelphia, and more than eighteen years of this time I have spent very actively in banking and the real estate business. Our business is the buying and selling of real estate, and the making of real estate loans. We have been extremely fortunate and successful in the making of these farm mortgages, in that there has never been a foreclosure made on one of our mortgages, and there is not a dollar's worth of delinquent interest. We consider that a larger portion of this success is attributable to our personality; that is, that there is not a mortgage that goes out of our office but has our personal approval, and this personal approval is made with a personal knowledge of the security. This knowledge is based upon eighteen years' very active and very intimate acquaintance with the farmers and the lands within the territory over which I am operating. The territory over which I am operating is a territory wherein I can have this personal knowledge—a territory especially selected on account of its highly productive soil, its prosperous farmers, and the gratifying and satisfactory results of those who have been purchasing mortgages with us for the past number of years. I want to say that Ransom County is without doubt the banner county of North Dakota. It is the county that is the most successful and the best adapted to diversified or mixed farming. Its soil is a very rich heavy black loam, with a clay sub-soil. We raise all the grains, fruits and garden truck that are raised in Central Illinois, except the tree fruits, and with the success that has been obtained in the raising of apples and pears and plums in Minnesota, we are anticipating that within a very few years these same fruits will be raised satisfactorily with us. The lands in this portion of our State are being very rapidly purchased from the hands of the original settlers by a class of thrifty, industrious, educated and prosperous farmers from the States of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and South Dakota, largely by a younger class, for the reason that they are selling out their old farms in the older States all the way from $50 to $100 an acre, and buying these lands at $20 and $25 an acre, recognizing that in a very few years these same lands will materially increase in value, and as young farmers they will be able to have the very best elements of fertility out of the soil; or they are intelligent farmers who have been renting in these older States, and recognizing that they cannot purchase and pay for their lands at $75 to $100 an acre under the conditions in which they have to farm in the older States, they come out here, buy these lands of ours at $20 and $25 an acre (at one-half cash, one-half of the balance in five years' time, and the other half in three equal annual payments), so that they now have the very richest of soil, in its high state of fertility, and can put the improvements on to suit themselves."

Full information regarding the character of the investments offered by W. L. Williamson may be had by addressing him at Lisbon, N. D.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND PREMIUMS

A BOY'S RELIGION, FROM MEMORY

By RUFUS M. JONES

NO subject teems with greater interest, or is fraught with greater issues than the religious development of early childhood. It is the foundation work of character, yet it is little understood by parents and less by children. Here is a most helpful work for young and old alike. It is the simple narrative of the religious awakening in a young soul which strikes a responsive chord in every heart. The work is beautifully printed on deckle-edged paper, and bound in a striking and original design. It is handsomely furnished with illustrations of places and persons mentioned in the text. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Aunt Charlotte's Stories of Bible History

By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE

CONTAINS over 100 stories from the Holy Book, richly embellished with 19 full-page Color Plates and Photo-Engravings, together with nearly 100 other illustrations. Beginning with the dawn of creation, every important historical event in the Bible is brought out in the order of their happening, thus leading the little ones along the most pleasant ways from Genesis to Revelation.

This book will give the Bible a new charm for children, and they will read it with a new understanding. Price $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size 7½ x 10 inches. Handsomely bound in cloth. Printed in gold and many colors. 250 pages. Over 100 illustrations.

The New Child's Life of Christ

By HESBA STRETTON

CONTAINS choice Biblical Pictures from the world's leading artists, thirty-two of which are full-page illustrations. The book presents the Life of Jesus as it is understood by the most devout and careful students of His Life. The graphic descriptions and the accurate and beautiful illustrations take one into the very midst of the sacred scenes and subjects. This volume throws a flood of light on the sacred pages, and leads the tender reader to the foot of the cross. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size 7½ x 9½ inches. Rich cloth binding. Stamped in gold and colors. 250 pages. Profusely illustrated.

THE BARNARD EDITION

—OF—

The Pilgrim's Progress

By JOHN BUNYAN

PROBABLY no book, except the Bible, has been printed in such immense numbers, and has had so wide a circulation among readers of all ages. It should be in every home where children live. The Barnard Edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the only edition containing nearly sixty full-page pictures and fifty portrait and character illustrations, by Barnard and others; four full-page chromo-lithographs; the beautiful poem "The Little Pilgrim"; also, 388 Bible references, making in all 327 quarto pages, 8 x 10 inches, printed on double thick, extra quality, super-calendered paper. It is tastily and elegantly bound with extra silk cloth.

It is the cheapest finely illustrated book published. Price, $1.50.

THIS BOOK with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

(For The Pilgrim's Progress add 20 cents for postage.)

Any one of the above books sent on receipt of price.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES.

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and much had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets, and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly-concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, the excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease, as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

6% NET Sound, conservative first mortgages on improved realty. We examine every security and know every borrower. We make our loans with our own money and turn them over complete. In 23 years we have learned how to select the best. No one now handling western mortgages has had more experience. We give you the benefit of that experience. The quality of the securities now on hand has never been surpassed. Highest references. Write for circulars and full information free.

PERKINS & COMPANY Lawrence, Kan.

FRIENDS' FREEDMEN'S ASSOCIATION is preparing to send their winter contribution of clothing, etc., to their school for colored youth at Christiansburg. Partly-worn clothing or shoes, new goods, books and magazines will be gladly received at Friends' Institute, No. 20 South Twelfth Street, Philadelphia. They should be plainly marked, "For Christiansburg," and should all be in by the 1st of Twelfth month.

FRIENDS' LIBRARY,

142 North Sixteenth Street, Philadelphia.

Open on week days from 11.30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

THE VALUE OF SILENCE.

In our public worship we have forgotten the profitableness of silence. An occasional silent hour would do all worshippers much good. We may think that in being silent we are doing nothing. Sometimes what we think is nothing is everything! Waiting may be fighting. Patience is not necessarily negative; it may be restrained and sanctified energy. Silence in itself is a sanctuary.—Joseph Parker.

One hundred of the best students in the Philippine schools are to be sent to this country for a further education. The idea is to provide well trained and otherwise suitable native teachers. The enthusiasm which sent many American teachers to the islands a year or so ago is said to be dying out.

On a tour of President McKinley in the South Andrew Carnegie was a member of the party. On one occasion he accompanied the President and some others to a service in a colored church in Thomasville, Ga.

When the deacons passed the contribution boxes, Carnegie dropped in a fifty-dollar bill.

The old preacher counted their contents. When he had finished he placed a handful of small change on one side and a crisp greenback on the other. Clearing his throat, he said:

"Breddern, we has been greatly blessed by dis yer contebution. We has head fo' dollahs an' fo'ty cents; dat is good; an' if de fifty-dollar bill put in by the white gemman wid de gray whiskers is also good, we is blessed a whole lot moah," and he looked suspiciously at the giver of libraries and campaign funds.—Exchange.

EMINENT PHYSICIANS
throughout the world recommend

QUINA-LAROCHE

AS A SPECIFIC IN CASES OF
ANAEMIA, COLDS, LA GRIPE,
SLOW CONVALESCENCE,
STOMACH TROUBLES,
TYPHOID and MALARIAL
FEVERS.

E. Fougere & Co., 30 N. William St., N. Y.

THERE IS GREAT DANGER IN CATARRH.

If Left to Run Its Course Unchecked, It Often Causes Death.

Catarrh scatters its poisons throughout the entire system. The stomach and lungs are affected by the droppings that fall into the throat and are swallowed during sleep. Dyspepsia, inflammation of the stomach, bronchitis and consumption are the results. The blood also becomes contaminated and carries the poisons to all parts of the system. Frequently in the more advanced stages, the bones of the head become decayed, and the air passages are a putrid mass and create a stench so foul and offensive as to be unbearable. The expression, "rotten with catarrh," is not overdrawn or exaggerated.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets strike at the root of this terrible, odious disease and eradicate it from the system. They are a constitutional remedy that cleanses the system thoroughly of all poisons and purifies the blood. Under their influence the head becomes clear, the discharges at the nose and droppings into the throat cease, the lost sense of smell is restored, the eye brightens, the foul breath becomes pure and sweet and the odious, disgusting disease is thoroughly expelled from the system.

A Cincinnati man says: "I suffered the misery and humiliation of catarrh for twelve years. My case became so aggravated that it seriously interfered with all my business relations. The disease became so offensive that I would not venture into any one's presence unless it were absolutely necessary. I tried every remedy that I could get hold of. Some helped me temporarily, but as soon as I ceased taking them I would relapse into the old condition.

"Finally a friend told me of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and insisted that I try them. I had about despaired of ever finding help, but bought a box anyway. I began to notice the improvement within twenty-four hours after I began taking them. Before the first box was gone I felt like another man. I kept up the treatment till I had taken three boxes and was entirely cured. I have never had a recurrence of the trouble from that day to this. My head is clear and well, and none of the offensive symptoms of the disease ever trouble me. It has been two years since I stopped taking them."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box.

This invalid life is too epicurean. For five or six weeks now I have done nothing else but wait, nurse myself, and amuse myself, and how weary one gets of it! What I want is work. It is work which gives flavor to life.—Amiel.

Pleasant Old Gentleman: "Have you lived here all your life, my little man?"
Arthur (aged 6): "Not yet."—"Lippincott's Magazine."

IT'S THE PRINTING

That's better than the average, that is "worth while." Ask us

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO.

Makers of the Better Kind of Printing
1019-21 Market Street Philadelphia

BETTER VISION.

In the minister's morning sermon he told of the primal fall,
And how henceforth the wrath of God rested on each and all;
And how, of His will and pleasure, all souls, save a chosen few,
Were doomed to eternal torture, and held in the way thereto.

Yet never, by Faith's unreason, a saint-lier soul was tried,
And never the harsh old lesson a tenderer heart belied.
And after the painful service, on that pleasant, bright spring day,
He walked with his little daughter thro'
the apple bloom of May.

Sweet in the fresh green meadows sparrow and blackbird sung;
Above him its tinted petals the blossoming orchard hung,
Around, on the wonderful glory, the minister looked and smiled;
"How good is the Lord, who gives us these gifts from His hand, my child.

"Behold in the bloom of apples, and the violets in the sward,
A hint of the old lost beauty of the garden of the Lord."
Then up spake the little maiden, treading on snow and pink,

AN OLD-TIMER

Has Had Experiences.

A woman who has used Postum Food
Coffee since it came upon the market eight years ago knows from experience the necessity of using Postum in place of coffee if one values health and a steady brain.

She says: "At the time Postum was first put on the market I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia, and my physician had repeatedly told me not to use tea or coffee. Finally I decided to take his advice and try Postum, and got a sample, and had it carefully prepared, finding it delicious to the taste. So I continued its use, and very soon its beneficial effects convinced me of its value, for I got well of my nervousness and dyspepsia.

"My husband had been drinking coffee all his life until it had affected his nerves terribly. I persuaded him to shift to Postum, and it was easy to get him to make the change for the Postum is so delicious. It certainly worked wonders for him.

"We soon learned that Postum does not exhilarate or depress, and does not stimulate but steadily and honestly strengthens the nerves and the stomach.
To make a long story short, our entire family have now used Postum for eight years, with completely satisfying results, as shown in our fine condition of health, and we have noticed a rather unexpected improvement in brain and nerve power."
Name given by Postum Co., Battle
Creek, Mich.

Increased brain and nerve power always follow the use of Postum in place of coffee, sometimes in a very marked manner.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

"Oh, father! these pretty blossoms are very wicked, I think.

"Had there been no Garden of Eden,
there never had been a fall;
And if never a tree had blossomed, God would have loved us all."

"Hush, child!" the father answered,
"By His decree man fell;
His ways are in clouds and darkness, but
He doeth all things well.

"And whether by His ordaining to us
cometh good or ill,
Joy or pain, or light or shadow, we must fear and love Him still."

"Oh, I fear him!" said the daughter,
"and I try to love Him, too;
But I wish He were kind and gentle—kind and loving as you."

The minister groaned in spirit, as the tremulous lips of pain,
And wide, wet eyes, uplifted, questioned his own in vain.

Bowing his head, he pondered the words of his little one.

Had he erred in his life-long teachings?
and wrong to his Master done?

To what grim and dreadful idol had he lent the holiest name?

Did his own heart, loving and human, the God of his worship shame?

And lo! from the bloom and greenness,
from the tender skies above,
And the face of his little daughter, he read a lesson of love.

No more as the cloudy terror of Sinai's mount of law,

But as Christ in the Syrian lilies the vision of God he saw.

And as when, in the clefts of Horeb, of old was His presence known,

The dread, ineffable glory was infinite goodness alone.

Thereafter his hearers noted in his prayers a tenderer strain,

And never the message of hatred burned on his lips again.

And the scoffing tongue was prayerful,
and the blinded eyes found sight,
And hearts, as flint aforetime, grew soft in his warmth and light.

—John G. Whittier.

TRUE GIVING.

This story is told of Henry Thornton, who was a most generous giver to good causes. A visitor called on him one day and asked for a special subscription for missions, and he made out a check for $25. Before the ink was dry a messenger boy came in with a telegram. Henry Thornton opened it, and the visitor noticed that his face turned very pale and his hand trembled. He said to the visitor, "I have received terrible news. I have lost thousands of dollars. Give me back that check." It was hard to give it back, as, of course, the visitor expected to see it torn up. But Henry Thornton, on receiving it, changed the $25 to $250,
"God has taught me that I may not much longer possess my property, and I must use it well." That man had chosen the true way to contentment. Contentment is always possible when we keep an open mind to be taught of God, and realize that in everything we are His stewards.—"Baptist Commonwealth."

WAISTS

Of Flannel or Mohair

JUST a few of the styles, to give an idea of what this showing offers to the woman who wants a pretty and stylish WAIST without paying very much for it:

Waists of Flannel special at $1.00.
Black, red, navy, tan or gray; half-lined;
wide plait down centre, tucks to bust-line, trimmed with fancy metal buttons; full sleeves and a new stock.

Waists of Flannel special at $1.75.
Black, navy, red or gray; tucked blouse front, vertical tucks in back; full sleeves;
stitched cuffs and collar.

$3.00 Waists of Mohair at $2.00.
Black or navy with white dots and elaborate stitching in white; full blouse front, with broad box plaits, trimmed with buttons;
French back, bishop sleeves, new tab collar.

Waists of Flannel special at $2.25.
Black, red, navy, gray or green; one style has stitched plaits, trimmed with buttons, and the other has a yoke with tucks below;
inverted or French back, full sleeves,

$4.25 Waists of Mohair at $2.50.
Black or navy blue with white polka dots; lined throughout; tucked blouse, full sleeves; stitched cuffs and new collar.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PHILADELPHIA

"How noble and good is Lady Exeter!" a guest of the house had exclaimed when some kind act of the hostess had been accidentally revealed. "Yes," assented the retainer, with enthusiasm, "I never look at her ladyship without saying to myself, 'That is a fallen angel.'"

The
New Century

TYPEWRITER

does the BEST WORK and lots
of it, EASILY.

Strong, Thoroughly Built,
Superior in results to any other.

Write for
"THE BOOK OF THE NEW CENTURY."

AMERICAN WRITING MACHINE COMPANY,
1033 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS AND PLANTS

These You may have in Abundance by Planting our Select Bulbs and Plants.

To introduce our Bulbs into many new homes we make the following

Special Offer.

For 35 cents we will send postpaid 35 grand winter-blooming bulbs, all beautiful and of decided merit. This collection includes Hyacinths, Tulips, Crocus, Narcissus, Ixias, Freesias and many others. This collection is composed entirely of new varieties and strong sound bulbs sure to give satisfaction.

For 50 cents we will send postpaid the above collection and also one Hardy Magnolia Tree which will grow and flourish anywhere and give an abundance of its grand blooms with their most exquisite fragrance.

When ordering send us the address of people interested in flowers or plants and receive a fine lot of extra bulbs free.

We invite correspondence on all matters pertaining to Fruits, Flowers or Ornamental Planting. We answer all questions free of charge.

Catalogue of Trees, Plants and Bulbs Free.

T. C. FURNAS & CO.

Box 272

Indianapolis, Ind.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO

TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

New Archdale

St. James
Place

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.

JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

"Hard work, cemented with good judgment, makes good building material for a successful future."

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

FLOWERS AND SHRUBS.—You should plant this Fall. Send for our new Floral Guide, just out.
The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., Box X

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE Co., Miami, Ind. Ter. Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

FROM SALOON TO PULPIT. 138 pages, illustrated. 12 cents postpaid. We have 10,000 fine books to give away. Address, Howard Book House, Elwood, Ind.

FRIENDS WISHING TO LOCATE in the great wheat, corn and alfalfa belt, of Oklahoma, should write us for information. Well-improved farms sell for from $25 to $50 per acre, and ranches from $5 to $10. This is a Friends' community, the land is rich, and opportunities are excellent. Congenial surroundings are assured, educational facilities are excellent, and in every particular the means for establishing a comfortable home are far above the average. References gladly given. Votaw & Setzer, Cherokee, Woods Co., Oklahoma.

TO INTRODUCE OUR BULBS we offer to send for 35 cents thirty-five grand winter-blooming bulbs, all beautiful and of decided merit. These include hyacinths, crocus, narcissus, ixias, freesias, and many others. For 50 cents we will send the above collection, and will include one hardy magnolia free, which will grow and flourish anywhere and give an abundance of its grand blooms with their most exquisite fragrance. T. C. Furnas & Co., Box 272, Indianapolis, Ind.

Active participation in the duties of this world seems to be the surest safeguard for the health of body and mind.
—Lydia Maria Child.

Nature has given to me one tongue, but two ears, that we may hear from others twice as much as we speak.—
Epictetus.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-President.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer

C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

BANK BY MAIL

4%

Assets $14,500,000.00

A Safe and Profitable place for your money is an Investment Account with this bank—pay Four per cent. compound interest on all amounts from One Dollar up. Our Banking by Mail system brings our Bank to your postoffice. Write to-day for explanatory booklet, A. F.

PITTSBURGH BANK FOR SAVINGS
SMITHFIELD & FOURTH AVE
ESTABLISHED 1862 PITTSBURGH PA

OKLAHOMA FARMS

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

FREE HOMES IN CANADA

Friends desiring to locate in the wheat belt of the Canadian Northwest on free grant lands should communicate with Wm. I. Moore, 60 Bleecker Street, Toronto, Ont., with a view to joining the Friends' Colony.

See article in The American Friend of Tenth month 22, page 721, entitled "Canada Yearly Meeting and the Canadian Northwest."

6% NET FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands. Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

Acker has them—your Thanksgiving Groceries.

The man who does not love his neighbor as himself is not the friend of Christ.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community,—morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL

or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

LEARN PROOFREADING.—A profession that offers literary opportunity with pecuniary profit is one that intelligent people desire. We, the original proofreading school, can prepare you for the work more thoroughly than any other.

HOME CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL, Philadelphia.STENOGRAPHER
GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 802). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

10 BEAUTIFUL PICTURES FREE

In order to introduce our QUAKER OINTMENT into every home where THE AMERICAN FRIEND is read, we have decided to make the following liberal offer. To every person sending us 25 cents for one box of QUAKER OINTMENT, and 4 cents extra to pay postage, we will send absolutely free the following 10 pictures. These pictures are gems of art. For picture study, art collections, gifts and home decoration, they are of great value. The Last Supper, Christ in Gethsemane, Christ Taken Captive, Christ Before Pilate, Christ Bearing the Cross, The Crucifixion, Entombment, In the Sepulchre, The Ascension, Transfiguration. It is costing us a great deal of money to advertise in this way, but we trust you will be pleased with our liberality, and will favor us with an order for a box of our ointment, and get these 10 beautiful pictures free. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best known remedy for catarrh, eczema, and all skin diseases. Rev. Asa Woodard, pastor Friends' Meeting at Butlerville, Ind., says: "I am using QUAKER OINTMENT, and find it an excellent remedy." Mrs. Clara Chaney, Rural Route No. 3, Warren, Ind., says: "I have never found anything as good as QUAKER OINTMENT for catarrh, sores and skin diseases." Send us your order to-day. Quaker Ointment sent to any address upon receipt of 25 cents.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.HIS FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL.

She lost her little boy to-day;
Her eyes were moist and sweet
And tender, when he went away
To hurry down the street.
She stood there for the longest while
And watched and watched him; then
She said—and tried to force a smile—
"He'll not come back again."

Inside the house, her tears would come;
She sank into a chair
And sobbed above the battered drum
And trumpet lying there.
The sunshine stole into the place—
It only made her sad
With thinking of the pretty grace
His baby tresses had.

She minded all his little ways;
She went to see his crib
Up in the attic; then to gaze
At platter, spoon, and bib,
And all the trinkets he had thought
So fair to look upon—
Each one of them this murmur brought:
"My little boy has gone."

She wandered through the house all day,
To come on things he'd left,
And O, she missed his romping play
And felt herself bereft!
When he came home, with shining eyes,
To tell of school's delight,
She kissed and held him motherwise
With something of affright.

This is the pain in mothers' hearts
When school days have begun;
Each knows the little boy departs
And baby days are done;
Each mother fain would close her ears
And hush the calling bell
For, somehow, in its tone she hears
The sounding of a knell.

—"Chicago Tribune."

Two Irishmen who had not met for years ran across each other in Derby, and, after a period of handshaking, adjourned for some moist congratulations. "Long since we met, Pat, isn't it? Great lot of things have happened since then."

"Yes, indeed. Look at meself. Sure it's married I am," replied Pat.

"You don't tell me!"

"Faith, and Oi've got a fine, healthy bhoy, and the neighbors say he is the very picture of me."

O'Grady looked at Pat, who wasn't built on the lines of a prize beauty.

"Och, well, what's the harrum, so long as the child's healthy?"—Selected.

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET
BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL
Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking, or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion; it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or, rather, in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Stenography, Typewriting,
Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.

Phone No. 3-33-00

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 10 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted.

Scientific Bread Mach. Co.
(CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.)
522 & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.

BELL TELEPHONE.

Y. F. A. Building,

140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.

FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.

2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL

Phone Spruce 33-55.

Clerk.

HOTEL EMPIREBroadway and 63d Street,
N. Y. City.

A FAMILY AND TRANSIENT HOTEL.

Rooms $1.00 per day and Upwards.

Telephone in every Room.

Fireproof. Accessibly Located. Large Library.

Moderate Rates.

Orchestral Concerts every evening.

All Cars Pass the Empire.

Send for Booklet.

W. JOHNSON QUINN.

Kitchen OutfitsAt Reasonable
RatesJ. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET

Free delivery in city and suburbs.

OSTEOPATHYEDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

Bell Telephone

Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SONWall Paper and
Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD

2 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

JOSEPH G. FOGGUNDERTAKER AND EMBALMER

S. W. Cor. Sixteenth and Race Sts.

Phone Spruce 44-38-W.

PHILADELPHIA.

Suburban orders promptly attended.

Insure Your Life
in
The*Prudential

The Great Protector of American Homes.

INSURE NOW.

The Prudential Insurance Co. of America

JOHN F. DRYDEN,
President.Home Office:
NEWARK, N. J.Write for Particulars of Policies—Dept 67.

THE MOST POPULAR IN USE

ESTERBROOK'S STEEL PENS.

150 STYLES TO SUIT ALL WRITERS. ALL STATIONERS HAVE THEM.

26 JOHN ST., NEW YORK—AND CAMDEN, N. J.

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota

THEY are the best, gilt-edged, rock-ribbed, guaranteed 6% investment in America. Safe as government bonds and pay better.

I have been selling these mortgages for 18 years, and have never had to foreclose, and never lost a cent of principal or interest for a single customer.

I personally know every farm covered by the mortgages, as well as the farmers giving them. I know them both to be right, or I have nothing to do with them. Their land is increasing in value every day, thus increasing the value of the security.

I collect both the interest and principal free, and remit in New York exchange, without the least trouble or bother of the customer.

I will be pleased to put you in the way of finding out all about me. Write me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON

Investment Banker

LISBON, NORTH DAKOTA

American Friend

Vol. X

ELEVENTH MONTH 26, 1903

No. 48

PAID

EDITORIALS.—What is the Best Thing to Do with a Life?—The Republic of Panama.—Some Good Books for Bible School Teachers.—Editorial
Note 807

Friendliness 808
Delia Rees.

SOME VIEWS ON PRESENT TOPICS:
Modern Methods of Evangelism . . 809
J. G. Patton.

THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON 811
Lesson for Twelfth month 6, 1903.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR 812
Topic for Twelfth month 6, 1903.

MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT 812

CORRESPONDENCE 813

THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES, 813

BORN.—MARRIED.—DIED 814

EVENTS AND COMMENTS 815

THE MYSTERY.

*We sow the glebe, we reap the corn,
We build the house where we may rest,
And then, at moments suddenly,
We look up to the great wide sky,
Inquiring wherefore we were born—
For earnest, or for jest?*

*The senses folding thick and dark
About the stifled soul within,
We guess diviner things beyond,
And yearn to them with yearning fond;
We strike out boldly to a mark
Believed in, but not seen.*

*And sometimes horror chills our blood
To be so near such mystic things
And we wrap round us, for defense,
Our purple manners, moods of sense—
As angels, from the face of God,
Stand hidden in their wings.*

—ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

Detail from the Painting by J. Pettie, R.A.
"GEORGE FOX REFUSING THE OATH AT HOLKER HALL"

IMAGINATIVE PORTRAITS OF George Fox

IT may sound like a contradiction in terms to speak of imaginative portraiture, but in this case it is not so by any means. We have portraits of George Fox of undoubted authenticity, yet no one can doubt, after a careful comparison of these with the portraits which we owe to the imaginative genius of great artists, that, considered as revelations of the true inner man, these latter are fully as authentic and infinitely richer.

The portrait by Lely is of Fox at rest. Some sympathetic imagination is needed to see the hero and the magnetic leader in that quiet face. But in the magnificent conception by Pettie we see manifestly the same man, but with all his deepest nature stirred by the cruel trial of the faith that is in him.

Again, the familiar portraits of Fox make the discerning observer wonder that the far-seeing wisdom of his later years,—the wisdom of the organizer, the guide, the moderator,—could reside behind that brow. But in the noble portrait bust by Robert Spence, we can see these qualities visibly embodied. So also in Spence's picture of his disputation with the bailiff's son, we see and feel the intense gaze of those piercing eyes.

All the authentic, as well as the best imaginative portraits of George Fox, are given in "George Fox: an Autobiography," by R. M. Jones. Two volumes, 600 pages, extra cloth, gilt top, twenty-four full-page plates, post-paid, $4.00 net.

There is a right way and a wrong way to wash flannel outing garments. Try this—the right way:

Cut some Ivory Soap into shavings and dissolve; add this to the water and wash quickly by repeatedly immersing in the suds and drawing through the hands. The water for both washing and rinsing should be warm, never hot or cold.

Wring, stretch into shape and hang to dry in a place where there is no exposure to wind, sun, too hot or too cold air. Iron before they are entirely dry.

Shrinking is caused by the interlacing of the wool fibers, that have small, sawlike teeth which catch on each other. In washing, therefore, it is desirable to keep the material well stretched out to prevent the fiber from becoming matted. A washboard should not be used, nor should the soap be rubbed on. Pure soap and an even temperature are essential.

The American Friend

*"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."*

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, ELEVENTH MONTH 26, 1903.

No. 48.

NOTICE.

New Subscribers to THE AMERICAN FRIEND may receive the paper the remainder of this year and the whole of next year for $1.50. Sample copies will be sent free. Address,

*THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch St., Philadelphia.*

WHAT IS THE BEST THING TO DO WITH A LIFE ?

EACH one of us has a life to give to something. We are making one passage through the world. To us ourselves this particular passage of ours is of momentous importance. We know, of course, when we really think about it, that our pilgrimage is a very short one, soon to be finished. The last event in our short warfare will come quickly. A little circle of intimate friends will be deeply affected, and to them the loss will be a very real one. But it will mean extremely little to the great busy world, which will hardly have time to read our brief epitaph. Oblivion will soon swallow us up and the places that have known us will know us no more. If our immortality depended upon the memories which we leave behind, how few would have any chances for immortality at all. No, it is our fate to be forgotten. A man may leave a legacy to provide for the placing of flowers on his grave, but who cares really for a memory secured in such artificial ways?

Under these circumstances what is the best thing to do with a life? How can it be invested so as to produce a permanent influence in the world? The best thing to do is to put your life into something which is going on after you are no longer even a name among men. What could be more insignificant in itself than the minute polyp which makes the coral? One of these little lives, isolated and cut apart from its family tree, would be of all things useless. But each one adds its life and so helps to raise from the bottom of the sea the buried foundation of an island which could never have been without these unremembered lives which have contributed themselves to the vast plan.

So the mother who is hardly heard of among the multitudes may be putting her life into a family of sons who will be pillars of society when she sleeps the long sleep, and through the moral fiber of these sons whom she trained her life will go on to generations yet unborn. And even after she has been forgotten in the family tree, and no memory of her lives in book or story, her life will be going on in the noble race which she helped produce, and something from her devoted life will show itself in the stock for centuries. The teacher is another illustration. His scholars will forget much which he teaches them. They may even forget him altogether, and call themselves "self-made men." But nevertheless, if so be he taught them well, some of his truth, yes, more, something of his own life has gone over into them, and so has a permanent place in the world—after he dies and is forgotten.

It is still better seen, if the life is devoted to some permanent institution or growing organization. George Fox, for example, lives not only in the books he wrote, and in the direct influence which his life set going. He put his life into a Society which has shaped the lives of thousands of persons who have never read a line which he wrote. All the founders of great movements have made a permanent investment of their lives, and they go on changing the world, whether the world remembers their names or not.

But some one will, of course, ask: "What about us, who are neither mothers nor teachers, nor 'founders'? How can we common folks put our lives into something permanent?" Isn't there some institution, or society, or church, or social reform into which your life could be put, and so be made a part of a permanent movement? No institution or society can live on its founder alone. It lives and goes on because a succession of men and women consecrate themselves to it and add themselves to the long chain of lives which make it a permanent power.

The moment one of us has helped produce a vital Friends' meeting in a community where we live, we have prolonged our lives and our influence and made them as permanent as the Church itself is. This is just the difference between independent disconnected activity and work which goes to produce a growing fellowship and a living organization. It is just because we see all this that we make so much of denominational loyalty, and of devotion to the Church of which we are organic parts.

THE REPUBLIC OF PANAMA.

WE have already expressed our sincere regret and sorrow over the part which our nation has taken in the Panama affair. Every scrap of information which has since been given upon the steps which led up to the "revolution," and all the light which has been shed upon our action and attitude in the matter have increased our sense of humiliation. It is a chapter of history which will make future lovers of our country blush, as we now do when we read the events which led up to the shameful war with Mexico, more than half a century ago.

Nevertheless, whether the steps have been straight or crooked, the Republic of Panama has probably come to stay. Its parent cannot win it back by love, and is not allowed to win it back by force. It will, during the next few years, be an important spot on the map. Its territory covers about 30,000 square miles, and supports about a quarter of a million of inhabitants. They are said to be an energetic, hard-working people—i.e., for a tropical country. They are a mixed race, the union of Spaniards and Indians. Their main pursuits are agriculture and cattle raising, the exports of the land being of an extremely varied sort, including among many other things coffee, bananas, rubber gum and pearls. The little country possesses two important harbors, Colon and Panama, on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts respectively, which even now are very busy seaports. But their importance and activities will be many times multiplied when the two oceans are united by the canal for which this "revolution" is preparing the way.

SOME GOOD BOOKS FOR BIBLE SCHOOL TEACHERS.*

WOULD that every one of our Bible School teachers might read these two splendid books by Burton and Matthews. The first effect of reading them would be to make our teachers dissatisfied with their present teaching. The next effect would be inspiration and help toward greatly improved methods. In a general way most persons who are endeavoring to teach the Bible realize that they are not as successful as they would like to be, but they hardly ever examine into the real reasons for their lack of power. They take it as a matter of course, something, perhaps, which cannot be remedied.

It would be a comfort to such teachers to learn just where and why they are missing the mark, for until that is discovered there is little chance of true progress. "Principles and Ideals for the Sunday School" will help any thoughtful reader to see what makes a good teacher, and it will put something new into every person who has a serious purpose to make the Bible mean a great deal to young people. The "Constructive Studies in the Life of Christ" is almost indispensable to any one who wishes to make a thorough study of the Gospels with a class. We want also to recommend to all who are teaching children of twelve or under to get Sarah Dawes' "Bible Stories for Young People," published by T. Y. Crowell & Co., New York City.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

IF any of our readers, or any groups of Friends, are planning to study missions and mission work this winter, they will find their work greatly assisted and furthered by two excellent contributions to missionary literature which have been made by Harlan P. Beach, Secretary of the Student Volunteer movement. They consist of two volumes, entitled "Geography and Atlas of Protestant Missions." The first volume sets forth the environment, forces, distribution, methods, problems, results and prospects at the opening of the twentieth century. The second volume contains maps of all missionary countries on the globe, with full statistics and complete indexes.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

FRIENDLINESS.

BY DELIA REES.

The word friend grows deep with meaning to us all as the years work themselves by in our experience. Helpers of inestimable value they are as they share their very life with us, to the nobler and higher development of our own. Throwing their light on our darker paths, they share our joys, help us to bravely and wisely lift the new loads and patiently carry burdens that have long hung heavy. And when they did not fully understand us, and could not give light, and were unable to add strength or impart wisdom or compass our special need, yet by the greatness of their own hearts and lives threw around us an atmosphere of sympathy and wholesome confidence, in which we could live and wait for the longed-for light or strength or opening of the ways, until patience had done some of her perfect work in us, and we began to find our bearings and were able to see clearly the direction we were to take. How they stood by us in our transition times, when by forces which we could not control the old in us was compelled to give place to the new, when the germ of truth within was starting up for new growth and seeking larger expression in life, when we could no longer honestly say the things we once said, and were yet not far enough on to know what to say instead, and had to just wait and think and pray and watch and wait again until sometimes

* "Principles and Ideals for the Sunday School," Burton and Matthews; "Constructive Studies in the Life of Christ," Burton and Matthews. Published by the University of Chicago Press.

"The heart grew sick with waiting, Ere it learned what life could teach."

God be praised for such friends, who, when we came to the parting of the ways, and the atmosphere was murky and the light within did not shine clear, and we did not know which way to take, believed in us, and in the face of our mistakes fully expected that in the last analysis we would take the right course, whose very confidence in God and in us made it possible for us to find the right. All of us who have tried with purpose to make life's walk a righteous one have occasionally, at least, tasted such friendliness, and know within ourselves that it was an important factor in holding us to the truth and enabling us to step into the larger place and the clearer light, where we rendered more efficient service to mankind. But these tried and trusting friends, who by what they are pull us through our dangers and cause us to enter larger and nobler life, are very few, are they not? That question it was that caused me to attempt this article. And I will at once answer, yes, all too few, and such friendliness all too rare, and I may further admit the inborn desire and conscious need of being myself a better friend to all who seek in any way for light and truth, that they may understand righteousness and follow God.

I deeply yearn to learn always to put away prejudices and suspicions and be a helper of every man's faith. It is much easier for us to lord it over another's faith than be a helper of the same. And we cannot do the latter without this spirit of real friendliness, without a confidence in each other which is stronger than our prejudices. There is great need of this friendliness in the Friends' Church. We need a confidence in the purposes of others which is wiser and stronger than our suspicion of the wisdom of some of their words and deeds. With the questions that confront the Church to-day and with the various and varying positions which we find ourselves in concerning these questions there is need and opportunity for real friendliness. For, until we are willing to know each other face to face, hand to hand, and heart to heart, we cannot work together for the highest and best interests of all. In different sections of our country there is considerable difference in the expression of truth, in manner of worship and method of work, but we are one body and the spirit of friendliness must pervade the body, for without it we shall be wholly unable to understand the other man's point of view, and consequently shall fail to give him our own point of vision.

To stand aloof from each other with critical spirit will never make of us an effective working force. Let us give ourselves to knowing each other in the spirit of friendliness, willing to hear and receive and willing to impart in the discussion of the Church's problem and the world's need. We shall live and work all the better for having fairly and kindly listened to another's faith, or purpose, or plans. The man that can quietly listen and fairly hear will surely get clearer and larger views himself, though he may be unable to receive as his own that which he hears, and the spirit of fairness and friendliness will go far toward opening the door for him to utter what is to his own soul, truth and light, and win others from error. Some one has said, "All that truth asks is a fair field and no favor." We greatly need to realize that it does not need the defence of our prejudices nor the aid of religious bigotry. Let us make room for its unfolding and growth by the practical exercise of sincere friendliness toward all. And this is not giving place to error, but is rather the only way to overcome error, by fairly letting in the light on and from every side. Let us remember that, whether conservative or liberal, whether believing in this method or that, however widely differing in our views as to work and worship, without the spirit of friendliness, we may be very religious, but certainly not Christian.

New York.

Some Views on Present Topics.

MODERN METHODS OF EVANGELISM.

BY J. G. PATTON.

[Extracts from an article in "The Christian Work and Evangelist."]

How is the world being instructed in the Gospel? The answer to this question has not only to do with the plan and mode of presenting the glad tidings, but it has also to do with the subject matter to be set forth. What is the Gospel of to-day? Is it a new Gospel in comparison with the Gospel of the last century? Is it a new Gospel from that of apostolic times? Some leading theologians and preachers hold that our age is the best age the world has ever beheld except the age of the apostles. Our exegetes, grammatical, etymological, historical and philosophical, are all trying to understand the apostolic intent of the kingdom. They desire to lead us back to apostolic times, to give to us apostolic data of the Gospel. They are trying to give us the real Jewish and heathen world; at the same time they are setting before us, or trying to set before us, the real Peter and the real Paul. If they have the true conception of the apostles, then is the Church of to-day getting near the apostolic Christianity. The Master's Gospel is the Gospel for an age of doubt; it is the Gospel for an age of faith; it is the Gospel for an age of materialism like our own age. His message comes to us with a little clearer and stronger authority than that of his immediate followers, though they were all inspired evangelists. His own person and life were the fulness of the glad tidings from heaven to a lost world. How do we approach the person of our blessed Redeemer? By faith, of course; yet faith is begotten by study and hearing. It is agreed, I think, by us all that the nearer we get to Isaiah and all the Messianic prophets of the Old Testament, and to the apostles of the New, the nearer we get to the spirit of Jesus the Christ.

The Gospel is really what Christ thought, and what He thinks in men who are living in Him. If He should be manifest in one incarnate, human and divine person in our age and should evangelize as He did while here upon earth, He would no doubt have the same truth, the same life and the same way to present as He did then. His mode of expressing the truth would be in keeping with the language of to-day. Language changes, and truth has many vehicles by which it is conveyed. Life springs forth from every branch of the living vine and springs forth into the more abundant life. Thought life, in which ideals abound, must precede all forms of setting forth existence. The true evangelist must know Christ. He should spend years, if need be, as did the master-evangelist, Paul, in silent times with Christ. There is a place for such an evangelist in our age. He may have his idiosyncrasies; he will not offend by these if his methods be Christlike.

Evangelists of the emotional order can still be found by churches seeking such men and women—for women are now reckoned as good evangelists when they are good. At least a great number of our churches recognize the worth of women evangelists. A meeting of this order, which takes in its grasp the emotional nature, lifts up the Church into the upper atmosphere of Christian life. There must be a descent from such a dizzy height. The descent is perilous to the Church. Those who have been lifted the highest often fall the lowest. Yet true religion has much to do with the emotional nature, and if we cannot sometimes ascend to the Mount of Transfiguration, we cannot bear the strain of the Valley of Humiliation. Much as men's feelings are, so will be their decisions for or against the new life in Christ. A very little feeling may cause a strong-minded man to put off the day of his return to God. Even so clear and vigorous a thinker as Herbert Spencer, in his last work, "Facts and Comments," has a chapter on "Feeling versus Intellect." In this chapter he distinctly holds that heart culture is the prime necessity of the hour, that the intellect is trained to the extinction of the feelings. "It is assumed," says Spencer, "that when men are taught what is right they will do what is right, that a proposition intellectually accepted will be morally operative." Many men attending our churches faithfully, it may be, have not accepted Christ as their Saviour. They know there is no other way to be saved; they will give assent to your plea with them that they should be Christians, that it is right for them to give their lives to Christ. Yet they refuse to do so. Their feelings need to be moved. While mere emotionalism in revival work is entirely a false method, yet the need of to-day is more heart-to-heart preaching. Not less intellect, but more heart, in the pulpit would improve church worship.

The personal method is the best of all methods. It may have as many methods as there are evangelists in the local church or churches. Each member of the Church should be an evangelist, at least so far as bearing the truth to other men is concerned. Cottage prayer meetings may be the means of great good in promoting revivals. They help personal work. Apostolic evangelization was for the most part carried on in the home. Cottage prayer meetings resulted in churches being organized. Family prayer, which a half century ago was much practiced in this community, has now almost ceased to be observed. What children are now taught in the home by their parents to confess Christ, to love and obey him as their Saviour?

Work among children, however, is now being taken up by the churches as never before. The Sabbath School has supplanted catechetical instruction by the pastor. The modern method for the child is perhaps the better one, but very careful work in evangelization is needed here. It is altogether wrong to keep children up till late at night in revival services. Their young minds cannot well stand such a strain. If the work is well done in the home and in the Sabbath School, then there will be few children to reach in the special revival services. But with all our good plans, there are so many breaks, so many failures to carry them out, that it is right to make special efforts in the revival services of the Church to reach the children. In work for children we need the clearest and simplest kind of preaching and instruction in the way of salvation. A child should know that it is a sinner in God's sight. At the same time it should be taught to love Jesus and to keep busy in serving Him.

We can lay down no rule or method of procedure for evangelistic efforts in all the churches and communities of our time. Any local method pursued must not neglect the personal method. Crowds may be gathered, to be religiously revived, but men are saved one by one. Due place must be given the Holy Spirit in any method. His place is the first place. We must give Him that place, and not only be willing but anxious that He work when and where He will. No revival of the Lord was ever inaugurated without the Holy Spirit. It is the Holy Spirit that moves us to importunate prayer for times of refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

Can any one doubt but that there will be a great revival soon in our country? From ocean to ocean there is an unrest in the churches. Just what kind of a revival it will be, we cannot tell. It may be deeply spiritual or it may be a wave of formalism. It can be, and ought to be, regenerative, and can be if the evangelism be apostolic in its character and methods. The kingdom of God confronts already a dead formalism in the Church. It must battle against an almost endless number of non-essential doctrines.

which sectarian theologians build in their perishing tabernacles of religious systems. It must cut the tap root of Spiritualism, Christian Science, so-called faith curism, apocalyptic realists, and all manner of sacerdotal cant and veneer. Well, then, why not back to the apostolic age? Will those goodly men let us into their upper room? Yes, we will be welcome there if we come to know and to do the will of God. And if we cry back to the apostles, then why not back to the evangelism of Christ? Certainly we ought to study His methods. Were not His methods more up-to-date than many of our own? Yes, in simplicity and directness we think they were. It is true that the program of Christ and His apostles for the evangelization of the world was a better one than we can devise, yet in the use of their plans let us beware also that the letter does not kill. Simple, direct presentation of the truth, heart-to-heart speaking, hand-to-hand working must make vital evangelism. A mind full of love and truth from God will evangelize many minds. The real Gospel is truth and love. It is a living word from God and His ambassador. God is in his message and his messenger. It ought to be the supreme end and aim of every church in any community that every person shall hear the Gospel and shall have a personal appeal to be saved.

Washington, Pa.

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON X.

TWELFTH MONTH 6, 1903.

SOLOMON'S WISE CHOICE.

1 Kings 3: 4-15.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 30.—Solomon's wise choice. 1 Kings 3: 4-15.
Third-day, Twelfth mo. 1.—The choice of Moses. Heb. 11: 17-26.
Fourth-day, Twelfth mo. 2.—Joshua's choice. Josh. 24: 14-24.
Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 3.—The excellency of wisdom. Job 28: 12-28.
Sixth-day, Twelfth mo. 4.—Which to choose. Deut. 30: 11-20.
Seventh-day, Twelfth mo. 5.—The first choice. 1 Tim. 6: 6-16.
First-day, Twelfth mo. 6.—Best knowledge. Phil. 3: 1-14.

Like the Books of Samuel, Kings were originally one book, and were divided by the Greek Jews of Alexandria, who made the translation into Greek, known as the Septuagint. Like Samuel and Chronicles, the Kings are a compilation from earlier authorities. Tradition says that the work was done by Jeremiah, but this is not at all likely. From internal evidence the time of compilation was probably between 561 and 536 B.C. Three main sources are named in the books: (1) The Book of the Acts of Solomon (1 Kings 11: 41); (2) Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah (1 Kings 14: 29, and a number of other places); (3) Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel (1 Kings 14: 19, and other places). The books contain a brief account of the whole regal period of Israelitish history, except that of Saul and David. The books are not properly history, but are a selection from historical accounts made for a specific purpose, to teach, "What God hath promised to the house of David He has thus fulfilled."

The histories of Elijah and Elisha are almost the only exception to the above statement, and even they are employed to enforce the general purpose.

Time.—The beginning of Solomon's reign, which was 1015 or 977 B.C.

Place.—Gibeon, a high hill where was placed the ancient tabernacle made by Moses in the wilderness (2 Chron. 1: 3). This was about six miles north of Jerusalem.

Solomon was about 19 or 20 years old. His kingdom was established, and he now began to think about building the house of the Lord.

Intervening Events.—After David's charge to Solomon, the events which took place will be found in 1 Kings 2: 12 to 3: 3.

4. "A great high place." The fact that the tabernacle was there doubtless gave it this distinction. "A thousand burnt offerings." Compare 2 Chron. 1: 2, 3, 6.

5. "In a dream." God frequently made known His will in this way. Compare Gen. 31: 11; Gen. 41: 25; Matt. 1: 20; 2: 13, 19. There were three ways recognized in the Old Testament by which the will of the Lord was expressed: by dreams; by Urim—the jeweled breastplate of the high priest; and by prophets. Of these the second was the least valued, and after David's time it appears to have fallen into disuse. "Ask what I shall give thee." These words imply the widest range. It is a question which is put before every human soul. "Ask that ye may receive."

6, 7. Solomon does not answer without thought. He mentions three things—God's loving kindness to his father, David; the fact that his own position was given him by God; and his youth and inexperience. "Little child" is used figuratively. "To go out or come in." A not uncommon expression, meaning the conduct of life or of affairs. Compare Josh. 14: 11; Deut. 31: 2.

8. "That cannot be numbered," etc. This is an oriental way of expressing a large number.

9. "Give thy servant therefore." He now makes his request. "An understanding heart." Literally a "hearing heart," or, as explained in the corresponding account in 2 Chron. 1: 10, "wisdom and knowledge." The whole tenor of the passage implies that what he asked for must rest on a moral and religious basis. He especially desired that wisdom which discerns between the false and the true, the good and the evil. He needed this because in the East the king was the judge as well as ruler, and ability to discern was a most useful characteristic. It was an unselfish request, for possession of the quality asked for would benefit others quite as much as himself. The things which he might have asked for, as enumerated in the verse, are those which from a purely selfish point of view he would have been likely to desire.

12. His request was granted in full. Moreover he would be greater in this respect than any who had preceded him, or that might follow him.

13. His request was not only granted in full, but he was given those things, which had he been selfishly-minded he would have asked for—riches and honor, and all that accompanies them. Compare our Lord's words, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

14. "And if thou wilt walk in my ways." The promise was conditional. That "if" was an important factor. We know that Solomon did not continue to walk in the right path, and therefore he fell, and did not live to be an old man, but died when he was about 60. Compare 1 Kings 11: 1-8. "As thy father David." Not everything that David did, but what he did when his heart was right.

15. "Behold, it was a dream." He knew, however, that it was more than a dream. Solomon immediately acted on the message. He believed that God had spoken to him in this way.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. Choice comes to every one some time, and the decision must be made.

2. It is this power of choice which makes us free agents.

3. "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR TWELFTH MONTH SIXTH.

WHAT THE HEROES OF FAITH TEACH US.

Hebrews 11: 1-40.

Second-day, Eleventh mo. 30.—Faith in the cross. Gen. 4: 4-7.

Third-day, Twelfth mo. 1.—Walking with God. Gen. 5: 22-24.

Fourth-day, Twelfth mo. 2.—Faith building the ark. Gen. 6: 13-22.

Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 3.—Faith conquering cities. Josh. 6: 1-21.

Sixth-day, Twelfth mo. 4.—Faith winning victories. Judges 7: 15-22.

Seventh-day, Twelfth mo. 5.—Faith on a journey. Acts 7: 2-5.

Our lesson committee has thrown open the doors of a marvelous picture gallery, in which we may each select a heroic figure and find in his Old Testament biography and his New Testament interpretation something that will make us better know God's plan and our possibilities. His plan is to give a sufficient revelation, a sure foundation "wherein we stand," and then a foregleam of the "better things," so that we shall reach up and press on.

Growth comes with effort and in no other way. The satisfied man stagnates. "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst," may be paraphrased, Blessed are they whose sense of better things is sharp and stirring. "They desire a better country," and it is this desire that links them to God, so that He is not ashamed to be called their God.

That man shames God who gives a cheap and easy interpretation of Christian living, naming upon himself the name of Christ, while engrossed in things of time and sense.

This cloud of witnesses gives us an example of constancy. They did not "rue back" in the moment of trial, like boys disappointed with an ill-considered bargain. The test of heroism is not in the impulsive choice, but in the steadfast sticking to it. When men become aware of the conflict, and yet face the front, knowing that there is "opportunity to return," God sees and shows Himself strong in their behalf. Alexander Maclaren speaks of "exercising a solid, deliberate faith" in Christ. How opposed that thought is to the stimulated, hot-house faith that sometimes seems to spring up so suddenly and freshly and then perishes in the time of adversity, "because it has no deepness of earth."

The faith of some of these ancient worthies was tested by such hardships that rescue would have meant a practical resurrection; but because surrender of faith was the price of deliverance, they fixed their hopes on a "better resurrection," and obtained it, not in present accomplishment, but in the realization that faith achieves.

Faith is not unreasonable, though it transcends reason. Not one of this galaxy of saints but could have been out-argued in a debate confined to manifested and material things. In the eyes of their contemporaries they were throwing chances away, but they held fast to the unshaken logic of righteousness, and they are to-day the men of renown and of achievement of their generations, whose triumphs stand out but the more brightly for the greatness of their provings.

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

Kaimosi, B. E. Africa,

Ninth month 21st, 1903.

Dear Friends:

Although the missionary who labors among the heathen meets with much that is disheartening, all is not discouragement. A few days ago my attention was directed to one of our orphan boys and another lad who lives on the station. They were discovered by one of our men to be stealing potatoes from our shamba. The orphan dropped his plunder in the patch and took to his heels, but the other, less willing to part with his stolen gain, hastily folded it in his blanket and took to the bush, but was soon captured, and, with the other youthful culprit, brought to me. After a little talk with them about the all-seeing eye of God, and how, although perhaps not discovered by man, He watches and knows our every action, whether good or evil, I thought a suitable punishment would be the tying of their guilty hands. As they stood the remainder of the day tied together with hands behind them they had opportunity to ponder well their ways. The instruction given in the morning gospel service on that particular morning had been from Rev. 3: 20: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." It was soon very evident that the teaching had not been forgotten by all who heard it, for I soon heard some of the older orphan boys talking among themselves and to the prisoners something after this wise: "The reason that these boys stole potatoes and are being punished is that Shetani (Satan) is in their hearts and tells them to do bad and they have to do it. This is just what the white man told us this morning; that if we don't let the Lord come in and send Satan out we cannot do right, but will have to do what the evil spirit tells us to do." Although the ones who applied the truth to the guilty parties in this case have not had Satan expelled from their own hearts, we rejoice in the belief that the Light is beginning to penetrate their darkened hearts, that little by little they are getting under the weight of the Gospel message. We hope the day is not far distant when some of these will know of sins forgiven, of communion with our Saviour, and will be able, from a heart experience, to tell their brothers in heathendom of the gospel of Christ as "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." I believe most firmly in native evangelization for Africa. The Christian European must get them started and continue his labors amongst them; but what are a few scattered missionaries amongst the hosts in heathen darkness unless aided by the native? and what would native conversions amount to if not thorough enough to cause the recipients to go and tell what great things God hath done for them? Pray with us that very soon some of these who have been hearing the gospel message day after day may receive pardon for sins, and, energized by the Holy Spirit, go forth to proclaim liberty to these captive multitudes in Kavirondo.

Yours for the spread of the gospel,

EDGAR T. HOLE.

Great souls have wills; feeble ones have only wishes.—Chinese Proverb.

Correspondence.

Editor AMERICAN FRIEND: The enclosed minute should have been included in the report of our yearly meeting. It reads as follows:

"After the withdrawal by the Temperance Committee of Baltimore Yearly Meeting of the proposed minute relating to the exercise of the elective franchise, the clerk was directed to prepare a minute which should express the sentiment of the meeting on the question. The following minute was presented by him at a later session as a part of the minute of advice which will be printed in the minutes of the meeting, and be mailed as a separate document to members who were not present at the time:

"The reports gave an encouraging account of the work done in the several meetings by the Peace and Temperance Committees. Statements were made in the various epistles relative to the concern of the different yearly meetings for the suppression of the traffic in intoxicants, and it is greatly desired that the membership of this yearly meeting be found in the front ranks of those who are laboring to that end.

"Those members who have the right of franchise are urged to be careful to exercise that privilege in a careful and conscientious spirit, ever mindful that the elective franchise is a sacred trust, and that it should be used as in the sight of the Lord and for the advancement of righteousness." J. R. C.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Mary Sibbitt, of Kansas, lectured on temperance at Bear Creek Meeting, Iowa, the 10th inst.

Lindley M. and Elizabeth Ferris Stevens attended the Friends' Meeting in Washington on the evening of the 12th instant.

Dr. Richard Haughton, of Richmond, Ind., had acceptable service in Friends' Meeting at Knightstown, Ind., the 15th inst.

Daisy Barr, of Greenfield, Ind., held services at Snider, an auxiliary of the Knightstown Monthly Meeting, on the 14th inst.

A successful series of meetings is in progress at West Oak, near Glenwood, Iowa, conducted by B. F. Talbott and wife, of Marshalltown, Iowa.

Minnie Bassett has settled at Carmel, Ind., where she is engaged in pastoral work in the meeting at that place. This will be her address for the future.

A recent item of news spoke of Joseph Lamb as a native of Mexico. This is a mistake. He is a citizen of the United States, though his wife is a native Mexican.

J. L. Spicer, the superintendent of evangelistic work of New York Yearly Meeting, visited Monkton Ridge, Vt., recently, and gave his lecture on "The Quaker of the Olden Times."

James K. Carter, whose obituary appears in this issue, was born in a log cabin in Hendrix County, Ind. He early moved to New Providence, Iowa, and settled on a farm where he has lived an exemplary and telling life since 1878.

J. Perry Hadley, field evangelist for the Christian Endeavor Union of Kansas Yearly Meeting, writes from Sterling, Kan., on the 14th inst.: "I am in the field; left home two weeks ago. Send me a few copies of THE AMERICAN FRIEND to Haviland, Kan. Will be there in about ten days."

William J. Sayers, of Fall River, Mass., and Tennyson Lewis, the local minister, recently held a series of meetings at South Wabash, Ind. The preaching was powerful, and sixteen professed conversion, all promising young people. Nearly all of them who were not already members joined with Friends.

Friends at La Porte, Ind., are now meeting in their new meeting house. Special dedicatorial services were conducted on the 11th ult. by Thomas Brown and Frank Moorman, who is now local minister. A hearty invitation is now extended to visiting Friends to come and worship in the meeting.

Charles M. Woodman, resident minister at Friends' School, Providence, acceptably attended Smithfield Quarterly Meeting, held at Woonsocket, R. I., on the 12th inst. At the Bible School conference, held on the preceding evening, he spoke on "The Fundamental Need of the Christian Endeavorer." The address was an interesting one, and applicable to workers in every line of Christian effort.

A double wedding anniversary was celebrated at the home of Calvin Bond at Carmel, Ind., the 9th inst., it being the golden wedding of Calvin and Margaret A. Bond, and the silver wedding of their daughter and son-in-law, William C. Hill and wife, of Westfield, Ind. Calvin Bond, now 73 years old, came to the community in 1849 from Wayne County, Ind., where his early youth was spent.

His wife is a daughter of Wm. and Betsy Murphy, who settled near Carmel in 1834, but are not now living. They were married in Richland (now Carmel) Monthly Meeting. Joshua M. Perisho and wife, of that place, who were their waiters 50 years ago, were present at and stood with them again at the anniversary while the former ceremony was repeated. James G. Small, who read the marriage certificate at the time of the marriage, is living with his family in Kansas, and was unable to be present. The marriage certificate was read by Elizabeth C. Symons, a sister of the wife of James G. Small, who also sent a poem which she had written appropriate to the occasion. The parents of each of the elderly couple were of about the same age, and married in the same monthly meeting. Each formerly had 15 uncles and aunts, and at the time of their marriage each had 11 uncles and aunts; each had an uncle and aunt that left no children, and at this time each has a brother, but no sisters. The daughter and husband, who celebrated their 25th anniversary, had attending them their waiters of 25 years ago, both still unmarried. They are J. A. Hedgecock and Margaret Coffin, of Westfield. Several presents suitable to the occasion were received, and the guests who ate the wedding dinner with the two couples with as many more who came in during the afternoon had a very enjoyable time.

Encouraging reports come to us from our friend M. Z. Kirk, who is at the head of the Union Book and Bible House, Denver, Col. Business is good, much better than last fall. Many of our readers will recall the time when he was connected with THE AMERICAN FRIEND, and rejoice with us in his good fortune.

Fred T. Coppock closed a very successful series of meetings of eleven sessions at Stella Academy, Oklahoma Territory, on the 16th instant. There were 81 professions of definite blessings, 44 renewals, 18 conversions and 19 sanctifications. More than 90 per cent. of the students of the Academy are now professed Christians. At the closing session, with a full house, only a few remained in their seats when the Christians were asked to stand.

Glens Falls Quarterly Meeting, held at Glens Falls, N. Y., the 13th to 15th inst., was an occasion of unusual interest. All the ministers in the quarterly meeting (now numbering four) were present; also J. Lindley Spicer, yearly meeting superintendent, and Harry R. Keates, who had just returned from England and Ireland. The meeting of ministry and oversight listened to encouraging reports concerning the work in the different meetings. The meeting at Moreau was left without a local minister for some time, but Mary S. Knowles has been serving during the past few months. At Fort Edward Centre William Cary is carrying on a successful Bible School, and William Eddy has held service each alternate week. The latter is also serving South Glens Falls as pastor. Abijah Weaver is filling the place at Glens Falls to the satisfaction of the church. Two young men are doing excellent work in the suburbs of the town in a Bible School and gospel meeting. That evening J. Lindley Spicer gave an address upon "Friends, Past and Present," and the mission of this branch of the Church. At the meeting Seventh-day Harry R. Keates preached. At the opening of the business session there was a free expression as to the necessity of maintaining the full liberty of the Spirit in our meetings for worship. Harry R. Keates gave an interesting account of his service abroad and drew a vivid picture of the condition and work of Friends where he labored. Sabbath morning J. L. Spicer gave the message. He also spoke at Fort Edward Centre in the afternoon and at South Glens Falls in the evening. During the quarterly meeting a meeting of the Pastoral and Evangelistic Committees was held to consider plans for special work in the near future. The quarterly meeting was an inspiring and profitable occasion, and the spirit characterizing it a hopeful one. The friends of Harry R. Keates and his family regret their removal to Pasadena, while they bid them God-speed and pray for abundant success in their new field of labor.

Vassalboro Quarterly Meeting was held at South China, Me., Eleventh month 13th, 14th and 15th. The afternoon of the 13th was the meeting for ministry and oversight, and the beloved and venerable Peace Jones was present, who prayed and spoke tenderly and impressively. Alfred Ware, superintendent of evangelistic work for the yearly meeting; Lucy A. Snow and Jennie Crossman, workers from other meetings, were also present. Alfred Ware had excellent service through the different sessions. Seventh-day morning, when the Evangelistic and Temperance Committees were appointed to co-operate with the Yearly Meetings Committee, a strong resolution was drawn up and fully united with by the meeting, which put itself on record as unalterably opposed to the resubmission of the prohibitory law in Maine. Seventh-day evening a very interesting meeting was held in the interest of foreign missions. First-day afternoon, at the close of a sermon by Alfred Ware, Peace Jones, who was again present, with her countenance glowing with its old-time love and power, so that more than a decade of years seemed to fall away from her, spoke in a very impressive manner, in part as follows: "What a beautiful company this is, so many of whom are on the heavenly journey, so many dear young people who want a Guide and Leader to direct along this heavenly way, and our Heavenly Father, the great God, is willing to be that to you." She then spoke of her own experience and how, when a little girl, she had often prayed on her way to school that God would make her a good girl. Then, in the old prophetic way so dear to many of us, said she believed God was going to give an increase in numbers and in power in this little branch of His Church, so that there would be a large succession of those who should serve and follow our Heavenly King. At the close of the meeting many gathered about to have the privilege of taking her hand and expressing with tearful eyes their pleasure in having her with them. She seemed quite surprised and overcome at such an ovation.

The meeting on ministry and oversight of Western Quarterly Meeting, North Carolina, was held the 13th instant at Centre, N. C. There were about twenty ministers present. The presence of most of these ministers was due to the fact that they were called to meet with a committee for the development of the ministry. A very interesting session of the committee was held in the afternoon and continued until dark. On the 14th the quarterly meeting was well attended, and an unusual number of ministers were present. Eli Reese, a minister from Highpoint; Rodema Wright and Roxie Dixon White took part in the service. Rufus P. King spoke on the great importance of being wholly the Lord's, filled with all the fulness of God. Professor Thomas Newlin, of Guilford College, called attention to the fact that the material and intellectual side must not be neglected in our system of evangelizing the world. Mary C. Woody showed how these two phases of the gospel fitted, the one with the other, in the complete plan of spreading the gospel. William Henley, a member of the meeting, also spoke. Ada Lee, a minister of North Carolina Yearly Meeting, lately from Tennessee, had acceptable service. During the business session a report of the work done in one monthly meeting was presented in detail, and on the whole it was hopeful and encouraging. A letter was granted to Bertha Cox, who is doing mission work in Seattle, Wash. Also a letter of love and sympathy was sent to eight or ten aged members, who were absent. There were three aged Friends in attendance—Solomon Frazier, who drove five miles to the meeting and home each day, is in his 88th year; Lewis Reynolds, 84 or 85, who drove alone about thirteen miles, and Hannah Osborne, for a long time clerk of the women's meeting of North Carolina Yearly Meeting, who is now in her 87th year. On First-day Mary C. Woody took charge of the entire Bible School and taught the lesson, from the 23d Psalm. At the 11 o'clock meeting the house was filled—aisles and all—to its utmost capacity. Ada Lee preached the leading sermon. Thomas E. Anderson, Chas. Johnson, a young evangelist minister, and Michael A. Farlon, a minister from Southern Quarter, followed. In the evening Ada Lee began a series of meetings.

BORN.

BENEDICT.—To Lewis N. and Emma Weaver Benedict, of Rome, N. Y., Eleventh month 16th, 1903, a son.

RUSSELL.—Born to James E. and Nellie Payne Russell, of Washington, D. C., on the 7th instant, a daughter, Mamie Irene.

TERRELL.—Born, to Albert H. and Mary Hawkins Terrell, near New Vienna, O., Tenth month 10th, 1903, a daughter, Harriet Tregenna.

MARRIED.

BELL—ALSOP.—On Seventh-day, Eleventh month 7th, 1903, at Friends' Meeting House, Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, Susan Kite Alsop, daughter of the late Samuel Alsop, Jr., and of Esther Kite Alsop, to William Brown Bell, of New York city.

SMITH—ERVIN.—At the home of the bride's parents, D. S. and B. M. Ervin, Cedarville, Ohio, Tenth month 1st, 1903, Jean Blanche Ervin to Oscar L. Smith, son of S. W. and Hannah L. Smith.

DIED.

CARTER.—At his beautiful country home, near New Providence, Iowa, Eleventh month 1st, 1903, James K. Carter, in his 56th year. The deceased was a birthright Friend, who lived his testimony of Christian character into his everyday work.

HARVEY.—At the home of her parents, Jesse H. and Carrie Harvey, near Clarksville, Ohio, Tenth month 17th, 1903, Olive E. Harvey, in her 23d year. She was a birthright member of Springfield Monthly Meeting, and was actively engaged in various lines of Christian work.

HENLEY.—At Monrovia, Ind., Eighth month 13th, 1903, William H. Henley, aged nearly 87 years. He was a life-long and consistent member of Friends.

HENLEY.—At Monrovia, Ind., Tenth month 15th, 1903, Elizabeth Henley, wife of William H. Henley, aged 87 years. She had a birthright membership with Friends, and ever lived consistent with that faith.

Events and Comments.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena of Italy were the guests of England last week.

The Cuban Reciprocity bill passed the House last week without amendments by a final vote of 335 to 21. It will meet with more vigorous opposition in the Senate, but there is little doubt about its final passage before the extra session adjourns.

Signor Marconi last week began work on the powerful wireless station at Pisa, through which it is intended to establish communication with the Argentine Republic and later with the United States. When the station is finished it will be inaugurated by King Victor Emmanuel, who will send the first message.

The request of the steel manufacturers of the country for a reduction by the railroads of the freight rate on iron and steel products from interior points to the seaboard for export has been partly granted. The reduction amounts to 33 1-3 per cent., and it applies to all articles on the so-called special list, including billets, but not including steel rails.

The Russian military reoccupation of Mukden, Manchuria, has caused such tension and has aroused such an aggressive attitude on the part of China that the continued dispatch of troops to the Far East, despite the pacific turn of the Russo-Japanese dispute, is now said to

BOTH FEEL

What Proper Food Does for Both Mind and Body.

Physical health, mental health; indeed almost everything good on this earth depend in great measure upon proper food.

Without health nothing is worth while and health can be won almost every time by proper feeding on the scientific food Grape-Nuts.

A California trained nurse proved this: "Three years ago I was taken very sick, my work as a trained nurse having worn me out both in body and mind, and medicine failed to relieve me at all. After seeing a number of physicians and specialists and getting no relief, I was very much discouraged, and felt that I would die of general nervous and physical collapse.

"My condition was so bad I never imagined food would help me, but on the advice of a friend I tried Grape-Nuts. The first package brought me so much relief that I quit the medicines and used Grape-Nuts steadily three times a day. The result was that within 6 months I had so completely regained my strength and health that I was back nursing again, and I feel the improvement in my brain power just as plainly as I do in physical strength.

"After my own wonderful experience with Grape-Nuts I have recommended it to my patients with splendid success and it has worked wonders in the cases of many invalids whom I have attended professionally." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

be directed against China. Troops totaling 250,000 have been ordered to the Far East when hostilities appeared imminent.

The suggestion of Wilfrid Laurier that Canada should have treaty-making powers seems to have met with a large measure of popular approval in that country. At any rate, it is now reported that the Dominion Government has decided to ask its British overlord for this right of treaty negotiation, the only limitation to be that treaties thus framed by Canada shall be subject to the King's veto.

The Socialist wing of the American Federation of Labor have made a much weaker showing this year than they did last in the test vote on the question of committing the Federation to socialistic principles. John Mitchell's influence has been strongly against any affiliation between the trade-unions and a political party, and he is now enormously more influential among labor organizations than he was a year ago.

A new canal treaty has been signed by the representatives of the United States and Panama, which practically makes the United States Government sovereign over a strip ten miles wide running parallel with the canal across the isthmus. The United States guarantees and agrees to maintain the independence of Panama. Panama is to receive $10,000,000 and an annual payment of $250,000, beginning nine years from the date of the treaty. The treaty will doubtless go to the Senate for ratification before the close of the extra session.

The adjournment of The Hague court brings the Venezuelan cases to an end, so far as the arguments are concerned, and the decisions will probably be rendered in a short time. The issue, it will be remembered, is whether the blockading powers can demand preferential treatment, in the payment of their claims, over other governments also having claims against Venezuela. The principles involved have been exhaustively discussed by learned counsel from various countries and the decision will establish, for all time, perhaps, a rule on the point that has been raised.

The National Convention of the Anti-Saloon League will meet in Washington, D. C., Twelfth month 9th and 10th. This convention will be largely attended. Delegates will be present from all parts of the country. The purpose of this convention is to offer earnest, united prayer for the overthrow of the liquor traffic and all its long train of kindred evils, and desire means by which their prayers may be answered. Something has been done by the Anti-Saloon League to curtail the evils of the liquor traffic and something is being done now; but much remains to be done. The work will not be completed until the saloon is banished from our country and from all the world.

The second bill introduced in the House this session was by Bartholdt, of Missouri, for the repeal of the Anti-Canteen law. Although no committees are appointed except Mileage, Rules, and Ways and Means, it is likely that the present law will hold over. This feeling in Congress is from two different standpoints. First, Congress, with the country, believes that the present law has not had a fair test; the recreation buildings are not yet in operation and not fully provided for, and the department and officers have not helped to give the Anti-Canteen law and régime an honest trial. Second, it believes to revive that question now, especially upon the eve of a presidential election, would be a political mistake.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

JOSEPH G. FOGG UNDERTAKER AND EMBALMER

S. W. Cor. Sixteenth and Race Sts.
Phone Spruce 44-38-W. PHILADELPHIA.
Suburban orders promptly attended.

"The Merchant who uses Poor Printing" said a business man recently, "is doing the best he can to defeat the very purpose for which he uses printed matter." Our printing is the kind that pays.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO.
Makers of the Better Kind of Printing
1019-21 Market Street Philadelphia

REGULAR EDITION
270 SONGS—100 NEW with the SELECT of the OLD. SEPARATE EDITION for Christian Endeavor Societies
Handsomely bound in silk finish cloths.
Each 25 cts. a copy, or $25.00 per 100.
Returnable sample sent on request.
THE BIGLOW & MAIN CO., New York & Chicago.

By IRA D. SANKEY.

SAVE 1/2 YOUR FUEL

or get all the heat you pay for. When you use a Rochester Radiator you do.

Rochester Radiator Co.,
77 Furnace St., Rochester, N. Y.

EASY

Fully Guaranteed.

Write for booklet on heating houses.

Y. F. A. Building,140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.*FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.Address ELIZA H. WORRELL

Phone Spruce 33-55.

Clerk.

Kitchen OutfitsAt Reasonable Rates*J. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET

Free delivery in city and suburbs.

OSTEOPATHYEDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON*Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

Bell Telephone

Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SONWall Paper and
Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD27 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

We need not be afraid that we shall go too far in serving others. There is no danger that any of us will ever go too far in the walk of active love.—J. C. Hare.

"SUPPOSE I DIE"

We have helped the people to answer that question for half a century or more; to make provision for their survivors. We do more; we assist men in making provision for their old age, when the money-producing power is waning. Get our free booklet, "The How and the Why." It brushes cobwebs from the brain

PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.,
921-3-5 Chestnut Street,
Philadelphia.ADVERTISING THAT PAYS.

When writing recently to a certain firm of advertisers who have used considerable space in THE AMERICAN FRIEND, we asked what returns they had actually received from the use of our columns. The following answer was promptly sent us: "We have tried advertising in many papers, some of which had a very large circulation, and also an exceedingly high advertising rate, but for actual results THE AMERICAN FRIEND stands at the head of our list. Some papers bring more inquiries, but no paper so much business. The answers from our advertising in THE AMERICAN FRIEND are unusual in two respects: First, nearly all inquiries result in customers (good ones, too), and second, many speak of the faith they have in THE AMERICAN FRIEND advertisements, saying they do not believe the management will admit any advertisers except those who do all they agree to do."

This evidence should be of interest and value to those who contemplate advertising in THE AMERICAN FRIEND, but who have not yet decided upon that step. Our rates are very moderate, and, in fact, considering the service rendered, we consider that they are low.

Write for information, THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

The Pittsburg Bank for Savings, of Pittsburg, has for a long time conducted a very successful system of banking by mail, fully one-third of the depositors of this institution doing their banking entirely through the postoffice. The leading banks of Pittsburg pay four per cent. interest on time deposits, and this rate is accordingly enjoyed by depositors with the Pittsburg Bank for Savings. A very attractive booklet on the subject of banking by mail is issued by this bank, and will be sent free upon request to any one desiring it. Address Pittsburg Bank for Savings, Pittsburg, Pa.

The happiness of two is more than double the happiness of one.

VERY LOW RATES TO CALIFORNIA, ARIZONA, MEXICO, NEW MEXICO AND OTHER WESTERN POINTS, VIA SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

Any one desiring to make a trip to California, Arizona, Mexico, New Mexico or other Western points, either for business or pleasure can do so now at a small cost.

Daily until November 29th, 1903, inclusive, special one-way colonists' tickets will be sold via Southern Railway at rate of $49.75 from Philadelphia to Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other points; proportionate low rates from other points.

The Southern Railway operates on fast trains, tri-weekly, high-class, personally-conducted vestibuled excursion sleeping cars between Washington, Los Angeles and San Francisco without change, via Atlanta, New Orleans and El Paso, in which the double berth rate is only $7.00.

Excursion sleeping cars leave Washington on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., will take pleasure in furnishing all information.

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota

I place mortgages on land covering about one-third its value. The value of this land is constantly increasing.

I know every mortgagor personally, know his land, his integrity, his habits and his ability to pay.

These combine to make me certain that these mortgages are as safe as GOVERNMENT BONDS.

Investigate me. You can't make the investigation too rigid to suit me. I'll stand it. I've been in this business for 18 years, and never lost a cent for a customer, nor foreclosed a mortgage.

I collect the interest and principal without charge and remit in New York exchange. Write to me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON

Investment Banker

Lisbon

North Dakota

INVESTORS, ATTENTIONThe Rock County State Bank

Newport, Nebraska, offers small farm mortgages for sale; 6 per cent. interest payable semi-annually. We conduct a conservative banking business and offer no loans except the regular customers of our own bank. We personally know every man and his land and we make no loan that we are unwilling to carry ourselves.

Penn's Treaty with the Indians

on India paper; engraving 23 inches by 18 inches, on sheets 30 inches by 24 inches; from the original Boydell engraved plate made in 1775 from the original painting of Benjamin West. $3.00 by mail.

A. L. SMITH29 E. Penn St., Germantown, Phila., Pa.

Keep the soil of life soft, its sympathy tender, its imagination free, or else you may lose the elementary quality of receptiveness, and all the influences of God may be in vain.—F. G. Peabody.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD COMPANY WILL ISSUE CLERICAL ORDERS FOR 1904.

Pursuant to its usual custom, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will issue clerical orders for the year 1904 to ordained clergymen having regular charge of churches located on or near its lines. Clergymen desiring such orders should make individual application for same on blanks furnished by the Company through its Agents. Applications should be sent to the General Office of the Company as soon as possible, in no case later than December 19th, so that orders may be mailed by December 31st to all clergymen entitled to receive them.

SEABOARD TOURIST TICKETS SOUTH.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is the quickest and shortest route to all Florida and Southern winter resorts. For descriptive booklet, excursion rates and general information, address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

BELIEF.

The pain we have to suffer seems so broad,
Set side by side with this life's narrow span.
We need no greater evidence that God
Has some diviner destiny for man.

He would not dream it worth His while to send
Such crushing sorrows as pursue us here,
Unless beyond this fleeting journey's end
Our chastened spirits found another sphere.

So small this world—so vast its agonies—
A future life is needed to adjust
These ill-proportioned, wide discrepancies
Between the spirit and its frame of dust.

So when my soul writhes with some aching grief,
And all my heart strings tremble with the strain,
My reason lends new courage to belief,
And all God's hidden purposes seem plain.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Marcus M. Marks tells this story of his four-year-old boy, who, noticing for the first time a lock of gray hair on his father's head, asked: "Papa, why are some of your hairs gray?" Thinking to drive home a moral lesson, the father answered: "Papa gets a gray hair every time his little boy is naughty." The child seemed lost in thought, but after a short pause said naively: "Well, then, grandpa must have had awful naughty boys."—"The Ram's Horn."

COULDN'T FOOL HIM.

Doctor Was Firm and Was Right.

Many doctors forbid their patients to drink coffee, but the patients still drink it on the sly, and thus spoil all the doctor's efforts and keep themselves sick. Sometimes the doctor makes sure that the patient is not drinking coffee, and there was a case of that kind in St. Paul, where a business man said:

"After a very severe illness last winter which almost caused my death the doctor said Postum Food Coffee was the only thing that I could drink, and he just made me quit coffee and drink Postum. My illness was caused by indigestion from the use of tea and coffee.

"The state of my stomach was so bad that it became terribly inflamed, and finally resulted in a rupture. I had not drank Postum very long before my lost blood was restored, and my stomach was well and strong, and I have now been using Postum for almost a year. When I got up from bed after my illness I weighed 98 pounds, and now my weight is 120.

"There is no doubt that Postum was the reason for this wonderful improvement, and I shall never go back to tea or coffee, but shall always stick to the food drink that brought me back to health and strength." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.
TRUSTING AND SINGING.

BY E. T. LARKIN.

Trusting and singing I go on my way;
Trusting and singing by night and by day;
Trusting in darkness and trusting in light;
Trusting and singing by day and by night—
Always trusting and singing,
My soul is her upward way winging.

Trusting my Saviour with every care,
He for me sweetly each burden doth bear.
Trusting in sickness, for He is my health;

Trusting in poverty, He is my wealth.
Always trusting and singing,
My soul is her upward way winging.

Trusting my pathway, He'll make it all bright;

Trusting for guidance, He'll lead me aright;

Trusting my loved ones, His grace can renew;

Trusting in all things, He'll bring me safe through.

Always trusting and singing,
My soul is her upward way winging.

Singing and trusting, I go on my way;
Singing, for victory crowns each new day;

Trusting Him fully whate'er may befall,
Trusting—His grace is sufficient for all.
Always trusting and singing,
My soul is her upward way winging.

DRAWING THE THING AS HE SAW IT.

To the Adelphi Art School in Brooklyn there came, says "The Brooklyn Eagle," a boy so dull that the teacher gave up all hope for him.

"Did you ever see a man's foot with six toes?" said Prof. Whittaker, irritably glancing at the drawing-board on which the young man had been trying to draw a foot.

"Don't know as I did," drawled the boy.

"Then why do you draw that foot with six toes?" said the professor, more irritated than ever.

"Because your old cast of a foot has six toes," said the boy. An examination proved this to be a fact.

"That boy is a successful artist now," said Prof. Whittaker, "and his success in life came from drawing just what he saw. If I could get boys who would draw six toes on a foot if six toes showed on the cast, I should turn out more artists."

Any church which forsakes the regular and uniform for the periodical and spasmodic service of God, is doomed to decay; any church which relies for its spiritual strength and growth entirely upon seasons of "revival" will very soon have no genuine revivals to rely on. Our holy God will not conform his blessings to man's moods and moral caprice. If a church is declining, it may require a "revival" to restore it; but what need was there of its declining?—T. L. Cuyler.

Cheap eggs are as good as cheap lamp-chimneys.

MACBETH.

If you use a wrong chimney, you lose a good deal of both light and comfort, and waste a dollar or two a year a lamp on chimneys.

Do you want the Index? Write me.

MACBETH, Pittsburgh.

This notion of taking everything as God's gifts which so robs life of sorrow! It is the everlasting feeling of the fountain behind the stream.—Phillips Brooks.

THE PERFECTION

of a pure, rich, unsweetened condensed milk is Borden's Peerless Brand Evaporated Cream. It is always available for every use to which raw milk or cream is devoted and is far superior to the average quality of either. Prepared by Borden's Condensed Milk Co.

GAS RADIATORS AND OIL HEATERS

IT takes a touch of frost to send people scurrying after these cold-weather comforts. We are ready, not only with a fine variety of both gas and oil heaters, but with prices that are most attractive:

Gas Radiators with 4 Tubes
$2.50, $3.00 and $3.50

Gas Radiators with 6 Tubes
$3.00, $3.50 and $4.00

Both high and low models—the high ones cost half-a-dollar more than the low ones.

Miller Oil Heaters In many respects the best Oil Heater in the market; fitted with new smokeless device and brass oil font—with japanned finish, $4.75; with full nickel finish, $5.25.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER
PHILADELPHIA

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS AND PLANTS

These You may have in Abundance by Planting our Select Bulbs and Plants.

To introduce our Bulbs into many new homes we make the following

Special Offer.

For 35 cents we will send postpaid 35 grand winter-blooming bulbs, all beautiful and of decided merit. This collection includes Hyacinths, Tulips, Crocus, Narcissus, Ixias, Freesias and many others. This collection is composed entirely of new varieties and strong sound bulbs sure to give satisfaction.

For 50 cents we will send postpaid the above collection and also one Hardy Magnolia Tree which will grow and flourish anywhere and give an abundance of its grand blooms with their most exquisite fragrance.

When ordering send us the address of people interested in flowers or plants and receive a fine lot of extra bulbs free.

We invite correspondence on all matters pertaining to Fruits, Flowers or Ornamental Planting. We answer all questions free of charge.

Catalogue of Trees, Plants and Bulbs Free.

T. C. FURNAS & CO.

Box 272 Indianapolis, Ind.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO
TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

The Conard & Jones Company, Rose Growers.
West Grove, Pa. Catalog Free.

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE CO., Miami, Ind. Ter. Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

FROM SALOON TO PULPIT. 138 pages, illustrated. 12 cents postpaid. We have 10,000 fine books to give away. Address, Howard Book House, Elwood, Ind.

FRIENDS WISHING TO LOCATE in the great wheat, corn and alfalfa belt, of Oklahoma, should write us for information. Well-improved farms sell for from $25 to $50 per acre, and ranches from $5 to $10. This is a Friends' community, the land is rich, and opportunities are excellent. Congenial surroundings are assured, educational facilities are excellent, and in every particular the means for establishing a comfortable home are far above the average. References gladly given. Votaw & Setzer, Cherokee, Woods Co., Oklahoma.

TO INTRODUCE OUR BULBS we offer to send for 35 cents thirty-five grand winter-blooming bulbs, all beautiful and of decided merit. These include hyacinths, crocus, narcissus, ixias, freesias, and many others. For 50 cents we will send the above collection, and will include one hardy magnolia free, which will grow and flourish anywhere and give an abundance of its grand blooms with their most exquisite fragrance. T. C. Furnas & Co., Box 272, Indianapolis, Ind.

HONEST AGENT WANTED.—Represent Gold Mining Company, operating on Mother Lode. Opportunity seldom offered. Highest references given. Write for information. Prudhomme Gold Mining & Milling Company, 532 Stimson Block, Los Angeles, Cal.

A Western paper refuses to publish eulogies gratis, but adds: "We will publish the simple announcement of the death of any of our friends with pleasure."—"Ram's Horn."

BANK BY MAIL

4%
ASSETS $14,500,000.00

A Safe and Profitable place for your money is an Investment Account with this bank—pays Four per cent. compound interest on all amounts from One Dollar up. Our Banking by Mail system brings our Bank to your postoffice. Write to-day for explanatory booklet A. F.

PITTSBURGH BANK FOR SAVINGS
SMITHFIELD & FOURTH AVE
ESTABLISHED 1862 PITTSBURGH PA

OKLAHOMA FARMS

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

FREE HOMES IN CANADA

Friends desiring to locate in the wheat belt of the Canadian Northwest on free grant lands should communicate with Wm. I. Moore, 60 Bleecker Street, Toronto, Ont., with a view to joining the Friends' Colony.

See article in The American Friend of Tenth month 22, page 721, entitled "Canada Yearly Meeting and the Canadian Northwest."

6% NET FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands. Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

Acker has them—those
Highest Award Bon Bons.

Only those are crowned and sainted
Who with griefs have been acquainted.
—H. W. Longfellow.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

4,457,613.08

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer
C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP O. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

New Archdale

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.

JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

I will study more how to give a good account of my little than how to make it more.—Joseph Hall.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean, —no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL

or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHERGEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 818). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

How cunningly nature hides every wrinkle of her inconceivable antiquity under roses and violets and morning dew!—Emerson.

10 BEAUTIFUL PICTURES FREE

In order to introduce our QUAKER OINTMENT into every home where THE AMERICAN FRIEND is read, we have decided to make the following liberal offer. To every person sending us 25 cents for one box of QUAKER OINTMENT, and 4 cents extra to pay postage, we will send absolutely free the following 10 pictures. These pictures are gems of art. For picture study, art collections, gifts and home decoration, they are of great value. The Last Supper, Christ in Gethsemane, Christ Taken Captive, Christ Before Pilate, Christ Bearing the Cross, The Crucifixion, Entombment, In the Sepulchre, The Ascension, Transfiguration. It is costing us a great deal of money to advertise in this way, but we trust you will be pleased with our liberality, and will favor us with an order for a box of our ointment, and get these 10 beautiful pictures free. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best known remedy for catarrh, eczema, and all skin diseases. Rev. Asa Woodard, pastor Friends' Meeting at Butlerville, Ind., says: "I am using QUAKER OINTMENT, and find it an excellent remedy." Mrs. Clara Chaney, Rural Route No. 3, Warren, Ind., says: "I have never found anything as good as QUAKER OINTMENT for catarrh, sores and skin diseases." Send us your order to-day. Quaker Ointment sent to any address upon receipt of 25 cents.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.

Stenography, Typewriting, Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Temple Series of Bible Characters and Scripture Handbooks

THE object of this series of little books is to furnish an accurate and comprehensive handbook for the Sunday-school as well as for private study. The volumes of the series which, in general appearance, are uniform with the Temple Bible, number 28 volumes in all, two of which are published. A sample volume sent upon receipt of 30 cents.

NOW READYDavid, the Hero King of Israel.The Rev. Cannon Knox-Little, M.A.Abraham and the Patriarchal Age.The Rev. Prof. Duff, D.D., Professor of Hebrew and O. T. Literature, United College, Bradford.

28 volumes. 4 x 5 1/4 inches. Frontispieces. Illuminated title pages. Cloth, 30 cents, net, per volume.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANYPUBLISHERS
PHILADELPHIA

"It's pretty dead up here, Mr. Pratt," said one. "I suppose you people don't know the war's over."

"Oh, yes, we do," said the postmaster. "We read all that goes on in the papers."

"There are some things that aren't in the papers," said another fellow. "I don't believe you know when Shakespeare died."

"Well, no," said the postmaster. "I didn't know that he was dead; but I heard last week he was pretty low."

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.

Phone No. 3-33-00

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 10 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.) 52d & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.

BELL TELEPHONE.

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET

BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL

Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.THE BAR.

A poet has said of the saloon that it is appropriately called a bar:

A bar to heaven, a door to hell;
Whoever named it named it well;
A bar to manliness and wealth,
A door to want and broken health;
A bar to honor, pride, and fame,
A door to sin and grief and shame;
A bar to hope, a bar to prayer,
A door to darkness and despair;
A bar to honored, useful life,
A door to brawling, senseless strife;
A bar to all that's true and brave,
A door to every drunkard's grave;
A bar to joy that home imparts,
A door to tears and aching hearts;
A bar to heaven, a door to hell,
Whoever named it named it well.

The British Friend

Published on the 15th of each month.

Being the only religious and literary review written chiefly for the general public, but from the standpoint of the Society of Friends, The British Friend offers a unique opportunity for spreading "The Truth" among thoughtful enquirers.

The November Issue contains:

"Revelation to the Few," and "The Unemployed," by the Editor.
"The Temperance Declaration," by Joseph Rowntree.
"Life in London," by Dr. George Newman.
"The Birthright Member, Part III," by * * *
"Morley's Life of Gladstone," by Joshua Rowntree.
"Mediocrity," a Poem, by May Kendall.
"The York Conference on the Ministry" (Editorial)

A distinct feature is made of Reviews and Notices of Books, especially such as are likely to be helpful to preachers and social workers.

Subscription: 6s. 6d. ($1.58) per annum, post free
Specimen copy on application.

Editor and Publisher:

EDWARD GRUBB, M.A.

Devonshire Chambers Bishopsgate, Without. Lon. E. C.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND PREMIUMS

A BOY'S RELIGION, FROM MEMORY

By RUFUS M. JONES

NO subject teems with greater interest, or is fraught with greater issues than the religious development of early childhood. It is the foundation work of character, yet it is little understood by parents and less by children. Here is a most helpful work for young and old alike. It is the simple narrative of the religious awakening in a young soul which strikes a responsive chord in every heart. The work is beautifully printed on deckle-edged paper, and bound in a striking and original design. It is handsomely furnished with illustrations of places and persons mentioned in the text. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Aunt Charlotte's Stories of Bible History

By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE

CONTAINS over 100 stories from the Holy Book, richly embellished with 19 full-page Color Plates and Photo-Engravings, together with nearly 100 other illustrations. Beginning with the dawn of creation, every important historical event in the Bible is brought out in the order of their happening, thus leading the little ones along the most pleasant ways from Genesis to Revelation.

This book will give the Bible a new charm for children, and they will read it with a new understanding. Price $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size $7\frac{1}{2} \times 10$ inches. Handsomely bound in cloth. Printed in gold and many colors. 250 pages. Over 100 illustrations.

The New Child's Life of Christ

By HESBA STRETTON

CONTAINS choice Biblical Pictures from the world's leading artists, thirty-two of which are full-page illustrations. The book presents the Life of Jesus as it is understood by the most devout and careful students of His Life. The graphic descriptions and the accurate and beautiful illustrations take one into the very midst of the sacred scenes and subjects. This volume throws a flood of light on the sacred pages, and leads the tender reader to the foot of the cross. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size $7\frac{1}{4} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Rich cloth binding. Stamped in gold and colors. 250 pages. Profusely illustrated.

THE BARNARD EDITION

—OF—

The Pilgrim's Progress

By JOHN BUNYAN

PROBABLY no book, except the Bible, has been printed in such immense numbers, and has had so wide a circulation among readers of all ages. It should be in every home where children live. The Barnard Edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the only edition containing nearly sixty full-page pictures and fifty portrait and character illustrations, by Barnard and others; four full-page chromo-lithographs; the beautiful poem "The Little Pilgrim"; also, 388 Bible references, making in all 327 quarto pages, 8 x 10 inches, printed on double thick, extra quality, super-calendered paper. It is tastily and elegantly bound with extra silk cloth.

It is the cheapest finely illustrated book published. Price, $1.50.

THIS BOOK with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

(For The Pilgrim's Progress add 20 cents for postage.)

Any one of the above books sent on receipt of price.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Barham College Library

The American Friend

Vol. X

TWELFTH MONTH 3, 1903

No. 49

	PAGE
EDITORIALS.—The New Revival.—Editorial Notes	823
The Individual Need	824
M. Catherine Albright.
An Epistle of Tender Caution against Stumbling at the Faults of Others	825
Job Scott.
The Central Truth of the Next Revival	827
TEMPERANCE DEPARTMENT	828
THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON	830
Lesson for Twelfth month 13, 1903.
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR	831
Topic for Twelfth month 13, 1903.
MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT.—An Evangelistic Trip to Mexico	831
W. Irving Kelsey.
CORRESPONDENCE	833
THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES, ...	833
MARRIED.—DIED	834
EVENTS AND COMMENTS	835

LIFE'S DEPTHS!

*This life is but a shallow thing
If we explore not to its deeps,
If to its level plane we cling,
Afraid of venturing the steeps;
If we believe but what we see,
Mere slaves to all the things which seem,
And sneer at the reality
Of unseen things of which we dream!*

*This life is but a shallow thing,
Unworthy of its source in Thee
If we shall fail each day to bring
Some hint of man's nobility
In act of love or sacrifice,
And lay it at Thy holy shrine,
An evidence beyond all price
That man's akin to the divine!*

—A. E. LOCKE.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR * * * PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

The American Travels of GEORGE FOX

ONE of the most interesting parts of George Fox's Autobiography is that relating to his American travels. He spent most of the year 1672 here, beginning on the Chesapeake Bay and its tributary waters, then traveling to Long Island and Rhode Island via New Castle and "that wilderness country since called West Jersey, not then inhabited by English." After much service around Long Island Sound, including the attendance of a "half-year's meeting" at Flushing, which lasted four days, and "the yearly meeting for all the Friends of New England and other colonies adjacent," which lasted six days, he returned by another route through the wilderness to the Chesapeake and Albemarle Sound, where he labored still further during the fall and winter, sailing for England in the spring of 1673.

His narrative is a fascinating one, and throws a flood of light on conditions in the colonies at that time. The settlements were practically all on tidewater. His ordinary traveling was by an open sail-boat; there were almost no roads. But the extent to which Friends had planted meetings in the new world at that early date is simply astonishing. At the Maryland Yearly Meeting, held at Tredhaven Creek, on the Eastern Shore, "there were so many boats upon the river that it was almost like the Thames." At many other places practically the same tale is told.

A quaint old print of Fox preaching at Flushing, after a contemporary drawing, and a map, assist the reader to realize the situation.

"GEORGE FOX: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY."

Edited, with notes and an Introduction, by Rufus M. Jones. Two volumes, 600 pages, extra cloth, gilt top, twenty-four full-page plates, post-paid, $4.00 net.

FERRIS & LEACH, PUBLISHERS, PHILADELPHIA

DECEMBER, 1903

Make This a Month of Real Success,
A Month to be Marked
With a Red Letter, by Making Application for Life Insurance in

THE PRUDENTIAL

Send This Coupon

Without committing myself to any action, I shall be glad to receive, free, particulars and rates of Policies.

For $..... Age.....
Name.....
Address.....
Occupation..... Dept. 87.

THE PRUDENTIAL

INSURANCE CO. OF AMERICA

JOHN F. DRYDEN,
PRES.

HOME OFFICE,
NEWARK, N. J.

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 839). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

The American Friend

*"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."*

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, TWELFTH MONTH 3, 1903.

No. 49.

NOTICE.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND will be sent to one old and one new subscriber from now until 1st mo. 1st, 1905, for $2.50.

Address,

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 Arch St., Philadelphia.

THE NEW REVIVAL.

THE religious journals have for some weeks given large space to a discussion of the character of the next revival. Will the coming revival aim at the salvation of individuals or at the salvation of society? Will the appeal be to arouse men to their need of a personal Saviour who can deliver them from sin and give them inward peace, or are we to have a great wave of social regeneration which will set everybody to work to destroy the social conditions which minister to evil? Are men to be chiefly concerned over eternal issues, or over the transformation of the earth?

It should be said, first of all, that revivals are never easy to predict beforehand. They are not arranged to order; they do not come according to the schedule of some religious editor. The Spirit bloweth where it listeth, like the wind, and when the Spirit of God breaks forth things happen which were not calculated on.

Our revival methods are undoubtedly likely to undergo change; in fact, they must change, if men are to be reached, as they were reached when these methods were new and fresh. "We hit some every time we shoot," wrote John Camm to George Fox in 1654. Occasionally even to-day there are some such experiences. There are some who succeed wonderfully in making men feel their sin and in showing them how to find deliverance. It is not true that real revivals of religion are a thing of the past. They still occur. But they are more rare than formerly, and the actual gains from revival meetings are more slender than they once were, while it requires persons of unusual gifts to succeed. Then, too, there have been some serious effects resulting from the methods of unwise and more or less unscrupulous persons which have aroused much criticism of revivals and revival methods. These feelings exert a weighty influence in most neighborhoods and have to be overcome before a successful work can be wrought.

But does this mean that we are to give up working for the conversion of individuals, and devote ourselves to the improvement of men in the mass? It comes very near being nonsense to expect masses of men to be good if the individuals who compose them are not good. It is pure fallacy to talk about society as though it was something different from flesh and blood men and women. The only way to transform society is to transform men. Religion never will be a power in society except in so far as it embodies and expresses itself in and through individual persons. If we want to save society we must save persons—souls, if anybody likes that word better. To aim at anything else is to beat the air.

But the moment we ask what it means to be saved we strike the vital point. "To be saved" used to mean to most persons, "ready to go to heaven." The goal was largely a selfish one. The aim was to secure a blessing for the individual self. Now, for most of us, "to be saved" means to be delivered from sin and selfishness and to become an actual member of the body of Christ. We are "saved," not for heaven alone, but for Him who saved us. Our life now belongs to Him, and if we are truly saved we shall become saving salt in our community so far as our salting capacity goes, and the light of the world so far as our candle power will reach. Every person is saved to become a part of the transforming forces of human society. Society will be redeemed as far as we ourselves are redeemed and live redeemed lives. Converts who are saved to get to heaven backslide, because there is nothing which carries them on to higher spiritual states. Men who are saved in the true sense and who find their joy in helping to carry the Christ-life into the veins of society find all unconsciously that cubits are added to their spiritual stature. The real religious question is not whether a new kind of revival is coming, so much as it is whether we Christians are going to practice Christ and make our salvation count toward the transformation of society.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Our dear friend, Phebe R. Gifford, of Providence, R. I., has passed away at the ripe age of one hundred years and five months. She was able to attend her own meeting almost to the end of her life, and she was an unfailing attender of yearly meeting until about three years ago. She was a gifted woman, possessed of a quick, bright mind, and always a very entertaining conversationalist. She was deeply concerned for the welfare of the Church, and she had for many years been a recorded minister and a zealous messenger of the Gospel. She did not wholly enjoy the changes which came over her own branch of the Church during the later years of her life, but she did not lose in any degree her own interest in the affairs of the yearly meeting, nor did her hope and courage for the cause of truth lessen. She died beloved by a very large circle of Friends.

NEW YORK Friends have a very good method for their committee work. They arrange for all the committees of the yearly meeting to meet in New York city the first week of the Twelfth month. This brings together a large company of Friends from all parts of the yearly meeting, and they make use of the opportunity for pleasant social intercourse and for public evening conferences on topics of vital importance. It does not bring together, of course, the mass of the yearly meeting, but it does gather a large part of the active working force, and such occasions ought to leave a permanent impress on the work and the membership at large.

FRIENDS in Great Britain have recently organized an Historical Society which is likely to prove a very valuable organization. It will endeavor to gather important historical papers and documents and to preserve as many things as possible which would otherwise be lost or forgotten. The Society will publish a quarterly journal of about fifty pages, the first number of which will be ready shortly, and promises to present many things of interest. There are about two hundred Friends who have joined this Society in England, and we hope a large number of American Friends will avail themselves of the privileges of membership. The details are set forth in our advertising pages.

GEORGE CADBURY and other Friends who are interested in the Woodbrooke Settlement for Religious Study are desirous that some of our American Friends may find it possible to go there for periods of study, and that there may be, as George Cadbury well says, "a gathering together in one of the children of God that are scattered abroad." He goes on to say that "the world needs to-day men and women of consecrated hearts, willing to surrender all to Christ, and if, with the consecration, the mind is also well stored, such persons will help forward the religious life of the world." We sincerely hope that the way may open for some of our Friends, young or old, to join this group of English Friends, in their delightful quarters, for the enlargement of the mind and the deepening of the spiritual life. Any one having a desire in this direction may write freely to the editor of this paper.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

THE INDIVIDUAL NEED.

BY M. CATHERINE ALBRIGHT.

One of the Psalmists begins his short prayer with the words, "Out of the depths have I called unto Thee, O Lord. I said, Lord hear my voice, let Thine ears be attentive unto the voice of my supplications." The striking note in this, as in so many of the other Psalms, is the intensity of the personal feeling. The writer does not trouble himself about abstract philosophy; he does not discuss the laws of mind and matter, or the ultimate forces of being; he utters his individual cry, and gives vent to his individual need.

It is this personal element largely that makes the Psalms so everlasting in their appeal. Words that have come straight out of one human soul find a response in other human souls, no matter how the ages may roll on. Whether we clothe our feeling in just the same words now, whether we lay emphasis on the same points of our experience, we feel when we read the Psalms we get close to the hearts and minds of men who have lived and felt and thought hundreds, and it may be thousands, of years ago. As a matter of fact, one of the most oft-recurring experiences which finds expression in the Psalms is the one that comes out forcibly in the words already quoted: "Out of the depths have I cried unto Thee, O Lord. Lord, hear my voice, let Thine ear be attentive unto the voice of my supplications. If Thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand?"

And then the further experience: "But there is forgiveness with Thee that Thou mayest be feared. I wait for the Lord, my soul doth wait, and in His word do I hope. My soul waiteth for the Lord, more than they that watch for the morning." Then follows the conclusion: "Let Israel hope in the Lord, for with the Lord there is mercy and with Him there is plenteous redemption. And He shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities." The sudden transition from personal and private to public concerns is very striking, but not surprising when we remember how individual experience must be the basis for all our knowledge and our wider thought about others.

It is the Psalmist who has "waited patiently for the Lord" and known the individual cry answered who goes on to say that "a new song" has been put into his mouth and that "many shall see it and fear and shall trust in the Lord."

We do need the problem of our individual experience set at rest by some voice of Divine authority. Particularly do we need a light on the problem of our own iniquity. If we only get as far as saying: "If Thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquity, O Lord, who shall stand?" we have no ground from which to begin the spiritual ascent. We may, of course, demand

"Of all the thousand nothings of the hour Their stupefying power,"

and they may "benumb us at our call." But that is not a condition of inspiration or power.

We want some light on the problem of sin altogether, some understanding, if only a partial one, of what it all means. Like the Psalmist, we begin with acknowledging our transgressions, with acknowledging the fact that we have come short of a standard of right. But what is this very acknowledgment when we think of it? Is it not a proof to us of something beyond itself, something further implied. It is impossible to have this consciousness of sin by itself. If we say, "That action of mine was a mean action," it implies we are judging it by a standard of nobility present in our own minds. If we say, "It was lazy not to do this or that," it implies a consciousness of what it would be to be industrious; if we say, "It is selfish to do this or the other," it implies a conception of a life lived apart from selfish instincts and desires. Dig down below the superficial expression of remorse or sorrow or conscious guilt, and turn the ugly picture over to the other side and you will find an ideal of good, a haunting standard of right,

"High instincts before which our mortal nature Did tremble like a guilty thing surprised."

Above all we shall find,

"A presence that disturbs us with the joy,
Of elevated thoughts."

And what voice is it we hear when we enter into this Presence, when before the bar of the inner Judge we compare what we are with what we should have been, the actual with the ideal? Is the sentence one of condemnation only? Does the problem of our sinfulness remain just where it was? Surely not. Has not our experience been, that inextricably interwoven, as it were, with the deepest consciousness of guilt is the consciousness of the ideal of righteousness? The more we confess our sins the more we find ourselves being cleansed from all unrighteousness. As soon as we get to the point at which we can "confess our transgressions unto the Lord," we are able to go on and say, "Thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin." "The Lord is high unto them that are of a broken heart." It is not a promise so much as a statement, "He saveth such as be of a contrite spirit."

Even in the darkness, even in the sin, something has been working, the consciousness of evil has not been alone; like a photograph, it has its two sides, the negative and the positive. God's forgiveness is a call to us to turn the picture over and to keep it turned to the positive side. To each He is saying, with tenderness and yet with the urgency of a great demand, "Go and sin no more."

AN EPISTLE OF TENDER CAUTION AGAINST STUMBLING AT THE FAULTS OF OTHERS.

BY JOB SCOTT.

[Looking over some family heirlooms more than a century old, I came across a sort of sermon addressed by Job Scott to his niece, Abby Lapham, which I am sure has never been printed. Abby Lapham was a daughter of Augustus and Mary (Scott) Lapham, and she spent the latter years of her life in the home of her sister Eunice, who was my grandmother. As Augustus and Mary were married April 6th, 1775, and Job Scott died November 22d, 1793, his niece, to whom he addressed this beautiful invocation, could not have been more than twelve years old. The manuscript was treasured in after years by the niece and her relatives, and is offered for the columns of the AMERICAN FRIEND as a beautiful example of the Friends' literature of the period in which it was composed. I have followed the manuscript to the letter. The memory of Job Scott has been cherished with reverence by the descendants of his sister. I remember as a child his children visiting in their old age at my father's house, and the testimony of Friends in all parts of the country has proved the wide influence of his writings, particularly of his Journal. I believe this last message may come, a century old, to many of your readers with the power of the Spirit.—S. F. PECKHAM.]

It has been the work of the restless adversary of human happiness in all ages of the world to strive to keep man in darkness, or to bring him into it. Those who are in it he strives to keep in it, and those who have been redeemed in some degree from it he strives to captivate and beguile into it again; and his design in both is to prevent the enjoyment of the sweet flowings of the love of God, and the powerful communication of the Holy Ghost. For he knows that those enjoyments are only witnessed in the light. He also knows that the light would shine, and soon prevail, to the letting of the soul into the full fruition of those divine enjoyments, if he did not with all his might strive to propagate the kingdom and power of darkness in and over people's minds.

Now the stratagems he makes use of are many and diverse, one of which, and that not the least, it has been pressing on my mind to write a few lines upon, by way of caution to such as desire to land safe at last in the mansions of undisturbed felicity. I have no desire to write one word on this occasion, but what may be of use, and tend to strengthen those desires and strivings, which the Lord of Hosts delights in. Therefore, I desire that all prejudice may be laid aside, and my words weighed in that balance that is ever accompanied with a just weight; and tried by that ear that trieth words as the mouth tastes meat.

The particular snare of the adversary that my mind is engaged to guard, caution, and encourage against is this, stumbling at the failings of others. A potent engine, a powerful instrument, which prevails by Satan's influence, to the weakening the faith of many. But alas! alas! why will a spirit bound to eternity stumble over the failings of flesh and blood? Why will a soul that must finally settle accounts between God and itself spend time, waste time, to muse and despond at the infirmities of another. The frailties of a thousand cannot impair the unchangeable truth and righteousness of Jehovah. The hypocrisy of ten thousand cannot deprive the faithful, persevering soul of the all-sufficient assistance of the mighty God of Jacob. It is an everlasting truth that there is a right way to serve God; and, though a multitude fall on the right hand and a host of those who have been as stars in the firmament, revolt on the left, yet the true wayfaring man, though a fool, cannot err in the way which the Lord has cast up for the ransomed to walk in. We are told that the dragon's tail drew a third part of the very stars from heaven. Was this told to stumble us? Surely nay; but still the cry is, "Come up hither and I will show thee the bride, the lamb's wife." Now, the stumbler may say, "I have strove to see the bride; I have seen her; I have viewed her, and her beauty fades away, her brightness disappears," but mark well, the call is, "Come up hither and I will show thee." It is not while we stand gazing at imperfections and reasoning upon faults that we must expect this divine prospect. No, no. But come up hither, and I will show thee the bride, the Lamb's wife. This come up hither imparts something very different from that halting, lingering behind, as it were, sticking in the mire which my soul has mourned over and lamented. I think I am a living witness, and can testify that there are some who have long ago been kindly visited and tenderly invited by the Lord to come and see how good He is; and who have even tasted, in a degree, of the sweetness of His love, who are yet far behind-hand with their day's work, are halting, doubting and (may it not offend them) are feeding on the serpent's food, which was denounced by the lips of truth to be dust, and that all the days of his life. And I also declare, under a feeling sense of divine authority, that nothing better shall be the food to all eternity of such as spend all the days of their lives gazing at, or stumbling over, the failings of others. But I mean not to censure. It is their immortal soul's welfare I have in view; therefore I would call them, yea, beseech and instruct them, as they ponder their own salvation, to come away—come away! This is not your rest. It surely is polluted; it is a land of darkness, as darkness itself. The shadows of the evening—yea, the shadows of midnight—are spread over the mind of the inhabitants thereof. Oh sorrowful! sorrowful! that any should suffer their immortal souls to be made so easy a prey to the dragon! What will it avail thee, O soul, when thou comest before the great and final tribunal, to say, such a man professed great sanctity, but was an hypocrite; therefore I was tempted to quit the service of the living God, and serve His enemy? Or, such an one made profession of exalted piety, but was a liar, a deceiver, an abominable wretch; therefore, though I was somewhat worked, I turned to my wallowing in the mire? This will never justify thee at the gates of heaven, nor procure thee an admittance therein. Oh! my soul truly mourns on thy account, my spirit is indeed grieved. Come, let me query with thee. Dost thou feel a daily striving to overcome evil in thyself? Art thou constantly concerned to keep up the inward watch and holy warfare? Yea, let me come closer, Whilst thou art dwelling, musing and feeding upon the faults of others, art thou at the same time engaged and panting after perfection in thy own soul? While thou art rehearsing to thy intimates the wanderings and weaknesses of such and such, dost thou feel longings and unquenchable desires in thy mind to make war in righteousness against the power of corruption in thyself? If not, the enemy of truth, it is to be feared, may, with justice, challenge the praise due from thy complaining. Oh! that that eye was open in thee that could see thyself! Oh! that thou hadst a heart to understand this mystery of iniquity! But alas! the enemy blinds thee, for why dost thou give back because of another's weakness, but because of thine own? Why stumblest thou at another's frailties, but because thou thyself art frail? Make a pause then, and turn thy attention inward. Set a watch on the wicket of thy soul and keep sentinel in deep attention there; then thou wilt have enough to do to view thy own imperfections and to guard against them so as not to stumble at others. Work enough indeed may be found to engage all thy care and diligence in laboring to cease from evil and do good thyself.

It is less substantial than many a dream to give the victory over our own souls to our enemy, because others are entangled in his snares. Shall I quit the field and turn my back in the day of battle because a fellow soldier is treacherous, cowardly or unfaithful, when I know my all is at stake; and if I flee I must certainly perish? Surely nay. I ought rather to put forward with more zeal, vigilance and constancy, endeavoring to encourage the fearful and unbelieving, as knowing the salvation of their souls, as well as my own, is at stake. Away then, thou reasoner, thou murmurer, with such pitiful musings and excuses. The day of solemn reckoning draws near. Thou must ere long appear before the Ancient of Days, to give an account of the deeds done in thy frail mortal body, and to receive a reward according to thy works; not according to the stability or instability of another.

Therefore, awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, that Christ may give thee light. For darkness, gross darkness, is the encircling, overshadowing canopy of thy soul. It is time for thee to hear and obey the command given to Israel of old: to go forward, for thou (with them) hast compassed this mountain long enough; a barren mountain, in the wide, desolate wilderness; from the top of which, it is much to be feared, thou mayst one day (or rather night) by the arising of a strong and boisterous whirlwind, be swept off into the bottomless pit of despair; or into some quagmire, or swampy hole, where serpents, reptiles and venomous creatures breed and dwell. Oh! that I could persuade thee, for thy own soul's sake, to turn thy back on Satan's suggestions. Oh! that thou couldst be prevailed upon to lift up thy head above the world, that so thy salvation might draw nigh indeed.

Now, to conclude, let me once more beseech thee to harken to that encouraging invitation, which is sometimes sounded in the secret of thy soul, "Come up hither and I will show thee the bride, the Lamb's wife." Come up is here the joyful sound: and even the spirit and the bride say Come, and indeed he that will come, may come; yea verily May Come, and if he improves the strength given, all the powers of earth and of the infernal hosts cannot hinder him. For "there is no enchantment against Jacob nor any divination against Israel" whilst in their tents abiding. Therefore to thy tents, oh! Israel—to thy tents, oh! Israel. Keep onward where thy strength lies. There thy place of preservation. There thou shalt walk in the light of the Lord; His candle shall shine upon thee, and His inspeaking word shall guide thee in the way everlasting. Walking in which with fullness of peace, I desire to leave thee, and rest thy friend,

JOB SCOTT.

THE CENTRAL TRUTH OF THE NEXT REVIVAL.

The New Evangelism, so called, has been the leading topic of discussion at most of the religious gatherings during the last few months. Quite generally the statement has been accepted that each revival period has crystallized about the preaching of some great but simple Christian truth. For example, it is said that the proclamation of justification by faith marked the German Reformation, the doctrine of the witness of the Spirit was central in the Wesleyan movement, the sovereignty of God in the Edwardean revival, the power of prayer in the awakening of 1857, and the substitutionary atonement in the Moody meetings.

People to-day are very generally asking: What truth is to serve as the center and inspiration of a revival of religion at the beginning of this century? Many answers are being given to that question. Dr. Josiah Strong thinks that we are to find the especial truth for our age in the rediscovery of the kingdom of God. Dr. John Watson varies the thought a little and has spoken eloquently about the necessity of preaching "social righteousness." The difficulty with such statements is that they make an effect of Christian truth primary. What we want is the truth that produces such effects.

For ourselves we do not believe that there is any mystery about the sovereign truth this age needs, and to which it will respond as no other—that truth is the character and claims of Jesus Christ. What we need is a new exploration and exposition of the personality of Jesus Christ, and of the validity of His claim to the Mastership of the human soul. Once His supernal greatness is vindicated and His claim acknowledged everything else follows. We are being pushed back to the defence of the central citadel, described by Jesus Himself in the 16th of Matthew, and everything depends on the result.

We say that the character of Jesus must be freshly explored and expounded. Orthodox Trinitarians say that Jesus is the Son of God, the second Person of the Trinity. But those terms are mere words. What do they mean? Do those who utter them have any conception of the majesty and glory of Christ's character that does not make the magnificent Trinitarian declaration a travesty compared with their concept of Jesus? John says: "We beheld His glory, glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth." Is not Christianity bound to seek such a thought of Jesus as will generate in the consciousness of the believer that conviction of John that the glory of Christ is worthy of being identified with the glory of the Eternal Father?

The most discouraging thing about these current discussions is to realize that good men are talking about the nature of future punishment, a theory of imputation, or of the Grotian hypothesis of the atonement or "social righteousness" of the great truth for our age when the speakers themselves inadvertently show that their own minds have hardly opened to the knowledge that Jesus is explicitly identified with eternal life.

There are a hundred indications that the one truth for which the spiritually disposed men to-day all over the world are longing is a larger, worthier conception of Jesus Christ. George W. Knox brings back that message from Japan, and Charles Cuthbert Hall from India. There is no single topic in the whole range of human thought upon which so many books have been written during the last thirty years as upon the life of Jesus, in the attempts to construe His personality. And in our own country the men who are really commanding the public attention are those who have passed beyond words and phrases and formulæ of any sort, and are presenting to the moral consciousness of their hearers some sort of representation of the personality of Jesus Christ.

And they are discovering that there is something in the portraiture of Jesus that finds affinity with the deepest and best things in the human soul; that there is an upspringing of the inner life of man toward Jesus, no matter what his theory about the Church or the Scriptures. It is like the experience of love, when two souls, that God intended for each other, change eyes. The human soul was made for Christ, and when it sees Him great nature speaks. And there never was a time in the history of the planet when the hearts of men were so responsive to personality as in this year of grace. It requires no prophet to tell what is the central formative truth of the next great revival. Those who are posing as prophets should lift up their eyes and behold the truth, as clear as though it were written across the sky.—“The Watchman.”

Temperance Department.

Issued Monthly, under the care of the

TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION OF FRIENDS, OF PHILADELPHIA
YEARLY MEETING.

All communications should be addressed to

ANNA EASTBURN WILLITS, Editor, 343 E. Main Street, Haddonfield, N. J.

The monthly meeting of the Friends' Temperance Association of Philadelphia Yearly Meeting met on the 23d. Thirty-five hundred addresses on temperance, with a personal letter enclosed, have been sent to the names on the list of the Westtown Old Scholars' Association, exclusive of married women. Following is the letter:

“Philadelphia, Eleventh month, 1903.

“Dear Friend:

“The Address enclosed herewith was prepared and published independently of any action of this Association. We desire, however, to commend it to thy notice, and to ask thee to read it carefully and prayerfully.

“We note with painful apprehensions the continuous increase in the per capita consumption of intoxicants. Every year the liquor power is becoming more aggressive and more subversive of the public good. Already it is the dominating power in many cities and communities. It has become one of the greatest perils to a ‘government by the people.’ Immense sums of money in the hands of capable organizations are being employed in influencing legislation favorably to the liquor interests, and in systematically educating the public to think lightly of an insidious and appalling evil.

“Dear friend, is thee fully conscious of these truths? Is thee stirred in thy heart by them as a Christian should be? Mark the situation. On one hand great financial and political interests furthered by selfish men indifferent to the evil results of the trade in intoxicants. On the other hand a host of men and women actuated by noble motives and willing to ‘spend and be spent’ for the enlightenment and betterment of their fellows, but without hope of reward except in the consciousness of serving God. Viewing with interest this array of opposing forces, yet aloof from each is the indifferent majority shirking responsibility under cover of such sophistry as

‘I am not responsible for the business,’ ‘Men will drink,’ ‘It is a necessary evil.’

“We know that men lie and steal and abuse others and murder, yet we do all that we can to prevent these evils. Must we tolerate a trade that belies American manhood, that steals away our chivalry and virtue, that is an insult and abuse to womankind, and that places a deadly pitfall in the pathway of every young man?

“Dear fellow Christian, can we as followers of Him who has power to subdue all things unto Himself and who intends that we should be co-workers together with Him—can we admit that any evil is a necessary evil? Dare we to say, in the face of the misery and ruin that result from the liquor trade, ‘I have no responsibility in the matter’?

“The public is ill-informed on this great issue. Brave men and brave women are needed who will dedicate their lives to God and go forth in the power of His love to turn men's hearts to the truth. Is thee willing to be one of them?

“No one can serve his country more nobly than in the dispassionate representation of conditions as they are, and in moulding sentiment into unity of action. Methods of action will necessarily vary with localities and social conditions, but in the work of education there can be entire accord. The saloon is not an evil to be condoned; it is an aggressive power that must be confronted, if Right is to triumph and the prestige of our nation amongst nations is to be maintained.

“So, dear friend, we would entreat thee to be faithful to thy measure of service, be it little or much, and not be numbered with the ‘indifferent majority.’

“Issued by direction of the Executive Committee at its regular meeting held Tenth month 26th, 1903.

“J. SNOWDON RHODES, Chairman.”

Prohibition is making great strides in Kansas. The number of retail liquor dealers in the State is now only 2,600, and twenty-eight is the total of those who do a wholesale business. The average is only about twenty-five to each county.

Columbia, S. C., Eleventh mo. 11th.—The lawlessness of the Dispensary traffic and the train of crime and financial devastation which follows in its wake everywhere, is at last arousing widespread revulsion of public sentiment against it. The outlook is encouraging for effective appeal to the people for judgment on the whole State saloon policy which has dominated the politics of this State for a decade.

In opening court at Durham, N. C., Judge Hawkins delivered this philippic against the saloon:

“When I come to look through the calendar and see the number of crimes which have been committed under the influence of drink, I cannot help saying a word on the subject. The root of almost every crime is drink. . . . And, I believe, knowing what I do, that nine-tenths of the crime in this country is engendered inside the doors of the public houses."

The Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company is rigidly enforcing its rule prohibiting the use of intoxicants by its employees. Many of the division superintendents have issued orders calling the attention of their men to the rule, and at some points—Pottsville in particular—several men have been discharged for being seen in drinking places while in uniform.

Now this is what we need pre-eminently to-day regarding the saloon—a deep, intense, undying hatred. We must not hate the saloon keepers or the saloon owners, for they are men and can be drawn to the light only by love. We must not hate the drunkards whom the saloon manufactures, for they are weak men, and must be helped by sympathetic kindness. But for the saloon itself we must have a persistent, irreconcilable, earnest hatred, for it is a thing that has no place in a civilized, Christian, intelligent country.

It is surely unnecessary to add that as individuals we must avoid the use of intoxicants if we would be strong to fight the saloon. The total abstainer, in my opinion, is the only one who can consistently cry out against the saloon or fight it. But we need to warn people as well against many patent medicines which contain much alcohol and insidiously create a thirst for liquor which is often ruinous. Until we carefully look into the matter I think we hardly realize how rapidly this evil is spreading, and how many largely advertised tonics are terribly dangerous. We have to be wide awake in this business if we would avoid the sin we hate.

The feature of the final day of the thirtieth National Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was the reply of that body to the findings of "the Committee of Fifty" for investigation of the liquor problem, particularly in regard to legislation requiring the study of temperance physiology in the public schools. Among other business of importance was the appropriation of $5,000 for an exhibit at the World's Fair, and reports of interest and importance were presented. The word of a member of Congress was given as authority for the announcement that there was little prospect of the passage of any bill repealing the Anti-canteen law.

The following resolutions were adopted at the United Society trustees' annual meeting in Boston:

"Resolved, That we recognize in the liquor traffic the chief evil of the times, and the chief obstacle to the advancement of a Christian civilization; that we condemn intemperance in every form; that we stand for total abstinence for the individual, and for the annihilation of the saloon, and the abolition of its powers in the politics of our land, as one of the first duties of American citizenship; and that we heartily recommend all righteous agencies whose purpose is the protection of our homes and the true interests of humanity by the extermination of the liquor traffic."

The following news has been received from Oklahoma. We ask that other yearly meetings send to the editor of this department brief points of their work along this line,—items which will be of general, rather than local interest:

"Temperance Department: A letter asking for items for this department of church work has been written to each of the 118 meetings, and we hope for cheering responses. A general temperance convention is called to meet at Oklahoma City, the 24th, to be composed of two delegates from each church and each temperance organization, including local W. C. T. U. The object is to devise plans whereby prohibition may be a part of our State constitution when admitted. Liberty Monthly Meeting, Oklahoma, is to have temperance sermons and meetings once a month at each of the four points. Dr. George E. Wright, the speaker one month.

"M. S. FELLOW,

"Ed. Sec. of Temperance Committee of Kansas Yearly Meeting."

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S SAYINGS.

Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.

The purposes of the Almighty are perfect and must prevail, though we erring mortals may fail to perceive them in advance.

I have never had a feeling politically that did not spring from the sentiments embodied in the Declaration of Independence.

"To smoke one cigarette is worse than drinking half a barrel of beer."

"Every cigarette means a dream of some future crime."

"The first cigarette a boy or man smokes is the first step in a future criminal career."

"Cigarettes mean death before it is due."

Magistrate Crane, of Philadelphia, says his long experience in dealing with criminals of all kinds gives him knowledge whereof he speaks when he declares that cigarettes are one of the greatest evils of the age.

PRAYER.

But all human effort is vain without the guidance and blessing of God. And so we must pray God, that men's knowledge may be richer and deeper, and their zeal higher and more daring. Only 'as the human heart is touched and enlightened can it have a right judgment and a firm faith.

O, my dear Christ, my heart is heavy as I consider this evil by which so many are led to darkness and death! Yet do Thou inspire me with a daring which shall make me steadfast in my hatred of all that is bad and shameful. Let me avoid the wrong and give warning to those in ignorance or error. And above all, dear God, teach me to pray earnestly and with good courage, for Thou hast promised to hear Thy children's prayer. For Jesus' sake. Amen.—Floyd W. Tomkins.

FROM OUT OF THE LONG AGO.

On the blank leaf of an old English Bible, which has been transmitted from sire to son through many successive generations, and appears as the property of Robert Bolton, B.D., and preacher of God's Word at Broughton, near Kettering, Northamptonshire, is inscribed the following pledge: "From this daye forward to the ende of my life I will never pledge any healthe nor drink a whole carouse in a glass cup, bowle, or other drinking instrument, wheresoever it be, from whomsoever it come, except the necessity doe require it; not to my own most gracious Kinge, nor any the greatest monarch or tyrant upon earth, nor my dearest friend, nor all the goulde in the world, shall ever enforce me. Not angel from heaven (who I know will not attempt it) shall persuade, not Satan, with all his oulde subtleties, nor all the powers of hell itself, shall betray me. By this very sinne (for sinne it is, and not a little one) I doe plainly find that I have more offended and dishonoured my glorious Maker and most merciful Saviour than by all other sinne that I am subject untoe, and for this very sinne it is my God hath often been strange untoe me, and for that cause and noe other respect have I thus vowed, and I heartily beg my Good Father in Heaven of His great goodness and infinite mercy in Jesus Christ to assist me in the same, and be so favourable unto me for what is past. Amen.—(Signed) R. BOLTON, Broughton, 10th April, 1637."

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON XI.

TWELFTH MONTH 13, 1903.

THE DEDICATION OF THE TEMPLE.

1 Kings : 1-11, 62, 63.

GOLDEN TEXT.—I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. Psalm 122: 1.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Twelfth-mo. 7.—Temple dedicated. 1 Kings 8: 1-30, 62, 63.
Third-day, Twelfth-mo. 8.—Assembly of people. 2 Chron. 5: 1-10.
Fourth-day, Twelfth-mo. 9.—The word fulfilled. 2 Chron. 6: 1-11.
Fifth-day, Twelfth-mo. 10.—Dedicatory prayer. 2 Chron. 6: 12-21.
Sixth-day, Twelfth-mo. 11.—A refuge in trouble. 2 Chron. 6: 22-31.
Seventh-day, Twelfth-mo. 12.—Penitence. 2 Chron. 6: 32-42.
First-day, Twelfth-mo. 13.—Glory of the Lord. 2 Chron. 7: 1-11.

Intervening Events.—The last lesson described an incident at the very beginning of the reign of Solomon, the present lesson one that took place about ten or twelve years later. During this period the account tells how Solomon established his reputation for wisdom, how he extended and strengthened his kingdom, how he collected material for the Temple, and finally how he built it. Then follows the extended description of the building itself, and the furniture. The Temple was seven and one-half years in building.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Time.—B.C. 1004, or B.C. 965.

The site of the Temple was on Mount Moriah, and like so many of the hills and mountains of Palestine it had a rugged, rocky summit, which was leveled with great care and at great expense. Two of its sides, which were precipitous, were walled up with great stones. The platform on which the Temple stood was probably about twelve acres in area. The measurements of the building are given in cubits. A cubit is generally taken to equal eighteen inches. In that case the Temple was 80 cubits (120 feet) long, 40 cubits (60 feet) wide, 30 cubits (45 feet) high. The Holy Place was 60 feet long, 35 feet wide and 30 feet high. The Holy of Holies, 30 feet long, 30 feet wide, 30 feet high or a perfect cube. The building faced the east. The building and its furniture in every part was symbolical, and conveyed religious teaching. According to the descriptions it must have been one of the most magnificent buildings that have ever been constructed. This magnificence, however, consisted in its situation, its proportions, and in the richness of decoration, for its size was insignificant. This, the Temple of Solomon, was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B.C.

It should not be forgotten that the Temple in no way answered to a modern church building. It was symbolical throughout. No prayer was offered in it, no worship took place within its walls. It was a place for expiation. Prayer, praise, sacrifice, all took place in the outside courts. The incense was symbolical of prayer, but not prayer itself. In the New Testament the word Temple, perhaps, generally means the whole Temple enclosure. See John 2: 14-16.

1. "Chief of the fathers," better, "The princes of the fathers' houses." See Ex. 6: 14. Mt. Zion was the western hill, Mt. Moriah the eastern. See 2 Chron. 3: 1, 2; 5: 4-6.

2. "Ethaniam." Answers to parts of October-November. "Priests took up." This duty was usually performed by the Levites. Compare 2 Chron. 5: 4.

4. "Tabernacle of the congregation." Better as in Revised Version. "The tent of meeting." This would seem to be the old tabernacle which had been at Gibeon, and was now brought to be laid up and preserved.

5. This sacrificing was a religious service expressive of praise and consecration.

6. "Oracle of the house." The place where Jehovah made known his will. (1 Kings 6: 5.)

7. "Cherubim." The representation of the beings which were made to cover the top of the ark with their wings. They were like everything else, symbolical; they represented God's mercy covering the law, or justice.

8. "And the staves were so long that the ends of the staves were seen," etc. Revised Version. This is much clearer than the old version. "Unto this day." That is, when the account was written.

9. "Nothing in the ark save the two tables of stone." This does not seem to agree with the account in Hebrews (9: 4), but there the writer is speaking of the tabernacle in the wilderness.

10. "The cloud." The definite article shows that it was the cloud spoken of in Exodus which was meant. Compare Ex. 40: 34, 35. It was the token that Jehovah had come into his temple. Compare 2 Chron. 5: 11-14.

11. "Stand to minister." At the altar of incense. The whole building was taken possession of by Jehovah.

62, 63. The greatest part of such peace offerings were to be eaten at the time of the offering. Only a small part was sacrificed (Lev. 7: 15). This partly explains the large number of animals. It was the custom in such times to have feasts on a very large scale; there are several such mentioned in the Iliad. The people were to be there fourteen days (2 Chron. 7: 8, 9).

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. "From the Temple sprang little or nothing of spiritual importance."

2. "Judaism was a religion of a temple, of sacrifices, of a sacrificial priesthood. Christianity is a religion in which there is no more sacrifice for sins."

3. Beautiful in idea, and in execution, the Temple in time became a snare and led to formalism.

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR TWELFTH MONTH THIRTEENTH.

AN ANTI-WORRY MEETING.

John 14: 1-31.

Second-day, Twelfth-mo. 7.—Why worry about houses? 2 Cor. 5: 1-8.
Third-day, Twelfth-mo. 8.—Why worry about the way? Heb. 10: 19-22.
Fourth-day, Twelfth-mo. 9.—Why worry to know God? John 8: 14-20.
Fifth-day, Twelfth-mo. 10.—Why worry about needs? 1 John 5: 13-15.
Sixth-day, Twelfth-mo. 11.—Why worry lest we err? Luke 12: 11, 12.
Seventh-day, Twelfth-mo. 12.—Why worry about troubles? Phil. 4: 4-7.

It is indicative of the completeness of Christianity as a scheme of life that it attains the best ideals of the best philosophies of all time, but always by a "more excellent way." Greece and India have alike commended equanimity, the mind at rest; but neither the stoicism of the one nor the ultimate forgetting of all things by the other achieved for them the quietness and confidence in which the Christian believer is to possess his soul. Nor is our training a cultivated indifference to the doings of an uncontrollable fate, nor a purposed ignoring of the sad facts of life, nor yet a discipline to endure while our real emotions are suppressed.

Pandora's box is a pagan fancy, figuring all too truly the swarm of ills that followed the fall into sin. This world is one of trouble and care, and Christ recognizes conditions as they actually are. He meets men on the ground of their realized and unescapable needs. His words in this discourse are like a mighty psalm that soothes while it strengthens, and strengthens because it soothes. He lays hold of our dreads and loneliness and ignorance, and substitutes an assured future, a present companionship, and unfailing wisdom. Where our weakness is most keenly realized His grace is most definitely and lavishly proffered.

Our Lord's words ought to mean more to us than exhortation; they are nothing less than commands. To ignore and disobey would be to dishonor Him. It is not a matter of indifference or something to be measured merely by our own loss. We are witnesses. To call ourselves His and then fail to demonstrate the courage and tranquillity that He claims to give is to declare His failure—or our own.

"Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong,
Or others,—that we are not always strong;
That we are ever overborne with care;
That we should ever weak or heartless be,
Anxious or troubled, when with us is prayer,
And joy and strength and courage are with Thee?"

The gift of peace is to flow out from us no less truly than it is to come into our lives. An efferent grace, to be enjoyed and consumed in the secrets of our own experience without becoming efferent and a blessing to others has no place in God's economy in this world, nor is any hint given that the next world will be one of self-centered ecstasy. Our assurance and our peace are a part of the benediction spoken by the angels that outlined the mission while they announced the coming of the Messiah.

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

AN EVANGELISTIC TRIP IN MEXICO.

The yellow fever, the hot season and an abundance of work in Victoria have kept me from doing much evangelistic work since my return to Mexico the forepart of this year, but at last the obstacles have been removed. On Eleventh month 2d I set out for the mountains in company with my fellow laborer in the gospel, Santiago G. Gonzalez. That night we slept on the bare ground, under the open sky, on the very summit of one of the ranges of the Sierra Madre. We were up and had breakfast before daylight. Then we beheld one of the most beautiful sunrises I have ever witnessed. The sun came out and the clouds below us began to heave and roll like a great sea of molten gold. With this inspiring scene around us we began our day's journey. We soon came to a camp of soldiers who were guarding a large body of prisoners at work on the government road over the mountains. Here we were informed that the road farther on had been washed out, and that we could not get through with our cart. But the head of the commissary department was an old friend, and immediately provided us with two saddles and an extra horse. That afternoon we were met by one of the brethren, who had come all the way from Palmillas to meet us. About five-thirty we reached Jaumane, a town of some eight thousand inhabitants, situated in the midst of a very fertile valley. The principal product of this valley is ixtle, the fiber of the lichugua, a diminutive member of the maguey family. It is transported on the backs of burros and pack mules. That night we learned that the driver of one of these trains of burros was known as the "minister of the burros," this name having been given him by his companions because he carried a New Testament with him and read it while the burros halted and were eating their corn. We did not get to know him, but found that he was the one who had shown us a kindness the night before by furnishing us water for the night, and information as to where we could find pasture. Doubtless here is a true disciple.

That night some thirty persons came together, and we had a meeting in the home of one of the believers. Several were present who were not members. We distributed a goodly number of tracts, which were received eagerly. We also sold two Testaments, several gospels and some hymn books. The brethren meet every Sabbath for Bible study in the home of Bruno Puente, a Presbyterian.

In the morning we started, with Don Bruno accompanying us. He had two brothers and two sisters in the next town, whom he desired to persuade to attend our meeting. We stopped at a ranch before noon and had an interesting conversation with the owner, who had recently become a believer. He told of some mule drivers who had come the day before from Matehuala to buy corn. In the evening he had been reading the Bible to them, and was rejoiced that we had come so that he could invite them to a meeting. The meeting was after dinner, but they gave the excuse that they were too busy getting their corn ready. Afterwards I gave one of them a gospel of Luke, expressing my regret that they could not be with us. That evening we reached Palmillas, a town of some four thousand inhabitants. We had a meeting with some thirty present. The next day we spent in visiting families. We made the acquaintance of some of the leading men in town, and invited them to a meeting that evening. Some of them came and we had the room packed, with crowds standing around the doors and window. Many were there who had never heard the gospel before, among them a brother and sister of Don Bruno. He was rejoicing at this, as we could see in his beaming face. The audience listened with the best of attention while both Don Santiago and myself preached. After the close of the meeting a young man, who was distributing tracts to the audience, announced that some one had called for the hymn, "Singing All the Time." We sang it, and Don Bruno asked to know who called for the hymn. It proved to be his sister, in whose salvation he was so interested. He arose, and taking a beautiful gilt-edged Testament from my stock on the table, said he wanted to make a present to the woman who had called for the hymn, at the same time advising her to read it and not throw it to the pigs.

We have a number of large families in this place. It would be an excellent place in which to open a day school. Some of the children are not in school, and others have been greatly persecuted because they are Protestants.

The next day we continued our journey toward Tula, having left appointments both in Palmillas and Jaumane for meetings on the return trip. We were accompanied by one of the believers, who told us of how he had come to the knowledge of the truth through the reading of a borrowed Bible. That night we arrived in Tula, after a hard day's ride. This city has 22,000 inhabitants, about a third of whom live within the city proper. There is no evangelical work here, and but one family of members. The inhabitants are reputed to be very fanatical, but in conversation with some of the leading men I found quite a number who belong to the liberal party. Several of these expressed a desire that we would establish a permanent work here. Another evidence that Romanism is not as deeply rooted here as represented is that the church is still unfinished, and has remained so ten years. The annual fair is in progress, and the gambling and drunkenness that abound are appalling. This in itself is enough evidence that they need the gospel.

However, some seed has already been sown. While in conversation with the son of one of the wealthiest men of the town, he showed me a Bible which had belonged to his grandfather, and told me how once when he was bringing it back from the home of a friend, who had borrowed it, he met the bishop, who gave him to understand that the book was not acceptable.

There is an old man stopping here in the house where I am who has come in from his ranch in the mountains. He has over thirty children and grandchildren. The women of the family are very devout Romanists, but ignorant. I had a conversation with him on the subject of the nature of true religion. Here, too, I found the seed. He also had a Bible which he was reading diligently. Another young man sent for a Testament this morning, saying that the one he had had mysteriously disappeared. Probably the female members of the family had burned it.

Don Santiago started on the return trip this morning, and I will go on in a day or two into our southern field.

This whole district is without any evangelical worker. It naturally belongs to Friends, lying as it does midway between the work of Indiana and Western Yearly Meetings. The scarcity of funds and workers are the reasons why it is not occupied. How long shall this condition continue?

W. IRVING KELSEY.

Tula, Tamaulipas, Mexico.

Correspondence.

The following amounts have been received by the treasurer of the Foreign Mission Board of Iowa Yearly Meeting of Friends for relief in Jamaica:

From sources outside our own yearly meeting—W. S. Brown, Lohrville, Ia., $1; Martha Greaves, Newburgh, N. Y., $5; "J. B. C.," New York city, $50; High Point Meeting, High Point, N. C., $4.50; Margaret C. Wistar, La Mott, Pa., $5; Lupton Meeting, Lupton, Mich., $15; Thorntown Meeting, Thorntown, Ind., $8.75; A Friend, Kokomo, Ind., $10; Anna A. Warder, North Bend, O., $5; A Friend, Richmond, Va., $10; New Garden Meeting, New Garden, N. C., $7.30; Whittier Meeting, Whittier, Cal., $125; Gilead Meeting, Gilead, O., $12; Robert Warder and wife, Howard University, Washington, D. C., $20; Sarah A. Smith and others, Merriam, Kan., $4; Stephen Breed and wife and Sunday School at Henniker, N. H., $5; Women Friends, Richmond, Ind., $25; Louise P. Round, Mehama, Ore., $1; Smithfield Meeting, Woonsocket, R. I., $10.50; Emily Thomas, Union Springs, N. Y., $5; Mrs. S. L. Haworth, Maryville, Tenn., $2; Samuel L. Rhoads, Philadelphia, Pa., $5; Liberty Union Sunday School, New Providence, Ia., $6; Westfield Meeting, Westfield, Ind., $3.50; Martha Battey, Salem, Ore., $5; Berkeley W. F. M. S., Berkeley, Cal., $50; Alva W. F. M. S., Alva, Okla., $5.65; Samuel Miles, Monkton, Vt., $1; Sarah J. Weeks, Carthage, Ind., $10; Harriet N. Carr, High Point, N. C., $2; O. M. Hiatt, Elk City, Kan., $4; Somerset C. E. Society, Swansea, Mass., $38; Ruth S. Hill, Rome, N. Y., $5. Total, $466.20.

There have been amounts sent as follows direct to Arthur H. Swift, in Jamaica:

From Worcester, Mass., $25; from Sandwich, Mass., $50; from Providence, R. I., $25; from Dr. Watson, $10; from West Falmouth, Mass., $26; from Albert Stubbs, $6; Cuba, $7.34. Total, $149.34.

From Iowa Yearly Meeting as follows, by quarterly meetings:

Ackworth, $17.85; Bangor, $94.25; Bear Creek, $113.78; Des Moines, $33.91; Greenville, $10.35; Honey Creek, $97.25; Lynn Grove, $14.00; Minneapolis, $125; Oskaloosa, $120.42; Platte Valley, $59.61; Pleasant Plain, $75.53; Salem, $32.79; Scranton, $33.49; Springdale, $78.93; Union, $10.00; Winneshick, $19.50. Total, $936.66. Sent direct, $149.34; from outside yearly meetings, $466.20. Grand total, $1,552.20.

We desire to thank all who have contributed so liberally to our appeal for relief in Jamaica on behalf of the Foreign Mission Board of Iowa Yearly Meeting.

H. D. LANE, Treasurer.

To the Editor of THE AMERICAN FRIEND:

A few weeks ago it was made known through the different papers that the majority of the members of Rich Square Monthly Meeting of Friends, North Carolina, had united in conducting a meeting of their own.

The object of this writing is to inform Friends that old Rich Square Monthly Meeting is continued by some members in harmony and unity with our yearly meeting. We have lately been favored with the company and encouraging words of our dear friends, Charles Peasley, from New England; Jeremiah S. Cox and Jabez R. Mendenhall, of Greensboro, and Priscilla B. Hackney and Lydia N. Blair, from Guilford College, this State.

Thy friend and well wisher in the truth,

ELIAS S. ELLIOTT.

Rich Square, N. C.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Leannah Hobson, of Plainfield, Ind., has been laboring in a very successful revival in the Congregational Church at Alva, Okla.

Sadie Stanley, one of the missionaries to Jamaica, was recorded a minister by Bear Creek Quarterly Meeting the 14th ultimo.

Harry R. Keates brought back with him from England a letter of sympathy with his service in Great Britain and Ireland, given to him by the meeting for sufferings. There have been many other testimonials of appreciation of his visit.

John Henry Douglas was called to Newberg, Oregon, by the death of his daughter, Chloe Taylor. He returned to California the 9th ult.

Amos Kenworthy held a series of meetings in Newberg, Oregon. The farewell meeting was on the 16th ult. His messages came with power.

At the State Convention of Young Men's Christian Associations, held at Lafayette, Ind., Professor Elbert Russell gave five addresses.

David Sampson attended the meeting at Washington on First-day, the 15th ult. He went from there to engage in a series of meetings at Belvidere, N. C.

Henry and Melissa Fellow, also Leannah Hobson, attended Liberty Monthly Meeting recently, at which time request was made for a monthly meeting to be established in Alva, Okla.

At the convention of Endeavorers of the Indianapolis District, recently held at Danville, Ind., the address on the last evening was given by President R. L. Kelly on the "Equipment for Service."

Fred T. Coppock recently held a series of meetings with Friends at Keith, Okla. He was assisted by the local minister, Susie Allen; also Edna Hill and Stanley Coppock, who had charge of the singing.

John Shearman, a prominent worker in Friends' Meeting, Indianapolis, visited Friends' Meeting, Knightstown, Ind., the 22d ult. His sermon was appropriate and very instructive to the large audience present.

The Friends' Bible Institute Extension Course is more interesting and popular this year than formerly. Any one who has finished last year's work will please inform Albert J. Brown, Wilmington, O., in order to receive a certificate of work done and credit toward graduation.

A cordial invitation is extended to attend the thirty-second anniversary and Donation Day of the Pennsylvania Peace Society, in Young Friends' Association Building, northwest corner Fifteenth and Cherry Streets, Philadelphia, Twelfth month 8th, 1903, 2.30 and 7.45 o'clock.

The State Convention of the Indiana Young Women's Christian Association was recently held at Earlham College. It was the largest annual meeting in the history of the Association. All but two of the non-resident girl students at Earlham College are members of the Y. W. C. A.

Bloomington Quarterly Meeting, Indiana, was held the 21st and 22d ult. Cyrus Jones, of Coloma, Ind., preached on Seventh-day, and President R. L. Kelley, of Earlham College, on First-day. This quarterly meeting was established in Second month, 1836. It now comprises five monthly meetings, with a total membership of 1,098.

Bear Creek Quarterly Meeting was held at Stuart, Ia., the 13th to 15th ultimo. Visiting ministers from outside the quarterly meeting were E. Howard Brown, New Sharon, Ia., who is laboring in the interest of peace, and Mary Sibbett, of Kansas, an evangelist and temperance worker. Ella Diggs was appointed missionary superintendent, and James Coffin Bible School superintendent for the quarterly meeting.

Chicago Friends celebrated the second anniversary of the West Side meeting with a social Second-day evening, Eleventh month 23d, at the meeting room, 774 West Van Buren Street. A program of recitations, songs and addresses was much enjoyed by the goodly number present in the cheery room. The meeting is growing in size and in interest, and the work is full of encouragement. As in many meetings elsewhere, the Christian Endeavor Society is the backbone of the spiritual life of the meeting. The social served to reveal a deep interest on the part of the membership and of others.

Nathan and Esther Frame, since Kansas Yearly Meeting, have held two series of meetings within the limits of Grand River Quarterly Meeting, one at the Ottawa Mission and the other at Miami, both in Indian Territory. The power of the Spirit was remarkably manifested in the conviction and conversion of sinners and the strengthening and upbuilding of believers. Several persons have applied for membership with Friends. After the meetings at Miami many persons acknowledged that they were now convinced that women are endowed with the ability to preach the gospel. They have now gone to Wichita to hold meetings at Friends' University.

A fire occurred in the library at the Woodbrooke Settlement, near Birmingham, England, on the 11th ult. The building itself was not seriously damaged, but many valuable books were destroyed.

A very pretty honor has come to Henry Joel Cadbury, of Philadelphia, and through him to Haverford College. Last spring the American Institute of Sacred Literature, a body of representative Biblical teachers, with headquarters in Chicago University, offered a prize of $50 for the best examination paper in New Testament Greek. All undergraduate college students in the United States were asked to compete. The judges have just awarded the first prize to Henry Joel Cadbury, who was a member of the class of 1903 in Haverford College.

The following is from an Ottawa Indian: "Nathan and Esther G. Frame held a two weeks' meeting at Miami, I. T., in Friends' Meeting House, and large numbers attended, and many were converted. On Sabbath, Esther opened the doors of the church and seven joined, five Indians and two whites, and after they left, our dear brother, Jeremiah Hubbard, opened the doors again, and four more joined, two Indians and two whites. There never was such a meeting held in these parts before. People that thought a woman could not preach was thoroughly convinced. The people all got a great blessing in attending the meeting. May the Lord bless them wherever they go."

Newberg Quarterly Meeting was held at Newberg, Oregon, the 13th to 15th ult. Oliver Kenworthy, of California, was in attendance with a minute. Amos Kenworthy was also present and preached. This was the sixteenth anniversary of the organization of the quarterly meeting. After the business of the meeting was completed more than an hour was taken up in reminiscences of the organization and life of the quarterly meeting. It was a helpful service. Much mention was made of the faith and faithfulness of that man of God whom God used to plant the seed for His church in this place. Steps were taken by which a history of the early Friends of the meeting shall be written and preserved.

A communication from Star, Idaho, furnishes the following interesting information concerning the small Friends' meeting in that isolated section: "Boise, Idaho, Monthly Meeting of Friends, though small in numbers, still lives, and all the meetings are held regularly. The monthly meeting is held alternately at Boise and Star. We have no church property, but we now have Sabbath School and meeting in a school house near Star. We would gladly correspond with those wishing to find homes in the far west in an irrigated country. We need help to carry on our work in both city and country.

"SAMUEL BEESON,
"Monthly Meeting Correspondent."

At a recent session of Indianapolis Monthly Meeting, Morton C. Pearson presented the need of an enlarged plan of church work, by which the large membership may be given specific duties, the performance of which will develop the spiritual gifts in the church, and make a strong working force. The meeting heartily approved of the plan. The entire membership is divided into ten large departments. Each department will have its own separate organization, and will report quarterly to the monthly meeting the work which it has done. Just before yearly meeting each department shall present an annual report in form to be forwarded to the departments of yearly meeting work. The departments are as follows: Foreign mission; home mission; Bible School; prayer meeting; social, temperance, peace, book and tract; woman's aid; Christian Endeavor, and invitation and advertising departments. An enrollment of about forty is expected in each, and large results and great blessings are expected.

The New York Friends are holding the following meetings in New York city this week:

Second-day: 3 p.m.—Trustees of New York Yearly Meeting, James Wood, chairman; 4 p.m.—Committee on Distribution of the John G. Lane Bequest, David S. Taber, chairman; 5 p.m.—Executive Committee of the Christian Endeavor Society, Walter A. Commons, chairman; 7.30 p.m.—Executive Committee of the Bible School Board, Arlando Marine, chairman; 8 p.m.—Trustees of Oakwood Seminary, George Edward Clark, chairman; public conference on Bible School work, topic, "Present Condition and Future Work." Addresses by J. Lindley Spicer and others.

Third-day: 10 a.m.—The Permanent Board, Charles W. Lawrence, clerk; 1 p.m.—Lunch; 1.45 p.m.—Committee of the H. H. Mosher Fund, Charles W. Lawrence, chairman; 2 p.m.—Committee on Peace and Arbitration, Richard S. Collins, chairman; 3 p.m.—Conference on Evangelistic and Church Extension Work, Elmer D. Gildersleeve, chairman. Topic, "How Shall Our New Members Learn to Understand Quakerism and Become Workers with Us?" Ten-minute addresses by J. Lindley Spicer, Mary S. Kimber, A. Franklin Smith, Abijah J. Weaver, Carolena M. Wood. 5.15 p.m.—Executive Committee on Evangelistic and Church Extension Work, Elmer D. Gildersleeve, chairman; 6.30 p.m.—Tea; 8 p.m.—Address, "The Christianity of St. Paul," by Rufus M. Jones, Professor of Biblical Literature, Haverford College.

Fourth-day: 10 a.m.—Temperance Committee, B. J. Carpenter, chairman; 11 a.m.—Temperance Conference, topic, "Local Option." Address, James B. Dunn; 3.30 p.m.—Women's Foreign Missionary Society; 4 p.m.—Mexican Committee Board of Home and Foreign Missions; 5 p.m.—Board of Home and Foreign Missions, William C. Taber, chairman; 6.30 p.m.—Tea; 7.30 p.m.—New York Monthly Meeting.

The death of Forster Green, of Belfast, Ireland, removes a highly-valued Friend, whose life was a long chapter of good deeds. Almost every American Friend who has traveled "in the love of the gospel" has enjoyed his hospitality. We give the following words about him from the "London Friend": "A few years ago no figure from the Emerald Isle was more familiar in London Yearly Meeting than that of Forster Green, who passed away last week at the ripe age of eighty-eight years. In his own city and meeting he will long be remembered for his liberality and the kindly spirit in which he sought to aid the cause of suffering humanity. Born in the year of the battle of Waterloo, he obtained the name of Forster owing to the deep regard of his parents for William Forster, the prominent minister among Friends of the first half of the last century, and father of the statesman. He was a pupil at Lisburn School, and, after serving an apprenticeship to his brothers in Belfast, and then three years in Liverpool, at the age of twenty-two he started in the grocery business for himself in Belfast. His early experiences were clouded by difficulty and disappointment; and ere long he was obliged to call his creditors together, to whom he paid a composition of 12 shillings in the pound. But he was not disheartened. He started again, and within four or five years he paid off his creditors in full with interest. From that time onwards the business flourished, and one after another additional premises were acquired. For some years the profits of one of the branches were devoted entirely to charitable purposes. For the past ten years the firm has been a limited company. Forster Green's benefactions were most judiciously placed. Hospitals, homes for the blind, homes of rest, the Y. M. C. A., etc., in turn, and again and again, were freely supported. The Forster Green Hospital for Consumption and Chest Diseases at Fortbreda is an institution mainly due to his liberality, where many sufferers have benefited from the open-air treatment. To Friends' schools, first in Ireland, but also in England, he was a generous contributor. Altogether it is estimated that his benefactions must have amounted to fully £200,000, the greater part expended in his own city."

MARRIED.

ANDREW—RICHARDSON.—Eleventh month 18th, 1903, Alpheus L., son of William and Sibyl J. Andrew, and Della A., daughter of F. M. and Anna Richardson, members of Prairie Center Monthly Meeting, Endora, Kan.

PRICE—BAILEY.—At the home of the bride's parents, in Portland, Ore., Eleventh month 11th, 1903, Drew P. Price and Flora Bailey. The groom is a son of James Price.

DIED.

BALDWIN.—At her home in East Whittier, Cal., Tenth month 27th, 1903, Sarah W., wife of Cyrus Baldwin, and daughter of Nathan D. and Mary Wilson, of Fairmount, Ind.

COSAND.—At Koshkonong, Mo., Eleventh month 12th, 1903, Lowell T., son of W. T. and Luella Couch Cosand, aged 22 months. Members of Hesper Monthly Meeting, Kan.

TAYLOR.—At Newberg, Ore., Eleventh month 30th, 1903, Chloe Taylor, oldest daughter of John Henry and Miriam Douglas. Her Christianity was applied in her daily life in a way that was beautiful to those who knew her.

Events and Comments.

Charged with having held negroes in a condition of peonage, twenty-six indictments have been returned by the Federal Grand Jury against seven citizens of Southern Georgia.

The Chicago street railway strike, which blocked travel in that city by night for more than two weeks, and caused an endless amount of trouble, has been declared off. Nearly all the old employees went back to their former positions, those only being debarred who were guilty of misdemeanor.

A dispatch to the Central News from Vienna says it is authoritatively announced there that if Turkey does not accept forthwith the Austro-Russian demands the two powers will proceed with their own forces to establish order in Macedonia. All the signatory powers of the treaty of Berlin, it is added, will first be asked to co-operate.

Members of the bench and bar at Chicago joined in congratulating Judge Joseph E. Gary, in his court room, on reaching the fortieth year of continuous judicial service—a remarkable record, particularly under the system of electing

"CLEANING HOUSE."

A Change of Food Cleans the Soul's House.

When the body is clogged up by the use of improper food and sickness sets in there is nothing so good as a "house cleaning," and the right way to do this is to change the food, for although taking medicines may afford temporary relief a complete change of food is much the surest and safest way.

The highest medical authority in the world, "The Lancet," of London, says of Grape-Nuts: "Our analysis shows it is a nutritive of a high order, since it contains the constituents of a complete food in very satisfactory and rich proportion, and in an easily assimilable state." "About two years ago," says a resident of Springville, Ind., "I had a terrible stomach trouble, and although I tried all kinds of medicines none of them cured me. I was so run down I could not eat, got very little sleep, and was dizzy-headed and miserable all of the time. About that time a friend told me that the only way to cure my trouble was to change my food and recommended Grape-Nuts.

"From my very first meal of Grape-Nuts my stomach began to get better, and all the improvements that come from a healthy stomach in place of an unhealthy one soon followed, and this was not all, for just as great an improvement came in my brain. All of the dizziness is gone, and my brain is now clear and active. I can eat anything I want, sleep well, and am altogether a new man mentally and physically.

"At the time I commenced to use this food I was nothing but a skeleton, weighing 130 pounds, but now I have got back my normal weight of nearly 200." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

judges by popular vote. His case greatly weakens the argument against an elective judiciary. Judge Gary is in his 82d year of life.

The Utah and Colorado soft coal strikes have resulted in general scarcity of fuel in all large cities depending on the regions affected. Prices have soared as a result. Ordinary soft coal has advanced to $10 per ton in Denver. The Colorado Fuel and Iron Company is supplying regular customers with Canon City coal at $5.50 a ton, but other buyers are paying $10.50 per ton for Eastern coal, which is being brought to the market with more or less irregularity.

The Ogden-Lucien cut-off across Great Salt Lake, comprising 102 miles of the Southern Pacific Railroad, was formally declared completed on the 26th ult. and became part of the Harriman system. This track has cost the Southern Pacific millions of dollars, but it is estimated it will save the company $500,000 annually in operating expenses as well as reduce the running time between Ogden and the Pacific coast by two hours.

Dr. Nordenskjöld's Antarctic exploring steamship Antarctic was crushed in the ice Second month 12th of this year. This news was brought Eleventh month 23d by the Argentina warship Uruguay, which arrived at Rio Gallegos with the members of the expedition on board. The expedition left Buenos Ayres on Twelfth month 20th, 1901, and made the Falkland Islands its base of operations. Dr. Nordenskjöld and a party of three scientists and two sailors spent one winter on the east side of Graham Land, near Great Snow Hill Glacier. They were joined by another party on board the Antarctic and intended spending another winter in the Southern region, but met with the loss of their vessel.

Much has been made of a recent operation on the throat of Emperor William II. of Germany. A tumor of a "benign" character has been removed from his larynx. Several sensational journals have stimulated a not unnatural query as to whether this indication of disease does not presage a fate for the young monarch similar to his father's. We agree with the "Medical and Surgical Journal" that it is the part of wisdom, as well as of good taste, to await the outcome, whatever it may be, without speculation. . . . Such growths as this are unusual and certainly are not in themselves inimical to life." Latest reports from Berlin indicate steady gain in strength, but point to the imperative need of diminished use of his vocal organs by the emperor in the future.

The renewed attention being given to the proposed isthmian canal at this time lends especial interest to a discussion of the great canals of the world. The ship canals of the world are nine in number, as follows: The Suez Canal, begun in 1859 and completed in 1869; the Cronstadt and St. Petersburg Canal, begun in 1877 and completed in 1890; the Corinth Canal, begun in 1884 and completed in 1893; the Manchester Ship Canal, completed in 1894; the Kaiser Wilhelm Canal, connecting the Baltic and North Seas, completed in 1895; the Elbe and Trave Canal, connecting the North Sea and Baltic, opened in 1900; the Welland

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

Canal, connecting Lake Erie with Lake Ontario; the two canals, United States and Canadian, respectively, connecting Lake Superior with Lake Huron.

Experience with woman suffrage in New Zealand shows that women's voting spurs the men to attend to their political duties; when they had the field to themselves it was rare that 60 per cent. of those registered went to the polls, but the proportion rose to 69.6 per cent. in 1893, and by 1899 to 79 per cent., and it was 78.44 per cent. last year. Says a New Zealand paper: "Our ten years of universal suffrage shows that the women's interest in politics has been well sustained."

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO
TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND PREMIUMS

A BOY'S RELIGION, FROM MEMORY

By RUFUS M. JONES

NO subject teems with greater interest, or is fraught with greater issues than the religious development of early childhood. It is the foundation work of character, yet it is little understood by parents and less by children. Here is a most helpful work for young and old alike. It is the simple narrative of the religious awakening in a young soul which strikes a responsive chord in every heart. The work is beautifully printed on deckle-edged paper, and bound in a striking and original design. It is handsomely furnished with illustrations of places and persons mentioned in the text. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Aunt Charlotte's Stories of Bible History

By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE

CONTAINS over 100 stories from the Holy Book, richly embellished with 19 full-page Color Plates and Photo-Engravings, together with nearly 100 other illustrations. Beginning with the dawn of creation, every important historical event in the Bible is brought out in the order of their happening, thus leading the little ones along the most pleasant ways from Genesis to Revelation.

This book will give the Bible a new charm for children, and they will read it with a new understanding. Price $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size $7\frac{1}{2} \times 10$ inches. Handsomely bound in cloth. Printed in gold and many colors. 250 pages. Over 100 illustrations.

The New Child's Life of Christ

By HESBA STRETTON

CONTAINS choice Biblical Pictures from the world's leading artists, thirty-two of which are full-page illustrations. The book presents the Life of Jesus as it is understood by the most devout and careful students of His Life. The graphic descriptions and the accurate and beautiful illustrations take one into the very midst of the sacred scenes and subjects. This volume throws a flood of light on the sacred pages, and leads the tender reader to the foot of the cross. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size $7\frac{1}{4} \times 9\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Rich cloth binding. Stamped in gold and colors. 250 pages. Profusely illustrated.

THE BARNARD EDITION
—OF—

The Pilgrim's Progress

By JOHN BUNYAN

PROBABLY no book, except the Bible, has been printed in such immense numbers, and has had so wide a circulation among readers of all ages. It should be in every home where children live. The Barnard Edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the only edition containing nearly sixty full-page pictures and fifty portrait and character illustrations, by Barnard and others; four full-page chromo-lithographs; the beautiful poem "The Little Pilgrim"; also, 388 Bible references, making in all 327 quarto pages, 8×10 inches, printed on double thick, extra quality, super-calendered paper. It is tastily and elegantly bound with extra silk cloth.

It is the cheapest finely illustrated book published. Price, $1.50.

THIS BOOK with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

(For The Pilgrim's Progress add 20 cents for postage.)

Any one of the above books sent on receipt of price.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES.

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and much had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets, and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly-concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, the excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease, as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

In Boston they are quoting a bon mot of Senator Lodge, uttered when he was asked to define the present interpretation of the Monroe doctrine. "The Monroe doctrine? Well, so long as our Secretary of State is named Hay, our foreign policy will be 'Keep off the grass.'" —Exchange.

I GOT TO GO TO SCHOOL.

I'd like to hunt the Injuns, 'at roam the boundless plain!
I'd like to be a pirate an' plough the ragin' main!
An' capture some big island, in lordly pomp to rule,
But I just can't be nothin', 'cause I got to go to school.

Most all great men, so I have read, has been the one 'at got
The least amount o' learnin' by a flicker-in' pitch-pine knot.
An' many a darin' boy like me grows up to be a fool,
An' never 'mounts to nothin' 'cause he's got to go to school.

I'd like to be a cowboy an' rope the Texas steer!
I'd like to be a sleuth-houn' er a bloody buccaneer!
An' leave the foe to welter where their blood had made a pool,
But how kin I get famous? 'cause I got to go to school.

I don't see how my parents kin make the big mistake
O' keepin' down a boy like me 'at's got a name to make.
It ain't no wonder boys is bad an' balky as a mule,
Life ain't worth livin' if you've got to waste your time in school.

I'd like to be regarded as "The Terror of the Plains!"
I'd like to hear my victims shriek an' clank their prison chains!
I'd like to face the enemy with gaze serene an' cool,
An' wipe 'em off the earth! but, pshaw, I got to go to school.

What good is 'rithmetic an' things exceptin' just fer girls
Er them there Fauntleroy's 'at wear their hair in twisted curls?
An' if my name is never seen on hist'ry's page, why you'll Remember 'at it's all because I got to go to school.
—Nixon Waterman, in "Men of Tomorrow."

LIFE'S MIRROR.

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
There are souls that are pure and true;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

Give love, and love to your life will flow,
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith, and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.

Give truth, and your gift will be paid in kind,
And honor will honor meet;
And a smile that is sweet will surely find
A smile that is just as sweet.

For life is the mirror of king and slave;
'Tis just what we are and do;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.
—Selected.

KEEP A SAVINGS BANK ACCOUNT.

The value of a savings bank account is fully appreciated by those who have undertaken to save money in this way, and their success in laying by a competency or accumulating a comfortable amount for the proverbial rainy day should encourage others also to open similar accounts with a reliable savings bank. Perhaps the largest and strongest institution of this kind in the world is the Bowery Savings Bank of New York city. This bank has assets of nearly $100,000,000. There are no stockholders. It is a purely mutual bank, and the trustees get no direct or indirect pecuniary pay for their services. It was incorporated seventy years ago by a number of benevolent men of the city of New York, among whom were several Friends, and it has ever since had a greater or less number of Friends in its Board of Trustees. The president, William H. S. Wood, is a Friend. The Bowery Savings Bank is under the laws of the State of New York. No State in the Union has such stringent banking laws as New York, and it is accordingly unnecessary to state that a depositor in the Bowery Savings Bank is doubly protected, and is assured the utmost safety that any human institution can afford. This bank has a system of banking by mail, and its plan is so perfect that it is the simplest thing possible to open an account, no matter where one may be located. The depositors of the Bowery Savings Bank number 140,000, and of this great army thousands scattered all over the world have for many years past been using the mail in their transactions. Not one dollar has been lost. Deposits are accepted from $1 up to $1,000. Everyone who is at all interested should send for the booklet, "Banking by Mail." It contains some very pertinent and valuable suggestions as to saving money, and the facts given will undoubtedly be a surprise to many. It will be mailed free upon request to the Bowery Savings Bank, 128 Bowery, New York city.

FRIENDS' HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

President:

THOMAS HODGKIN, D.C.L., Litt.D.

OBJECT: To encourage historical study and to publish historical matter.

Subscribers of $1.25 and upwards will receive a copy of "The Journal," as published, free, and any Supplements issued, at cost price. Rufus M. Jones will act as American Agent of the Society, and Friends who wish to become members are requested to send their subscriptions to him.

Address 718 ARCH STREET,
PHILADELPHIA

Getting Ahead

Many people never get ahead until they go in debt. Debt may be safely and honestly incurred when a good life insurance policy runs along with it. Consult the

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

Let the day have a blessed baptism by giving your first waking thoughts into the bosom of God. The first hour of the morning is the rudder of the day.—Beecher.

Acker has them — your Christmas Candies.

Penn's Treaty with the Indians

on India paper; engraving 23 inches by 18 inches, on sheets 30 inches by 24 inches; from the original Boydell engraved plate made in 1775 from the original painting of Benjamin West. $3.00 by mail.

A. L. SMITH
29 E. Penn St., Germantown, Phila. Pa.

Fine Fur Scarfs and Collars.

Furs are proof against chilling winds and winter dampness — and furs are dear to woman's heart; in them beauty and utility are closely blended. We mention a few handsome neck-pieces:

Sable Fox Russian Collars — with dark stripe running through the centre; large brush tails on each end; rich brocade satin lining, $22.50.

Isabella Fox Double Scarfs — made from the finest Alaska skins; about 72 inches in length, with fur on both sides; exceptionally rich, $40.00.

Black Lynx Double Scarfs — of superb quality, long and silky fur, finished on each end with brush tails, $90.00.

Genuine Chinchilla Collars — quite deep in back, with tapering ends; made from the choicest full-furred skins and richly lined, $45.00.

Genuine Marten Imperial Scarfs — extra long, and of the finest quality; fur on both sides and trimmed with real tails, $42.50.

Baum Marten Russian Collars — deep in the back, with long ends; trimmed with tails; clearly defined dark stripes run through the centre; richly lined, $90.00.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER
PHILADELPHIA

EMINENT PHYSICIANS
throughout the world recommend

QUINA-LAROCHE

AS A SPECIFIC IN CASES OF
ANAEMIA, COLDS, LA GRIPE,
SLOW CONVALESCENCE,
STOMACH TROUBLES,
TYPHOID and MALARIAL
FEVERS.

E. Fougere & Co., 30 N. William St., N. Y.

"What God sends let us humbly receive. His gifts cannot be for evil."

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.
MARY M. KITE
407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

Y. F. A. Building,
140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.
FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.
Convenient, Restful, Homelike.
Table d'hote, 25 cents.
Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.
Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.
COMFORTABLE ROOMS:
One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.
Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.
Address ELIZA H. WORRELL
Phone Spruce 33-55. Clerk.

Kitchen Outfits At Reasonable Rates
J. FRANKLIN MILLER
1626 CHESTNUT STREET
Free delivery in city and suburbs.

OSTEOPATHY
EDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON
Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.
Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Bell Telephone Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SON
Wall Paper and Decorations
Window Shades Made to Order
902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.
WATCHES
As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.
GEO. C. CHILD
27 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

Miss some of the sweet things in life — but don't miss the pleasures of a box of Acker's

863 BROADWAY,
betw. 17th and 18th Sts.
508 FIFTH AVE.
betw. 42nd and 43rd Sts.
21 W. 42nd ST.
near 5th Ave.
150 BROADWAY,
cor. Liberty St.

CANDIES sent everywhere by Mail or Express.

The
New Century
TYPEWRITER
does the BEST WORK and lots
of it, EASILY.

Strong, Thoroughly Built,
Superior in results to any other.
Write for
"THE BOOK OF THE NEW CENTURY."
AMERICAN WRITING MACHINE COMPANY,
1033 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL
or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information.
PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND
805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHER
GEO. B. COCK
Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.
Telephones.

New Archdale St. James Place
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.
JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary
UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean, —no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

WABAN SCHOOL, WABAN, MASS.

A Superior Preparatory School for Boys.

J. H. PILLSBURY, A. M., Principal.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

The Conard & Jones Company, Rose Growers.
West Grove, Pa. Catalog Free

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE CO., Miami, Ind. Ter. Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

FROM SALOON TO PULPIT. 138 pages, illustrated. 12 cents postpaid. We have 10,000 fine books to give away. Address, Howard Book House, Elwood, Ind.

FRIENDS WISHING TO LOCATE in the great wheat, corn and alfalfa belt, of Oklahoma, should write us for information. Well-improved farms sell for from $25 to $50 per acre, and ranches from $5 to $10. This is a Friends' community, the land is rich, and opportunities are excellent. Congenial surroundings are assured, educational facilities are excellent, and in every particular the means for establishing a comfortable home are far above the average. References gladly given. Votaw & Setzer, Cherokee, Woods Co., Oklahoma.

HONEST AGENT WANTED.—Represent Gold Mining Company, operating on Mother Lode. Opportunity seldom offered. Highest references given. Write for information. Prudhomme Gold Mining & Milling Company, 532 Stimson Block, Los Angeles, Cal.

THE PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION OF FRIENDS is in need of a man who can take charge of Cylinder and Job Presses, Folding Machines, Wire Stitcher, Gasoline Engine and such other machinery as is used in a first-class Printing Office. The man employed must be married, and a member of the Friends' Church, and come well recommended. Plainfield is only 14 miles from the State House at Indianapolis, and we are connected by trolley line and steam cars. The town is a beautiful and healthful village; the Friends have a large Meeting, Sabbath School and Christian Endeavor Society here, and the Western Yearly Meeting meets at this place every year. We have all the advantages of the city of Indianapolis, and half the expense of living in the city. I would be pleased to correspond with any one capable in this line and free for an engagement. Address P. W. RAIDABAUGH, Plainfield, Indiana.

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota

THEY are the best, gilt-edged, rock-ribbed, guaranteed 6% investment in America. Safe as government bonds and pay better.

I have been selling these mortgages for 18 years, and have never had to foreclose, and never lost a cent of principal or interest for a single customer.

I personally know every farm covered by the mortgages, as well as the farmers giving them. I know them both to be right, or I have nothing to do with them. Their land is increasing in value every day, thus increasing the value of the security.

I collect both the interest and principal free, and remit in New York exchange, without the least trouble or bother of the customer.

I will be pleased to put you in the way of finding out all about me. Write me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON*Investment Banker*

LISBON, NORTH DAKOTA

Law wears iron shoes and never cares where it steps.

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 10 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.) 52d & Media Sts., Philadelphia

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.

BELL TELEPHONE.

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET

BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH
29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL
Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

10 BEAUTIFUL PICTURES FREE

In order to introduce our QUAKER OINTMENT into every home where THE AMERICAN FRIEND is read, we have decided to make the following liberal offer. To every person sending us 25 cents for one box of QUAKER OINTMENT, and 4 cents extra to pay postage, we will send absolutely free the following 10 pictures. These pictures are gems of art. For picture study, art collections, gifts and home decoration, they are of great value. The Last Supper, Christ in Gethsemane, Christ Taken Captive, Christ Before Pilate, Christ Bearing the Cross, The Crucifixion, Entombment, In the Sepulchre, The Ascension, Transfiguration. It is costing us a great deal of money to advertise in this way, but we trust you will be pleased with our liberality, and will favor us with an order for a box of our ointment, and get these 10 beautiful pictures free. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best known remedy for catarrh, eczema, and all skin diseases. Rev. Asa Woodard, pastor Friends' Meeting at Butlerville, Ind., says: "I am using QUAKER OINTMENT, and find it an excellent remedy." Mrs. Clara Chaney, Rural Route No. 3, Warren, Ind., says: "I have never found anything as good as QUAKER OINTMENT for catarrh, sores and skin diseases." Send us your order to-day. Quaker Ointment sent to any address upon receipt of 25 cents.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.Stenography, Typewriting, Mimeographing and Reporting*LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Philadelphia man grabbed a crate of tomatoes and tried to get away with it, but the police caught up with him and shot him down.

Pretty serious case of tomato ketchup, wasn't it?—"Cleveland Plain Dealer."

ESTERBROOK'S
THE STANDARD PENS EVERYWHERE.

Works, Camden, N. J.

The ESTERBROOK STEEL PEN CO.STEEL PENS

150 Styles Fine, Medium and Broad Points.

Sold by All Stationers.

26 John St., New York.

FOR ABSOLUTE SAFETY

Deposit your Money in

The Bowery Savings Bank

OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.

Chartered 1834—NOW has 140,000 Depositors.

ASSETS, nearly

$100,000,000.00

(One Hundred Millions)

All the earnings belong to and are held for the benefit of depositors. The bank is managed by 43 Trustees, who give their services gratuitously. There are no dividends to anyone, except to depositors.

 Deposits received and Drafts Paid by Mail.

Printed instructions for opening an account with this Bank will be forwarded to any person on application to The Bowery Savings Bank, 128 and 130 Bowery, New York.

WILLIAM H. S. WOOD, President.

JOHN J. SINCLAIR, 1st Vice-President

HENRY A. SCHENCK, Comptroller.

ROBERT B. WOODWARD, 2d Vice-President.

WALTER COGGESHALL, Secretary.

FREE HOMES IN CANADA

Friends desiring to locate in the wheat belt of the Canadian Northwest on free grant lands should communicate with Wm. I. Moore, 60 Bleecker Street, Toronto, Ont., with a view to joining the Friends' Colony.

See article in The American Friend of Tenth month 22, page 721, entitled "Canada Yearly Meeting and the Canadian Northwest."

6% NET FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands. Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

6% NET

Sound, conservative first mortgages on improved realty. We examine every security and know every borrower. We make our loans with our own money and turn them over complete. In 23 years we have learned how to select the best. No one now handling western mortgages has had more experience. We give you the benefit of that experience. The quality of the securities now on hand has never been surpassed. Highest references. Write for circulars and full information free.

PERKINS & COMPANY Lawrence, Kan.

PROMPTNESS

is a virtue rarely found in a Printer, but we have made it one of the rules of our business.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO.

Makers of the Better Kind of Printing

1019-21 Market Street Philadelphia

The tender compassion of Jesus as we pass through the dark valley is better than a column in the newspaper after we are gone.

INVESTORS, ATTENTION

The Rock County State Bank

Newport, Nebraska, offers small farm mortgages for sale; 6 per cent. interest payable semi-annually. We conduct a conservative banking business and offer no loans except the regular customers of our own bank. We personally know every man and his land and we make no loan that we are unwilling to carry ourselves.

One of the greatest blessings that God ever bestowed upon any human being is a contented disposition.

OKLAHOMA FARMS

Friends desiring to locate among Friends, and near Stella Academy, should address Votaw & Setzer, for prices on farms and town property. Send for price list, all questions cheerfully answered.

VOTAW & SETZER (Friends),
Cherokee, Woods Co., Okla.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

ASA S. WING, Vice-President.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer

SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

American Friend

Vol. X

TWELFTH MONTH 10, 1903

No. 50

	PAGE
EDITORIALS.—Grace and Faith.—Edifying the Membership.—Editorial Notes.	843
A Tender Conscience	844
President Absalom Rosenberger
The Power of Christ's Religion	845
Henry Force
William Meade to Thomas Lawson	847
"In Season"	847
W. G. Hubbard
THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON	848
Lesson for Twelfth month 20, 1903.
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR	849
Topic for Twelfth month 20, 1903.
MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT.—Encouraging Word from Mexico	849
Margaretta Marriage Sein
CORRESPONDENCE	850
THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES,	851
BORN.—MARRIED.—DIED	852
EVENTS AND COMMENTS	853

ON AN UNJUST JUDGMENT.

In this God's-world, with its wild-whirling eddies and mad foam-oceans, where men and nations perish as if without law, and judgment for an unjust thing is sternly delayed, dost thou think that there is therefore no justice? It is what the fool hath said in his heart. It is what the wise, in all times, were wise because they denied, and knew forever not to be. I tell thee again, there is nothing else but justice. One strong thing I find here below: the just thing, the true thing. My friend, if thou hadst all the artillery of Woolwich trundling at thy back in support of an unjust thing, and infinite bonfires visibly waiting ahead of thee to blaze centuries long for thy victory on behalf of it, I would advise thee to call halt, to fling down thy baton and say, "In God's name, No!"

THOMAS CARLYLE, "Past and Present,"
Chapter II., written in 1843.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ♣ ♣ ♣ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

George Fox

A STORY OF SUSTAINED INTEREST

THOSE Friends who are not natural-born students probably have a lively recollection of their youthful dread of George Fox's Journal. It was a "solid" book indeed. The paragraphs often ran for pages without a break, while the narrative rarely ran far without being interrupted by the insertion of a long controversial letter or tract, which was likely to be Greek to the general reader. In fact, the religious situation of the time is impenetrable except to the special student.

In "George Fox; an Autobiography," the book is treated as a narrative. The long paragraphs are broken up into short ones, shifting with the changing action. The dialogue, often very rapid and dramatic, is printed so that the part of each actor in each scene is emphasized after the manner of such passages in a popular novel. The long controversial passages are dropped, and their place is supplied by notes explaining clearly the situation, and by the Introduction, which gives a general sketch of the religious ferment of the time.

As thus treated the book is as interesting as any novel, yet it contains far better facilities for serious study than the old copies of the journal printed in extenso.

Within Reach.

Because of its low price Ivory Soap is within the reach of all. Besides its low cost it has the advantage that it will do the work of half a dozen kinds of soap each intended for a special purpose. Its purity fits it for use where the ordinary soaps are unsafe.

Ivory Soap
99⁴⁴/₁₀₀ Per Cent. Pure.

"GEORGE FOX: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY."

Edited, with notes and an Introduction, by Rufus M. Jones. Two volumes, 600 pages, extra cloth, gilt top, twenty-four full-page plates, post-paid, $4.00 net.

FERRIS & LEACH, PUBLISHERS,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The American Friend

"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, TWELFTH MONTH 10, 1903.

No. 50.

NOTICE.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND will be sent to one old and one new subscriber from now until 1st mo. 1st, 1905, for $2.50.

Address,

THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch St., Philadelphia.

GRACE AND FAITH.

THERE is nothing easier than to use words without knowing what they mean. If we made a rule not to use a word until we could tell its whole meaning probably we should seldom speak. Here are two common words which are as familiar as our own names, but what plummet can reach to the bottom of their meaning? Grace and Faith—these are the two master words of man's salvation. "By Grace are ye saved through Faith." Can we see what that means? Let us get a glimpse, though we may be sure there is infinitely more than we see. Grace is God's part, and Faith is man's part, in salvation. Grace is our word for expressing the Divine Love offering itself freely. Jesus Christ is God's Grace vocal. He has put into universal language the unwearied love of God, which neither nature nor the law had ever revealed. Before Christ came the heavens were as brass to the sinner. Nothing in nature or in the law told of mercy and forgiveness and love toward him. The two ruling ideas were—"sin" and "punishment." The trouble was that man had no way of discovering how God felt toward him. He read his own sin into everything. It lay like a tremendous barrier between him and God. He knew he deserved hate, and so he imagined himself the object of wrath. What could be so impossible of belief as that the infinite God actually loved a poor sinner like him, and was suffering because of his waywardness! Few even now, in this "year of grace," 1903, realize that it is so. It is hard work even now to make men believe that God loves them. Just that Christ made vocal. He told it in sermon and parable. He acted it in all His intercourse with men. He gave the supreme utterance of it on the cross. God so loved. At last Grace was revealed. The wayfaring man could see, if he would, that God could no more cease to love man than the earth can cease to manifest gravitation. Grace is the essential activity of God. It is the Divine Energy manifesting itself. It is the fundamental spiritual fact in the universe.

But Grace does not save anybody alone. The universe is full of electricity, but it lights no houses; it drives no cars; it carries no messages until human energy lays hold of this inexhaustible force. So, too, with Grace, Divine Energy for salvation. It must be met by a proper human response. It must be appropriated and put to use. It must be laid hold of and possessed. Grace is made operative through Faith. Faith is the method by which we turn a privilege into an actual experience. Like Grace, Faith also is an energy; it is an activity. The new creation comes when the energy of Faith co-operates with the energy of Grace. This is what Paul means when he says, "Work out your own salvation, for God is working in you." There are two forces. One from beyond us. One in our own power. Grace reaches out to us and draws. Our new life begins only when our own force co-operates, and the man says "I will" to the Divine "Wilt thou?"

It is like the tug which the whole universe gives to our earth, but which is made effective only because the earth itself responds with its power of gravitation. If the energy of the earth ceased it would at once drop out of the solar system. It is like the breathing in and breathing out which make life possible. God giving Himself and man taking Him are the two energies of the spiritual realm. The kingdom of heaven comes where God and man meet. Grace and Faith open the doors of the infinite life.

EDIFYING THE MEMBERSHIP.

LAST WEEK New York Friends had a very profitable afternoon conference on the subject, "How shall our new members learn to understand Quakerism and become workers with us?" It is a most timely subject, and ought to be continually considered until it is settled by every group of Friends in the United States. There can be no well-grounded hope of our branch of the Church if we take no pains to instruct our young members and our new members in the principles and methods which form our heritage. It does not make a person a Friend to call him one. You are not a Friend simply because your name happens to be "on the list." To be a Friend means to stand for some definite truths. The Friend has views with a history behind them. He has fought, with the peaceable weapons of the Spirit, for privileges which ought still to be precious. These very privileges are being in many instances lost through ignorance. They are not being wrung from us by a tyrannical power; they are simply ignored.

Once the Quaker child came into the inheritance of Quakerism in the home. He learned it just as he learned to walk and talk—not by trying, but because he couldn't help it. He lived in an atmosphere of it all the time. And when a new member came in he was thoroughly instructed before he was received, so that generally he was no whit behind those he joined in appreciation of the principles of the faith. To-day the home does not furnish this old-time atmosphere. The child grows up on fairy books and not on "Piety Promoted." The subtle influences which unconsciously made the young persons Friends and bound them in loyalty to the Church of their fathers, do not work with the same power to-day. New members have in many meetings been taken in in large numbers before they have learned our history or our present interpretation of the truth.

Can we afford to drift along with no systematic effort to educate this present membership in the things which are most vitally important for the welfare of the church? Or can we afford further to let the future take care of itself, and do nothing to provide for some better preparation of those who desire to unite themselves with us? Paul warns his Corinthian friends of the danger of building hay, wood and stubble into the Church. Even though it may be builded on the true foundation, the real test will destroy all such slipshod work. We shall learn this to our sorrow, if we do not learn it now in wisdom. Let us realize that it is just as much a divine service to edify the members as it is to send missionaries to teach the poor heathen.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WE are glad to report that progress is being made with the Harriet Green Memorial Fund. Four hundred dollars have come in from Indiana Yearly Meeting since our last report. This makes the total amount from that yearly meeting $862.00. Western Yearly Meeting has up to date subscribed $923.

By the death of Alice Lewis, of West Chester, Pa., the world has lost a woman who has been doing through a long life everything she possibly could do to make the world better. Others have made more show and display of talents, but few have been more faithful in using what was committed to them. Her father was editor of the "Friends' Review" for nine years, during a part of which time, owing to his blindness, she wrote the editorials by his dictation. At his death she was put on the staff, where her services were of great value. In 1866 she became publisher of the paper, which position she continued to fill until 1883. Since her retirement to West Chester she has found many avenues of quiet service, and has slowly rounded out in a simple way a life which manifested the qualities of genuine goodness.

A TENDER CONSCIENCE.*

BY PRESIDENT ABSALOM ROSENBERGER.

Prayer keeps the conscience tender and the holy purposes strong within. A tender conscience has been the salvation of many a man in the hour of peril. It has furnished the motive force in the crucial moment of some great temptation that enabled the one on trial to be true to God and to his fellow-man. Joseph was put to the test when bartered away in the slave marts of Egypt. What a temptation to renounce the God of his fathers! Everything seemed to be against him, and why should he not sell himself to the common, sinful life round about that opened up so invitingly before him. One redeeming element came in a tender conscience before God, which held him steadfast to the truth. God honored him with prosperity so that he was soon at the head of his master's affairs. Beautiful, intelligent and prosperous beyond all others, these very points of advantage blossom into a great temptation. How easy in that profligate society and voluptuous court to have yielded to the voice of the siren! What power could have enabled him to withstand this most seductive of all temptations? That same tender conscience towards God made him faithful to the trust imposed by his master and struck into his moral fibre the ability to resist the voice of the charmer though she charmed never so wisely.

You say that is a story from afar and out of sympathy with modern times and not pertinent to our day and generation. May I, without offending the most sensitive mind, recount an incident that is intensely human and modern, of a boyhood comrade who was at times a warm friend of myself, at times a bitter foe. The most remarkable thing about him was his conscience. It was so tender that I used to feel that it must be covered with blisters, so sensitive and delicate was it in its operation. Did the neighborhood boys wish to rob an orchard or melon patch and persuade this boy to go along, just when they thought they had succeeded in helping him over his scruples, and the forbidden fruit was almost within their grasp, the same troublesome conscience would come to the surface and suddenly flash a concealed light as of a dark lantern into their faces, making all feel that they were criminals taken in the very act. What a troublesome conscience it was! It annoyed the fellows, the owner was at times sorely tempted to curse it, and it provoked many a smile from the teachers at the numerous petty confessions of violated rules that it forced upon him. This boy grew to manhood and the conscience grew to manhood along with him and was a lamp to his path and a light to his pathway. In the course of his official labors and travels he found himself a few years ago visiting many of the world's great cities, and among them the one where Joseph almost 4,000 years ago fought the noble battle that sent him to the dungeon, where he was chief ruler over the prisoners by virtue of his own conquering nature. Not being acquainted with the common slang of the country, supposing that he was being guided to a peculiar and curious market place, he passed the threshold of her whose "house is the way to hell going down to the chamber of death," and Joseph-like stood face to face with the same evil in its appalling form. All the muscular strength acquired in the most strenuous athletic contests in college was necessary in resisting the physical force brought to bear upon him to drag him to ruin, and yet he fought like a lion at bay to retain a name unsullied and a soul pure from the great transgression. Soon a terror seized upon the denizens of these low abodes, and with uplifted hands they cried aloud for the guide who had slipped out into a side room to come and take him from their midst. On the road to the hotel the guide could say nothing but repeat over and over, "I do not understand you; I do not understand you." And perhaps a thousand times there has been whispered in those places of darkness the strange story of the strange conduct of the stranger from a strange land.

* Read recently before the students and professors of Penn College at the chapel exercises.

You say he must have been a more than ordinary man. Oh, no; the commonest kind of clay; so weak of will that a child could lead him, and a natural-born coward. The great and saving element in his life was a tender and carefully-cultivated conscience, and without it he would have been a miserable failure.

My young friends, by virtue of my position many things connected with your past lives come to my knowledge, but, like as I treat the name of my friend, whose story I have recounted, which has never passed my lips in connection with the story, so I would be unworthy my position were I not to treat as sacred all information gathered. In some of your lives I am awaiting anxiously for the appearance of a strong and vigorous conscience life. Since this term opened I have stood face to face with at least one wide awake, sensitive conscience which was seeking for guidance. How clumsy I felt in attempting the difficult task! Coming into a new kind of life with changed environments, the possessor was unwilling to enter into games, sports and diversions unlike the accustomed ones, and there was an utter refusal to risk the chances and find out the right and wrong afterwards. The tender conscience said in whispers: Be sure you are right before you indulge in them.

God was not in the whirlwind, nor fire and smoke, nor terrific convulsions that shook the mountain, but in the still small voice that whispered its message sweetly and gently in Elijah's ear. Even so the auditory nerves of our consciences should be so delicate and tender that the faintest whisper from heaven would find a ready response, "Speak, Lord, for Thy servant heareth." My dear young friends, the crying need of the world to-day is the resurrection of a normal type of conscience to take the reins of affairs. One that Jehu-like would drive furiously into the domain of government and restore a reign of good citizenship, into the realm of letters and make men write as the very oracles of God, into the Church and imbue it with the Christ-Spirit in all its fulness. One that would become so all-pervasive that men everywhere would feel in every act and word as one of old, "Thou God seest me." Then men would live as though the judgment day were at hand. Do not be unnecessarily narrow and close the road to broad and innocent enjoyments, but allow the light of truth to come in to open the understanding. In athletics, in study, in social intercourse, in civil life and in our devotions let us give full play to the operation of an enlightened conscience and a joyous richness will be ours that far transcends the flesh pots of Egypt. It may lead us into strenuous lives and call us into peculiar positions; but we shall have the consolation that the seal of the King's signet ring of approval is affixed to the daily summary of our lives.

THE POWER OF CHRIST'S RELIGION.

BY HENRY FORCE.

It does not require a vast amount of intelligence or a marvelous stock of good taste, to admire the ethics of the Bible, or the teachings of the Lord Jesus Christ. But the ethics of the Bible do not account for the place which that book has made for itself among men, nor do the teachings of Christ afford sufficient reason to account for the hold which He has gained upon human hearts. The Bible has attained its place because it has impressed itself upon human hearts, as a love-bearing message from God to man, and Christ has appealed to men's faith and affection, because He died, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God.

A great book the Bible indeed is, but its crown of glory is the story which it tells of a Christ "who gave Himself for our sins that He might deliver us." Shorn of the revelation of Christ as a Redeemer, through atoning sacrifice, the Bible would fall in value very greatly even though it remained far and away the best of books. Christ Himself is great as a philosopher, as a teacher, as a guide to men, showing them how to live, but He wears the crowning name of Jesus, and has been highly exalted of God, because He took upon Him the form of a servant and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. His teachings are very beautiful, but if His religion had only the teachings to bestow upon men, He would be only the greatest of teachers and the prince of philosophers, and not the Saviour of the lost.

The sermon on the Mount has found much favor, even infidels admitting its beauty. The character of Christ has won many a tribute of esteem from men who have not adhered to religion of any kind. But Christ has won hearts to Himself and moulded them to His wise and beneficent will, because He could say, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest," and not because He gave men that glittering string of pearls, the beatitudes of the sermon on the Mount. Men famished with soul hunger have heard Him say, "I am the Bread of life," and feeding upon Him have found their hunger wondrously appeased. He has become a necessity to them. He has not simply said unto men, "When ye pray, say, our Father," but He has died for men and risen again that He might be able to say to them, "I go unto My Father and your Father," thus bringing men into union and into communion with God. The disciples whose epistles so well unfold the object and meaning of the Gospel of Christ, speak with no uncertain language of this. For instance, John recognizes the need of the sin-cleansing blood of the Lamb of Calvary, if men are to enjoy fellowship with God. "If we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another," says this apostle, meaning that thus there is fellowship between the soul and God. Then he significantly adds, "and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin." The nearer man gets to God the more conscious is he of sin inherited and inherent. But the very light which reveals the sin reveals its remedy. The scarlet of human transgression is lost in the crimson of atoning blood. But man wants something more than peace about the guilt of his sin to give him a happy sense of fellowship with God. He feels the need of power to live as Christ lived, and the sense of power comes as he realizes that he possesses Christ not only in His sacrificial atonement, but as a living force within him. To some one, who boasted that he intended to start a new religion, Napoleon once said, in effect, if not in just these words: "Then you had better die, be buried, and on the third day rise again, or your effort will result in failure." Christ by His death satisfies the otherwise unsatisfied demands of an awakened conscience and a sin-burdened heart. Christ by His intimate association with the believer makes him conscious of a force that enables him to do right. Christ dying for us and Christ living in us account for the power of religion upon the human heart. If profound philosophy could save men; if fine ethical teaching could make them absolutely good, the race might well be deemed capable of securing a large measure of salvation, and of reaching a lofty altitude of goodness, by other philosophy than that of Christ, for other lips than His have uttered sound and profound philosophy. But even Christ Himself knew well how futile all His gem-like utterances of truth would prove unless He sealed them with, or, we might say, wrote them in, the crimson of His blood.

Christ as a teacher is undoubtedly leagues ahead of all other teachers, in that He so wonderfully lived out His own teachings. He alone of all who have worn a human body practiced just as He preached. In Him preaching and practice were simultaneous and synonymous. But though He were precept and example, and nothing more, we should still be without power to live as He lived and love as He loved. It is good so far as it goes, but it does not go far enough to have the shining Example, exemplifying and enforcing the stately and sublime precepts. Yet even the Person is not sufficient to save until He makes Himself to us a living power. We cry with despairing breath, "Who shall deliver me?" and with baffled desire exclaim, "How to perform I find not," until we can say, even though in measure only, "Christ liveth in me." Even Christ's immediate disciples forsook Him and fled, in spite of all His teachings, when the cross flung its dark shadow over them. But when the mystery of the cross was realized by them, then nothing could separate them from Him, and they rejoiced in their grand devotion to Him, that they were found worthy to suffer for His name. The truth is well summed up in the words of the Apostle Paul, "The life I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God who loved me and gave Himself for me," and again, "nevertheless I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." The once-crucified but now risen and living Lord can alone so renew the will of man as to make him wholly desire to do the right, sincerely determine on doing it. And at the same time bring the desire and the determination to the full fruition of deed. Even Paul himself may have spoken with a sense of something not quite reached, when he said, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me," for even Paul said also, "not as though I had already attained, or were already perfect," but he had caught the secret of the Christian life. That secret is in the power of a personal Christ in the soul. It is not in a decalogue however interpreted, but in a Deliverer, who not only works in us to will, but to will and to do. To give to men such a religion was worthy of the mission of Christ to earth and even of His submission to death on the cross.

New York.

The fact is that sin is the most unmanly thing in God's world. You never were made for sin and selfishness. You were made for love and obedience.—J. G. Holland.

WILLIAM MEADE TO THOMAS LAWSON.

The following interesting and informing letter has just been presented, with many other letters and documents relating to the early Friends, to the trustees of the Meeting for Sufferings of London Yearly Meeting, under the will of the late George Stacey Gibson, of Essex, England:

Gosses, ye 27th of ye 6th moth
[dea]r Friende Thomas Lawson. 1691

[] my last to thee, wch was in Answer to thine of ye — of 1st moth 1691:—I have had thy kinde offer in my [tho]ughts; and now have an oppertunity to imbrace it. [I de]sire to know what summe of money yearly thou wilt [ex]pect, and also how soone thou cann settle thy affaires [and] come to mee; For I am now without one to Instruct [my] sonn and his Cousin Richard Lower;—Thou art to live at [my] County House, with us, and have all things necessa[rie] for thee vizt meate drinke, washing & Lodginge and [I would] have thee propose what summe of money yearly thou dost Expect that thou mayst bee at a certainty as well as my selfe;—I would that my sonn might not change his schoolmaster any more untill hee bee perfected in his Learninge; ffor I hope thou may stay wth mee many yeares. The younge ladds cann make a peice of latine and pearce it and construe it, in some measure, —and are apt ladds to learne, such as I hope thou will take real delight in—I am now very cleare from this younge man, who was my sonns Tutor and hee is gone from us & I was the more Inclinaire to part wth him, haveinge thy kinde Letter by me:—Thus with mine & my wives dear Love to thee, desiringe thy speedy answer I remaine

Thy Assured Loveing Friende WILLIAM MEADE.

direct thy letter
ffor Sarah Meade at the Shipp in ffann—churchstreet in London

because, if it bee directed to mee, perhaps my men
in my shopp may open it.

my Country House is in Essex; 12 miles of London

William Meade was a prominent Friend of the early day, though comparatively little is known of his life-history. In a letter written in 1670 he is described as "lately convinced." It is, however, known that he belonged to an Essex family possessing landed property and influence, and the above letter shows us that he had a London and a country residence. When he proved the will of Geo. Fox he was described as "citizen & merchant taylor," in reference to the city guild to which he belonged. By Hepworth Dixon, historian, he is described as "Capt. Wm. Meade, an old soldier of the Commonwealth & a draper* in the city." The famous trial of Wm.

Penn and Wm. Meade, at the Old Bailey, London, in 1670, established the right of a jury to decide upon a verdict independently of the opinion of the judge who tried the case. Wm. Meade purchased the estate of Goose-eyes, near Romford, in 1670. Most of the mansion is now pulled down, and the rest is turned into a farmhouse. Wm. Meade married Sarah Fell, daughter of Judge Fell, of Swarthmore, and of Margaret Fell, who afterwards married George Fox. They had one son, Nathaniel, born 1684. He early relinquished his life at Goose-eyes for the study of the law, and was admitted into the Society of the Middle Temple in 1700, when 16 years of age. At the time of his father's death, in 1713, he was a rising barrister, and later he became Sir Nathaniel Meade, knight. At one time he was banker to his Monthly Meeting, receiving sums requiring investment and paying 5 per cent. The account was closed in 1732. He died at his house in Litchfield Street, London, in 1760, having previously sold the Goose-eyes estate.

Richard Lower, mentioned in the letter, was son of Thomas and Mary (Fell) Lower, and was probably named after his uncle, Richard Lower, who was a noted doctor and court physician. The youth only lived a few years after the date of the letter.

Thomas Lawson was a son of Sir Thomas and Ruth Lawson. He was convinced by George Fox in 1652, while holding the lucrative living of Rampside, in Lancashire. He soon relinquished this position and took up teaching as a profession. He was an excellent scholar and a great botanist. One writer styles him "the most noted herbalist in England." At one time he taught botany at Swarthmore Hall. I am not acquainted with the circumstances which led to his writing to Wm. Meade, early in 1691, respecting a tutorship. Such a position in such a family must have been a pleasant prospect, but Thomas Lawson's death in the Ninth month of that year occurred, probably, before arrangements had been completed. We may hope that Wm. Meade found some other equally suitable tutor for his son and nephew.

Library Department, Devonshire House,
Bishopsgate, London, E. C.

"IN SEASON."

BY W. G. HUBBARD.

There were six in our party. We were in a mountain gorge in Arizona. We had driven forty miles over the mountains since early morning, and men and teams were weary. A camp fire was started, coffee made and lunch eaten. We sat about the camp fire. The cowboys from a nearby ranch joined us. They told us stories of the mountain lions, wildcats and rattlesnakes they had killed. They talked of their hardships and dangers and how one and another of their comrades, in galloping up and down the mountains after cattle, had been dashed headlong to instant death; how sometimes a horse would give out on the mountain and the rider would take the saddle for a pillow and the saddle blanket for a covering and spend the night alone with his horse on the mountain and bring him in next day.

* This statement does not invalidate the previous one that William Meade belonged to the guild of merchant tailors, for membership in a city guild was not determined by occupation, but by choice.

Finally we said, "Boys, your stories are interesting. May we sing a hymn and thank God we are alive?"

"Certainly, sir; certainly."

"Rock of Ages" sounded strangely sweet, with the rock walls of the mountains as a sounding board. Then the singer lifted his hat and all heads were immediately uncovered, while simple words of prayer thanked God that He had given us being and that He had kept us through so many dangers. Blessing was asked for our dear ones in the Eastern States, and for the boys who had gathered with us around our camp fire. Then another hymn was sung, and in conversational way we talked of God's love and how we ought to serve Him. It was not preaching, but heart to heart talk about God and His love. Some of the boys promised to try to meet us in heaven.

It was a strange sort of meeting away up there in the mountain gorges, with the flickering light of the camp fire and the stars overhead, and the stately mountains lifting their shadowy heads towards the blue dome above us. But His presence was precious, and who can tell "What the harvest shall be."

When we lay down there was only a quilt between us and the ground, but that was better than Jacob had the night he saw the angels. We looked up and the stars—those many eyes of God—were watching us. Our sleep was sweet and refreshing. Blessed be His name!

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON XII.

TWELFTH MONTH 20, 1903.

THE QUEEN OF SHEBA VISITS SOLOMON.

1 Kings 10: 1-10.

GOLDEN TEXT.—When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice.
Prov. 29: 2.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Twelfth mo. 14.—Queen of Sheba visits Solomon. 1 Kings 10: 1-13.
Third-day, Twelfth mo. 15.—Solomon's riches and wisdom. 1 Kings 10: 14-25.
Fourth-day, Twelfth mo. 16.—Solomon's judgment. 1 Kings 3: 16-28.
Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 17.—Riches unsatisfying. Eccles. 2: 1-11.
Sixth-day, Twelfth mo. 18.—Excellency of wisdom. Eccles. 7: 11-19.
Seventh-day, Twelfth mo. 19.—A greater than Solomon. Matt. 12: 38-42.
First-day, Twelfth mo. 20.—The throne of God. Rev. 4.

The Time.—During the last half of Solomon's reign. From 1 Kings 9: 10 it might be inferred that the time was the twentieth year after his coming to the throne, which would make it 975 or 937 B. C.

The Place.—Jerusalem, the capital of Solomon. Sheba, a district in Southwestern Arabia—Arabia Felix. It was about 1,500 miles from Jerusalem.

Persons.—Solomon, about 40 years old; Queen of Sheba.

Intervening Events.—Solomon kept on beautifying his capital, increasing his wealth and his power. Under him the Israelitish kingdom reached its height in wealth, power and extent. See the chapters of 1 Kings immediately preceding the lesson, and the corresponding chapters in 2 Chronicles.

In Ecclesiastes (2: 4-9) is a picture which, if not that of Solomon, gives the ideas of the men of those days in regard to royal magnificence.

1. "Queen of Sheba." Notwithstanding the tradition that Sheba was in Africa, there is little doubt that it was in Arabia Felix. The articles which she brought are all specialties of Arabia. Her story is surrounded with all kinds of legends, one of which is that she married Solomon, and became the ancestor of an Ethiopian line of kings. "Heard of the fame." See 1 Kings 4: 34. "Prove." Test him. Riddles and puzzles are dear to the oriental heart. The great story book of the East, the "Arabian Nights," is full of them. A successful trial of this kind would settle the truth of the report concerning the king of Israel.

2. "Came to Jerusalem." A long journey in any day (1,500 miles), but as the journey then would be made by camels which rarely make over twenty miles a day, it was an exceedingly long trip. "Communed with him." Told him her innermost thoughts.

3. Nothing which she propounded was too deep for him. He gave the right answer every time.

4. "The wisdom of Solomon." No details are given, and legend has tried to fill up the omission. The books of the Jewish rabbis, and of the Mohammedans, are full of stories regarding the tests she made, some of them most absurd ones. "The house that he had built." The next verse shows that this was his palace of residence, and not the Temple which we might think it was, if the words stood alone.

5. "And the meat of his table." The great variety and costliness of the food and furniture of the tables. Compare 1 Kings 10: 21; 4: 22, 23. "Servants." Probably the officers of the court or persons of distinction. "Ministers." These were the attendants, waiters, men in waiting. "Apparel." What we should call livery. This was often extremely rich and costly. "Cupbearers." This was an office of distinction. Nehemiah was cupbearer to Artaxerxes. (Neh. 1: 11; 2: 1.) Compare Gen. 40: 11, 21. "His ascent." The passage from the palace to the Temple. Compare 2 Kings 16: 18. This seems to have been a magnificent approach to the House of the Lord, over a deep and narrow ravine. Though this is the usual interpretation, there is some doubt about the meaning of the Hebrew words, and the Revised Version gives an alternative rendering; "or the burnt offering which he offered in the house of the Lord." Luther, in his German version, Coverdale, and the Geneva Bible, prefer this, but from the context the other seems better. "There was no more spirit in her." An expression equivalent to our "took away her breath." She was lost in amazement.

6. She acknowledges that the report which reached her was true in all respects, both as to what he had done and what he had said.

7. She goes still further and says she had only half believed what she had heard. In fact, it would have been impossible to believe the whole truth without seeing and hearing for herself. No one could really understand what an electric shock was until he felt one.

8. "Happy are thy men," etc. The ground for their happiness is the wisdom of Solomon.

9. "Blessed be the Lord thy God." This does not mean that the Queen of Sheba adopted Judaism, but that she appreciated the superiority of the God of Israel. In those days each nation was thought to have its own God. It took ages for even the Israelites to understand that the Lord was the God of all peoples.

10. Gold and spices were the most valuable things which she could give. One hundred and twenty talents of gold was an enormous quantity, and is probably an oriental exaggeration to convey the idea of a very large amount. Compare 1 Kings 9: 14. The actual value at the present day would be about $3,500,000.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. "Seek and ye shall find."
2. "A greater than Solomon is here."

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR TWELFTH MONTH TWENTIETH.

A VISION OF WORLD-WIDE PEACE.

Isa. 11: 6-9; 9: 6.

Second-day, Twelfth mo. 14.—Peace in the animal world. Isa. 65: 20-25.
 Third-day, Twelfth mo. 15.—Among mankind. Isa. 2: 2-4.
 Fourth-day, Twelfth mo 16.—Christ's peace. John 16: 32, 33.
 Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 17.—With nature. Mark 4: 35-41.
 Sixth-day, Twelfth mo. 18.—A fruit of the Spirit. Gal. 5: 19-26.
 Seventh-day, Twelfth mo. 19.—Like a river. Isa. 48: 16-18.

The narrower a man's boundaries, mental or spiritual, the more people he finds with whom he disagrees. In his opinion—and he is very positive—they are mistaken, absolutely wrong. Perhaps he calls them dreamers, perhaps fanatics, perhaps fools; in any case they are to be neither acceded to as teachers nor followed as leaders.

From Bellamy and his kind of this age, back to at least as far as Plato, we find devisers of plans for society that propose to banish all the ills of humanity—plans worked out with much elaboration of detail, with methods described and fancied results depicted in such wise that we almost wish ourselves living in some such Utopia.

These would-be prophets have seen fantasies, but not visions. The fantasy has light and color, but it lacks motive and perspective. Dominating the vision is a truth that underlies and illumines the whole; the details not being fully wrought out, perhaps, but principle unmistakably exalted.

The modern inventor of the happy commonwealth takes an "enlightened self-interest," or "altruism," or "a broad humanitarianism," or some other library-christened attribute, as the basis of his plan, and looks in vain for the living stones that shall conform to the specifications of his building. In spite of his own failures, he has naught but mockery for the "old-fashioned" doctrines of Christianity and Judaism. Only recently a well-known writer and speaker on economic questions who announced the Golden Rule as the only solvent for the difficulties between capital and labor, was scoffed at as having recourse to platitudes and practically giving up the problem.

Socialistic and communistic schemes are proclaimed, and thousands read them and chafe at surroundings and conditions—which are doubtless in too great need of readjustment—without ever being led to see that the kingdom must first be set up in the heart of each before it can be manifested in the lives of all.

Isaiah had the point of view twenty-five hundred years ago. His foreground is taken up with types and figures, but his causative principle is the absolutely solitary fundamental one; these things, or the things they typify, shall come to pass when—and only when—the knowledge of the Lord so fills the earth that human affairs shall be shaped thereby. Then the Prince of Peace shall reign, and they shall no more "hurt nor destroy" in all His dominion. Race, nation, State, sect, class, individual—how slight and petty appear the barriers that divide, when viewed in the light of the presence of Him with whom there is no respect of persons.

That is the vision. The Sun of Righteousness is the central figure, but to-day the mists obscure, false lights blaze here and there, and men see as in a glass darkly. The lure of wealth and power, or of idleness and ease, or of lust, or of self-will, or of some other outcropping of unregenerate humanity, draws them away from the understanding and acceptance of Him who has all that they desire, if only they will accept a satisfaction on the level of His offers. The light of all the blue heaven is peering through the crevices of their little tents, while they are busy fastening their borders to the earth and deride the messenger who speaks of the wide vision and the city of far distances.

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

ENCOURAGING WORD FROM MEXICO.

Matehuala, S. L. P., Mexico.

Dear Friend: Under the most cheering impressions I write this letter for our many friends who may want to hear something of our work in this city.

Sabbath evenings, the 11th and 18th of last month (Tenth), were occasions of special rejoicing in our little meeting. The first night two new members were received, a man and his wife, now living in this city.

The second Sabbath a family of six persons from La Paz Mines was taken into membership. On both occasions there was a full house, and we had special services of reception in which the candidates made public declaration of having thrown off the superstitions and errors of Romanism, and openly professed their belief in Jesus Christ as their only Saviour; in the prayer circle and words of welcome that followed, our members took an active part, and we had a blessed time. These additions to our membership are fruits of the work in La Paz Mines, begun some five years ago.

The 12th and 13th of this month we had our closing exercises of the school, and the children did very well in their examinations and recitations, songs and declamations, which final exercise was presided over by the Jefe Politico (Principal Authority), who at the close spoke of his pleasure and satisfaction by the way the children had performed. Other persons of the city were present, and congratulated us on the children's work, which we have tried to do the best possible under many disadvantages, as most of the year we have been without a teacher.

We very much appreciate the help of an elderly American lady who plays the organ considerably, and on the examination day played for their marches and songs. She also played for us on last Sabbath evening at our special temperance meeting, conducted by the Christian Endeavor Society, of which the writer is president. We had a well-prepared program, and printed invitations had been widely distributed in the city. So we had a full house—over 90 persons present. Everything was direct and to the point, and one could see that the truth was touching many hearts in the temperance songs, which, sung by a special quartet, were very touching and pathetic. At the close an excellent pamphlet on "The Effects of Intemperance" was read by the president, and a call was made to sign the pledge, to which over 30 responded, and some of our own members had to give place to the outsiders to sign, as our supply of pledges gave out. Then we had a rising vote or testimony of 15 more who desired to sign at the first opportunity when we get more pledges, which come only in the printed pamphlet.

We feel this has been a red-letter day for us, especially because of the after-meeting, when six of us stayed with a fallen brother, and prayed with him until he was completely broken down and repentant of his backsliding the last three months, in which the old appetite had taken hold of him again.

Our Christian Endeavor Society has kept after him in all this time, and our constant prevailing prayer has been answered, and Sabbath night he pleaded for pardon and victory, and promised he would never again touch the drink. It was a most precious season of praying, weeping and rejoicing over a back-slidden soul reclaimed; and we feel this temperance meeting has been a good preparation for the revival meetings to begin next Sabbath, for which we are expecting a minister from Saltillo to assist and direct under God's leading, and we ask the prayers of those who read this that great good may be done.

Before closing this letter I would add something about the school examinations at La Paz yesterday. The schoolroom was beautifully decorated, and the children all did well, and the entertainment at night was quite a success. Over 75 persons were present, and the children's exercises were all well performed. Thanking our Lord for His blessing on the work entrusted to us, I am thine for Mexico,

MARGARETTA MARRIAGE SEIN.

The busy world shoves angrily aside
The man who stands with arms akimbo set,
Until occasion tells him what to do;
And he who waits to have his task marked out
Shall die, and leave his errand unfulfilled.

—Lowell.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

Having for many years been deeply interested in the advancement of Christ's kingdom, and believing firmly in the interpretation of Scriptures as held by Friends, I have endeavored to assist in spreading the Truth. That "the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light" is certainly true in the opening of the twentieth century, for in worldly matters "no stone is left unturned" in bringing about that which is reckoned as being of importance or of financial worth. From the smaller private concerns to the great railroads or other multi-millioned enterprise, each and all bring, mould or conserve all other matters to the one great end. While Christians—we Friends included—are claiming and proclaiming that the salvation of souls is beyond all comparison the greatest thing in which we can be engaged, and yet how little we conserve other interests or matters to this end.

It has long appeared to me that with such a cause, with such a realization of the spiritual life and power that is ours to possess, that we ought to be carrying the gospel not only to the dark lands afar, but to the dark places of our own land. In my association with pastors and ministers of other denominations, and having had the printed reports of some of the leading bodies, on home mission or church extension work, these have only impressed me the more that we are not doing as much as we should to enlarge the Master's kingdom. Not only my own experience in Iowa, Kansas and California, but by letters received from several of the yearly meeting superintendents of evangelistic and church extension work, I am fully convinced of the many open doors for Friends, but along with or in answer to these Macedonian cries there comes a wail, "We can't," "We haven't the means."

Shall we not let the time past suffice on this of response, and now that the interests of the yearly meetings are so unified that it is possible for us to undertake work that singly we could not have done, shall we not respond aright? The organization of the Five Years Meeting has vast meaning to every Church interest, not the least of which is the matter of church extension. As never before are Friends in position to act and to accomplish definite work on this line.

The Evangelistic and Church Extension Board of the Five Years Meeting have adopted the following plans for the securing and use of funds, which in turn have been endorsed by several, if not all, of the yearly meetings.

Now that these important steps have been taken and all in readiness for service, shall we not, as workers together with God, be inquiring "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do, to help spread thy kingdom in our home land?"

PLANS TO SECURE FUNDS.

That the Board may have the necessary funds to carry forward the object of their appointment, we are united in recommending:

1. That each and every meeting, under the Uniform Discipline, at least once each year, and at such time as shall be best suited, take up or receive voluntary or free-will offerings for evangelistic and church extension work.

2. That those who have been especially blessed and prospered in financial matters prayerfully consider this opportunity of assisting to spread the gospel and of rendering help to needy places by giving liberally of the means entrusted to them, remembering that "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

3. That those having real estate, stocks or moneys to leave for benevolent or religious purposes seek the will of the Master as to bestowing a portion for the spread of the pure gospel in our own land.

4. That we inquire, further, if there are not those who would contribute to the establishing of a loan fund, to be used by way of loaning to worthy meetings to assist them in building or finishing suitable meeting houses or places of worship.

DISBURSEMENT OR USE OF FUNDS.

All moneys raised for the uses and purposes of this Board shall be sent to the treasurer, to be drawn out for use only on order signed by the president and secretary of the Board, and shall be used as follows:

1. For such expenses of the Board as necessarily come from the prosecution of the work assigned.

2. For donations to assist in building or finishing suitable meeting houses, all cases to be fully shown and attested as proper and worthy.

3. For donations or contributions to the support of ministers or workers in needy places under care of the Board.

4. For loans from the loan fund, upon a careful and judicious investigation of the case, all loans to be secured by mortgage or trust deed of the property until said loan is fully met and the claim satisfied.

5. The Board and the Executive Committee of the same are pledged to a careful and conservative use of all means entrusted to their care.

6. The expressed wish or preference of donors will be respected.

That this work may be as efficient and far-reaching as possible, it is desirable that there be a hearty and faithful co-operation with the Evangelistic and Church Extension Board of the Five Years Meeting by the like Boards or committees of the several yearly, quarterly and monthly meetings, both in the matter of raising and securing funds, as well as in the careful disbursement and use of the same.

CHARLES H. JONES, President.

EMMA HEDGES, Secretary.

Respectfully,

LEVI, GREGORY.

San Jose, Cal.

To the Editor of THE AMERICAN FRIEND:

Five years ago I first came to Virginia in the service of God. Ever since then I have been much interested in God's work in this South land.

In Eighth month of this year the Friends of Portsmouth, Virginia, sent me a call to locate in their meeting, and also to have general oversight of all our meetings on the west shore of the Chesapeake Bay. After prayerful consideration I believed it to be the will of God for me to obey the summons. At our first service God gave me this text as a message to myself and the Church: "Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it."

And we are finding the statement true. Doors are opening faster than we have workers or means to enter them. A mission here in the city, near the navy yard, and attended by many of the marines, is wanting us to take charge of it. Also a mission in Hampton, on the Hampton Roads. The leader and founder of the mission has joined Friends and brings her mission to us.

Also, there has been a mission in Newport News, where some of our members, in connection with some other Christians, have conducted a union mission. They have requested to have it organized into a Friends' meeting, which has been done. They have a house which was abandoned by the Northern Methodist Episcopal Church. There is a debt on the house of about $200, and we can have the house and furnishings, chairs, pulpit, stove, etc., if we will pay off the debt. Size of house, about 28x35.

Also, forty miles west of here, on the Norfolk and Western Railroad, a few people, who had felt that they must withdraw from their churches on account of their deadness and formality, requested us to come to them, and when we arrived they let us know they wanted to become Friends. So a meeting for worship was set up under care of our monthly meeting.

Calls are coming from several places in Matthews, Gloucester and surrounding counties. We feel that these doors ought to be entered, and that some of the Lord's stewards would like to make us financially able to do so.

We need a place to hold children's meetings. Our meeting house is a large one-roomed building, 48x72, and room enough for a small room to be partitioned off. My daughter had a distinct call from God to leave business and preach to children. Since coming here we have been holding children's meetings in our dining room, and children are being converted nearly every meeting. The attendance is increasing, until our rooms are too small to do the most efficient work.

I write these things to Friends generally, believing God will lead some of his stewards to invest means in this very needy field. I know of no place where so little means will do as much as in this South land. If any one is moved to send help they can send to the writer or to O. P. Live, treasurer, 727 Clifford Street, Portsmouth, Va.

Your brother in Christ and His service,

LEWIS I. HADLEY,

1017 Green Street, Portsmouth, Va.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Guilford College and grounds are now lighted by electricity.

We received a small remittance from John P. Baker last week, and will be grateful to any one who can furnish his address.

Willis R. Hotchkiss recently gave two lectures in Blue River Quarterly Meeting, Indiana, one at Blue River and one at Paoli.

The labors of Truman C. Kenworthy in the meeting at Damascus, Ohio, are highly valued and are being blessed to many souls.

George Barton gave an interesting lecture on "The Country East of the Jordan" before the Friends' Lyceum of Philadelphia the evening of the 4th instant.

Edmund Hill, who for a number of years has been a resident minister at Newberry Meeting, near Paoli, Ind., has recently located at Stanton Meeting, near St. Joseph, Ill.

Edwin McGrew visited Friends and meetings in Southern Virginia during Thanksgiving week. His coming was much appreciated, and the Church was edified thereby.

President Isaac Sharpless lectured at Twelfth Street Meeting, Philadelphia, the evening of the 30th ult. on "Pennsylvania Politics Under Friendly and Non-Friendly Rule."

Professor John W. Woody gave an interesting lecture in Memorial Hall, Guilford College, on the 21st ult. concerning his recent visit to Egypt. He showed why the Egyptians had pyramids and mummies.

Morton Brattain, of Lapel, Ind., is conducting a series of meetings at Lick Creek. This is the mother meeting of Western Yearly Meeting. Friends have largely left there, but a strong effort is being made to maintain the meeting.

Amos Cook and wife spent four weeks recently with their daughter, wife of J. M. Thompson, at Cherokee, Okla. T., and while there lovingly administered the gospel to Cherokee and Stella Particular Meetings. They expect to spend the winter in California.

H. Grattan Guinness, the venerable evangelist from London, who is known throughout Christendom, attended Haverford meeting on Fifth-day, the 3d instant, and preached a remarkable sermon on the text "Jesus Christ Came into the World to Save Sinners."

Nixon Rush and wife, of Fairmount, Ind., have just finished visiting some of the meetings of Stella Quarter, Okla. T., and are now visiting some of the meetings in Indian Territory and Southeast Kansas. They attended Thanksgiving services at Cherokee Particular Meeting.

The religious meeting of Guilford College and vicinity, on the evening of the 22d ult. observed the World's Temperance Day, and Professor Thomas Newlin spoke from the text, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked," and closed with the last words of John B. Gough, "Young man, keep your record clean."

Friends of Paoli, Ind., recently purchased a good residence property near their meeting house, and their minister, George H. Moore, and wife, now occupy the same. On the evening of the 14th ult. the membership called on them en masse and left many substantial tokens of their appreciation of their services.

Effie Murray, missionary from Nanking, China, attended Adrian Quarterly Meeting, held at Tecumseh, Mich., Eleventh month 7th-8th. Her address First-day afternoon was very interesting. I. G. Lee, of Damascus Quarter, Ohio, and Thomas Hodgkin, of Short Creek Quarter, Ohio, were also present and preached to the edification of all.

Blue River Quarterly Meeting (Western Yearly Meeting) was held at Paoli, Ind., Tenth month 31st. J. Waldo Woody, of Blue River, had acceptable service on Seventh- and First-days. Martha E. Newlin, of Westfield, Ind., spoke on "Our Mission Work in Mexico" on First-day evening, and during the week she presented the same subject at each of the other meetings in the quarter.

John Snively, of Cherokee, and Melissa S. Fellow, of Alva, are members of the Central Committee for securing prohibition statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territories. M. S. Fellow is secretary, and is to send letters to each congregation of the different denominations explaining the plans for raising means for the campaign fund, viz.: To assess each congregation one per cent. of the minister's salary. This makes it light on all, yet furnishes sufficient money and interests all church members in the cause.

On Tenth month 15th Emma Phillips de Martinez and her husband, Juan Francisco Martinez, sailed from Gibara to Puerto Padre, a port of Cuba, some thirty miles westward from Gibara, to open there the mission station of Wilmington Yearly Meeting. Thus Emma Phillips, who was for seven years a missionary at Matamoras, Mexico, and has given three years of very valuable service at Gibara, Cuba, begins her eleventh year of missionary work at Puerto Padre, with, as we rejoice to learn, a very propitious opening.

The new Flower Mission Hospital for Incurables in Indianapolis has claimed the interest of Friends there. The institution will provide care free to the poor either in or out of the city. Two Friends have furnished two rooms at a cost of $65 each, and the Christian Endeavor Society has furnished one bed, table and chair for one of the large wards. The Endeavorers will take special interest in the one who may occupy the bed furnished by them, will send their flowers there and render all assistance possible to this worthy institution.

Hannah J. Bailey, national and international superintendent of the Peace Department of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, after attending the National Convention at Cincinnati, spent several days with Friends at Oskaloosa, Iowa. On the morning of the 23d ult. she delivered an able and very instructive address before the students and professors of Penn College on "Frances E. Willard, the Woman of Widest Influence in the Nineteenth Century." On the afternoon of the 25th she led a large and interesting meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association in the college.

Pleasant Valley Monthly Meeting of Friends met at Antioch, Kan., the 28th ult. Marion Ricinger and Mary, his wife, of Iowa Yearly Meeting, are laboring in the meetings, where their ministry has been inspiring to all. Delegates to attend Haviland Quarterly Meeting, to be held at Pleasant Plain the 12th instant, were appointed, i. e.: George Lutes, Bert Hoskinson, Albert Davis, L. P. Bond and Emma Spickard. Jane E. Titus, who is very ill at her home near Antioch, was greatly missed from the meeting. In the evening following the monthly meeting a very interesting gospel meeting was held. Sixty-nine have signed the temperance pledge during the last year.

Eulalia Soler, a young woman who is a member of Gibara Monthly Meeting, Cuba, recently spent several weeks in the country with the family of an uncle, who is very much interested in the gospel, and was privileged to let her light shine among the friends and neighbors. Many an evening, after the day's work was done, she and her uncle would ride several miles on horseback, carrying the Bible and books and tracts to read to the simple-minded people of a neighboring village. Sometimes as many as thirty people would come together and listen until midnight, praising God for His word. "Pilgrim's Progress" and Moody's "Way to God," translated into Spanish, were especially enjoyed.

These items from "Alaska Missions" are of interest: "Eleventh month 18th, we were glad to welcome Annie Peebles to our working force. The native school will begin next week. . . . The recent regular meetings in the native church have been times of refreshing. Several have been converted and others have taken a more determined stand for Christ. Five requests for membership are before the monthly meeting. . . . Charles and Gertrude Bodwell request their membership to be transferred to Los Angeles Monthly Meeting. They intend to go as missionaries to Guatemala, Central America. Friends here united in prayer at the monthly meeting that God's richest blessings may accompany them."

Over forty relatives assembled on Thanksgiving Day at the home of S. Adelbert Wood, near Adrian, Mich., to celebrate the ninetieth birthday of his mother, Angelina Wood. There were present her only remaining brother, William Derbyshire; three sons and her daughter, with their families, and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren. A letter of regret was read from her oldest son, James D. Wood, of Lupton, Mich., who was not able to be there; also one from E. G. Wood's son, Herbert, of Maine. A short program was carried out, consisting in part of a history of this aged mother, who, though her life has been humble and obscure, raised three sons to preach the gospel and her other children to be useful members of the Church. A short poem was read by a daughter-in-law, and prayer and thanksgiving were offered for such a mother.

A series of seventeen sessions of meetings closed at Alva the 23d ult. Leanna Hobson, of Indiana, and Lida Lyon, of Wichita, were in charge. The gospel was presented in purity and power. Prejudice against woman's ministry was broken down in the minds of some individuals in the city, and an interest in Friends' work intensified by the practical teaching given on Christian living. Many from other denominations were blessed and were helpful in the meetings. Eighteen persons applied for membership by request and letter. Friends will immediately begin to raise money to build a house for worship. They are praying for a minister to locate in the meeting. The Northwestern Territorial Normal School, with over six hundred pupils, is located there, and Friends feel a deep concern for the gospel to be preached in all its fullness. Anyone wishing to assist or correspond about the work should address Professor H. C. Fellow or Professor J. K. Jenkins, Alva, O. T.

BORN.

COZEN.—To William and Alcena Cozen, of Antioch, Kan., Eleventh month 8th, 1903, a boy.

DE VOL.—To Drs. George F. and Isabella French De Vol, at Luh Hoh, China, on Tenth month 2d, 1903, a son, Charles Edward.

MARRIED.

FIELDS—FERGUSON.—At the home of J. Henry and Ruth Ellen Guyer, Monrovia, Ind., Eleventh month 11th, 1903, Ollie Mae Ferguson and Alonzo L. Fields, both members of Friends. Their home will be in Plainfield, Ind.

HAINS—HAINS.—At Lowell, Kan., Eleventh month 27th, 1903, Edwin A. Hains, of Timbered Hills Monthly Meeting, Kansas, and Louisa Hains, of Clinton, Ohio. They will reside at his home in Kansas.

MARTINEZ—PHILLIPS.—In Friends' Meeting-house, in Gibara, Cuba, at the close of the regular meeting on Tenth month 11th, 1903, Emma Phillips, missionary, from Fairmount, Ind., and Juan Francisco Martinez, of Matamoras, Mexico.

WHEELER—SMITH.—At the home of the bridegroom, in Timbered Hills Monthly Meeting, Kansas, Eleventh month 27th, 1903, Horace Wheeler and Viola Smith, of Chicago, Ill.

DIED.

NEWBY.—At Maryville, Tenn., Eleventh month 27th, 1903, Mary Moore Newby, the wife of James W. Newby (deceased), in her 63d year. She was an elder in the Friends' Church, with a pure and devoted life.

PIKE.—At the home of her son, John Pike, near Monrovia, Ind., Eleventh month 16th, 1903, Talitha C., wife of the late George W. Pike, aged over 70 years. She was a member of West Union Monthly Meeting of Friends.

Events and Comments.

The condition of Herbert Spencer, the famous writer, who has been ill for some time, is causing grave anxiety.

A cablegram received by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions at Boston last week indicates great destitution among Macedonians.

The Reichstag was formally opened the 3d instant by Chancellor von Buelow, as representative of Emperor William, whose illness prevented his presence.

The $300,000,000 or more of Pennsylvania Railroad stock outstanding is divided among 41,794 persons, of whom nearly one-half, or 19,528, are women. This is a noteworthy fact, very complimentary to the reputation of the stock as a secure investment.

One of the largest firms of cotton spinners at Bradford, England, is preparing to erect mills in the United States, to which they will transfer hundreds of looms, with their complement of combing, drawing and spinning machinery, the dismounting of which has already commenced.

It is a welcome announcement which the United States Secretary of Agriculture makes in his annual report, that "the physiologists of the bureau of plant industry have now developed a cheap and effective method of exterminating algae," which contaminates the water supply of so many cities. Extensive tests are be-

ABOUT FEAR.

Often Comes from Lack of Right Food.

Napoleon said that the best fed soldiers were his best soldiers, for fear and nervousness come quickly when the stomach is not nourished. Nervous fear is a sure sign that the body is not supplied with the right food.

A Connecticut lady says: "For many years I had been a sufferer from indigestion and heart trouble, and in almost constant fear of sudden death, the most acute suffering possible. Dieting brought on weakness, emaciation and nervous exhaustion, and I was a complete wreck physically and almost a wreck mentally.

"I tried many foods, but could not avoid the terrible nausea, followed by vomiting, that came after eating, until I tried Grape-Nuts. This food agreed with my palate and stomach from the start. This was about a year ago. Steadily and surely a change from sickness to health came until now I have no symptoms of dyspepsia, and can walk 10 miles a day without being greatly fatigued. I have not taken a drop of medicine since I began the use of Grape-Nuts, and people say I look many years younger than I really am.

"My poor old sick body has been made over, and I feel as though my head has been too. Life is worth living now, and I expect to enjoy it for many years to come if I can keep away from bad foods and have Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

ing made with extremely satisfactory results so far, and when they are ended the method will be disclosed.

The Secretary of Agriculture has approved plans for the construction at Washington of three laboratory buildings for the Department of Agriculture, at a maximum cost of $1,500,000. The actual operations will begin soon. These structures form part of the general scheme for ten new buildings for the department. Only the money for the three laboratory buildings thus far has been appropriated.

The greatest excitement exists over the new gold field in Apache Canyon in the Cibola mountains, east of Hillsboro, N. M. Within a week after the find 500 people were on the ground, and they are going in faster every day. Some Mexicans, guided by an old Mexican chart, have been prospecting the locality for some time, and struck what proved to be the bonanza. They secured a bottle of gold nuggets as the result of a few hours' work in cleaning bed rock and blowing the dirt away with their breath.

The awakening throughout the United States of a popular sentiment, which it is hoped will develop into a national demand for an arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain, was the object of a gathering one day last week at the residence of John W. Foster, formerly Secretary of State. It is understood the movement has the hearty approval of the President. Arrangements will be made for a meeting of the National Arbitration Committee at Washington on First month 12th, next.

On Sabbath, Eleventh month 15th, the Church News Association of New York took a census showing the attendance of men, women and children at all the churches on the upper section of Manhattan Island. The result indicates that about one-quarter of the population are to be found in the churches on the Sabbath. It was found that women were in a great majority among the attendants. In the Roman Catholic churches they were two-thirds of the whole; in the Protestant, 56.6 per cent. Women and children, together, made up 73.4 per cent. of the Roman Catholic attendance and 67 per cent. of the Protestant.

The peaceful settlement of the Acre dispute by Brazil and Bolivia is very creditable to both countries. Acre is an exceedingly valuable strip of territory because of its rubber trees, which are the richest in the world. Both powers had claims upon the district owing to uncertain boundaries, and nothing was easier than to fight for possession. The two governments, however, have compromised, Brazil taking the larger portion of the territory, but paying $10,000,000 to Bolivia, besides building a railroad in the region that will prove beneficial to the Bolivian people and granting to them free commercial access to the sea by way of the Amazon River. A peaceful settlement of such a controversy is a credit to all Latin America.

Before the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, at the Georgetown University, recently, Dr. J. H. Metzgerott said that in experimenting with radium he had discovered that the new element seemed to have a most beneficial effect on injuries to the flesh—wounds, burns, suppurations—and cancer. In a majority of the cases the effect was a complete cure, but the speaker observed that during the course of his experiments radium seemed to have a peculiar effect on other cases, and in some instances had failed to effect a cure. Owing to the inexplicable failure of the element in such cases, the speaker said, he was not able to lay down a rule that it would effect a cure in every case, nor was he able to state just what principle was the base of the element's operations.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

RESUMPTION OF SUNSET LIMITED SERVICE BETWEEN NEW YORK, PHILADELPHIA AND PACIFIC COAST.

Improved Service to Florida, Season 1903-1904, Via Southern Railway.

Commencing November 29th, the Washington and Southwestern Limited, composed of Pullman drawing-room, sleeping, observation-library, club and dining cars, operated daily between New York, Philadelphia and New Orleans, via the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Southern Railway, leaving Philadelphia at 6.50 p.m., in addition will carry a special Sunset Limited Annex Pullman drawing-room sleeping car to connect with the Sunset Limited, which will be operated daily this season between New Orleans, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The celebrated trans-continental service afforded by these luxurious trains, makes a trip to the Pacific Coast not only very quick, but most delightful; also on November 29th, additional and improved service to Florida will be established. On January 11th, Southern's Palm Limited, solid Pullman vestibuled train between New York, Philadelphia and St. Augustine, Fla., will be inaugurated. Commencing December 14th, special Pullman drawing-room sleeping cars will be operated between Washington and Pinehurst, N. C.

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., will take pleasure in furnishing all information.

Interesting Books for Friends

Roots of Christian Teaching

AS FOUND IN THE OLD TESTAMENT

By GEORGE AARON BARTON, A.M., PH.D., author of
"A Sketch of Semitic Origins," etc.

"It contains fifty-eight chapters stating briefly the Old Testament situation, character or idea, and showing what Christian truth it illustrates. The book begins with a few chapters on God, His Unity and Nature; a few more about Christ, the Holy Spirit, Man's Sins and Redemption; and then follows the body of the book covered by the characters of the Old Testament. So clearly and concisely is the book written that it contains much more than would seem to be possible in its number of pages. Its lessons are not forced, but stand, as its title suggests, rooted in the text."—The Biblical World, Chicago.

"The tone of the book will prove exceedingly helpful."—The Friend London.

"To the majority of young Christians, Dr. Barton brings timely and valuable aid."—The Christian Work and Evangelist, New York.

"The Old Testament loses none of its spiritual significance and force when treated in this manner."—The Church Standard, Philadelphia.

"The book is stimulating and helpful."—Epworth Herald.

12mo. 275 pages. Cloth, Gilt Top, Uncut Edges. Price, $1.25 postpaid.

Practical Christianity

By RUFUS M. JONES, LITT.D.

This is a selection of short, practical articles on important religious subjects. It deals with questions which every thinking man must meet in a practical way, and it contains a positive message for the times. In these fifty-three essays many of the most important phases of the spiritual life receive consideration, and the notes of hope, and victory, and faith in the overcoming life, are everywhere manifest. The book also contains a suggestive chapter on "The Message of Quakerism."

12mo. 208 pages. Oxford laid paper. Bound in silk cloth, gilt top. Price, $1.00 post-paid.

Quaker Poems

A collection of verses relating to the Society of Friends, gathered from all sources and edited with Introduction and Notes,

By CHARLES FRANCIS JENKINS.

About sixty poems on a great variety of subjects, from about fifty authors illustrative of the principles of the Society.

Nearly 300 pages, 12mo, well printed on good paper, with forty illustrations made expressly for this work. Neatly bound in cloth, gold side-lettering and design. Price, $1.50 post-paid.

THE "INTERNATIONAL" BIBLES

"INTERNATIONAL" Bibles have become the standard for Bible making. They represent the highest grade in best bindings, best paper, best printing, clearest type, and most convenient sizes. These are the lines in which perfection is found. You can to-day buy a better-made and more useful Bible, with more choice of styles, for half the money your father had to pay for as good a book, if you get the "INTERNATIONAL." Nearly 500 styles of Bibles and Testaments.

India Paper Reference Bibles

The thinnest large-and-clear-type Bibles made. With and without Helps. Serviceable, handsome and convenient.

Interleaved India Paper Bibles

With blank ruled leaf facing each printed leaf—for notes in ink. Large-and-clear type edition. Handsomely bound in flexible leather-lined seal, divinity circuit.

Fine Art Bibles

Printed on fine paper. Profusely illustrated with fine half-tone reproductions of great masters. Large and clear type. With and without Helps.

Sunday-School Scholars' Bible

Beautifully illustrated and elegantly bound, convenient in size. With Maps and Special Helps. An attractive Bible for young people.

Red Letter Testament

With words of Jesus printed in red; on extra thin Bible paper. Flexible bindings. Convenient in size.

Christian Workers' Testament

Indexed and marked on all subjects connected with the theme of salvation, to enable any person to turn rapidly to verses on these subjects, and give Bible readings at a moment's notice. All Bible workers want it.

SPECIAL BIBLES FOR TEACHERS AND WORKERS

Revised Bibles

Divided into verses. With references. With Helps and without Helps. Very convenient for responsive reading.

Teachers' Bibles

In Ruby, Emerald, Minion, Bourgeois, Long Primer and Pica types. Divinity circuit (with overlapping edges). Newest copyright Helps, Maps and Combination Concordance, prepared by eminent English and American scholars.

Self-Pronouncing Feature. The "International" Bibles have all difficult names divided into syllables and accented, making pronunciation easy.

The Largest and Most Complete Lines of Bibles and Testaments to select from. We also are the publishers of a large and varied line of Juvenile and Holiday Books. Send for catalogue of Bibles and books, showing styles and prices.

The John C. Winston Co., PUBLISHERS AND MANUFACTURERS 718-724 Arch St., Phila.

BOOK REVIEW.

"The Land of War, and Other Poems."
By W. Phillips Thompson. Headley
Brothers, London, 1903.

The translator of "Athalie" gives us a readable volume, in which a surprisingly varied assortment of characters, animal, and even vegetable, meet with adventures in which they find the fate they deserve. Cats, rats and mice; dogs, owls, quarrelsome persons; beavers, one of them love-smitten; robins, sparrows, an old springbok, a worm, ducks and geese; a snake, a foolish fellow; two grubs, wandering philosophically; a cocoanut, lonely and voluble; clubmoss reproved by a fairy; a haystack infatuated a pony. Who could make a story of a bee, and ass and a butterfly? The author gives us a good one.

The book takes its title from a narrative poem of thirty-four pages, but the short fables seem more congenial to the author's method of versification. Children will delight in them. The humorous poems, in the American vein, are also successful.

Quite apart, in careful blank verse, is a poem entitled, "A Scientific Religion," designed clearly with a difficult text.

Ella: "Bella told me that you told her that secret I told you not to tell her."

Stella: "She's a mean thing—I told her not to tell you I told her."

Ella: "Well, I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me—so don't tell her I did."
—"Brooklyn Life."

THE OLD CAMPER

has for forty-five years had one article in his supply—Borden's Eagle Brand Condensed Milk. It gives to soldiers, sailors, hunters, campers and miners a daily comfort, "like the old home." Delicious in coffee, tea and chocolate.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO
TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

INTERESTING BOOKS

SKETCHES FROM THE DARK CONTINENT

By WILLIS R. HOTCHKISS.

English Edition. Portrait and Nine Illustrations. Cloth. Postage Paid, $1.00.

LIGHT AND SHADE—FROM THE LAND OF THE MIDNIGHT SUN

By JOHN F. HANSON.

229 Pages, Cloth. Postage Paid, $1.25.

A CHINESE QUAKER.

By NELLIE B. EYSTER.

An account of a young Chinese boy becoming a Friend and now a Mandarin in China.

377 Pages, Cloth. Postage Paid, $1.60.

HISTORY OF THE ADULT SCHOOL MOVEMENT IN ENGLAND

By J. WILHELM ROWNTREE and HENRY BRYAN BINNS.

Designed to throw light upon a little understood, but deeply interesting phase of Religious Work.

Board Covers. Postage Paid, $1.00.

FOR SALE BY

FRIENDS' BOOK AND TRACT COMMITTEE 51 Fifth Avenue
NEW YORK

There never can be a loss in a Christian's life out of which a gain may not come, as a plant from a buried seed. There never can be a sorrow out of which a blessing may not be born. There never can be a discouragement which may not be made to yield some fruit of strength.—J. R. Miller, D.D.

Acker has them—your Christmas Groceries.

Penn's Treaty with the Indians

on India paper; engraving 23 inches by 18 inches, on sheets 30 inches by 24 inches; from the original Boydell engraved plate made in 1775 from the original painting of Benjamin West. $3.00 by mail.

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn St., Germantown, Phila., Pa.

OSTEOPATHY

EDWARD D. BURLIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Bell Telephone Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SON

Wall Paper and Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD

27 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

10 BEAUTIFUL PICTURES FREE

In order to introduce our QUAKER OINTMENT into every home where THE AMERICAN FRIEND is read, we have decided to make the following liberal offer. To every person sending us 25 cents for one box of QUAKER OINTMENT, and 4 cents extra to pay postage, we will send absolutely free the following 10 pictures. These pictures are gems of art. For picture study, art collections, gifts and home decoration, they are of great value. The Last Supper, Christ in Gethsemane, Christ Taken Captive, Christ Before Pilate, Christ Bearing the Cross, The Crucifixion, Entombment, In the Sepulchre, The Ascension, Transfiguration. It is costing us a great deal of money to advertise in this way, but we trust you will be pleased with our liberality, and will favor us with an order for a box of our ointment, and get these 10 beautiful pictures free. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best known remedy for catarrh, eczema, and all skin diseases. Rev. Asa Woodard, pastor Friends' Meeting at Butlerville, Ind., says: "I am using QUAKER OINTMENT, and find it an excellent remedy." Mrs. Clara Chaney, Rural Route No. 3, Warren, Ind., says: "I have never found anything as good as QUAKER OINTMENT for catarrh, sores and skin diseases." Send us your order to-day. Quaker Ointment sent to any address upon receipt of 25 cents.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.

Only those are crowned and sainted
Who with griefs have been acquainted.
—H. W. Longfellow.

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL

or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND
805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHER GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.
Telephones.

New Archdale St. James Place

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.

JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND PREMIUMS

A BOY'S RELIGION, FROM MEMORY

By RUFUS M. JONES

NO subject teems with greater interest, or is fraught with greater issues than the religious development of early childhood. It is the foundation work of character, yet it is little understood by parents and less by children. Here is a most helpful work for young and old alike. It is the simple narrative of the religious awakening in a young soul which strikes a responsive chord in every heart. The work is beautifully printed on deckle-edged paper, and bound in a striking and original design. It is handsomely furnished with illustrations of places and persons mentioned in the text. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Aunt Charlotte's Stories of Bible History

By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE

CONTAINS over 100 stories from the Holy Book, richly embellished with 19 full-page Color Plates and Photo-Engravings, together with nearly 100 other illustrations. Beginning with the dawn of creation, every important historical event in the Bible is brought out in the order of their happening, thus leading the little ones along the most pleasant ways from Genesis to Revelation.

This book will give the Bible a new charm for children, and they will read it with a new understanding. Price $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size 7½ x 10 inches. Handsomely bound in cloth. Printed in gold and many colors. 250 pages. Over 100 illustrations.

The New Child's Life of Christ

By HESBA STRETTON

CONTAINS choice Biblical Pictures from the world's leading artists, thirty-two of which are full-page illustrations. The book presents the Life of Jesus as it is understood by the most devout and careful students of His Life. The graphic descriptions and the accurate and beautiful illustrations take one into the very midst of the sacred scenes and subjects. This volume throws a flood of light on the sacred pages, and leads the tender reader to the foot of the cross. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size 7½ x 9½ inches. Rich cloth binding. Stamped in gold and colors. 250 pages. Profusely illustrated.

THE BARNARD EDITION

—OF—

The Pilgrim's Progress

By JOHN BUNYAN

PROBABLY no book, except the Bible, has been printed in such immense numbers, and has had so wide a circulation among readers of all ages. It should be in every home where children live. The Barnard Edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the only edition containing nearly sixty full-page pictures and fifty portrait and character illustrations, by Barnard and others; four full-page chromo-lithographs; the beautiful poem "The Little Pilgrim"; also, 388 Bible references, making in all 327 quarto pages, 8 x 10 inches, printed on double thick, extra quality, super-calendered paper. It is tastily and elegantly bound with extra silk cloth.

It is the cheapest finely illustrated book published. Price, $1.50.

THIS BOOK with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00
 (For The Pilgrim's Progress add 20 cents for postage.)

Any one of the above books sent on receipt of price.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking, or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion; it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or, rather, in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

The best evidence of a happy heart is in turning a happy face toward God.

GUILFORD COLLEGE

Location in the mild and healthful Piedmont Section of North Carolina.

Five Brick Buildings well equipped, supplied with abundance of pure water, and lighted with electricity.

Eleven Members of the Faculty. Good Library and Chemical and Biological Laboratories.

Next Term will begin on the 18th of January, 1904.

Catalogue Sent on Application

L. L. HOBBS, President

SCHOOLS IN CAPE MAY COLONY.

In a recent article by Andrew Murray for one of the Dutch papers in South Africa, he makes a plea for the education of the orphan children in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony. The closing paragraphs of his article regarding the value of such training as seen in the history of the Huguenot Seminary in Wellington, Cape Colony, will be of interest: "It is rather more than thirty years ago that the movement began to start Christian boarding schools in the Cape Colony. At the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first of these (the Huguenot Seminary), in the sermon preached on that occasion, I began by saying, 'I remember well how I was once led in the beginning of our work to speak on the words "the glory of this latter house shall be greater than the former." Under the impression of something that I had read about the influence which a Christian education can exert, I took the liberty of applying this word to the boarding school as compared with the Church. I have sometimes been surprised that I dared to do it, the boarding school seems so much less important than the Church. And yet I am more than ever convinced that half unknowingly I expressed a deep truth. When I think of the more than 1,600 pupils who have passed through our schools during the past twenty-five years, so many of whom found the Lord there, I ask myself the question, 'Have as many been converted here in the Church during these years?' I very much doubt it. When I think of the opportunity which godly teachers have used so faithfully in training young Christians day by day to regular Bible reading and prayer, to obedience and all godliness, and I ask whether I, as a minister of the Church, have been able to exercise the same influence, I am obliged to answer, 'Certainly not.' When I think of the hundreds of teachers who were trained there, and inspired with enthusiasm in their work for the souls of the young, to win them for the Lord, I ask myself whether in this, too, the Church has done what the school has, and my answer is once again, 'Certainly not.' In all these respects this word has proved true to a degree I had not expected, the glory of the second house, though it may seem less, shall be greater. I leave these thoughts with you to consider prayerfully, and then to ask the Lord, 'What wilt thou have me to do?'"

Lord, let me not be too content
With life in trifling service spent.

Make me aspire!

When days with petty cares are filled,
Let me with fleeting thoughts be thrilled
Of something higher!

Help me to long for mental grace,
To struggle with the commonplace
I daily find.

May little deeds not bring to fruit
A crop of little thought to suit
A shriveled mind.

—Selected.

Among the answers recently received to advertisement for a nurse to attend an "invalid gentleman" was one giving the usual particulars, and concluding: "I think I shall suit. My last patient is dead."—"London Globe."

If you have any trouble with lamps—any trouble whatever
—send for my Index.

I know of no lamp-disease that it does not cure immediately.

Costs nothing.

MACBETH, Pittsburgh.

Bacon: "When a fly gets on a man's bald head it seems to tickle the man."

Egbert: "Yes; and when a fly gets on the sticky fly paper it seems to tickle the man with the bald head also."—"Yonkers Statesman."

Stenography, Typewriting,
Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,
805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

Waists of Mohair and Flannel

One of these would make a very practical Christmas gift — inexpensive, too, though so stylish and warm and well made:

At $1.00 Waists of all-wool flannel, in black, red, navy, tan or gray; broad-stitched plaits to bust, full blouse below, French back.

At $1.75 Waists of flannel, in black, navy, red, green or gray; full blouse, with tucks front and back.

At $2.00 Waists of Mohair, in black or white; tucked yoke, full blouse, vertical tucks in back; lined throughout.

At $2.25 Waists of fine French flannel, in black, white, navy or green; full blouse, tucked front and back.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PHILADELPHIA

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota.

I place mortgages on land covering about one-third its value. The value of this land is constantly increasing.

I know every mortgagor personally, know his land, his integrity, his habits and his ability to pay.

These combine to make me certain that these mortgages are as safe as GOVERNMENT BONDS.

Investigate me. You can't make the investigation too rigid to suit me. I'll stand it. I've been in this business for 18 years, and never lost a cent for a customer, nor foreclosed a mortgage.

I collect the interest and principal without charge and remit in New York exchange. Write to me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON

Investment Banker

Lisbon

North Dakota

FREE HOMES IN CANADA

Friends desiring to locate in the wheat belt of the Canadian Northwest on free grant lands should communicate with Wm. I. Moore, 60 Bleecker Street, Toronto, Ont., with a view to joining the Friends' Colony.

See article in The American Friend of Tenth month 22, page 721, entitled "Canada Yearly Meeting and the Canadian Northwest."

6% Net First GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands. Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

6% NET Sound, conservative first mortgages on improved realty. We examine every security and know every borrower. We make our loans with our own money and turn them over complete. In 23 years we have learned how to select the best. No one now handling western mortgages has had more experience. We give you the benefit of that experience. The quality of the securities now on hand has never been surpassed. Highest references. Write for circulars and full information free.

PERKINS & COMPANY Lawrence, Kan.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY EXCURSION FARES VIA SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

On December 23d, 24th, 25th, 30th, 31st and January 1st, the Southern Railway will sell round-trip tickets from Washington, D. C., to points south and southwest at rate of one and one-third one way fares, plus twenty-five cents, final limit January 4th, 1904.

Tickets will be sold to students and teachers of schools and colleges at the above rate on December 16th to 22d, inclusive, with final limit January 8th, 1904, upon presentation of certificates signed by the superintendents, principals or presidents thereof.

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, will furnish all information.

In the highest civilization the book is still the highest delight.—Emerson.

6% to 7% Choice First Mortgage Loans, Seattle and vicinity. Local and N. Y. references. Established 1887. Correspondence Solicited.
JAMES BOTHWELL, Seattle, Washington.

INVESTORS, ATTENTION

The Rock County State Bank

Newport, Nebraska, offers small farm mortgages for sale; 6 per cent. interest payable semi-annually. We conduct a conservative banking business and offer no loans except the regular customers of our own bank. We personally know every man and his land and we make no loan that we are unwilling to carry ourselves.

7% Net TO LENDER.
FIRST MORTGAGES on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

Bulbs at Bargain Prices

SACRED LILIES. Extra large bulbs. 8c each. 3 for 20c.
NARCISSUS. Finest mixed. 20c per dozen. 2 dozen for 30c.
HYACINTHS. Any color, single or double. 25c. per dozen.
TULIPS. Finest varieties grown. 20c per dozen 2 dozen for 30c.
CROCUS. Fine mixed. 25c per 100.
IRIS. 5c per dozen.
FREESIAS. 10c per dozen.
CANDIDUM LILY. Extra fine. 10c each.

ALL BULBS SENT POSTPAID at above prices. Extras with every order.

AGENTS WANTED for a General Line of Nursery Stock. Write for terms

WANTED—A steady industrious boy who desires to learn gardening and nursery work. Give age, experience, references, etc.

T. C. FURNAS & CO.
Indianapolis, Ind.

"How savagely that cow looks at me," said the typewriter boarder from the city. "I reckon as heow it be on account uv that air red waist yew've got on, miss," answered the old farmer. "Dear me!" exclaimed the key-toying maid. "Of course it isn't quite up to date, but I had no idea a country cow would notice it."—Chicago Daily News.

Don't Be Too Late

How often does the examining doctor have to say to applicants for life insurance: "If you had applied a year ago you would have passed." Don't you be too late.

Shall we send you some literature?

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.
DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.
J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer
C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

We Should Like

to hear from any of our readers who may be considering the subject of advertising. It is not hard to demonstrate the value of space in THE AMERICAN FRIEND, and we are particularly desirous of having the advertising patronage of our own members. It is an excellent way to support the denominational paper, and we can present some facts which make it a strong business proposition. Write for rates and full information.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch Street,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.

LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community,—morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

WABAN SCHOOL, WABAN, MASS.

A Superior Preparatory School for Boys.

J. H. PILLSBURY, A. M., Principal.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

The Conard & Jones Company, Rose Growers.
West Grove, Pa. Catalog Free

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

SPECIAL OFFER.—To any one sending us 25c. and 20 names of heads of families, we will send one box Salve by return mail. UNCLE JERRY HUBBARD SALVE CO., Miami, Ind. Ter. Please mention this paper when writing.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

FROM SALOON TO PULPIT. 138 pages, illustrated. 12 cents postpaid. We have 10,000 fine books to give away. Address, Howard Book House, Elwood, Ind.

FRIENDS WISHING TO LOCATE in the great wheat, corn and alfalfa belt, of Oklahoma, should write us for information. Well-improved farms sell for from $25 to $50 per acre, and ranches from $5 to $10. This is a Friends' community, the land is rich, and opportunities are excellent. Congenial surroundings are assured, educational facilities are excellent, and in every particular the means for establishing a comfortable home are far above the average. References gladly given. Votaw & Setzer, Cherokee, Woods Co., Oklahoma.

THE PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION OF FRIENDS is in need of a man who can take charge of Cylinder and Job Presses, Folding Machines, Wire Stitcher, Gasoline Engine and such other machinery as is used in a first-class Printing Office. The man employed must be married, and a member of the Friends' Church, and come well recommended. Plainfield is only 14 miles from the State House at Indianapolis, and we are connected by trolley line and steam cars. The town is a beautiful and healthful village; the Friends have a large Meeting, Sabbath School and Christian Endeavor Society here, and the Western Yearly Meeting meets at this place every year. We have all the advantages of the city of Indianapolis, and half the expense of living in the city. I would be pleased to correspond with any one capable in this line and free for an engagement. Address P. W. RAIDABAUGH, Plainfield, Indiana.

WANTED.—A good man with some capital, in a new water-power flour mill. H. C. SMITH, Cottonwood Falls, Kans.

FRIENDS' LIBRARY.

142 North Sixteenth Street.

Open on week-days from 11.30 a.m. to 2 p.m., and from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Also on evenings in which Friends' Institute Lyceum meetings are held from 7 to 7.45 p.m.

Recent additions to the Library include the following:

Babcock, Bernie.—"An Uncrowned Queen, Frances E. Willard."

Marden, O. S.—"The Young Man Entering Business."

Matthews, William.—"Conquering Success."

Means, Stewart.—"St. Paul and the Ante-Nicene Church."

Morley, John.—"Life of William Ewart Gladstone" (3 vols.).

Peabody, F. G.—"Religion of an Educated Man."

Stevens, G. B.—"Messages of Paul."

Stevens, G. B.—"Messages of the Apostles."

Trevelyan, G. O.—"American Revolution," Part 2 (2 vols.).

Woodberry, G. E.—"Makers of Literature."

THE "DAVID HARUM" OF CONGRESS.

Speaker Cannon is the "David Harum" of the American House of Representatives. He knows the foibles and the weaknesses of human nature. He is "up to" the tricks of all the legislative horse-traders and appropriation log-rollers. He watches everybody else and is thorough master of himself. All that goes on about him is a game which he very well understands at every turn and play, but he doesn't preach or moralize about it, or imagine himself so much better than any one else. It amuses him, and he likes to see the wheels go round, but you may be sure he takes good care they do not go too fast or too slow. To act as a sort of governor upon the big, unwieldy machine of the House of Representatives is nothing new for "Uncle Joe." This has been his role for lo! these many years.—From "Speaker Cannon: A Character Sketch," by "Mentor," in the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" for Twelfth month.

"My word, Fitznoodle," said the War Office clerk to a colleague who sat at the next desk, "just look at that workman on the roof of that building over the way!"

"What's the matter with him?" inquired Fitz, glancing through the window at the individual indicated.

"Matter," retorted the other, "why, I've been watching the lazy beggar for the last twenty-five minutes, and he hasn't done a stroke of work all the time."

At the precise moment at which the above conversation occurred a British workman was addressing his "mate."

"Sy, Bill," he remarked in a tone of deep disgust, "d'ye see that 'ere loafin' War Offis clerk in that room down there? S'help me, if Hi ain't bin a-watchin' 'im fur nigh on arf a hower an' the bloomer's done nothin' but stare hout o' th' winder the 'ole blessed tyme. That's the sort o' chap as we pys taxes ter keep!"

—"London Express."

GIVE YOUR STOMACH

A NICE VACATION.

Don't Do it by Starving it Either—Let a Substitute Do the Work.

The old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," applies just as well to the stomach, one of the most important organs of the human system, as it does to the man himself.

If your stomach is worn out and rebels against being further taxed beyond its limit, the only sensible thing you can do is to give it a rest. Employ a substitute for a short time, and see if it will not more than repay you in results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a willing and most efficient substitute. They themselves digest every bit of food in the stomach in just the same way that the stomach itself would, were it well. They contain all the essential elements that the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach contain, and actually act just the same and do just the same work as the natural fluids would do, were the stomach well and sound. They therefore relieve the stomach, just as one workman relieves another, and permit it to rest and recuperate and regain its normal health and strength.

This "vacation" idea was suggested by the letter of a prominent lawyer in Chicago. Read what he says: "I was engaged in the most momentous undertaking of my life in bringing about the coalition of certain great interests that meant much to me as well as my clients. It was not the work of days, but of months. I was working night and day almost, when at a very critical time my stomach went clear back on me. The undue mental strain brought it about, and hurried up what would have happened later on.

"What I ate I had to literally force down and that was a source of misery, as I had a sour stomach much of the time. My head ached, I was sluggish and began to lose my ambition to carry out my undertaking. It looked pretty gloomy for me, and I confided my plight to one of my clients. He had been cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and at once went down to a drug store and brought a box up to the office.

"I had not taken a quarter of that box before I found that they would do all the work my stomach ever did; and as a rest or vacation was out of the question for me, I determined to give my stomach a vacation. I kept right on taking the tablets and braced up, and went ahead with my work with renewed vigor, ate just as much as I ever did, and carried out that undertaking to a successful issue. I feel that I have Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to thank for saving me the handsomest fee I ever received, as well as my reputation, and last, but not least, my stomach."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box.

Professor (discussing organic and inorganic kingdoms).—"Now, if I should shut my eyes—so—and drop my head—so—and remain perfectly still, you would say I was a clod. But I move, I leap. Then what do you call me?" Voice from the rear—"A clodhopper."

Good Cheer

Reigns in the Home
Protected by Life Insurance
in
THE PRUDENTIAL
Insurance Company of America

JOHN F. DRYDEN,
President.

Without committing myself to any action, I shall be glad to receive, free, particulars and rates of policies for $_____

Name _____ Age _____

Address _____

Occupation _____

SEND THIS COUPON. Dep. 67.

Home Office:
NEWARK, N. J.

It is not hard for the lips to speak when the heart gives the message.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SONGS OF PRAISE

By IRA D. SANKEY.

REGULAR EDITION
270 SONGS—100 NEW with the SELECT of the OLD. SEPARATE EDITION for Christian Endeavor Societies
Handsomely bound in silk finish cloths.
Each 25 cts. a copy, or $25.00 per 100.
Returnable sample sent on request.
THE BIGLOW & MAIN CO., New York & Chicago

Y. F. A. Building, 140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.

FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL
Phone Spruce 33-55. Clerk.

The minister called at a certain West Philadelphia home just after he had come to his new pastorate. The small boy was present long before his mother came down stairs to greet the domine. Trying to be cordial, the minister said: "How old are you, my little man?" "I'm five at home, six in school and three on the cars," was the delightful reply.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD'S WINTER EXCURSION ROUTE BOOK.

In pursuance of its annual custom, the Passenger Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just issued an attractive and comprehensive book descriptive of the leading winter resorts of the East and South, and giving the rates and various routes and combinations of routes of travel. Like all the publications of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, this "Winter Excursion Book" is a model of typographical and pictorial work. It is bound in a handsome and artistic cover in colors, and contains much valuable information for winter tourists and travelers in general. It can be had free of charge at the principal ticket offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, or will be sent post-paid upon application to George W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

FLORIDA AND SOUTHERN WINTER RESORTS are best reached via the through trains of the Seaboard Air Line Railway. Resort literature on Pinehurst, Camden, American Riviera and West Coast of Florida mailed on application to W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

SAVE 1/2 YOUR FUEL

or get all the heat you pay for. When you use a Rochester Radiator you do.

Rochester Radiator Co.,
77 Furnace St., Rochester, N. Y.

Fully Guaranteed.
EASY Write for booklet on heating houses.

JOSEPH G. FOGG UNDERTAKER AND EMBALMER

S. W. Cor. Sixteenth and Race Sts.

Phone Spruce 44-38-W. PHILADELPHIA.

Suburban orders promptly attended.

The Waste Basket is Waiting for the poorly printed booklets. If you want to keep yours out of it let us do your printing.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO.

Makers of the Better Kind of Printing
1019-21 Market Street Philadelphia

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.
Sifts the flour and mixes 20 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted.

Scientific Bread Mach. Co.
(CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.)
524 & Media Sts., Philadelphia

Substantial Presents

Chafing Dishes, $2.50 to $10.00

Fire Fenders, $2.00 to $15.00

Bellows, 50c. to $20.00

Candle Shades

Coffee Urns

Carpet Sweepers

Scrap Baskets

J. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET

BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

Earlham College Library

American Friend

Vol. X

TWELFTH MONTH 17, 1903

No. 51

	PAGE
POEM.—Christmas Morn	863
M. E. S. Charles.
EDITORIALS.—Bearing Witness to the Spirit.—H. Clay Trumbull.—The President's Message.—Editorial Note	863
HISTORICAL SKETCHES.—The Negro and the Quaker	865
Amelia Mott Gummere.
Christmas	867
A. J. S.
Should We Relegate Religious Instruc- tion in the College to the Christian Associations?	868
C. L. Michener.
THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON	870
Lesson for Twelfth month 27, 1903.
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR	870
Topic for Twelfth month 27, 1903.
CORRESPONDENCE	871
THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES,	871
DIED	872
EVENTS AND COMMENTS	873

TRUTH FINDS GRASS OUTSIDE THY Paddock.

*Pray God to keep thee from a narrow soul
And its dear mate, a controversial mind:
Of all the things that melt, subdue, console,
Lo, these have tossed the heart upon the wind:
They feed on husks, and go content and fed,
And gather dust to make the living bread.*

—FREDERICK LANGBRIDGE.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

The Most Welcome Christmas Presents ATTRACTIVE BOOKS

George Fox: An Autobiography. New Illustrated Edition, edited, with notes and an Introduction, by RUFUS M. JONES. Cloth, 2 volumes $4.00

The Quaker: A Study in Costume. By AMELIA M. GUMMERE. Beautifully Illustrated, $3.00

Sally Wister's Journal. Being a Quaker Maiden's Account of the Experiences with Officers of the Continental Army—1777-1778. Edited by ALBERT COOK MYERS. Profusely Illustrated $2.00
Gift Edition, three-quarters levant, . . . $4.00

In Quest of the Quaint. Charming Romances of the Quaint Corners of Canada. Written and illustrated by ELIZA B. CHASE, $1.50

A Boy's Religion, from Memory. By RUFUS M. JONES. An idyllic picture of a Quaker Home. Illustrated $.75

A Quaker Experiment in Government. (History of Quaker Government in Pennsylvania.) By ISAAC SHARPLESS, LL. D., President of Haverford College. Popular Edition, two volumes in one. Cloth $1.50

Haverford Edition. Profusely illustrated, two volumes, royal octavo, half morocco, gilt top, with special preface and additional chapter on Friends in Public Life since the Revolution $7.50

Ruskin's Sesame and Lilies. With an Introduction by W. HUDSON SHAW, M. A. Illustrated. Bound in sage green ooze sheep, silk lined, gilt top. A beautiful holiday gift $1.50

Penn's Greene Country Towne. Pen and Pencil Sketches of Early Philadelphia and its Prominent Characters. By REV. S. F. HOTCHKIN. Illustrated $1.00

Any of the above sent to any address, CARRIAGE PREPAID, on receipt of the price.

In No Other Way Will Your Money Buy
So Many Sumptuous Gifts as in Our

BOOK BARGAINS

For $3.00 We will send, carriage prepaid, to one or separate addresses, (your card enclosed if you wish)—

SALLY WISTER'S JOURNAL—Cloth.
A QUAKER EXPERIMENT IN GOVERNMENT
Popular Edition.
A BOY'S RELIGION.

For $8.00 We will send, carriage prepaid, to one or separate addresses, (your card enclosed if you wish)—

THE QUAKER.
SALLY WISTER'S JOURNAL—Gift Edition.
IN QUEST OF THE QUAIN.
PENN'S GREENE COUNTRY TOWNE.
A BOY'S RELIGION.

For $5.00 We will send, carriage prepaid, to one or separate addresses, (your card enclosed if you wish)—

THE QUAKER.
A QUAKER EXPERIMENT IN GOVERNMENT—
Popular Edition.
PENN'S GREENE COUNTRY TOWNE.
A BOY'S RELIGION.

For $10.00 We will send, carriage prepaid, to one or separate addresses, (your card enclosed if you wish)—

GEORGE FOX: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.
THE QUAKER.
SALLY WISTER'S JOURNAL—Gift Edition.
A QUAKER EXPERIMENT IN GOVERNMENT—
Popular Edition.
A BOY'S RELIGION.

For $7.00 We will send, carriage prepaid, to one or separate addresses, (your card enclosed if you wish)—

THE QUAKER.
SALLY WISTER'S JOURNAL—Cloth.
A QUAKER EXPERIMENT IN GOVERNMENT—
Popular Edition.
IN QUEST OF THE QUAIN.
A BOY'S RELIGION.

For $12.00 We will send, carriage prepaid, to one or separate addresses, (your card enclosed if you wish)—

HISTORY OF QUAKER GOVERNMENT IN PENNSYLVANIA—Haverford Edition.
GEORGE FOX: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.
SALLY WISTER'S JOURNAL—Cloth.
IN QUEST OF THE QUAIN.
PENN'S GREENE COUNTRY TOWNE.
A BOY'S RELIGION.

FERRIS & LEACH, Publishers,

29 - 31 North Seventh St., PHILADELPHIA

The American Friend

*"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."*

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, TWELFTH MONTH 17, 1903.

No. 51.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

CHRISTMAS MORN.

BY M. E. S. CHARLES.

My heart is glad this Christmas morn,
When chime of bells floats on the air,
And song of bird exultant swells,
And love is pulsing everywhere;
When underneath the snowdrift white
The violet and daffodil
Are sleeping through the long, dark night,
Unmindful of the storm wind's chill.

Within my heart a new hope springs,
A hope that life from death is born;
My soul is filled with rest and peace
Upon this happy Christmas morn.
Let joy-bells ring and praises rise;
My heart is glad this natal day,
For Christ was born on Christmas morn,
And Death hath lost his mighty sway.

Spiceland, Ind.

BEARING WITNESS TO THE SPIRIT.

IN a striking article in the current number of "The Atlantic Monthly," Theodore Munger has this to say of the Friends: "The Friends found peaceful lodging in Pennsylvania, where they multiplied—dividing at last into two bands—but they have nearly run their race, having borne clear witness to the eternal truth of the Spirit." This is one more prophecy, of which there have been many, that the work of Friends is well-nigh done. Such prophecies from thoughtful men are not to be treated lightly. It is always wise to take a solemn look at the situation when the doctors say that death is near.

In reply we can say, if we wish to, that there are more persons now enrolled in membership as Friends than in any other period in history. As far as numbers go there is no indication that the race is nearly run. Statistics do not furnish ground for the above prophecy. Is it possible that there are some other grounds which warrant such a prophecy? Let us look, for the doctors say that we are dying!

We are quite willing to accept Theodore Munger's statement of our mission, namely, to bear "clear witness to the eternal truth of the Spirit." It was for that purpose that we first organized as a branch of the Church—to bear clear witness to the eternal truth of the Spirit. Quakerism is an attempt, an experiment, to show that a body of Christians in this world can actually know the will of the Spirit, and can work that will out in deed and fact. The ultimate authority is the living Spirit of Christ manifesting Himself through the spiritual fellowship of believers. That is the central fact of Quakerism. Give that up and the race is run. No counting of numbers will save us, if we have stopped witnessing clearly to the eternal truth of the Spirit.

The Friend exists to bear witness to the truth that Christ lives now, and that to be a Christian is to be an organ, an instrument, for Him to work through. If we are giving that up, either in theory or in practice, then we are approaching the end of the race. There is no independent place for us among the innumerable sects, if we give up witnessing that the human spirit and the Divine Spirit have a meeting place in the soul of man, and that God is progressively opening His truth to those who are responsive to Him. There are dozens of denominations which are better equipped for preaching the Gospel than we are. There are plenty of churches now that treat the ordinances as of no special importance. One can be enrolled in them without partaking of baptism or the supper. There are many churches in which the Gospel of Peace gets as clear an expression as with us.

The one thing we are needed for is to bear clear witness to the truth that the direct operation of the Divine Spirit upon man's soul is an actual present fact. Are we bearing such clear witness? It must be confessed that the witness is none too clear. Imagine Theodore Munger going into a slowly-dying silent meeting and looking for convincing evidence that the Spirit of the living God is actually manifesting Himself to the world through that group of Christians. He would say, "No, I cannot change the sentence I have written." Then imagine him going to a meeting where all the exercises are moving along by a cut-and-dried scheme, everything studiously prepared and delivered to the congregation as though their sole business in a meeting was to listen well to what some one, selected for the purpose, told them. Would he not say again, "No, I cannot change my sentence"?

Our task, however, is not done. Our witnessing is still needed. Our knell has not rung. However much we may have missed the mark, a chance still remains. The question is not so easily answered whether we are to live or to die. If those who see what we ought to be doing would rise up and quit themselves like men the mission might even yet be fulfilled—we might yet bear a clear witness through this century to the eternal truth of the Spirit.

H. CLAY TRUMBULL.

"WE shall not soon see his like again," is the word on the lips of all who intimately knew H. Clay Trumbull. During the past twenty-five years, as editor of the "Sunday School Times," he has done more than any other single man to raise the standards of Bible study and to assist the Bible School teachers of this country. Broad-minded, welcoming new light, full of helpful suggestion, fertile in illustration, a passionate lover of the Bible, he has used all his rich resources in opening the Bible to his generation and in making its real messages stand forth. In the remarkable list of books which have come from his pen many are of permanent value and open for us what before were deep mysteries. "The Blood Covenant," "The Threshold Covenant," "The Salt Covenant," are books of this sort. Broken down in health, he went abroad for a rest and used this opportunity to discover and locate ancient Kadesh Barnea, and out of this visit came his great book on "Kadesh Barnea." One of the most beautiful of his many contributions is his book on "Friendship—the Master Passion." But it was neither as editor, nor as the writer of great books, that Clay Trumbull did his greatest work. He was one of the most remarkable instances in our time of the spirit-filled and spirit-led man. Nobody could be with him without feeling that he manifested Christ in an extraordinary degree. Those of us who as young men had the privilege of close friendship with him found in him a spiritual influence and power of a unique character. Few men in our day have so transformed the lives of young men. Christ was as real to him as to the disciples who walked with Him, and he made us feel at once that he knew Him. A person who could keep his doubts after a talk with Clay Trumbull was well-nigh hopeless, because his rich experience brought a perfect flood of light on every problem of the soul. We have personally never seen the true evangelical spirit more wonderfully exhibited than in him. He had a burning passion for Christ, and with it he had the same burning passion that others might find Him as he had done. That is the genuine evangelical spirit. His goodness, his bubbling humor, his optimism, his courage and faith, his power of love—all these great things can never be written about. Only those who knew them at first hand can wholly appreciate what they were. But those who did know realize that a great soul has gone away.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

THE President's annual message to Congress is an able document, dealing with a range of topics as wide as the world. We can touch upon only two or three subjects which involve important moral issues. The review of the arbitration of the boundary between Alaska and Canada is very clear and enlightening, and is followed by a passage which heartily endorses the method of peaceful settlement. Here are his words:

There seems good ground for the belief that there has been a real growth among the civilized nations of a sentiment which will permit a gradual substitution of other methods than the method of war in the settlement of disputes. It is not pretended that as yet we are near a position in which it will be possible wholly to prevent war, or that a just regard for national interest and honor will in all cases permit of the settlement of international disputes by arbitration; but by a mixture of prudence and firmness with wisdom we think it is possible to do away with much of the provocation and excuse for war, and at least in many cases to substitute some other and more rational method for the settlement of disputes.

The Hague Court offers so good an example of what can be done in the direction of such settlement that it should be encouraged in every way.

He calls for a thorough investigation of the frauds and bribery which have brought deep disgrace upon some departments of the government, and there can be no question that he abhors every sign of dishonesty in the administration of public affairs. He comments upon the fact that the civil service rules have been extended so that more positions than ever before are being filled on examination instead of on favoritism, and he expresses his hearty sympathy with this reform. In all this we rejoice. The treatment of the Indian situation is extremely meagre.

The really crucial problem of the message is the attitude to Colombia and the Panama revolution. This part of the message is decidedly open to criticism, as it does not fairly face the whole moral issue involved. It is openly manifest that we are treating a weak and helpless State as we would never think of treating a great power which could defend itself, and we are doing for personal gain what we would never do on purely impartial grounds. The old world powers have often had one code of "justice" for strong nations and another for weak ones. We are now following that indefensible policy.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

THE students of Bryn Mawr College have organized "a League for the Service of Christ," which is a strong forward step. We give an article from the constitution which has the right ring. It is as follows:

The purpose of every individual active member of this League shall be, (A) To declare her belief in Jesus Christ as God, and as only Saviour and Lord of her life, and to bring into personal relationship with Him as such the lives of others who do not so know Him.

(B) To invigorate the spiritual life of the League by learning to surrender the individual will to God the Father, and the individual life to the control of the Holy Spirit.

(C) To work for the extension of the kingdom of Christ throughout the whole world.

Historical Sketches.

THE NEGRO AND THE QUAKER.

BY AMELIA MOTT GUMMERE.

The negro question has been so prominently before the people of the United States of late, that one sometimes fears the fulfillment at no very distant day of recent predictions as to a race war. The negro did not come into the country of his own volition. He was brought here in captivity, and since the days of Las Casas, and the pioneers of America, he has been a slave. There is nothing whatever abnormal about the negro's increase in numbers since the Civil War and the abolition of slavery; and the fact that he is here in such numbers by the will of the white man, not his own, places a tremendous responsibility for his welfare, instruction and happiness upon the white man's shoulders, who has chosen to free this chattel, and to make of him a voting citizen, enjoying all the rights and privileges of the franchise.

The facts in the case regarding the negro must be studied. He has been differently treated by different bodies of men, and it may not be inappropriate to inquire as to the history of this question among the Quakers, whose philanthropic work has been so remarkable. The importance of their attitude upon the negro question will be found to be out of all proportion to their size as a society. The work of Elizabeth Fry in England started the first real efforts in the direction of prison reform in Great Britain. The question of the lawfulness of the institution of slavery was first raised in an English court in 1677, when the Africans were held to be slaves "by the custom of merchants and as being infidels." There were free negroes in Virginia as early as 1668,* and the Dutch employed slave labor in New Amsterdam as far back as 1628. As might have been expected of that kindly people, as well as of the Quakers, the position of the slave among the Dutch was not unpleasant. He was kindly treated and might work out his freedom. "He was a chattel, it is true, but he could still look forward to the hour when he too might become a free man." "The Documentary History of New York" gives in the census of 1698 two hundred and ninety-six slaves employed in King's County alone. They ought to have had a very happy time, for tradition has it that Dutch was spoken in the garden of Eden! Yet while they were most kind, the Dutch did not part so readily with valuable slaves as did the Quakers. The Dutchman is always unwilling to take leave of his property. Liberty, however, was assured to slave children at a certain age. In New Jersey, where much of the population was Dutch, traces were for long found of this Dutch spirit. Brissôt de Warville, in 1788, notes that the western part of New Jersey was disposed to free the slaves, while the eastern portion was opposed to the idea.

It is said that the project to restore the negroes to Africa was first proposed by the eminent Quaker physician to the Royal family. Dr. John Fothergill associated with Franklin in his efforts to avert the American Revolution. The idea was later taken up by Dr. Thornton. A Province Law of Massachusetts, in 1712, prohibited the importation of slaves into that colony, but did not prevent their being sold as merchandise to supply other States. An Epistle of Pennsylvania Friends, in 1714, says: "A law was passed in Pennsylvania laying a duty of £20 on every slave imported there." The law, passed Second mo., 1710-1, was not long after disannulled by the Queen. From the above it will be seen that Massachusetts was in advance of Pennsylvania in her legislative action against slavery, but not in advance of the Quaker.

There has never been a body of people more active in the cause of the negro than the Quakers. While others were ignorant of, or indifferent to, his condition, the Quakers were making early efforts for his improvement. So far back as 1671 George Fox, who was in Barbadoes, advised the slaveholders there to treat their slaves more kindly and to set them free as soon as possible. In 1675, William Edmundson, who had accompanied Fox, revisited Barbadoes alone, and once more reiterated the same advice. For this interference, as it was deemed, he was brought before the Governor upon a charge of inciting to insurrection. His remonstrance, written at that time and sent to the Quakers of Maryland and Virginia, "is one of the first emphatic and decided testimonies on record against negro slavery, as incompatible with Christianity, if one except the Papal bulls of Urban and Leo X."*

This was thirteen years before the German Quakers, or Mennonites, of Pennsylvania, in 1688 sent a memorial to the yearly meeting at Philadelphia, which declined giving judgment. That body, however, in 1696, advised "against bringing in any more negroes." In 1714 the same people sent an "epistle" to London, desiring "Friends to be less concerned in selling or buying slaves." The meeting at Chester, Pa., took higher ground, and pressed the yearly meeting at Philadelphia to act with more decision. Before the end of the century there was no meeting of the Quakers in the North which countenanced the traffic in slaves. It was in 1742 that John Woolman felt his scruple about drawing up a deed of sale for the negro woman before him. He never drew a paper in which human beings were disposed of as chattels, and from that time came upon him the sincere care for the welfare of the negro race which had such tremendous results. Through the Quakers came the abolition of the institution of slavery in England. Three Friends, in 1770, filed an affidavit in the King's Bench, that Charles Sommerset, a black man, who was in chains on board a ship, held as a slave, was unlawfully imprisoned, and based their claims upon the ground that slavery was not only inhuman, but unlawful. The proposition was carefully considered, and finally sustained, and the King's Bench liberated that slave, thereby abolishing slavery in Great Britain. More than fifty years afterward the same high court cited the Sommerset case, and declared the righteousness of the judgment.

* S. B. Weeks: "The Southern Quakers and Slavery," p. 205.

* Whittier: Introduction to "Journal of John Woolman."

Both Puritans and Quakers provided means of public worship for the negroes, and both occasionally admitted pious "blacks," as it became the fashion to call them, out of what was supposed to be consideration for their sensibilities, to actual church membership with themselves. Winthrop, Second month 13th, 1641, says in his Journal: "A negro maid to Mr. Stoughton of Dorchester being well approved by Divers years of experience for sound knowledge, and true godliness, was taken into the church and baptized." Early in the nineteenth century two negro men, named Richard Cooper and William Boen, who died at very advanced ages, were testified to as exemplary members of the Society of Friends, and the Friends of Mt. Holly, N. J., added of Boen, that "the deceased was one of those who had demonstrated the truth of that portion of Scripture that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation they that fear Him and work righteousness are accepted of Him." William Penn had "a great concern for the blacks." In 1698, at Philadelphia, was circulated a paper of Pentecost Teague's objecting to the selling of negroes "at the publick Markett Place or Out-cry," while those same negroes were remarkable for their devotion to their masters during the several yellow fever epidemics in that city. It appears that the negroes were largely exempt.

Much literature had been published by the Quakers upon the subject before the beginning of active anti-slavery work in the United States, and Judge Sewal, of Massachusetts, that fine old Puritan, had published an anti-slavery treatise called "Joseph Sold by His Brethren," almost a century before John Woolman began his work.

The first time that the institution of slavery is mentioned by the Quakers in the South, in their official capacity, is in Virginia, when the yearly meeting of 1722 asks, "Are all Friends clear of being concerned in the importation of slaves or purchasing them for sale; do they use those well they are possessed of, and do they endeavor to restrain from vice and to instruct them in the principles of the Christian religion?" Weeks * cites a curious instance in which the yearly meeting of North Carolina in 1808, practically became itself a slave-holder, in which a committee of seven Friends, acting as agents for the meeting received assignments of slaves from masters who wished to be rid of them. These agents had full power to hire out the negroes thus received, to take their wages, and to act also with discretionary power in regard to insubordinate negroes, who, if incorrigible, were "given up to a course of law," or subjected "by the most moderate means that will effectually reduce the object to industry for the benefit of himself or herself." This arrangement remained in force until the Civil War.

Fearing the instructed negro more than did the Quaker, who for years had been giving him all the teaching in his power, the North Carolina Legislature of 1835 disfranchised the free negro, and forbade him to preach or to teach. Slaves could only be taught figures, with a penalty for more of one to two hundred lashes if the teacher was white, and thirty-nine if a negro. Against this the Quakers fruitlessly protested. The first Manumission Society in the country was organized at Lost Creek Meeting House, Jefferson County, Tenn., Second month 25th, 1815, before the work of Benjamin Lundy or of William Lloyd Garrison. There were eight charter members of this society, probably all Quakers. The names of this remarkable eight, deserving of more fame than has ever fallen to their lot, are: Charles Osborn (founder), John Canaday, John Swain, John Underhill, Jesse Willis, David Mauleby, Elihu Swain and Thomas Morgan.

The abolition movement brought all philanthropic Quakers to the fore, in active sympathy with the leaders in the campaign; but as conservatism was too great to permit some of the sympathizers to break the bounds of convention and seek new remedies for a new problem, those names which are most before the reader of history as chief actors in the Abolition Society, from among the ranks of Quakerism, are the followers of Elias Hicks, who were more ready to make needed sacrifices in the cause. All philanthropic Quakers alike, however, aided the hunted negro in every possible way; and while less before the public by name, the Quakers of Philadelphia were actively employed in bestowing of their goods in every way to feed and help this dark brother.

So much for Quakerism and the negro. The entire history of their course for two hundred years, consistently held from the very beginning, would take a large volume to review. The literature extant upon the subject is salutary reading for to-day, particularly Woolman. The passage of the Fifteenth Amendment, of which we now hear so much, would itself not have been possible to the Quakers without more grave consideration than it received in the enthusiasm of the success of Northern arms. It was probably premature, in its present form, and its results place us to-day, nearly forty years after, in a position where we need a good deal of old-fashioned Quaker deliberation to cope with the situation. The inconsistencies of the question are many; one of them only is the fact that while Booker T. Washington is so wisely advising his race to learn the useful trades as their chief means of advancement, the Southern colored carpenter has all the employment he desires, while here in the North the feeling is so strong that he can not get the work he is fitted to do, even after the colored schools of industry have trained and fitted him, but he must be a porter, waiter or barber, and almost nothing else. Washington has no stronger supporters than the Quakers of Philadelphia. His course is the wise one, and that emphatically advised by the peaceable society which would at all hazards avoid so terrible a thing as a race war for these prosperous United States. The Quaker has his remedy for the present situation, and it is not one of lynching, crime or war.

* "Southern Quakers and Slavery," 224.

Haverford, Pa.

CHRISTMAS.

Forty or more years ago the Christmas season was usually passed very quietly in Friends' families, the New Year being more looked to as a time of festivity and exchange of gifts. At any rate, such were the conditions that in my boyhood came under my own observation and probably they to a great extent yet prevail.

However, the passing months have again brought us close to the season called Christmas. We all know what it means; almost every child who has reached the age of intelligence knows the event it commemorates, and probably all will admit that it is right it should be commemorated.

Webster defines commemorate as "To celebrate with honor and solemnity, by some act of respect or affection; to preserve the memory of a person or event." Probably the only difference of opinion among Christian people will be as to the manner of observance. This will vary according to training and environment; but taken all in all, if Christmas were taken out of our lives the brightest day of the year would be gone.

As the Israelites of old set up piles of stones and pillars, so that the generations as they came might be kept in remembrance of the wonderful events of their history, so does the recurring Christmas keep continually alive the wonderful incidents of the birth at Bethlehem, and continue down the ages the melody of the song first sung by the angel choir. Having in mind the event commemorated, Christmas should undoubtedly be a time of reverent rejoicing. We know that much enters into the observance of the day that cannot be approved, but the lesson is learned; Christ was born to-day; therefore we rejoice; therefore Christians gather in public assembly and worship Him; therefore we exchange gifts of love; therefore the family gathers around the home fireside for a season, and those who have enough and to spare remember the poor. The spirit of love is in the day, and the spirit of love is the spirit of Christ.

If this be the case among those who live in a Christian community, educated and intelligent, how much of added interest attaches to the observance among a heathen people to whom Christ is almost unknown. This can best be realized by those who have experienced it, and who know that while Christianity may be very imperfectly comprehended as a whole, the fact of Christmas, with its good cheer and friendliness for all, is something that can be understood and so become a powerful element of good.

It was my lot many years ago to be one of a number instrumental in establishing the observance of Christmas among the wild tribes of the Indian Territory, who have now become as accustomed to celebrate the day as their white neighbors; the same being true also of Thanksgiving day and the Fourth of July.

On one occasion that now comes to my mind, when we were nearly three hundred miles from a railroad, or any considerable town, and the usual requisites for a Christmas celebration hard to get, we determined to do our best, if possible, to make the day one to be remembered. Accordingly a hunting party of Indian pupils was sent out from the school then under my care, who in due time returned with enough deer, wild turkeys and geese to insure a bountiful dinner for all. The parents of pupils and many other Indians were invited guests, and all the white population of the community were on hand as willing helpers or spectators.

A suitable program for the day was carried out; a Christmas tree provided and presents for all the latter, largely through the aid of Philadelphia friends of the Indian Aid Association; Chinese lanterns and evergreen decorations contributed to the brightness of the scene, and happiness for the time was shared by all. Henceforth Christmas had to these heathen people a tangible meaning it never had before, and its recurring season became something to be looked forward to and talked about by a people into whose lives very little that was above the earth entered, and inasmuch as the spirit of Christ was manifested in the observance of the day would His birth, life and teaching become realities to those who before were in ignorance. Doubtless there are many among the readers of the FRIEND who this very year have helped to provide Christmas cheer for some who are beyond the pale of Christian communities, and who have derived real pleasure from their efforts in this direction. Think, then, of the pleasure to the distant teacher or missionary in being able thus to provide a Christmas for those in whom they are interested, and of the happiness and teaching that Christmas observance brings to those who see but dimly the light that shines so brightly to those whose lives have been lived in the full radiance of gospel light. It is not alone by teaching or preaching that the heathen are won to Christ's kingdom, but also by those deeds of kindness that show the whole world to be of kin.

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,

From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold:
"Peace to the earth, good will to men
From Heaven's all-gracious King";
The world in solemn stillness lay
To hear the angels sing.

For lo! the days are hastening on,
By prophet bards foretold,
When, with the ever-circling years,
Comes round the age of gold;
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendors fling,
And the whole world send back the song
Which now the angels sing. —Sears.
A. J. S.

Some Views on Present Topics.

SHOULD WE RELEGATE RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN THE COLLEGE TO THE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS ? *

BY C. L. MICHENER.

When my attention was first called to the question, "To what extent should we relegate religious instruction in the college to the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.?" I was unfavorably impressed with the precise form the question assumed, especially with the word relegate. I knew that "to relegate" meant "to send off or consign as to an obscure position," and that quite in keeping with its derivation, the Romans used it, meaning "to banish." But, after some investigation of present conditions in colleges and Christian Association work, I am now convinced that the question in the form stated puts before college authorities very aptly, it not happily, from its too great suggestiveness, a vital problem in the religious education of the present day.

In the arrangement of courses or groups of study certain subjects are worthy of a particular emphasis, and in these little or no election should be allowed. Certain courses in psychology, philosophy, ethics, and kindred subjects are eminently adapted to produce in the student that thoughtfulness of mind and that appreciation of moral and spiritual ideas, which constitute a bulwark of the soul through which a prevalent and gross materialism cannot make captive of the reason, and without which the student can never be considered as rightly and completely educated.

Again, emphasis might be placed upon the allowing of liberal electives, in fields now but little known to college courses. I refer particularly to modern movements not only of an economic and sociologic character, but also of great religious movements both of the past and the present. What history is more important than that of the Reformation? of the early Christian Church? of modern missions?

But the time allowed this paper permits of the discussion of but a single topic of this great subject. Accordingly I have selected what I consider the most important point as affecting religious education in the college—Bible study, in its broadest sense.

In the discussion of this question, whatever references are made to the work of the Christian Associations, and whatever conclusions may be reached concerning Bible study in the colleges, are not to be interpreted as in any sense unfavorable to the work of the Y. M. C. A. I thoroughly believe in every department of their work—a work which, geographically, financially and spiritually, is making rapid progress. The greatest encouragement is due them from the colleges and universities.

One among the important lessons they have emphasized both for the churches and the schools is the importance of Bible study on the part of men and women of all classes and professions—and that, too, without lessening the theological value of the Bible.

It is true that the earnest spirit of religious liberty which has so generally prevailed in this country, and the careful avoidance of everything bearing any trace of State control have in many instances hindered our public schools in affording religious instruction to the children. State universities, however, usually have no legal restraints in arranging elective courses in whatever subjects they desire, and private universities, and especially denominational colleges, have no valid excuse for not offering suitable courses in the English Bible, biblical literature and history, in New Testament Greek, in Hebrew and allied subjects.

But the argument is often advanced that volunteer work in the Bible is the best, and in fact that required work of this sort often develops a lack of interest if not actual disrespect for the subject. Does it not seem quite proper to relegate all this work to the Christian Associations where it will be the better provided for in their Bible study classes? Y. M. C. A. men in the colleges, in the supposed interest of Association work, have also sometimes raised the question whether the Scripture courses required in the colleges do not reduce the number taking volunteer study in Association classes. Let us see what the facts in the case are.

Two questions are to be settled: 1. What proportion of the men in the colleges are enlisted in Y. M. C. A. Bible study? 2. What bearing, if any, does required or elective Bible work in the college have upon the number pursuing Y. M. C. A. Bible study? First, let the Iowa colleges be tested. The reports in the Y. M. C. A. Year Book for 1902-3 from Iowa show for the colleges of the State, including the State schools, 32 per cent. of the men are Y. M. C. A. members, and 8 per cent. of the men are in Y. M. C. A. Bible classes.

The denominational schools, taken alone, report 38 per cent. of the men as Association members and 10 per cent. of the men in Y. M. C. A. Bible study. The State schools, taken by themselves, report 24 per cent. of Association members and 5 per cent. in their Bible classes. Or, summarizing the three, the reports show respectively one in twelve in the Iowa schools, one in ten in the denominational schools, and one in twenty in the State schools, reported as engaged in volunteer Bible study.

* A paper read before the Iowa Fellowship of the American Society of Religious Education.

To show that these figures do not do Iowa schools an injustice, I have calculated the similar percentages in two other ways: First, by taking the six largest of our great universities, outside of the State universities, and counting the number of men in them and the number reported in Y. M. C. A. Bible study, the result shows one man in twenty-five in the Bible study classes; and, second, by taking the twenty largest State universities in the United States, the record is a little better than for the private universities, viz.: one man in twenty-one in Y. M. C. A. Bible study. But this latter is misleading, unless a further explanation is made. One of these twenty is either phenomenal in Y. M. C. A. Bible study or the figures in its report need correction. According to the figures this one university (Illinois) furnishes more than one-third of the total for the twenty universities. Taking the average for the other nineteen universities, it shows that one man in twenty-nine is in Y. M. C. A. Bible study.

It is fair to say by way of explanation that in referring to members of Y. M. C. A. Bible study classes I have used in every case the number continuing two months or more, which in many instances is somewhat smaller than the parallel column which gives the number entering the classes. The method employed the one which gives the more exact statement of the real situation; since a man entering upon work which he does not continue for two months can hardly be said to be doing that work.

In considering the relations existing between Bible study in the colleges and in the Young Men's Christian Associations three tests were made:

1. A test in representatives colleges.
2. In Iowa colleges.
3. In State universities.

Had other lists been used it is likely that slightly different percentages would have resulted, yet the three tests that were employed certainly give results that would not be materially changed if other or larger lists had been used. Limited time for investigation forbade more extensive tests than those given.

In making test 1 catalogues from over forty different colleges, representing sixteen different States, were examined. Those chosen ranged from small, not the smallest, to rather large colleges, both denominational and non-sectarian—and with few exceptions were well-known colleges. In gathering Y. M. C. A. statistics from which percentages were reckoned, the authority is the Y. M. C. A. Year Book before mentioned. It is fair to say that in some instances very likely the reports in the year book are incomplete, but I see no reason for supposing that differences would fall on one side of the account rather than the other.

Of the catalogues examined 56 per cent. show required Bible study, 20 per cent. show Bible work offered as an elective and 24 per cent. offer no Bible study. In the colleges which require Bible study, 60 per cent. report Y. M. C. A. Bible study classes.

Of the colleges not offering Bible study, 35 per cent. report Y. M. C. A. Bible classes.

In test 2 the Iowa colleges were taken—eleven only of the sixteen recognized colleges are included, since the other catalogues were not at hand. Forty-six per cent. show required Bible work, 27 per cent. elective Bible study, and 27 per cent. show none offered. In test 2 I further found the percentages of men in the Y. M. C. A. Bible study classes to the men in the colleges, taking the three groups of Iowa colleges as before mentioned.

In the Iowa colleges which require Bible study an average of sixteen and one-half per cent. of all men in the colleges are in Y. M. C. A. Bible study classes. In the Iowa colleges which offer Bible work but do not require it, 7 per cent. of the men are in Y. M. C. A. Bible classes. In the Iowa colleges not offering Bible courses, 5 per cent. of the men are in Y. M. C. A. Bible study.

In test 3 eight of the State universities in the Central West were considered. Of these 50 per cent. offer elective courses in Biblical subjects and 50 per cent., as far as could be ascertained, offer nothing of this kind. Of those offering courses in Biblical subjects as electives an average of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the men in the university are reported in Y. M. C. A. Bible study. Of those universities which offer no work in Biblical subjects, 2 per cent. of the men enrolled are reported in Y. M. C. A. Bible study.

The particular significance of these figures results from this fact: they all point in the same direction. The more the college relegates its religious instruction the more the Y. M. C. A. does not take it up. Students in their sphere of voluntary study estimate values about as their faculties do in their official arrangement of courses of study. The figures show that where there is the most required Bible study there also the most volunteer work is done in the Bible. On the other hand, the conclusion is inevitably drawn that where college or university faculties see no sufficient reason for providing courses in Biblical literature, Biblical history, the English Bible, the Greek Testament, Hebrew or other subjects bearing upon the Bible, their students see no reason for bestirring themselves in Bible study as volunteer work.

The point then is not to relegate, but for the college to co-operate in the various religious movements of the present time. The college must recognize the importance of giving place in its curricula to subjects which bear the most important relations to the moral and spiritual life of the student—the Bible and those subjects which naturally cluster about it and the religion which it reveals. Each college must determine for itself what courses are to be required and what additional courses may be offered as electives; but for a denominational college to offer no Bible work seems to justify the saying of the late Dr. Gordon that "many Christians act like they are merely playing at religion."

Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa.

The International Lesson.

FOURTH QUARTER.

LESSON XIII.

TWELFTH MONTH 27, 1903.

REVIEW.

Read Psalm 103.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him.—Ps. 103: 17.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Twelfth mo. 21.—David brings up the ark. 2 Sam. 6: 1-12.

Third-day, Twelfth mo. 22.—David's confession. Psa. 51.

Fourth-day, Twelfth mo. 23.—Forgiveness. Psa. 32.

Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 24.—David's grief. 2 Sam. 18: 24-33.

Sixth-day, Twelfth mo. 25.—Trust in God. Psa. 23.

Seventh-day, Twelfth mo. 26.—David's charge. 1 Chron. 28: 1-10.

First-day, Twelfth mo. 27.—Solomon's choice. 1 Kings 3: 4-15.

The lessons of the quarter cover the history of the kingdom from the time which David brought the ark to Jerusalem (1004 B.C.) to the dedication of the Temple (965 B. C.). The lessons enforce the great teaching that faithfulness and obedience to the Lord bring happiness, prosperity, success, while disobedience brings sin, sorrow, failure. In the "bringing up of the ark" those that disobey suffer, while those who obey are rewarded. "God's Covenant with David" shows that the Lord honors those who trust in Him. "David's Confession" teaches that God's mercy is extended to all, and that He will create a clean heart in every one who honestly confesses his sin and longs for a pure heart. "David's Joy over Forgiveness" shows that those whom God forgives can rejoice, and that they are truly blessed. The sad incident of "David and Absalom" illustrates how sinful ambition leads to sin and crime. "David's Grief over Absalom" teaches that the results and effects are not restricted to the sinner, but often cause great sorrow and pain to others. The Twenty-third Psalm illustrates beautifully how the Lord will satisfy those who put their trust in Him. The lesson on the "Curse of Strong Drink," though written so long ago, enforces not only its special subject, but the truth that total abstinence is the only absolutely safe course. "David's Charge to Solomon" is another enforcement of the truth so often insisted upon, that obedience is better than sacrifice, and that God's blessing always follows obedience. "Solomon's Wise Choice" illustrates what is perhaps the greatest power we have—the power of choice. It is this which makes us free agents; it is this which enables us, though human beings, to become sons of God. "The Dedication of the Temple" is the culmination of David's wish and purpose though carried out by his son Solomon. To us God has offered the privilege of each one being a temple in which He can dwell through the Holy Spirit.

"O my God, grant me" (so they are taught to pray in some monasteries in France), "grant me that to-day I may be of some use to some one." If God, for our good, sees fit to deny us all else, may He, as His best gift of all, grant us this—to be of some real, of some deep use to our fellow-men, before we go hence and are no more seen.—Dean Farrar.

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR TWELFTH MONTH TWENTY-SEVENTH.

AN OPTIMISTS' MISSIONARY MEETING.

Isaiah 60: 1-5.

Second-day, Twelfth mo. 21.—A cleansing fountain. Zech. 13: 1, 2.

Third-day, Twelfth mo. 22.—The nations see light. Isa. 42: 6-9.

Fourth-day, Twelfth mo. 23.—They come to Christ. Isa. 49: 18-21.

Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 24.—Christ's kingdom enlarged. Ob. 18: 21.

Sixth-day, Twelfth mo. 25.—Christ drawing men. John 12: 20-24.

Seventh-day, Twelfth mo. 26.—The end of His kingdom. Rev. 21: 21-27.

Isaiah was not of that radical and unconvincing type of optimists who see only the good and are blind to all things else. He saw gross darkness, but he saw also a light that would prevail. It is easy to discover the wide prevalence of sin and folly, but the Christian optimist is none the less convinced that help is laid on One that is mighty, and that his Captain is invincible.

Faith lays hold of the word that declares these things, but outward proof is also given of widespread and continuing victory. Let us for this last Sabbath of the year consider the encouragements that come to us by the way, so that we may the more readily hold the exhortation which applies to every Christian soldier as truly as to the old Hebrew chieftain; "Be strong and very courageous."

For the work of our own Church, to seek no further, we may find in each of the last seven numbers of "The Friend" reports from our missionaries which we cannot read without feeling reassured that God is with them and is working through them to extend His kingdom.

In India during the last ten years, the Hindu community has decreased one-fourth of one per cent. The Mohammedan community, active in proselyting, has increased nine per cent., while the Christian community has increased fifty per cent.

A Korean missionary, speaking for a considerable portion of that peninsula, stated that twelve years ago there was not a Christian church in the whole region, where now there are between 65 and 70, with approximately 3,000 members.

In an Indian mission field of seventeen million people, there were 50 years ago fewer than 20 women who could read a line. Now there are scores of high schools and at least one college for women, while the university graduates women every year. One mission school alone has sent out more than 1,000 fairly-educated married women into every part of the province.

Within the Uganda British Protectorate, in which the first Christian baptism occurred 20 years ago, there are, by a recent census, 1,070 church buildings and an average Sabbath attendance of 52,471 persons.

More than 40 years ago a lady missionary found a baby girl in an old field near Shanghai, covered with smallpox, abandoned to die. She saved the child, who became and is to-day a most efficient Christian worker. The foundling's daughter married a young Korean, who himself became a Christian in a mission school, and was afterward appointed Vice-Minister of Education of Korea. These young people are now prominent members of official society at Seoul, and have always maintained a loyal testimony for Christ.

Christianity lifts men above caste distinctions. The orphaned son of an ignorant Chinese coolie was taken into a mission school, and was afterward graduated with honors from one of the best New York medical colleges. He now has charge of a government hospital in Shanghai, visits the royal palace and the homes of high officials, being honored by all classes, and is in the midst of it all a humble, devoted Christian.

The First Church, of Ahmednagar, India, has on its rolls 1,143 names, 569 being those of communicants. A Sabbath School of three sections has 1,139 members and a Christian Endeavor Society of nine sections has 679 members. This church pays all its bills and contributes for outside work.

During a period of 81 years, ending with 1894, five and a half million copies of Dr. Morrison's Chinese Testament were distributed, largely by giving. In eight years since that date, more than four and a half million copies and portions have been distributed, all but about 100,000 of which were sold.

Correspondence.

TO THE AMERICAN FRIEND:

Stella Quarterly Meeting was held at Liberty, Okla., from the 4th to the 6th instant. Benjamin Huchin, a minister from Indiana; Joseph Winslow, a Christian worker from Tonganoxie, Kansas, and Perry Hadley, a minister and evangelist of the Christian Endeavor Union of Kansas Yearly Meeting from North Branch, Kan., were present with minutes.

A committee was appointed by the meeting of ministry and oversight to examine the New Testament and the history of early Friends to see if instrumental music was sanctioned as a part of public worship and to report to next meeting.

A request came from Friends at Alva and Sunnyside Meetings for a monthly meeting to be established at Alva, Okla. A committee was appointed to visit the two meetings, and if they think best, to grant the request and open the monthly meeting on the fourth Seventh-day in the month. A subscription of over $200 was taken in the meeting to build a meeting house at Alva. Five hundred dollars or more had already been subscribed by the people of the town. Twelve or fifteen hundred dollars is the amount needed to build a suitable house. This leaves several hundred dollars yet to be raised, and contributions will be thankfully received. Such donations may be sent to Professor Henry Fellow or Professor John Jenkins, Alva, Okla. Eighteen names will be presented to Liberty Monthly Meeting this month for membership from Alva, and a few from Sunnyside, partly as the result of a series of meetings held at Alva by Leanna Hobson and at Sunnyside by Benjamin Huchin. Also several names will be presented to the same monthly meeting from Bethel, partly the result of a series of meetings held at Bethel by Fred T. Coppock.

The citizens of Cherokee, not satisfactorily meeting the conditions offered by Stella Quarterly Meeting last Third month, to move the Academy to Cherokee, the subject is dropped, and the Academy will remain where it now is.

A very satisfactory history and financial statement of the Academy was given to the meeting by the committee appointed some months ago for that purpose, showing the institution to be out of debt, with an enrollment of sixty-five pupils this term. The school is in the most prosperous condition that it has ever been.

All the sessions of the meeting were well attended. On First-day the house was crowded to overflowing, and the gospel was preached with convincing power by Professor John W. Costo, of Stella Academy; Perry Hadley and Benjamin Huchin. The meeting closed with the humble acknowledgment of God's blessing, to meet in Third month at Ringwood, Okla.

JOSIAH DILLON, Quarterly Meeting Superintendent.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

HARRIET GREEN MEMORIAL FUND.

The following subscriptions have been received by J. Ellwood Cox for the Harriet Green Memorial Fund:

Joseph Potts, Westminster, N. C.	$5.00
I. C. Blair, Raleigh, N. C.	5.00
W. H. Worth, Raleigh, N. C.	1.00
Grace M. Elliott, Carlisle, Ia.	1.00
S. H. Davis, High Point, N. C.	1.00
B. C. Jinnett, High Point, N. C.	1.00
Louis Reynolds, High Point, N. C.	1.00
Alice R. King, High Point, N. C.	2.00
Emma King, High Point, N. C.	1.00
A. Homer Ragan, Archdale, N. C.	2.00
Annie Ragan, Archdale, N. C.	.50
William Anderson, High Point, N. C.	.25
Ada Blair, High Point, N. C.	1.00
Martha Blair, High Point, N. C.	1.00
Emma Blair, High Point, N. C.	2.00
Nellie R. Jones, Shadeland, Ind.	1.00
James R. Jones, Shadeland, Ind.	5.00
E. D. Edgerton, Pinkney, N. C.	1.00
	$31.75

Amounts received by THE AMERICAN FRIEND since last report:

Elma M. Jones	$2.00
Joshua L. Bailly	100.00
S. B. Hoge	2.00
Oliver C. Gordon	200.00
Martha A. White	5.00
Moses C. Stevens	5.00
Sarah M. Stevens	5.00
Hannah Lewis Smith	5.00
R. P. Gifford	1.00
Hannah Pratt Jessup	2.00
Charles L. Jessup	2.00
Amos Stuart	50.00
On hand	10.00
Total	$389.00
Forwarded to J. Elwood Cox	300.00
Balance on hand	$89.00

Here is a letter well worth reading:

"To the Editor of THE AMERICAN FRIEND:

"I am a native of North Carolina, now in my 96th year, and thankful to my Heavenly Father for the possession of all my faculties, and that I was reared by Christian parents and received religious training and a fair education. I have ever held a deep interest in Guilford College, of which I was at one time a trustee, and which was attended by all my older children while it was still a boarding school, and in which my son Parker was for some time a teacher, and where he died in early manhood. I have been glad to see this boarding school advanced to the rank of college, and I enclose a draft for $50 to be added to the Harriet Green Fund for the further advance of education in my native State.

"We are constant readers of THE AMERICAN FRIEND, enjoying it greatly and being benefited by it.

"AMOS STUART."

Clara L. Graves, of Beloit, O., is now located in the meeting at North Ferrisburg, Vt.

Wesley Chalfant, assisted by his son, is engaged in a series of meetings at Westville, O.

The Westfield Friends' Meeting-house, which has been closed for five months for repairs, will be re-opened and dedicated on the 20th instant.

Eunice Mendenhall, a minister, formerly of Winchester, Ind., is now living at Richmond, Ind.

Luke Woodard preached at South Eighth Street Meeting, Richmond, Ind., on the 6th instant.

Benjamin Hutchin and Joseph Winslow are conducting a series of meetings at Liberty, near Keith, Okla.

J. Perry Hadley recently visited the meetings in Stella Quarterly Meeting, Oklahoma, in the interest of the Yearly Meeting Christian Endeavor Union.

President R. L. Kelly delivered the address on the occasion of the dedication of the Alexandria, Ind., Carnegie Public Library on the evening of the 3d instant.

Alice A. Mendenhall located in the meeting at Bloomingdale, Ind., the first of this month. Friends are much pleased to have her accept this service, since she seems to be very influential with the younger members.

Charles Stalker and wife attended Westfield Monthly Meeting, Indiana, on the 3d instant. Their services were much appreciated. Charles Stalker asks for his right of membership to be transferred to Columbus, O. He and his wife expect to start for India next Second month.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Bloomingdale, Ind., has one member, Elizabeth McCoy, who is 92 years old. The meetings are held regularly at the home of her daughter, Martha Hadley, that this aged Friend may be sure to be present. No other member is more interested.

Whitewater Quarterly Meeting was held at Richmond, Ind., on the 5th instant, and was largely attended. There were present fifteen ministers of the gospel, a number being from a distance. Luke Woodard, of Fountain City, Ind., delivered an earnest message in the power of the Spirit.

The sessions of Westfield Quarterly Mtg., Ind., which has just closed, were all well attended, and a spirit of harmony and love prevailed throughout. Thomas C. Brown, of Carmel; William P. Haworth, of Noblesville, and Cyrus Baldwin, of Wayne County, Ind., were acceptably in attendance.

E. Howard Brown, an evangelist, of New Sharon, Ia., is now working under the auspices of the yearly meeting's Peace Committee. He is visiting the different quarterly and monthly meetings throughout the yearly meeting. He is using four lines of argument in his presentation of the subject, that is, Biblical, historical, economical and scientific.

Danville Quarterly Meeting, Western Yearly Meeting, was held at Amo, Ind., the 4th to 6th instant. On First-day there was an unusually large attendance. President R. L. Kelly, of Earlham College, was present and preached on Seventh-day and First-day. He also lectured Seventh-day evening on "Graded Lessons in the Bible School."

Fred T. Coppock, of Des Moines, Ia., closed a twelve-days' meeting in the Bethel Meeting of Friends, near Keith, Okla., on the 30th ult. The gospel was forcibly presented, and many found peace. The evangelist was accompanied by his nephew, Stanley Coppock, who did valuable work in the meeting. Edna Hill, the local minister from the Liberty Friends' meeting, was present and sang the gospel with great power.

We have excellent accounts from J. J. Mills, who is spending the winter in Germany, in Berlin. He writes: "We are enjoying our residence in Berlin, even beyond our highest anticipations. I attend lectures at the university four days in each week, and have outside engagements which pretty closely occupy my time. It seems now as though the year which we have allowed ourselves on this side of the Atlantic will prove altogether too brief."

Thorntown Quarterly Meeting was held at Center, Ind., on the 26th to 28th ult. The meeting for ministry and oversight on Sixth-day was a favored time. The yearly meeting superintendent, Thomas C. Brown, also Clark Brown and all of the ministers belonging to the quarter, were present with helpful service. On Seventh-day morning, at half-past 9, the mission work was taken up. James R. Jones was the principal speaker. At 11 a.m. the quarterly meeting proper began. James R. and Carrie Reese Jones, J. F. and Emma Randolph and Charles Axton were used of the Lord to the edifying of the body. It was a time of unusual solemnity, as it was the last day meeting held in the old meeting house. The Endeavor Society met there in the evening. Sabbath morning was a time of unusual interest. The meeting convened at Darlington to dedicate the new $7,000 meeting house. A very large audience was present, and a very appropriate sermon was preached by Thomas C. Brown. Services were continued in the evening session.

Eastern Quarterly Meeting, subordinate to North Carolina Yearly Meeting, was held at Piney Woods, near Belvidere, Eleventh month 27th and 28th. A series of evening meetings began on Third-day preceding, conducted by David Sampson, Jeremiah Cox and Annie Worth, all of this State. These Friends, also Jabez Mendenhall, Priscilla B. Hackney and Lydia Blair, attended the quarterly meeting most acceptably, and their counsel was timely and edifying. Four of the visiting Friends were members of the yearly meeting's committee appointed to visit the meetings of this quarter on account of the division in Rich Square Monthly Meeting. The sessions of the quarterly meeting were held in much harmony. A few representatives were present from that Rich Square Monthly Meeting which remains in unity with North Carolina Yearly Meeting. That meeting is now small, owing to the withdrawal of a large portion of its members from North Carolina Yearly Meeting. The members who remain loyal are earnest and conscientious, and deserve much sympathy on account of the difficulties through which they are passing. An encouraging letter from Rufus P. King, addressed to our quarterly meeting, was read, and very much appreciated.

The North End Mission, Wichita, Kan., is located in a city of about 35,000 inhabitants. There are no church privileges within a distance of from one to three miles. Only three blocks away are two large packing houses, which employ about 600 men, most of whom have large families. Very few of these people make any profession of religion or possess a Bible. Within four blocks of the mission are eight places where drink is sold, and places of ill-repute abound. The Sabbath is not observed, and many children do not know what the day means in a Christian sense. Alvin George has taken charge of the mission work, and with the help of some of the Friends from the city has been conducting a vigorous evangelistic campaign the past few weeks. The meetings are increasing in interest and power. Invitations are being extended to all on the streets and in their homes by means of "dodgers." Fifty children besides adults attended Bible School 1st-day morning, the 5th instant. There are a few pressing needs which present themselves. First is a good supply of Bibles and small Testaments; also Friends' literature. Second, many need clothes. Children attend the Sabbath School whose feet are almost bare. Third, funds are needed for carrying on the work after this month. Alvin George, in writing about the work, says: "A little Catholic girl came to me one night after meeting and asked me to take five cents she had saved. She said she wanted to help what she could. She was poorly clad, and I think it was all she had in the world. Think of it! Where is the soul who would dare to do as much? She hath done what she could, and one who has not been taught about Jesus and the worth of immortal souls. All who wish to send contributions please send to the treasurer of the Mission Board, Ervin Stanly, 1826 Maple Avenue, Wichita, Kan."

DIED.

BOWERMAN.—At his home in Rollin, Lenawee County, Mich., Eighth month 2d, 1903, Willard B. Bowerman, eldest son of Benjamin and Polly Bowerman, aged 79 years. He was a life-long member of Friends, and showed his deep devotion and faith eloquently by his faithfulness to duty and his cheerfulness in suffering.

BRADSHAW.—At the home of her parents, Aidyl, Va., Eleventh month 30th, 1903, Anna Bernice Bradshaw, aged 23 years. She was a member of Black Creek Monthly Meeting, and was active in Bible School and Christian Endeavor Work.

BURGESS.—At North Branch, Kan., Eleventh month 10th, 1903, Eliza Ann, daughter of John and Ella Paxton and wife of Joseph Burgess, in her 63d year. She was a faithful member of Walnut Creek Monthly Meeting, Kan.

MILLS.—At her home in Plainfield, Ind., Ninth month 30th, 1903, Sallie A. Mills (née Hubbard), wife of Aaron Mills, at the age of 68 years. She was a Christian from childhood, faithful in church service and an earnest worker and officer of the W. C. T. U.

Events and Comments.

Herbert Spencer died at his home in Brighton, Eng., on the morning of the 8th instant.

The Empress Dowager of China has issued a decree ordering army reform, that is, uniformity of equipment and administration.

John Alexander Dowie is again in control of Zion City and all its industries. He succeeded in making satisfactory arrangements with all his creditors.

Under weather conditions which were regarded as perfect, the Langley airship or aeroplane was given a second trial one day last week, the result being the complete wreck of the flying machine.

The Standard and Producers' and Refiners' Oil Companies at Pittsburg, recently advanced the quotation of Pennsylvania oil three cents, bringing the price up to $1.90, the highest since 1895.

Speaker Cannon led the House to a decisive victory over the arbitrary Senate respecting the adjournment of the extra session. The House thereby asserted its power, and, under the present Speaker, it is likely to remain a force to be regarded with greater respect by the Senate.

ON FOOD.

The Right Foundation of Health.

Proper food is the foundation of health. People can eat improper food for a time, and not feel any ill results until there is a sudden collapse of the digestive organs, and then all kinds of trouble follow.

The proper way out of the difficulty is to shift to the pure, scientific food, Grape-Nuts, for it rebuilds from the foundation up. A New Hampshire woman says: "Last summer I was suddenly taken with indigestion and severe stomach trouble, and could not eat food without great pain; my stomach was so sore I could hardly move about. This kept up until I was so miserable life was not worth living.

"Then a friend finally, after much argument, induced me to try Grape-Nuts food, and quit my regular food. Although I had but little faith I commenced to use it, and great was my surprise to find that I could eat it without the usual pain and distress in my stomach. So I kept on using Grape-Nuts, and soon a marked improvement was shown, for my stomach was performing its regular work in a normal way without pain or distress.

"Very soon the yellow coating disappeared from my tongue, the dull heavy feeling in my head disappeared, and my mind felt light and clear; the languid, tired feeling left, and altogether I felt as if I had been rebuilt. Strength and weight came back rapidly, and I went back to my work with renewed ambition. To-day I am a new woman in mind as well as body and I owe it all to this natural food Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

It is expected that the free rural delivery service next year will cost about $14,000,000. No one pretends that it is anywhere near self-supporting, but no one pretends, either, that it has not come to stay.

Prominent officials say that China is concluding an agreement with Russia for the government of Manchuria. It is expected that the arrangement will include most of Russia's supplementary terms for the evacuation and will nominally confirm Chinese sovereignty, while giving Russia an advisory share in the government.

Emperor William made his first appearance in public since the operation on his throat, the 15th, at Hanover, where he reviewed the troops. The date of the emperor's departure for the South is now fixed, provisionally, for First month 5th. The slowness of the emperor's recovery appears to be due solely to his having been compelled by official work to overstrain his voice at the beginning of his illness.

A British military advance toward Thibet, and a naval demonstration in the Persian Gulf, accompanied by an important official statement concerning British paramountcy in that region by Lord Curzon, viceroy of India, involves a strong, if not aggressive, bearing. The affair in the Persian Gulf was the British answer, in behalf of India, to the Russian advance in Persia, while the expedition into Thibet is to offset Russia's designs at the Thibetan capital.

As a result of the mysterious disappearance of the young millionaire, Wentz, in Southwest Virginia, a bill has been introduced by a member of the Legislature of that State making the crime of kidnapping for a ransom punishable with death. The alternative, at the discretion of the jury, is confinement in the penitentiary for not less than eight nor more than eighteen years. Legislation of that sort may be expected now that the old-world bandit system has appeared in the United States.

The growing seriousness of the labor situation in the Colorado mining camps is forced upon the attention of the country by Governor Peabody's proclamation of martial law and suspension of the writ of habeas corpus in the Cripple Creek district. In going west the year's labor wars have not lost in acuteness or violence. Whatever happens out there, it is to be hoped that the State of Colorado will be able to control the situation without requiring the help of the Federal Government and the United States army.

There is one matter of particular interest touched on in the annual report of the controller of the currency. This is the recent astonishing growth of the banking power of the country. Taking national, State and private banks together, we have 18,230, with a combined capital of nearly $1,500,000,000 and deposits of $10,200,000,000. Twenty-one years ago there was in the country one bank for every 7,190 of population; now there is one for every 4,410 of population. Then banking capital amounted to $13.60 per inhabitant; now it is $18.30; then the deposits amounted to $54.30 per capita; now they are $126.90.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

It appears that too broad an interpretation has been given to the decision of the Supreme Court of Nebraska against the reading of the Bible in the public schools of the State. The mandamus of the court refers only to the one school in controversy, where it was shown to the satisfaction of the court that the teacher taught sectarian doctrine. The continued use of the Bible in other schools is not a defiance of the law. The State superintendent of public instruction has ruled that the mandamus is local and that all other schools, in accordance with the decision of the court, are permitted to use the Bible within the limits of the law.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN ROUTE

TO
TEXAS, MEXICO, AND CALIFORNIA.

Dining Cars Through Sleepers

Rates, information and pamphlets upon application

W. E. HOYT, G. E. P. A.,
335 Broadway, N. Y.

H. C. TOWNSEND, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Louis, Mo.

DIRECT LINE TO HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

Interesting Books for Friends

Roots of Christian Teaching

AS FOUND IN THE OLD TESTAMENT

By GEORGE AARON BARTON, A.M., PH.D., author of
"A Sketch of Semitic Origins," etc.

"It contains fifty-eight chapters stating briefly the Old Testament situation, character or idea, and showing what Christian truth it illustrates. The book begins with a few chapters on God, His Unity and Nature; a few more about Christ, the Holy Spirit, Man's Sins and Redemption; and then follows the body of the book covered by the characters of the Old Testament. So clearly and concisely is the book written that it contains much more than would seem to be possible in its number of pages. Its lessons are not forced, but stand, as its title suggests, rooted in the text."—The Biblical World, Chicago.

"The tone of the book will prove exceedingly helpful."—The Friend, London.

"To the majority of young Christians, Dr. Barton brings timely and valuable aid."—The Christian Work and Evangelist, New York.

"The Old Testament loses none of its spiritual significance and force when treated in this manner."—The Church Standard, Philadelphia.

"The book is stimulating and helpful."—Epworth Herald.

12mo. 275 pages. Cloth, Gilt Top, Uncut Edges. Price, $1.25 postpaid.

Practical Christianity

By RUFUS M. JONES, Litt.D.

This is a selection of short, practical articles on important religious subjects. It deals with questions which every thinking man must meet in a practical way, and it contains a positive message for the times. In these fifty-three essays many of the most important phases of the spiritual life receive consideration, and the notes of hope, and victory, and faith in the overcoming life, are everywhere manifest. The book also contains a suggestive chapter on "The Message of Quakerism."

12mo. 208 pages. Oxford laid paper. Bound in silk cloth, gilt top. Price, $1.00 post-paid.

Quaker Poems

A collection of verses relating to the Society of Friends, gathered from all sources and edited with Introduction and Notes,

By CHARLES FRANCIS JENKINS.

About sixty poems on a great variety of subjects, from about fifty authors illustrative of the principles of the Society.

Nearly 300 pages, 12mo, well printed on good paper, with forty illustrations made expressly for this work. Neatly bound in cloth, gold side-lettering and design. Price, $1.50 post-paid.

The Largest and Most Complete Lines of Bibles and Testaments to select from. We also are the publishers of a large and varied line of Juvenile and Holiday Books. Send for catalogue of Bibles and books, showing styles and prices.

The John C. Winston Co., PUBLISHERS AND MANUFACTURERS 718-724 Arch St., Phila.

6% to 7% Choice First Mortgage Loans, Seattle and vicinity. Local and N. Y. references. Established 1887. Correspondence Solicited. JAMES BOTHWELL, Seattle, Washington.

INVESTORS, ATTENTION

The Rock County State Bank

Newport, Nebraska, offers small farm mortgages for sale; 6 per cent. interest payable semi-annually. We conduct a conservative banking business and offer no loans except the regular customers of our own bank. We personally know every man and his land and we make no loan that we are unwilling to carry ourselves.

6% NET FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands.

Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

6% NET Sound, conservative first mortgages on improved realty. We examine every security and know every borrower. We make our loans with our own money and turn them over complete. In 28 years we have learned how to select the best. No one now handling western mortgages has had more experience. We give you the benefit of that experience. The quality of the securities now on hand has never been surpassed. Highest references. Write for circulars and full information free.

PERKINS & COMPANY Lawrence, Kan.

It seems to me we can never give up longing and wishing while we are thoroughly alive. There are certain things which we feel to be beautiful and good and we must hunger after them.—George Eliot.

THE MOST POPULAR IN USE
ESTERBROOK'S STEEL PENS.

150 STYLES TO SUIT ALL WRITERS. ALL STATIONERS HAVE THEM.
26 JOHN ST., NEW YORK—AND CAMDEN, N. J.

7% Net TO LENDER.

FIRST MORTGAGES on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 878). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treas-urer.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.
DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.
J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer
C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

There are glimpses of glory in Paradise,
But they are all not so bright
As our own dear earth will be, if we
Can open the reign of right;
If we, as brothers, will love each other,
And work as best we can,
In the glorious labor of lifting our neighbor
And helping our fellow man.
—J. A. Edgerton, in "Advocate of Peace."

TWICE WON.

Wife Fell in Love With Husband "All Over Again."

The wife of a well-known attorney-at-law of Seward, Neb., tells the tale worth reading: "My husband was a soldier in the Civil War, and was, as he called himself, 'an old coffee cooler,' and had always drank very strong coffee.

"About a year ago he complained of a feeling of faintness every time after climbing his office stairs, and was also troubled by terrible headaches that almost drove him wild.

"He gradually grew weaker and weaker until his affliction culminated in nervous collapse, and for weeks he seemed to be fading away from us in spite of all our efforts.

"The physicians pronounced him strong and well, with no organic trouble whatever, and there seemed to be nothing the matter except the complete giving out of his nervous system.

"The doctors decided that coffee was at the bottom of all his trouble, and ordered Postum Cereal in its place. He improved daily since he quit coffee and began drinking Postum, and now says he feels better than he has felt for 20 years, headaches are gone, no more fainting spells and is gaining in flesh every day, and he seems so much younger and heartier and happier than he has for years that I have fallen in love with him over again.

"Now for my brother's case; a few years ago he had a peculiar trouble. His tongue was swollen and sore at the roots and covered underneath with festers.

"He thought his affliction was of a cancerous nature, and his doctor was of the same opinion. He could scarcely eat anything and became so poor and run down he was simply a nervous wreck. He consulted various physicians, but none were able to diagnose his case or help him in the least.

"At last a doctor to whom he applied said he believed my brother was coffee poisoned and advised him to quit coffee and drink Postum. He gave him no medicine, but told him to give Postum fair trial and return to him in six weeks. My brother had used Postum only about ten days when the festers disappeared from his tongue, and at the end of two weeks the soreness and swelling were gone, and he began to pick up in flesh and spirits.

"He has never touched coffee since, but drinks Postum all the time, and has never had the slightest return of the trouble.

"To look at my experience, is it any wonder I can write a heartfelt testimonial for Postum?" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

WHERE THE SAVIOUR LEADETH ME.

When days are dark and dreary
And the light of hope is gone,
And my soul would fain grow weary
Ere the work of life be done,
Then speaks a voice to me,
"As thy day thy strength shall be."
And trusting, I will follow
Where the Saviour leadeth me.

When the way is filled with danger
And my heart grows faint with fear
I would wander forth a stranger,
His tender voice I hear,
"Come, put thy trust in Me;
I will be a shield to thee."
And, trusting, I will follow
Where the Saviour leadeth me.

When'er the sky is lowering,
And earth is filled with gloom;
And the mists of doubt o'erpowering
Hide all beyond the tomb,
Then the promise comes to me
Of pardon full and free,
And, trusting still, I follow
Where the Saviour leadeth me.

—M. V. Thomas.

Milesburg, Pa.

A SWINTON-DANA STORY.

The crux of the newspaper question was touched by a brilliant journalist, the late John Swinton, for many years managing editor of the "New York Sun," in a retort on his chief, Dana. "Swinton," said Dana, one day, "I need a first-class editorial writer. Have you one to recommend?"

"How much are you willing to pay?" asked Swinton. "For a first-class man $125 a week," was the reply. "But you cannot get a first-class man for that," protested Swinton. "Why not?" asked Dana. "That is what I pay you, and don't you consider yourself a first-class man?" "No, Dana," rejoined Swinton. "If I were a 'first-class man' I should be paying you $125 a week." That $125 a week practically marked the limit of Swinton's opportunity, as it may be said to mark the limit of the same quality of brains in journalism to-day—and also the limit of something far more vital, for the difference between a Dana and a Swinton defines status.—Arthur R. Kimball, in the "December Atlantic."

CONRAD WEISER AND THE INDIAN POLICY OF COLONIAL PENNSYLVANIA.

One of the most interesting characters in the history of Colonial Pennsylvania was Conrad Weiser. The story of his life and the important part which he played in moulding the history of his times is admirably told by Joseph S. Walton, in an octavo volume of 400 pages. There are numerous illustrations taken from rare and valuable old sketches and paintings. The book is a contribution of real worth to the history of Colonial times, and is the only connected narrative of the Pennsylvania Indian policy and the famous peace conference at Easton. The price of the book, attractively bound in cloth, is $2.50; by mail, $2.75. George W. Jacobs & Co., publishers, 1216 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES.

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and much had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets, and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly-concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, the excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease, as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

An Irishman and a Frenchman were parting at the steamer. The Irishman, standing on the wharf waving his hand to his friend, shouted, "O reservoir!" The Frenchman, politely saluting, replied, "Tanks!"—"Boston Christian Register."

THE AMERICAN FRIEND PREMIUMS

A BOY'S RELIGION, FROM MEMORY

By RUFUS M. JONES

NO subject teems with greater interest, or is fraught with greater issues than the religious development of early childhood. It is the foundation work of character, yet it is little understood by parents and less by children. Here is a most helpful work for young and old alike. It is the simple narrative of the religious awakening in a young soul which strikes a responsive chord in every heart. The work is beautifully printed on deckle-edged paper, and bound in a striking and original design. It is handsomely furnished with illustrations of places and persons mentioned in the text. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Aunt Charlotte's Stories of Bible History

By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE

CONTAINS over 100 stories from the Holy Book, richly embellished with 19 full-page Color Plates and Photo-Engravings, together with nearly 100 other illustrations. Beginning with the dawn of creation, every important historical event in the Bible is brought out in the order of their happening, thus leading the little ones along the most pleasant ways from Genesis to Revelation.

This book will give the Bible a new charm for children, and they will read it with a new understanding. Price $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size $7\frac{1}{4} \times 10$ inches. Handsomely bound in cloth. Printed in gold and many colors. 250 pages. Over 100 illustrations.

The New Child's Life of Christ

By HESBA STRETTON

CONTAINS choice Biblical Pictures from the world's leading artists, thirty-two of which are full-page illustrations. The book presents the Life of Jesus as it is understood by the most devout and careful students of His Life. The graphic descriptions and the accurate and beautiful illustrations take one into the very midst of the sacred scenes and subjects. This volume throws a flood of light on the sacred pages, and leads the tender reader to the foot of the cross. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size $7\frac{1}{4} \times 9\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Rich cloth binding. Stamped in gold and colors. 250 pages. Profusely illustrated.

THE BARNARD EDITION

—OF—

The Pilgrim's Progress

By JOHN BUNYAN

PROBABLY no book, except the Bible, has been printed in such immense numbers, and has had so wide a circulation among readers of all ages. It should be in every home where children live. The Barnard Edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the only edition containing nearly sixty full-page pictures and fifty portrait and character illustrations, by Barnard and others; four full-page chromo-lithographs; the beautiful poem "The Little Pilgrim"; also, 388 Bible references, making in all 327 quarto pages, 8 x 10 inches, printed on double thick, extra quality, super-calendered paper. It is tastily and elegantly bound with extra silk cloth.

It is the cheapest finely illustrated book published. Price, $1.50.

THIS BOOK with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

(For The Pilgrim's Progress add 20 cents for postage.)

Any one of the above books sent on receipt of price.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

WASHINGTON.

Holiday Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

December 28th has been selected as the date for the Personally-Conducted Holiday Tour of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Washington. This tour will cover a period of three days, affording ample time to visit all the principal points of interest at the National Capital, including the Congressional Library and the new Corcoran Art Gallery. Rate, covering railroad transportation for the round trip and hotel accommodations, $13.00 or $10.50 from Trenton, $11.50 or $9.00 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other points, according to hotel selected. Rates cover accommodations at hotel for two days. Special side trip to Mount Vernon.

All tickets good for ten days, with special hotel rates after expiration of hotel coupons.

For itineraries and full information apply to Ticket Agents, or address George W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

A well-known English surgeon was imparting some clinical instruction to a half dozen students who accompanied him on his rounds the other day. Pausing at the bedside of a doubtful case, he said:

"Now, gentlemen, do you think this is or is not a case for operation?"

One by one the students made their diagnosis, and all of them answered in the negative.

"Well, gentlemen, you are all wrong," said the wielder of the free and flashing scalpel, "and I shall operate to-morrow."

"No, you won't," said the patient, as he rose in his bed; "six to one is a good majority; gimme my clothes."—St. James's Gazette.

This notion of taking everything as God's gifts which so robs life of sorrow! It is the everlasting feeling of the fountain behind the stream.—Phillips Brooks.

"The permanence of any kingdom on earth depends on the place it gives to the kingdom of heaven."

Springfield Massachusetts Republican

The Independent New England Newspaper.

Established in 1821 by Samuel Bowles.

DAILY (Morning). SUNDAY. WEEKLY.

"The Republican" in its 80th year of service is a strong, clean, able, attractive newspaper, better equipped than ever to defend the public interests. Although it is especially devoted to the publication of the news of Western Massachusetts and New England, it is truly National in its spirit, its outlook, and its exposition of the great concerns of the American people.

THE WEEKLY REPUBLICAN is perhaps the best news, political and literary weekly combined in the country. It offers for a small sum the leading editorials, literary and other distinctive features of the Daily editions, together with a complete review of the week's principal news, all carefully edited and harmoniously arranged.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

DAILY, $8 a year, $2 a quarter, 70 cents a month, 3 cents a copy. SUNDAY, $2 a year, 50 cents a quarter, 5 cents a copy. WEEKLY, $1 a year, 25 cents a quarter, 10 cents a month, 3 cents a copy. Specimen copies of either Edition sent free on application. "The Weekly Republican" will be sent free for one month to anyone who wishes to try it. All subscriptions are payable in advance. Address

THE REPUBLICAN, Springfield, Mass.

A Book of Real Worth

CONRAD WEISER

AND THE INDIAN POLICY OF COLONIAL PENNSYLVANIA

By JOSEPH S. WALTON, Ph.D. 8vo. Cloth. With numerous full-page illustrations. Price, $2.50, net; by mail, $2.75.

The only connected history of the Pennsylvania Indian Policy and the famous Peace Conference at Easton

The author has been signally successful in reviving interest this sturdy, honest, strong-willed man of frontier diplomacy. The volume is a valuable contribution to the early history of our State.—The Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The volume is a classic, and I am sure it will have, as it deserves, a wide reading.—Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh.

FOR SALE BY ALL BOOKSELLERS OR BY THE PUBLISHERS

GEORGE W. JACOBS & CO.

1216 Walnut Street

Philadelphia, Pa.

But when we go back in simple faith to the one great fact of our redemption, we shall be both brought into closer fellowship with each other, and stimulated to more tender regard for the salvation of men.—Wm. M. Taylor.

Acker has them—and they're always fresh.

The

New Century

TYPEWRITER

does the BEST WORK and lots of it, EASILY.

Strong, Thoroughly Built,
Superior in results to any other.

Write for

"THE BOOK OF THE NEW CENTURY."

AMERICAN WRITING MACHINE COMPANY,
1033 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

SEABOARD TOURIST TICKETS
SOUTH.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is the quickest and shortest route to all Florida and Southern winter resorts. For descriptive booklet, excursion rates and general information, address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Penn's Treaty with the Indians

on India paper; engraving 23 inches by 18 inches, on sheets 30 inches by 24 inches; from the original Boydell engraved plate made in 1775 from the original painting of Benjamin West. $3.00 by mail.

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn St., Germantown, Phila., Pa.

OSTEOPATHY

EDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Bell Telephone Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SON

Wall Paper and Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

602 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD

27 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

"SUPPOSE I DIE"

We have helped the people to answer that question for half a century or more; to make provision for their survivors. We do more; we assist men in making provision for their old age, when the money-producing power is waning. Get our free booklet, "The How and the Why." It brushes cobwebs from the brain

PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.,
921-3-5 Chestnut Street,
Philadelphia.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

The Conard & Jones Company, Rose Growers.
West Grove, Pa. Catalog Free

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

THE PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION OF FRIENDS is in need of a man who can take charge of Cylinder and Job Presses, Folding Machines, Wire Stitcher, Gasoline Engine and such other machinery as is used in a first-class Printing Office. The man employed must be married, and a member of the Friends' Church, and come well recommended. Plainfield is only 14 miles from the State House at Indianapolis, and we are connected by trolley line and steam cars. The town is a beautiful and healthful village; the Friends have a large Meeting, Sabbath School and Christian Endeavor Society here, and the Western Yearly Meeting meets at this place every year. We have all the advantages of the city of Indianapolis, and half the expense of living in the city. I would be pleased to correspond with any one capable in this line and free for an engagement. Address P. W. RAIDBAUGH, Plainfield, Indiana.

WANTED.—A position, by a young lady Friend, as companion. Willing to sew or assist in care of invalid. Moderate salary. Good references. S., THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 Arch Street, Phila.

LIVES OF THE TWELVE APOSTLES.—618 big pages; 318 illustrations; Best paper, print and cloth. 75 cents, postpaid. Catalogue free. Howard Book House, Elwood, Indiana.

WANTED.—A good man with some capital, in a new water-power flour mill. H. C. SMITH, Cottonwood Falls, Kans.

OKLAHOMA LAND

FRIENDS WISHING TO LOCATE in the great wheat, corn and alfalfa belt, of Oklahoma, should write us for information. Well-improved farms sell for from $25 to $50 per acre, and ranches from $5 to $10. This is a Friends' community, the land is rich, and opportunities are excellent. Congenial surroundings are assured, educational facilities are excellent, and in every particular the means for establishing a comfortable home are far above the average. References gladly given. Votaw & Setzer, Cherokee, Woods Co., Oklahoma.

"The world wants men who are willing to live for it, as well as those who wish they might die for it."

Fur Sets

And it need not be a very expensive Set, either, to make it acceptable. We are showing a fine assortment of popular-priced Furs—now at its best, so that it is advisable to make selections as early as possible. It would not be easy to match these values:

Brook Mink Scarfs—extra size; gracefully shaped and a good color; trimmed with six fluffy fox tails—$6.00. Muffs to match—$4.00.

Canadian Wolf Scarfs—soft and silky; broad in back, the long ends trimmed with tails—$10.00. Large Pillow Muffs to match—$15.00.

Sable Fox Scarfs—made from two choice skins, in a rich shade of sable brown; finished on ends with brush tails—$12.00. Pillow Muff to match—$12.00; large Round Muffs to match—$10.00.

Genuine Marten Scarfs—natural skins; a straight model, with four tails—$12.00. Round Muff to match, good lining and down bed—$8.50.

Tie Scarfs of Natural Mink—straight band around neck, broad ends trimmed with chenille—$13.50. Round Muffs to match—$10.00.

Sable Fox Stoles—long and elegant; sable brown, with darker stripe through centre; trimmed with brush tails—$25.00. Pillow Muffs to match—$16.50.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PHILADELPHIA

It is not by Thanksgiving proclamations or savory repasts that God is honored; but by suitable acknowledgement of all his benefits.

Stenography, Typewriting,
Mimeographing and Reporting
LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.
Sifts the flour and mixes 20 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted.
Scientific Bread Mach. Co.
(CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.)
524 & Media Sts., Philadelphia

EMINENT PHYSICIANS
throughout the world recommend

QUINA-LAROCHE

AS A SPECIFIC IN CASES OF
ANAEMIA, COLDS, LA GRIPPE,
SLOW CONVALESCENCE,
STOMACH TROUBLES,
TYPHOID and MALARIAL
FEVERS.

E. Fougere & Co., 30 N. William St., N. Y.

Y. F. A. Building,

140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.

FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL
Phone Spruce 33-55. Clerk.

Substantial Presents

Chafing Dishes, $2.50 to $10.00

Fire Fenders, $2.00 to $15.00

Bellows, 50c. to $20.00

Candle Shades

Coffee Urns

Carpet Sweepers

Scrap Baskets

J. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET

Bargain Counter Printing

You cannot afford. A man is known by the stationery he uses.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO.

Makers of the Better Kind of Printing
1019-21 Market Street Philadelphia

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET

BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH
29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL
Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and
MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

When I go down to the grave, I can say, like so many others, "I have finished my day's work," but I cannot say, "I have finished my life." . . . My work will begin again next morning.—Victor Hugo.

EDUCATIONAL.

GUILFORD COLLEGE

Location in the mild and healthful Piedmont Section of North Carolina.

Five Brick Buildings well equipped, supplied with abundance of pure water, and lighted with electricity.

Eleven Members of the Faculty. Good Library and Chemical and Biological Laboratories.

Next Term will begin on the 18th of January, 1904.

Catalogue Sent on Application

L. L. HOBBS, President

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.

LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

WABAN SCHOOL, WABAN, MASS.

A Superior Preparatory School for Boys.

J. H. PILLSBURY, A. M., Principal.

FRIENDS' HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

President :

THOMAS HODGKIN, D.C.L., Litt.D.

OBJECT: To encourage historical study and to publish historical matter.

Subscribers of $1.25 and upwards will receive a copy of "The Journal," as published, free, and any Supplements issued, at cost price. Rufus M. Jones will act as American Agent of the Society, and Friends who wish to become members are requested to send their subscriptions to him.

Address 718 ARCH STREET,
PHILADELPHIA

REDUCED RATES TO NEW ORLEANS AND RETURN VIA PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

On account of the meetings of the American Economic Society and the American Historical Society, at New Orleans, La., December 28th to January 1st, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell round-trip tickets to New Orleans and return from all stations on its lines, December 24th, 25th and 26th, good for return passage until January 5th, inclusive, at reduced rates. For specific information consult Ticket Agents.

Bulbs at Bargain Prices

SACRED LILIES. Extra large bulbs. 8c each. 3 for 20c.

NARCISSUS. Finest mixed. 20c per dozen. 2 dozen for 30c.

HYACINTHS. Any color, single or double. 25c. per dozen.

TULIPS. Finest varieties grown. 20c per dozen. 2 dozen for 30c.

CROCUS. Fine mixed. 25c per 100.

IRIS. 5c per dozen.

FREESIAS. 10c per dozen.

CANDIDUM LILY. Extra fine. 10c each.

ALL BULBS SENT POSTPAID at above prices. Extras with every order.

Send for our Bargain List of bulbs and plants. New varieties of bulbs and plants at low prices.

NORTHERN GRAIN SEED POTATOES OUR SPECIALTY
Send list of Nursery Stock, etc., wanted for special prices.

AGENTS WANTED for a General Line of Nursery Stock. Write for terms

WANTED—A steady industrious boy who desires to learn gardening and nursery work. Give age, experience, references, etc.

T. C. FURNAS & CO.
Indianapolis, Ind.

PITTSBURGH BANK SAVINGS
ESTD. 1862

Safe Bind Safe Find

Your money deposited with this bank is absolutely safe, does not fluctuate in value and earns Four per cent. Compound Interest.

Deposits of $1.00 up received in person or by mail. Write for explanatory Booklet 42

Assets $14,000,000.00

517 MARKET ST. PHILADELPHIA, PA.

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL

or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND
805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.
Telephones.

New Archdale

St. James Place
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.

JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota

THEY are the best, gilt-edged, rock-ribbed, guaranteed 6% investment in America. Safe as government bonds and pay better.

I have been selling these mortgages for 18 years, and have never had to foreclose, and never lost a cent of principal or interest for a single customer.

I personally know every farm covered by the mortgages, as well as the farmers giving them. I know them both to be right, or I have nothing to do with them. Their land is increasing in value every day, thus increasing the value of the security.

I collect both the interest and principal free, and remit in New York exchange, without the least trouble or bother of the customer.

I will be pleased to put you in the way of finding out all about me. Write me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON
Investment Banker

LISBON, NORTH DAKOTA

The American Friend Premiums

"GEORGE FOX REFUSING THE OATH at HOLKER HALL"
Detail from the Painting by J. Pettie, R. A.

GEORGE FOX

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

A Story of His Life, and

A Statement of His Message

By

RUFUS M. JONES

THE religious message of George Fox is especially suited to the present age. It is a revelation of the inner personal spiritual life. In "Fox's Journal" this message is obscured by irrelevant detail which, in the present work, is set aside by concise explanatory notes, while the pure original message is culled out, logically arranged, and set forth in a clear and modern style. The force of the message is emphasized by the editor's introduction, which epitomizes and interprets the complicated religious situation which fostered the rise of Quakerism. The work will greatly aid in understanding the principles of Friends, and is invaluable to all classes, especially to the young and new members.

Moreover, the work is "An Autobiography," full of dramatic episodes. The narrative is fascinating and throws a flood of light upon English history during the seventeenth century, and also upon early Colonial life in America. The incidents are carefully selected and arranged with sufficient explanatory matter to enable the reader to gain a comprehensive view of the situations.

There are four distinguishing characteristics which mark the utility and beauty of the work :

FIRST—Twenty-four full-page illustrations, which include all the authentic as well as the best imaginative portraits of Fox, together with a number of familiar scenes and places.

SECOND—Two convenient double-page maps, one showing the outline of Fox's Travels in England, the other his travels in America.

THIRD—A scholarly and comprehensive introduction, and numerous explanatory notes; and

FOURTH—A careful editing of the original matter from George Fox.

Two Volumes, 600 Pages, Extra Cloth, Gilt Top, Postpaid, $4.00

THIS WORK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $4.00

THIS WORK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $4.50

A POPULAR EDITION
of

GEORGE FOX, An Autobiography

Is being prepared. It contains the text of the above described work unabridged. The whole is bound in one volume with neat cloth covers. It will be ready for delivery shortly after the first of the new year. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $2.00

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.50

LANCASTER CASTLE

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The American Friend

Vol. X

TWELFTH MONTH 24, 1903

EARLHAM COLLEGE
LIBRARY No. 52

	PAGE
EDITORIALS.—The Miracle of the Ages. —The York Conference on Ministry. —Editorial Notes	883
In the Kaiser's Capital J. J. Mills.	885
A New Spiritual Impulse F. E. Marble.	887
THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON Lesson for First month 3, 1904.	888
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR Topic for First month 3, 1904.	889
MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT: The Africa Industrial Mission . . . Edgar T. Hole. Santa Claus Expresses His Opinion,	890
CORRESPONDENCE	891
THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES,	891
BORN.—DIED	892
EVENTS AND COMMENTS	893

LIGHTEN THOU MINE EYES.

*When the drowsy wings of Death
Rustle at my chamber-door;
When the Spirit, which is Breath,
Breathes upon me evermore;*

*When the tarrying Soul delays
In its stricken house below,
Lord, through Thy lofty ways,
Whither shall my spirit go?*

*Lighten Thou mine eyes lest they,
Knowing that which is not Thee,
Lead the wayward Soul astray, Hopeless through Eternity.*

—FRED G. BOWLES.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

The Conard & Jones Company, Rose Growers.
West Grove, Pa. Catalog Free.

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

THE PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION OF FRIENDS is in need of a man who can take charge of Cylinder and Job Presses, Folding Machines, Wire Stitcher, Gasoline Engine and such other machinery as is used in a first-class Printing Office. The man employed must be married, and a member of the Friends' Church, and come well recommended. Plainfield is only 14 miles from the State House at Indianapolis, and we are connected by trolley line and steam cars. The town is a beautiful and healthful village; the Friends have a large Meeting, Sabbath School and Christian Endeavor Society here, and the Western Yearly Meeting meets at this place every year. We have all the advantages of the city of Indianapolis, and half the expense of living in the city. I would be pleased to correspond with any one capable in this line and free for an engagement. Address P. W. RAIDABAUGH, Plainfield, Indiana.

WANTED.—A position, by a young lady Friend, as companion. Willing to sew or assist in care of invalid. Moderate salary. Good references. S., THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 Arch Street, Phila.

WANTED.—A good man with some capital, in a new water-power flour mill. H. C. SMITH, Cottonwood Falls, Kans.

FOR RENT.—One of the best stock and dairy farms in Nebraska. On term of years, with purchase option and on terms that, with industry and good management, the entire property can be paid for within ten years. $2000.00 required to purchase cattle, hogs, horses and machinery on the farm, 920 acres. Running water in each pasture. 300 acres in cultivation. Meadow, alfalfa land and timber. Address, Nebraska, Care of THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

FOR CHRISTMAS GIFT.—"From Saloon to Pulpit," 138 pages, 10 cents postpaid. Sunday School Lessons for 1904, cloth, 10 cents, postpaid. HOWARD BOOK HOUSE, Ellwood, Ind.

OKLAHOMA LAND

FRIENDS WISHING TO LOCATE in the great wheat, corn and alfalfa belt, of Oklahoma, should write us for information. Well-improved farms sell for from $25 to $50 per acre, and ranches from $5 to $10. This is a Friends' community, the land is rich, and opportunities are excellent. Congenial surroundings are assured, educational facilities are excellent, and in every particular the means for establishing a comfortable home are far above the average. References gladly given. Votaw & Setzer, Cherokee, Woods Co., Oklahoma.

SEABOARD TOURIST TICKETS SOUTH.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is the quickest and shortest route to all Florida and Southern winter resorts. For descriptive booklet, excursion rates and general information, address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Penn's Treaty with the Indians

on India paper; engraving 23 inches by 18 inches, on sheets 30 inches by 24 inches; from the original Boydell engraved plate made in 1775 from the original painting of Benjamin West. $3.00 by mail.

A. L. SMITH
29 E. Penn St., Germantown, Phila, Pa.

The Laundry Class.

In many of the schools of domestic science, laundry work is now taught in a thorough and scientific manner. In the laundry classroom Ivory Soap is always used to wash the articles that require special care and it is frequently used to the exclusion of all other soaps. It is as important to know the best materials for domestic use as to know the best methods for using them, and Ivory Soap is very generally recognized by those who have carefully investigated the subject as the safest and purest soap.

If God writes "opportunity" on one side of open doors, He writes "responsibility" on the other side.—J. T. Gracey.

It is not our doing that which is good simply that pleaseth God, but that good which He willeth us to do.—"The Friend."

New Archdale

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.
JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

St. James Place

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Oliver Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.
Telephones.

The American Friend

"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, TWELFTH MONTH 24, 1903.

No. 52.

THE MIRACLE OF THE AGES.

ARE you astonished at the star which guided the Magi from the far East to Bethlehem? Do you wonder how water from a jar could be made wine at a word? Do you stop perplexed over the account of the blind man made whole? Are you amazed that He who lay in a new-hewn tomb rose and lived again? Do not stand gazing in question at these wonders, for there is a greater marvel which confronts you. Nineteen hundred years ago a little child was born in a manger. His family was that of a peasant carpenter. His parents possessed no wealth, no social influence, no means of winning notice. He grew up in the workshop with no chances even of gaining that subtle power which education often confers on a poor boy who has no other resources. He went out from Nazareth at thirty with nothing except His inward conviction that His life belonged to God. „Humanly speaking, His chance of making the world hear Him was zero.

But this is the real fact: No other person has changed the world as He has. He declared a message about God which swept as far as the heavens, beyond the highest things which seers and prophets had hinted in their loftiest moments. His words were then, and still are, a revelation of God. All we know of the nature of God has come through Him. Blot His words out and we should grope in darkness. No less wonderful is His revelation of man. He saw what man needed as no other revealer or philosopher ever did. He pointed man straight to the source of life, and told him his possibilities here and hereafter as no other lips have ever told him. Instead of giving a scheme for human improvement, as all reformers have done, He proclaimed a "kingdom" which is entered by a new birth, and in which love becomes the principle and law. He showed that the new society for which good men pray and labor can come only by the creation of new persons who are born from above and who live by the attraction of Divine love. The kingdom of God was realized in Him, and was propagated through Him.

He gathered a little band of fishermen and tax-gatherers about Him. His life and love worked miracles of transformation upon these followers.

Suddenly, after less than three years of teaching, He was seized by His enemies and nailed to a Roman cross. His little following was scattered, and their fond hopes were broken. "We had hoped that this was He who should have delivered Israel"—but alas!

But they were wrong. On this cross He triumphed. A little later these followers were thoroughly convinced that He was still alive. They soon discovered that He was present with them now in a more wonderful way than when they walked the Syrian roads together. A boldness and power, unknown before, came upon them. When they witnessed, others who had not seen and heard Him believed in Him. His greatest persecutor suddenly saw His face, and in it he saw the light of the knowledge of the glory of God, and became His greatest apostle. He carried the good news across into Europe, and wherever he went men and women dropped their old pagan life and customs to live for this Person who had loved them and given Himself for them. Churches sprang up in wicked Corinth, in idolatrous Ephesus, in imperial Rome. The ancient religions and the great philosophies of the world proved powerless before Him. "Thou conquerest, O Galilean," was the cry of the Emperor who fought hardest to stem the new faith.

At length Rome fell into the hands of barbarian races, and the old civilization was swept under by these untamed children of the forest, whose creed was slaughter and pillage. Slowly the Galilean began to win them and change them into followers of Himself. Churches rose as by magic all over France and Spain and Italy and Germany and England. New manners and aspirations were born in these crude peoples. New habits were formed. A new national life developed. Great literature sprang up. Cathedrals were built, under the power of inspiration, which still astonish the world. A new hemisphere was discovered and new nations grew to power, still under the sway of the Galilean.

Darkness and error have at times seemed to settle over men's minds, and the clear light has burned low, but again and again some prophet, mighty in word and deed through faith in the Galilean, has turned the scale, and set the world Godward again. Every year, as the centuries roll, more persons live for Him than ever before. His kingdom widens. His sway advances. More hearts burn with love. The number increases of those who count sacrifices for Him a joy. This is the miracle of the ages. No man ever spake like this man. No man ever loved like this man. No man ever affected lives like this man. No man was ever a king like this man. No man ever drew the world to himself like this man. This was Jesus of Nazareth, the Son of Man and Son of God.

THE YORK CONFERENCE ON MINISTRY.

WE have occasionally alluded in these columns to the conference on ministry which was called by London Yearly Meeting last spring. The conference met in the city of York from the 23d to 25th of Eleventh month. We have through personal letters received much information about its sessions and its significance, but we have delayed our comments upon it until we had before us a continuous and detailed report of its exercises.

It was attended by 277 delegates, only eleven of those who were appointed being absent. It goes without saying that it was a profoundly important gathering, and the earnest considerations which the problems of the Christian ministry received will assuredly leave permanent results behind. In all such gatherings the spirit of the occasion, the atmosphere produced, the clearing of the vision is the thing which mainly counts, and leaves its influence. Those of us who were three thousand miles away cannot get that. We have only a condensed report of the words which were spoken. In the bare report we do not discover as much as one could desire which indicates profound insight into the real problems of the ministry, or which is prophetic of a new epoch, though the addresses during the last day on "ministry and young Friends" abound in good things and in splendid suggestive passages.

The main discussion of the conference was upon the subject of "Recording" ministers. Should the custom of "recording" those possessed of gifts be given up, or continued, or possibly might the entire system be modified? Four sessions were devoted to this question. Without doubt there are difficulties and imperfections in the present system of acknowledging gifts. Mistakes are made. We should all like to see an ideal condition realized in which "all the saints would prophesy," and none should be recognized as above or over anybody else. But this discussion fails to present any indication that spiritual advancement could be won by giving up the only method we have by which the united Church puts its approval upon the ministry of an individual and lays solemnly upon him the responsibility for the exercise of the gift which Almighty God has conferred upon him. When the question of an effective transforming, illuminative ministry is the most vital issue before the Church to-day, it seems strange that the attention should be turned from the problem which involves life or death to a discussion of recording or non-recording. The tremendous question is, how can we get a living ministry to flow through our meetings, how can we make the Gospel affect in a practical way the life of our entire membership? Christ's message must come through somebody. The mere possession of a gift to reveal Christ, necessarily sets a man apart. On no basis of actuality can all the members be thought of as equal atoms. Some, by their gifts and insight, will always be debtors to the rest. The great question which swallows up all the others is, how can gifts and spiritual insight and effective utterance be developed?

One practical suggestion, which met general approval, was made that monthly meetings should appoint "ministry committees," composed of Friends who take part in vocal ministry, but are not recorded, and who should by such appointment become members of the meeting on ministry and oversight. This plan has for some years been practiced in New England and in other yearly meetings under the name of "associate members to the meetings on ministry and oversight," and it has worked very well. But we insist that the whole question of the function and development of ministry needs deeper study than it has yet received.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE first number of the JOURNAL of "Friends' Historical Society" is now before us. It is very gratifying to see such a good piece of work and to have the promise of an equally good thing every three months. Every Friend who is interested in the historical and dramatic side of Quakerism will heartily welcome the contributions which this new society has begun to give us. Among other things this first number contains an important article on the first recording clerk of London Yearly Meeting, Ellis Hookes. It is a touching story, and not only gives us a clear look at this patient, hard-working Friend; it reveals also a side of the work of early Friends quite unknown to most persons. "The Study of George Fox's Hand-writing" is an excellent contribution. Other articles of general interest are: "William Dewsbury and John Whitehead to George Fox, 1654," "The Case of William Gibson" and the "Two Quotations in the London Yearly Meeting's Epistle, 1903." There is a valuable "Foreword" by John S. Rowntree, and many interesting notes and comments by the editors.

We trust American Friends will continue to send in applications for membership in the Historical Society.

A FRIEND in Philadelphia Yearly Meeting has sent us the following inscription copied from the fly-leaf of a Bible, with the date 1791:

This Book belongs to the Preparative Meeting of Women Friends, held at Chester, and designed to be lent occasionally to such of their members as may be thought proper: requesting those into whose Hands it may come, to use it with care.

It implies that many Friends did not possess Bibles in their homes at this time. The fact that this Bible is in excellent state of preservation means either that it was very carefully handled or not often used.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

IN THE KAISER'S CAPITAL.

BY J. J. MILLS.

On a recent Sabbath, at high noon, the statues of the present German Emperor's father and mother, Emperor Frederick III., and Empress Victoria, were unveiled in the Thiergarten, a magnificent 600-acre forest park, almost in the heart of the city of Berlin. Kaiser Wilhelm presided over the ceremonies, accompanied by Empress Augusta Victoria, and at the close there was a great military display. Altogether the occasion was one which offered unusual attractions to the sightseer. But we have not yet become sufficiently Teutonized to feel comfortable in joining a secular demonstration, even of such an imperial character as this one, on the first day of the week. So we went to church in the Kaiser Wilhelm Gedächtniss Kirche.

This is regarded as the finest Protestant church in Germany. It was erected, at a cost of about a million dollars, by the people of Berlin, aided by a liberal gift from the present Kaiser, in memory of his illustrious grandfather, Emperor William I. All the external influences that art in its various and highest expressions can exert to awaken religious feelings, were found there. The architecture of the church is worthy of its royal name and purpose.

The interior is impressive with its massive stone columns supporting the vaulted ceiling, which is richly embellished with mosaics; its rare statuary, including a life-size figure of the Christ in the purest of white marble above the high candle-lighted altar; its dim religious light stealing in through great stained windows of most artistic designs, and its lofty pulpit from which the white-robed minister looks out upon seats for nearly two thousand people.

In the most conspicuous part of the church, on the right of the altar, are the pews always held in reserve for the Kaiser and Empress, their six young princes and the little princess.

On this occasion, as has been stated, the royal family were at the unveiling, but notwithstanding the fact that Berliners are not, as a rule, church-going people, and despite the tremendous counter attraction in the park, a multitude of His Majesty's subjects were in attendance at the church.

Apparently they fairly represented the population of the city generally, but to one familiar with the typical wealthy church congregation in the United States, the number of those who evidently belonged to the humbler classes was noticeable. As is the case on every Sabbath morning, they not only filled every available seat, but they crowded the standing room in the wide, long aisles and in the spacious galleries. Many had come an hour in advance of the opening of the services, in order to secure places. Nevertheless, the manner of all throughout the exercises was that of a most reverent gathering of worshipers. The music was worthy of Berlin's world-wide fame in that regard. The great congregation, with cultivated voices, joined in the hymns with a unanimity that was noteworthy, and in the responsive portions of the service with a heartiness that was inspiring. During the prayer, especially, the stillness was profound, and there was an almost universal manifestation of devoutness over the whole church. The sermon, which was upon the necessity of the new birth, and based upon our Lord's conversation with Nicodemus, was listened to with a concentration of attention too rarely commanded by preachers in American metropolitan pulpits.

From the viewpoint of Quaker ideals, the paradoxes of character and customs which prevail here grow upon one more and more as acquaintance with the people advances.

Less than two blocks from the church which we have just attended is a theater. It, like the church, is a splendid and costly stone building. Aloft, across its broad front, which is elaborately decorated with sculpture in marble and bronze, is carved in bold characters a Latin inscription announcing that the building is dedicated to the promotion of art. One passing its great portals at six o'clock on any Sabbath evening at the close of a play may see a throng, probably quite as large as the congregation of the morning in the neighboring church, and composed, so it is said, of many of the same people, pouring out into the street. On both occasions, whether entering the church on Sabbath morning or leaving the theatre on Sabbath evening the crowds are, for the most part, alike, well dressed, intelligent and refined in appearance, notably polished in manner and giving the impression of high-minded people with forceful characters and worthy ideals.

Just across the street from the church and hard by the theater are located, respectively, two immense restaurants, which compare favorably in the elegance of their appointments with the kirche and the play-house. Each restaurant has seats arranged around little tables, for hundreds of people. In the evening of any day in the week—the Sabbath being no exception—they, too, may both be found crowded with well-dressed and conspicuously-polite men and women—many of them again frequenters alike of the church and the theater—seated under the blaze of electric lights and served by a bevy of hurrying white-aproned waiters, drinking beer while engaged in animated conversation, and, to all appearances, getting an extraordinarily large share of enjoyment out of life.

In coming to Germany one expects to find it a land flowing with beer. But the fact quite outdistances the anticipation. Beer abounds at all hours of the day and night, and on all sides. The bank clerk has his beer glass, usually drained, beside him upon the desk at which he works. The salespeople in the retail stores brace up from time to time throughout their long day of service with a glass of beer. The bricklayers, without leaving the wall of the building upon which they are at work, are served with the same foaming refreshment. The cab drivers leave their "droskies" standing at the curb to join the crowd who are guzzling beer in the corner drink-hall. The woman in charge of a fish stand on the market makes room for her glass of beer in the midst of the fish piled upon the table before her. The Imperial University maintains within its main building, and more convenient to the front entrance than any room devoted to educational purposes, a refreshment stand, whereat the spectacled student, possibly with a sabre scar on his cheek, stops for a glass of beer and a rye-bread sandwich on his way to the lecture room of his professor. Now and then one hears of a family in which none of the national beverage is used, but these are rare exceptions in Berlin's population of about two million souls.

Perhaps it may not be wholly irrelevant, in connection with this universal prevalence of the beer habit, to mention the announcement recently made upon reputable authority that the proportion of men in the German army having weak or disordered hearts has risen within the last twenty years from less than two per cent. to over fourteen per cent. This, however, has been accounted for by the same authority, on the ground of the great prevalence of la grippe in recent years. But in an address before a body of representative physicians of Germany, held at Cassel last Ninth month, a distinguished member of the profession advocated governmental restraint of the use of alcoholic liquors as an absolute necessity for the future physical welfare of the German people.

In striking contrast to its appetite for beer stands Berlin's remarkable devotion to the fine arts. Here, possibly, as in no other city, can be seen the modern revival of the love for the beautiful which characterized the ancient Greeks.

This is to be seen notably in the statuary with which the city abounds. Here, for instance, is Sieges Allée, or Avenue of Victory, a broad and most popular promenade in the Thiergarten. It is less than a thousand yards in length. At one end stands a great fountain, cast in bronze from designs by an eminent sculptor. At the other end stands the monument of Victory. This is a fluted stone column, resting upon a massive base and rising to a height of 152 feet. Upon the four sides of the pedestal are immense bronze reliefs of the Battle of Sedan and other great engagements in which the German arms have been victorious, while the column is surmounted by a winged female figure burnished with gold, forty-eight feet in height. Between these two monuments and at regular intervals on either side of the broad allée are thirty-two great groups of white marble statuary, each the work of a distinguished artist.

Each group consists of a statue, heroic in size, of some ruler, distinguished in Prussian history, surrounded by smaller busts of eminent statesmen, field-marshal, scholars or reformers who have shed luster upon his reign.

The entire series is a gift of the present Kaiser to the people of Berlin. When seen in the soft sunlight of an autumn day this colossal gallery of art, set in the borders of the forest, under the open dome of the blue sky, is worthy of an empire's capital.

In a neighboring portion of the park, but hidden from distant view by the forest trees that thickly surround it, stands the monument of Wagner, the musician, also executed in the finest of marble, at a cost of one hundred thousand dollars, the unveiling of which, only six weeks ago, was followed by a musical festival in the city, lasting a whole week, and participated in by a galaxy of the first musicians of Europe. And this is but a mere introduction to the wealth of statuary with which the streets and numerous bridges and parks of Berlin are adorned.

This love for plastic art exhibits itself strikingly in the architecture of the houses. Especially in the newer districts of the city are the buildings eminently artistic in design. Approximately the whole population of Berlin live in flats uniformly five stories in height (the limit fixed by law for structures of every kind), joined one to another so as to form a compact mass of homes traversed by mile after mile of wide, well-paved and beautifully-shaded streets. The houses are of brick, but the walls are covered externally with gray-colored stucco, which has the durability and appearance of stone. One may walk for hours through the streets and find the fronts of practically all the houses in the solid wall on either hand adorned with attractive relief work and frescoes, in classic designs. Often their regular and continuous skyline is surmounted by statuary, and, as a rule, they have tasteful balconies at the windows, story above story, filled with a profusion of blooming plants.

Now and then, at intervals of a five minutes walk, one comes upon a little park or "platz" a few rods in diameter, covered with the greenest of swards and the rarest of flowers and shrubs. It is crossed by smooth, winding walks, and provided with inviting seats here and there in cozy nooks. Here again classical statuary finds place, often in the center of the park a great fountain throws its silver spray high into the air. There are over one hundred such "platzen" in the city.

Much of the enjoyment of existence, which is so apparent a trait of the German character, may be ascribed to an innate love of music. Here devotion to music and the drama supplant, in no inconsiderable degree, the greater earnestness in religious matters which prevails in England and America. The state Church has comparatively little hold upon the people of Berlin, but the encouragement of music on the part of the Emperor meets a well-nigh universal response in the hearts of his subjects. The largest opera house in the city is under government ownership and management, and offers nightly and on Sabbath afternoons entertainments by the foremost musicians of the age. Its capacity is always insufficient for the crowds that seek admission. But so elaborate is the scale upon which it is conducted that a large financial deficit is annually incurred, which is defrayed out of the imperial treasury. Great music schools flourish under royal and private auspices and attract students from all parts of the civilized world.

But this passion for harmony does not always manifest itself in all phases of German character. In the light of Quaker moral standards it would be incredible, for instance, that men should be found among the earnest followers of Martin Luther, who would look with any degree of allowance upon the practice of duelling. Yet in a late session of the national synod of the German Church a heated discussion was aroused by the introduction of a resolution condemning that mediæval method of settling private grievances. The presiding officer spoke vigorously in defense of the custom and affirmed that if he were to receive a personal insult for which he could obtain satisfactory redress in no other way he would defend his honor by a challenge to a duel. It is interesting, however, to learn that the chaplain of the Kaiser's court replied to him in a speech expressing his deep regret that a course so antagonistic to the spirit of Christianity should find advocacy among religious leaders of the German people.

But this sketch shall conclude with a reference to another religious incident. Recently the Emperor delivered a speech at a dinner given in his palace on the occasion of the confirmation of two of his young sons, Prince Friederich Wilhelm and Prince Oscar. In the course of it he said, as reported by a Berlin newspaper: "All the world's greatest philosophers, statesmen, kings and poets have in no case the value of a single word of our Saviour. The explanation of the power of the words of Christ is that they are the words of the living God, which can awaken life and will continue to live to all ages when the words of the wisest of men have been long forgotten." His Majesty went on to say that the whole of human life hinges simply and solely upon our attitude towards Jesus Christ. The Saviour remains the one Helper and Deliverer. Addressing his two sons, he said: "Whatever may be your pursuits, whatever your talents, let each of you do his very best in his own sphere. Let him be absorbed in his tasks, always busied with them and carrying them forward according to the example of Christ. Then will you grow to be good Germans, able princes of our house, and fit to take part in the great work to which we are called. In the wish that you may successfully accomplish this work, and that you may therein never lack the help of God and the Saviour, we now drain our glasses."

Berlin.

A NEW SPIRITUAL IMPULSE.

BY F. E. MARBLE.

Of all the great matters before us to-day none compare in importance and interest to the fresh spiritual impulse coming to the kingdom of God.

The imperative need of this is seen on every hand. The lower strata of society are alienated from our churches and the upper strata are indifferent. A gross practical materialism pervades our civilization. Hordes of foreigners are pouring in from every quarter, to say nothing of the unsettled condition of religious thought and feeling. We are distressed. These conditions cannot be endured. We long for a moral earthquake, a revival of religion, a new spiritual impulse to carry us on toward the realization of the kingdom.

Each of the great revivals had its own messages, while its methods and machinery grew out of the conditions and needs of the times. From whatever source the new spiritual impulse is coming it will not be produced by repealing either the messages or the method of other days. We have fallen upon later times. Our needs are different; there has been a great advance in the physical sciences, a wonderful increase in material possessions, an industrial and social revolution, the discovery of a scientific method and a critical inquiry into the grounds of belief. All of which has changed the attitude of men toward the world of things, toward each other and toward God Himself.

The new temper is suggested by such phrases as "the social consciousness," "the sense of humanity." It is expressed in labor unions, fraternal orders and a thousand and one missionary, charitable and beneficent organizations. This groping is toward a new social order, and the truth, long neglected, which fits into the condition is that of the kingdom of God. A kingdom in which love of God expresses itself in love to man. A kingdom in which truth, love and righteousness prevail. A kingdom that insures the future through the redemption of the present. This is the great truth to be discovered and incarnated by the present age.

As to this kingdom, repentance and faith is the door of entrance. Love is its informing principle, and service the form of its expression. The method of the kingdom is for each to find his own brother, neighbor, friend, and to bring him to Christ. Education and sanitation are good, but regeneration is necessary. The result of the kingdom is a new social order.

The signs of its coming are seen in the change from destructive criticism to reconstructive faith, from materialism to idealism, from individualism to altruism, from division to unity, from a future heaven to a present kingdom.

It is this that should fill our hearts with gratitude in this wonderful time. Even though financial depression looms large on the horizon, there are evidences that we are about to witness one of these mighty birth-throes of the spiritual world which will usher in a new era of faith and love.

I have a vision of our churches thronged with worshippers, our members fired with a new zeal for service, our denominational differences lost in the larger interests of the kingdom, the foul places of the earth cleansed and the dark places discovering the light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. Be thankful for things, but more thankful for the coming kingdom of God.—“The Watchman.”

The International Lesson.

FIRST QUARTER.

LESSON I.

FIRST MONTH 3, 1904.

THE BOYHOOD OF JESUS.

Luke 2: 40-52.

GOLDEN TEXT.—And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.—Luke 2: 52.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, Twelfth mo. 28.—Boyhood of Jesus. Luke 2: 40-52.

Third-day, Twelfth mo. 29.—Feast of the Passover. Deut. 16: 1-8.

Fourth-day, Twelfth mo. 30.—Christ's wisdom. Matt. 13: 53-58.

Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 31.—Obedience to parents.—Col. 3: 12-20.

Sixth-day, First mo. 1, 1904.—Wisdom the principal thing. Prov. 4: 1-9.

Seventh-day, First mo. 2.—God giveth wisdom.—Prov. 2: 1-9.

First-day, First mo. 3.—Favor with God and men. Prov. 3: 1-6.

The lessons the past six months have been chiefly about the life and work of David, King of Israel. We begin now with the boyhood of “great David's greater son.” The lessons open with the life of Christ at Nazareth. The visit of the Wise Men, the adoration of the shepherds, the presentation in the Temple with the blessings of Simeon and Anna, had all taken place, and Joseph and Mary and the infant Christ had returned to Galilee. No account of the home life or of its incidents have been recorded, but there is no reason to suppose that, in any important respects, there was any difference from the home training of any Jewish boy who was the child of God-fearing parents. The influence of the mother was often great. (Compare 2 Tim. 3: 15; 1: 5.) As soon as a Jewish boy began to speak his religious instruction began. At the age of six the Jewish boy was sent to one of the schools attached to the synagogue. So we can reasonably picture to ourselves Christ as going through the course of a typical Jewish boy.

Nazareth was delightfully situated in one of the most fertile parts of Palestine, and was not far from one of the regular routes between Rome and the East, so that there was ample opportunity for a Nazarene to see all sorts and conditions of men. There is hardly the shadow of doubt that our Lord understood Hebrew, Greek and Aramaic—the latter being the language used in every-day life.

Time.—Jesus was born probably in the latter part of B.C. 5, or four years before the date of what is usually reckoned the Christian era. That is, 1904 really should be 1909. The Christian era was not used as a starting point for several centuries after the birth of Christ, and when the calculations were made on which our present reckoning is based an error of four years was made.

Places.—Nazareth and Jerusalem.

40. “And the child grew.” The silences of the Gospel narrative are very instructive; it is doubtless wise that no record should have been preserved of the childhood of Christ. “Waxed strong.” Increased in strength. The Revised Version omits “in spirit.” He developed physically, mentally, spiritually. “Grace of God.” Favor of God. Isa. 11: 2, 3; John 1: 14.

41. Women were not required to go to the Passover, but it was considered praiseworthy. It shows they were deeply religious.

42. “Twelve years old.” At this age the Jewish boy was to take part in religious duties, and one of these was to go to the greatest of the feasts, the Passover. This was doubtless Christ's first visit to Jerusalem.

43. “Fulfilled the days.” Exodus 12: 15. “The boy Jesus.” R. V. Luke is very particular. He says “the babe,” 2: 16; the “little child,” 2: 40; “the boy” here; and elsewhere, “the man.” “Tarried behind.” In the great crowds that attended the Passover, possibly a million people, it would be easy for the party to be separated.

44. “A day's journey.” About twenty miles; tradition, however, says that the first day's journey from Jerusalem was ten miles. It was probably at the evening stopping place that He was missed.

46. “After three days.” According to the Jewish manner of reckoning, this would mean one day out, one day for the return, and one day in the city. “In the Temple.” The most natural place to find Him. He was doubtless in one of the many rooms or porches of the Temple area. The name was applied to the whole enclosure. “Doctors.” The rabbis. It was the custom of pupils to ask questions of the teachers or rabbis. It was not an unusual thing—the unusual thing was the wisdom He displayed. The usual attitude of the pupils was to sit at the feet of the teachers, and there is no reason to doubt that the youthful Christ took this attitude; any other would have been disrespectful and the rabbis would have had nothing to do with Him had He taken the attitude which is depicted in some of the ideal paintings representing the scene. Compare Acts 22: 3.

47. He spoke as one upon whom the favor of God rested, and in whom the Holy Spirit directed thought and word.

48. “Son.” Better, “My child.” “Sorrowing.” A strong word—aching. Compare Mark 3: 21; John 2: 4.

49. This is the first recorded saying of our Lord. “Sought.” The emphasis is on this word, as if to say, “You might have known where I would be.” “Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" In the Greek the word "business" does not occur; a word has to be supplied by the translators; in the Authorized Version the word supplied is "business"; in the Revised and American Revised the translators have supplied "house" as being more in accord with the context. Whichever word is used the essential meaning is the same. To be in His Father's house was to be about his Father's business; to be about His Father's business was to be in His Father's house, with all its privileges and all its duties. Compare John 3: 34; 8: 29; 9: 4; 17: 4.

50. "Understood not." Did not take in the spiritual import.

51. "Was subject." For eighteen years more Jesus lived in Nazareth. History is silent concerning these years. We only know that He continued to advance in all that goes to make up a perfect man. He is spoken of as "the carpenter" (Mark 6: 3), so we may reasonably suppose that He learned that trade.

52. "In favor with God and man." He pleased not only God, but men also. The two are not incompatible, as some men think. He commended God's grace by His daily life.

PRACTICAL THOUGHT.

"About my Father's business." "In my Father's house." This was the keynote of Christ's life, and should be that of every child of God. John 20: 21.

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR FIRST MONTH THIRD, 1904.

THE KIND OF GROWTH I NEED IN 1904.

Eph. 4: 11-16.

Second-day, Twelfth mo. 28.—Birth before growth. John 3: 1-8.
Third-day, Twelfth mo. 29.—Growth by feeding. 1 Peter 2: 1-5.
Fourth-day, Twelfth mo. 30.—Growth by exercise. Phil. 2: 12-16.
Fifth-day, Twelfth mo. 31.—Growth by trust. Matt. 6: 27-34.
Sixth-day, First mo. 1, 1904.—Growth in grace. 2 Pet. 3: 14-18.
Seventh-day, First mo. 2.—Growth in His likeness. Ps. 17: 1-15.

The growth that we all need is the kind that is spoken of in Romans 8: 29, a growth into the likeness of Christ. People sometimes try to attain this by their own efforts and choices, by trying to leave off bad habits and choosing courses of conduct that they think are commendable, all in their own strength and wisdom. This is not growth, for it is without life; it is an undertaking in which Christ is given no part, and "He that hath not the Son of God hath not life."

In Him is life, and where life is we may expect growth; for which our portion of Scripture gives us a measure and a means of attaining. Soil and surroundings may differ; the varieties of fruitage will minister to diverse needs, but a common purpose is achieved because He is all and in all.

The conception of the human being whose spiritual stature and robustness measure up to the Christ standard is saved from irreverence only by the fact that it is made in all things dependent on Him for its realization. And the method of attaining is by working in His spirit along the lines that He marked out—not of being ministered unto, but of ministering.

The gifts named in the eleventh verse are the great gifts; but no one by apostleship or prophecy or evangelism ever attained any solitary height of greatness. The gift is given that we may serve, and it is by the way of service that growth comes—not for him only who serves, nor for him only who is served, but that all may attain.

Christian Endeavor stands for distributed and reciprocal service, so that each may give and each receive. We can praise God that the idea no longer holds sway that young people had made the complete round of necessary duties when they had gone like so many bearers of empty pitchers to the Sunday School and the meeting for worship. "The working in due measure of each several part" gives scope of action for all; and the unity of faith and the supremacy of love are bond and rule that know neither youth nor age.

The Church, which is the body of Christ, is weakened when any member fails or is restricted in service. Those who go out of unity with it uproot themselves and go to their own probable ruin.

If our growth shall lead to similitude we must study our model—"Looking unto Jesus."

The idea of growth involves that of permanent improvement, something more and better this year than last.

Progress is the one safeguard against retrogression.

How better can we prove life than by growth?

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

THE AFRICA INDUSTRIAL MISSION.

[Extracts from the Quarterly Report of the Friends' Africa Industrial Mission.]

Kaimosi, B. E., Africa, Tenth month 1st, 1903.

We are building a thatch roof about 12x22 feet, one-half of which shelters Edgar T. Hole's tent, used for office and storage, and the other half providing shade and shelter for Adelaide W. Hole's school.

Since our last report one thatch house, 10x14 feet has been built, and another, 10x24 feet, is under way for the accommodation of our employees. We are still short of quarters for our men, and are very desirous to have all the men removed from the orphanage. We fully realize the impropriety of having our men and boys crowded in together.

The additional missionaries who arrived here nearly three months ago are settling down into their places. As time goes on we feel more and more that each one here has been called and sent forth by the Lord of the harvest.

Eighth mo. 30th marked our first anniversary at Kaimosi. On this day one year ago, after having been to Kisumu, to arrange for settling, we returned, pitched our camp and set to work endeavoring to bring order out of chaos. We would ascribe all praise to our heavenly Father for what He has enabled us to accomplish during our first year in this place.

We have recut our boundary line and cleared around the surveyor's stakes, which are spaced every one hundred feet. This equatorial vegetation is so luxuriant that we would soon entirely lose our line if we did not keep going over it from time to time. We have a path cut about six feet wide, which not only preserves the line, but helps to keep the outside natives reminded what land belongs to us as they cross our line on the various native paths day after day.

One man has been making walks about the yard, front and back. He hauls gravel for the walk and lines the edges with white quartz stone. The effect is very pleasing.

We are extending one road into the forest and another toward the falls, where we hope to have our saw mill.

Since the government has established an outpost between here and Kisumu, the Swahili in charge has been authorized to cut both ways from his station. He has the chiefs along the way set their people to work, and a fine showing is being made. They are doing no grading, but are cutting a wide road through the bush. By winding around considerable and grading some it would not be very difficult, with a few exceptions, to get a cart road to Kisumu. Our road to the falls is intended to be the permanent road leading from our station to Kisumu. We hope soon to commence a bridge across the river above the falls.

We continue our daily morning gospel services with those living on the station. This means that about forty people hear the gospel message every day. We rejoice in the belief that several of our employees are thinking more seriously than ever before. We believe some are beginning to hunger and thirst after righteousness and are not far from the kingdom. Oh, for wisdom to rightly lead them in as soon as they are ready and at the same time not crowd them unduly. We want strong, intelligent converts when they do come. We ask you to pray for us often and for the work to this end.

Our Sabbath services for the past three months have not averaged nearly so large as for the three previous months. We account for this, in part, by the fact that they have been very busy with their crops. Possibly, in part, because we have not been doing much itinerating lately. Several times we found the villages so nearly deserted that we felt it hardly worth while going until they were not quite so busy. We have commenced the weekly itinerating again.

The school work is progressing nicely, being now under the direction of Adelaide W. Hole. The nineteen scholars are being thoroughly drilled, some on letters, some on syllables, some on words, and others on sentences.

The dispensary work under the care of Dr. Blackburn, ably assisted by his wife, is a great satisfaction to us and a real blessing to the work. Seven hundred and forty-two cases have been treated in three months.

Two minor operations have been performed under anesthesia, viz.: 1 viper bite on thumb, and 1 festered toe.

One case of poisoning by natives with intent to kill has been successfully treated.

Medical fees from natives received as follows: Man, 3 eggs; woman, 1 bunch bananas; man, 1 stick sugar cane; boy, 6 eggs.

Under the direction of Virginia L. Blackburn, our native cook is learning many accomplishments pertaining to the culinary art.

Our orphan boys are much more presentable in appearance and cleanly in person since Adelaide W. Hole has undertaken to bestow upon them something of a mother's care. They look very neat in their new knee trousers and short-sleeved shirts, and we are sure that both boys and clothes are benefited by more frequent contact with soap and water.

We are glad to note that Onduso, our boy chief, and his associates are working a part of each day for us. When they first came they appeared to feel far above working, as they are all royal blood; but we think the constant object lesson of seeing us and our employees busily engaged day after day is having its effect upon them. They took to it entirely of their own accord. We pay them once a month in proportion to what they have done.

We are all in splendid health and rejoicing that it is our privilege to labor here for our Master. The lines are indeed fallen unto us in pleasant places.

Sincerely, in His Name,

EDGAR T. HOLE,
On behalf of the Mission.

SANTA CLAUS EXPRESSES HIS OPINION.

Old Santa sat down by my fireside last night and talked as follows: "Well, I'm just back from quite a tour. Some of my American children wished to send Christmas boxes to orphans in Turkey and India, and Miss Wheeler, the secretary of the Armenia and India Relief Committee, was so afraid the boxes would not get there in time that she called me down to Worcester and asked if I would not be willing to start a bit earlier than usual and take a look at these Industrial Orphan Homes for which she is working so hard, and leave the gifts there all ready to be marked in those foreign tongues, so there need be no delay when I finally appear, for distribution.

"Having plenty of time, I agreed to go, and I'm glad I went. It has given me a new idea, for you see I had time to look over the work that is being done for those poor little massacre and famine orphans.

"God bless the children, these poor orphan lads and lassies and all who give for their support; they are a lesson to us all. Every one of them, from the babies up, is learning to like work, and it's a wonder to see the animals and dishes they can make from clay, and the carts, chairs, violins, fountain pens, bicycles and other toys they have made from wood with their cheap jack-knives. Then, as I watched the older ones at their trades, building houses, raising sheep, making looms, chairs and tables, carving, designing tiles and draperies, hammering copper and brass, making rugs and embroidery, clothing and shoes—as I examined their nice, clean homes and learned that they themselves weave all the sheets and towels, dresses and jackets that are not sent from outside, I declare I was amazed!

"I visited the schools where most of them study, either half a day or in the evening, and it was good to hear these teachers and missionaries tell of the good scholarship and good behavior of these dear children. No wonder Emily C. Wheeler advocates the teaching of cooking and trades in our public schools here, when she knows how much better work her orphan boys and girls are doing than is done by children who study books all day. I had time to visit some who have left the homes, and it was fine to see what good teachers, housekeepers and weavers the girls are making and to notice what an honorable position most of the boys are taking in the community.

"These thousands of children are going to be a power for good one of these days in Turkey and India. Now, my idea is that these children are surely a paying investment, and nothing would so please me as to get a lot of our good people to send in Christmas offerings for them, though it is too late for boxes. Then will they have a truly happy New Year; for there are about nine hundred of these orphans who will have to go to the streets unless money can be secured for their support before February.

"You see the younger ones must be cared for till they are old enough to learn their trades, and if you realized what streets are in the Orient, you would not want a dog to sleep there, not to mention children, though alas! there are many now who live there, for only a part have been saved. We must not turn out those who are now so happy in the cheery homes, to wander again and be lost.

"Can't we all have a hand? It's a Christmas gift to Christ to care for His children. As we save them we give them back to Him. I for one shall send a check right off to 'Mister' Brown Bros. & Co., 59 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., for they are the treasurers, and will notify the secretary; and I shall get a glowing letter of thanks from her. I don't feel as though I could give those children toys when right after Christmas they are in danger of being turned away." Just then Santa Claus rose to write his check. "Go thou and do likewise"; and don't forget that if you are not rich enough to send a check, "every little counts," and a post office money order will carry a gift to Christ almost as well as a check.

Some temptations come to the industrious, but all temptations attack the idle.—Spurgeon.

Correspondence.

"PEACE SUNDAY"—TWELFTH MONTH 27TH, 1903.

The Peace Association of Friends in America takes this opportunity to remind ministers and Christian workers generally of the fact that at this season of the year the Christian Church has united in turning its attention to the subject of peace. We feel strongly that the message of Peace with God and with man—peace in our hearts and peace with our neighbors, peace between races, between nations, between different sections of society, peace in the home, in the social circle, in business relations and in international relations—is part of the glad tidings that have come to us through Jesus Christ. A full gospel must include these things. We do not ask that a special sermon on "Peace" be given at any date, but we would ask all who are in any way teaching the gospel to allow their minds to rest upon the matter and seek for guidance as to when and how to present it.

We would suggest that in Bible Schools and in congregations, or wherever collections are taken up—as nearly at the time of Peace Sunday as possible—a collection for the cause of peace be made, of which one half might go to the local work, and one-half to the Peace Association of Friends in America.

Attention is also called to the Bible School lesson on "Peace" in the current issue of "The Messenger of Peace."

Literature bearing upon the subject of peace may be obtained at the office of the secretary, at East Main and Sixteenth Streets, Richmond, Ind., with whom correspondence on matters concerning the work should be had.

RICHARD HENRY THOMAS, M.D., President.
H. LAVINIA BAILY, Secretary.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

Anna May Pemberton has been spending some weeks at her home at West Milton, Ohio.

A. Edward Kelsey and family, also Rosa E. Lee, reached Ramallah the 5th instant.

The Harriet Green Memorial Fund has just received from English Friends a check for $2,415.

John K. Howell, minister from Wilmington Yearly Meeting, is conducting a series of meetings at Deep River Meeting, North Carolina.

President A. Rosenberger has an interesting article in the Oskaloosa "Saturday Globe" on "A Debt We Owe," in which he presents some striking facts on heredity.

A Friend who has been laboring in Virginia writes: "I wish Friends generally knew how much good the Corinth Academy is doing for the young Friends in Southern Virginia."

T. Hanson, of Pasadena, Cal., is busy in union a spell meetings with George Simpson and wife. They recently closed meetings at Lompoc and Santa Maria, where over one hundred confessed Christ.

Spiceland Quarterly Meeting, Indiana, held the 11th to 13th instant, was largely attended, all delegates being present but three. An epistle of love and greeting from Rufus P. King was received and read, to the edification of the quarterly meeting.

The junior annual oratorical exercises of Guilford College occurred on the evening of the 12th instant. The large and attentive audience met in Memorial Hall, which has recently been lighted by electricity. Eight orations were delivered, and were interspersed with music.

On the invitation of David Gregg, Rufus M. Jones delivered an address in the First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, on "Some Contributions of the Quakers." The occasion of the address was "Forefathers' Day," the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers.

By direction of Indiana Yearly Meeting, the proceedings of the Five Years Meeting, a book of over 400 pages, containing more than twenty papers and interesting discussions upon the most vital questions pertaining to our denomination, will be sold to its members for forty cents and ten cents postage for those in cloth binding, and for twenty-five cents, postpaid, for those in paper binding. Orders may be sent to Charles A. Francisco, Richmond, Ind.

The new meeting house at Earlham, Ia., was dedicated the 13th instant. The service was conducted by Ellyson R. Purdy, of Oskaloosa, assisted by Charles W. Sweet, of Des Moines, and General Superintendent W. J. Hadley. The cost of the building was $3,600, $1,500 of which was raised at the dedication.

A colony of thirty-six Friends from Iowa has settled near Agra, Oklahoma. Twenty-one more are expected to emigrate soon. They are all firm believers in temperance, and will help Oklahoma secure constitutional prohibition when the time comes to decide that issue. Deborah Smith King, formerly of Richland, Ia., is located in the meeting at Agra.

Marion Quarterly Meeting was held 11th to 13th instant. On Sixth-day Gurney H. Dicks, of Fairmount, Ind., admonished the meeting not to consider that all of the opposing forces are behind. On Seventh-day he spoke of the Comforter who was sent. Parker Moon, of Missouri, was present; also William West, from Jonesboro. Both were exercised with the same theme. The attendance was little more than one-third the usual number on account of the inclemency of the weather.

Rose Hill Quarterly Meeting, Kan., was held at Argonia the 4th to 6th instant. Besides the resident workers of quarterly meeting, Leannah Hobson, of Indiana, was in attendance. Her presence and labors were of special interest. On account of the revival going forward at the time, both the temperance and missionary sessions were given up. Anna Newton, a native student from the Alaska Mission, was used of God in song, both English and native, and in her testimony to the saving grace of God.

West Branch Quarterly Meeting was held Eleventh month 20th to 22d, at West Milton, Ohio. Joseph O. Binford, yearly meeting superintendent; Clark Hosier, Phariba Stephens, yearly meeting secretary for Foreign Missions, and Professor Cyrus W. Hodgkin, of Earlham College, were present. The preaching was in the Spirit and in power. More than fifty dollars was raised for the Mexican Mission on Seventh-day, and it was augmented by a large collection Sabbath morning. On Sabbath afternoon Professor Hodgkin delivered a lecture on "Peace," which was much appreciated.

John E. Snavelly, the local minister from Cherokee, Okla., Meeting, has been helping in a series of meetings five miles north of the Stella Academy, an outpost of mission work carried on by the Monthly Meeting's Evangelistic Committee. The neighborhood is much aroused with a number of renewals and conversions, and the result is the organization of a Bible School and a request for Friends to organize a meeting. James L. Welch and wife and others from Stella have stood faithful to the work and carried on the services for over three weeks continuously. Many fields like this one are open for Friends in Oklahoma.

Leannah Hobson, of Indiana, and Lida Lyons, of Wichita, held a two weeks' meeting at Argonia, Kan., closing the 8th instant. twenty-five sessions in all, including the quarterly meeting. Several conversions and renewals are a part of the results. The meeting was strengthened and a general uplift to the Christian sentiment of the town resulted, but cannot be measured statistically. The meetings held at Wichita by Leannah Hobson were greatly blessed to the Church and in the conversion of souls. Wichita, Kan.; Alva, Okla., and Argonia, Kan., were the only points where her limited time in Kansas Yearly Meeting enabled her to labor. Yet her services were of incalculable value.

Lewiston Monthly Meeting has been greatly blessed lately by the labors of George G. Williams, of Newport, R. I., who labored in the meeting for nearly two weeks, services being held every evening. His teaching was clear, his reasonings logical and several have been seeking the blessing of entire sanctification. The membership were awakened by his interpretation of the great Bible truths to the need of a more active, consistent Christian life, and the deep interest shown proves the work to have been real. Alfred T. Ware, a minister, who was formerly located in the meeting, and who is greatly beloved by Lewiston Friends, was present the Sabbath following the protracted effort of George Williams, and the services during the day were most helpful.

We have received an encouraging letter from Nixon and Louisa Rush, who are visiting meetings in the Indian Territory. They write concerning the work at the Wyandotte Mission, where Franklin and Mary Moon Meredith have been laboring for the past three years. The school there has about two hundred students. On Sabbath mornings Franklin Meredith teaches a class of large girls, while his wife teaches a class of boys. In the Sabbath evening services all are under their instruction. There are very few full-blood Indians or whites among the students. Many of the students seem very bright. The missionaries are doing a good work in setting a worthy example of thrift and humane treatment of domestic animals before the Indians.

White Oak Monthly Meeting was held the 12th instant at North Point, Ind. There was a fair attendance, considering the inclemency of the weather. Isaac H. Hollingsworth, the local minister in the meeting at North Point, was present, and preached an interesting and instructive sermon. At the close of the service he made a strong plea for Friends to take their own religious paper, and thereby know where many of their foremost workers were; also something of their success. He said that he had been very slow to learn the lesson, but now he could see the advantage in the weekly religious paper. In it were some of the brightest and best thoughts of the leaders in the work of the Lord.

New Garden Quarterly Meeting, North Carolina, was held at the usual place, Guilford College, on the 12th instant. In the meeting for worship John K. Howell, a minister from Wilmington Yearly Meeting, had satisfactory service, as did Rufus P. King and John S. Tilman, of North Carolina. The clerk was directed to furnish John K. Howell with a returning minute. The report of New Garden Monthly Meeting recommending John Shaw Tilman, of McAdenville, N. C., as a minister of the gospel, was presented, and the meeting heartily concurred. The Committee on Evangelistic and Church Extension Work presented a scheme for raising funds with which to build meeting houses. This was discussed and referred to the monthly meetings for action. A general discussion of the call, qualifications and provisions for ministers was had. It appeared to be interesting and profitable.

The Oak St. Meeting, Portland, Me., has again been visited by death, and a very highly-respected and useful member of the Church, has been summoned to a higher and better service. On Thanksgiving morning T. Albert Moore died very suddenly at his home at the age of 61 years. The news of his death came as a shock to his many friends. He was the oldest son of Charles H. and Marcia Moore, of Milton, Ind. After his marriage, in 1879, to Martha Reed, of Windham, Me., he settled in his native town, remaining there for about seven years, after which time he and his wife went to Indian Territory and located at Afton. They resided there till the year 1892, when they moved to Portland, Me. He was an elder in the Oak Street Meeting, and will be greatly missed. The funeral service was held at his late residence on the 29th day of Eleventh month, and was conducted by Alfred T. Ware, superintendent of evangelistic work of New England Yearly Meeting.

English Friends have just been bequeathed a valuable collection of documents. It consists of a miscellaneous assortment of papers preserved by a Quaker family during the last two centuries, which has for many years been allowed to lie unexamined in the cellar of a provincial bank. During an inspection Norman Penney, the librarian of Devonshire House, has discovered that one of the documents contains a signature of George Fox. This is, the "Christian Commonwealth" believes, the only known autograph of the founder of Quakerism. It was his invariable custom to attach his initials only, and the familiar "G. Ff." appears upon hundreds of the manuscripts preserved in the Friends' library at Devonshire House. The document referred to is an appeal to Charles II., on behalf of imprisoned and suffering Quakers; hence probably the fuller signature, "Georg Ffox."

BORN.

DIXON.—To Emery J. and Ethel Dixon, Cherokee, Okla., Eleventh month 7th, 1903, a girl, Mildred Mary.

HOSKINSON.—To Walter and Mary Hoskinson, Antioch, Kan., Twelfth month 12th, 1903, a girl.

DIED.

GRIFFIN.—At the home of her daughter, Sarah Ann Pleas, Dunreith, Ind., Eleventh month 22d, 1903, Rebecca, wife of Joseph Griffin, aged almost 93 years. She became a Friend by conviction and was active in Christian service.

TITUS.—At her home near Antioch, Kan., Twelfth month 4th, 1903, Jane E. Titus, aged nearly 51. The deceased has been a member of Friends for fourteen years, and at the time of her death was an elder.

Events and Comments.

The next national convention of the Prohibition party will be held in Kansas City on Fourth-day, Sixth month 29th.

The question of the admission of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma into the Union promises to become prominent again before this session of Congress ends.

Bethlehem, the home of Christmas, enjoys three Christmas celebrations—Latin, Greek and Armenian, the first on Twelfth month 24th, the second twelve days after that, the third twelve days later still.

On the 17th instant the Senate concurred in the action of the House in passing the Cuban Reciprocity Treaty bill. The following day it was signed by the President. The treaty is to go into effect the 27th instant.

Helen Miller Gould has offered prizes of $1,000, $500 and $250 for the best essays on the double topic: I., "The Origin and History of the Version of the Bible Approved by the Roman Catholic Church"; II., "The Origin and History of the American Revised Version of the English Bible."

It is reported that a successful trial has been given an airship at Kitty Hawk, N. C., by Wilbur and Orville Wright, of Dayton, O. The machine is said to have risen gracefully to a height of sixty feet, MEMORY MENDING.

What Food Alone Can Do for the Memory.

The influence of food upon the brain and memory is so little understood that people are inclined to marvel at it.

Take a person who has been living on improperly selected food, and put him upon a scientific diet in which the food Grape-Nuts is largely used, and the increase of the mental power that follows is truly remarkable.

A Canadian, who was sent to Colorado for his health, illustrates this point in a most convincing manner: "One year ago I came from Canada a nervous wreck, so my physician said, and reduced in weight to almost a skeleton, and my memory was so poor that conversations had to be repeated that had taken place only a few hours before. I was unable to rest day or night, for my nervous system was shattered.

"The change of climate helped me a little, but it was soon seen that this was not all that I needed. I required the proper selection of food, although I did not realize it until a friend recommended Grape-Nuts to me, and I gave this food a thorough trial. Then I realized what the right food could do, and I began to change in my feelings and bodily condition. This kept up until now after six months' use of Grape-Nuts all my nervous trouble has entirely disappeared, I have gained in flesh all that I had lost and what is more wonderful to me than anything else my memory is as good as it ever was. Truly Grape-Nuts has remade me all over, mind and body, when I never expected to be well and happy again." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

and then to have covered three miles in the face of a wind blowing twenty-one miles an hour, finally landing in a spot chosen by the navigator.

The Missouri Supreme Court has now undone the work of District Attorney Folk in his warfare against the king boodler of St. Louis, Edward Butler, who was convicted of bribery in a jury trial several months ago and sentenced to three years in prison. The action of the court is a severe disappointment to all friends of good government in the State.

The condition of the petroleum supply of Pennsylvania and West Virginia leads to the belief that at last the springs of the precious and useful fluid have begun to fail. There has been a steady decline in the yield of this old established region during the past year, and the production of Eleventh month, as shown by the pipe line runs, was the smallest of any month for over eight years past.

Much effort is being expended in California for the purchase of the Calaveras grove of big trees by the nation, and its setting aside as a national reservation or park. The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce has taken part in the appeal to Congress; so has the California Club of that city, and the Society of Native Daughters. Twice the Senate has passed the bill, but it has been checked in the House.

The recent election in Dulwich and Lewisham, England, was a victory for the Chamberlain candidates. They did not, it is true, win by quite such majorities as were formerly given to Conservative candidates in these suburbs of London, but they did succeed in holding approximately five-sixths of the normal Conservative vote—a result sufficient, if it were to be matched throughout the kingdom, to seat a strong protection Parliament.

Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' League, and at one time State inspector of factories for Illinois, declares that the business rush of the Christmas season is robbing the lives of many child-workers of the significant Christmas cheer and good-will. For thousands of men, women and children the holiday season has come to mean chiefly weariness, due to excessive work, followed often by illness, and still oftener by an enforced holiday without pay, a bitter inversion of the order of holiday cheer.

Commerce between Canada and the United States shows a rapid gain both in the figures of the year about to end and in those of the decennial period which ends with the present year. The year's commerce with Canada will aggregate nearly $200,000,000, against less than $100,000,000 in 1893. The increase occurs both in imports into the United States from Canada and exports from the United States to Canada. On the import side the increase has been much more rapid proportionately than from other parts of the world.

The great steel trust is carrying out a retrenchment policy of extraordinary extent and severity. Its employees number some 165,000 men, and 90 per cent. of these, or 148,500, will have their wages reduced from 5 to 20 per cent. on January 1st. As the company paid out last year $120,000,000 in wages and salaries,

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

an average 10 per cent. reduction would cut away $12,000,000 from the employees and compel a corresponding contraction in their expenditures. Additional to this, the company is discharging many employees and closing a number of its mills or putting them on reduced time.

The sorrow of Calvary is the dark side of the cloud; the redemption of the world is the bright side. That was the "lifting up," since then He has been drawing all men unto Him.

REDUCED RATES TO NEW ORLEANS AND RETURN VIA PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

On account of the meetings of the American Economic Society and the American Historical Society, at New Orleans, La., December 28th to January 1st, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell round-trip tickets to New Orleans and return from all stations on its lines, December 24th, 25th and 26th, good for return passage until January 5th, inclusive, at reduced rates. For specific information consult Ticket Agents.

We Should Like

to hear from any of our readers who may be considering the subject of advertising. It is not hard to demonstrate the value of space in THE AMERICAN FRIEND, and we are particularly desirous of having the advertising patronage of our own members. It is an excellent way to support the denominational paper, and we can present some facts which make it a strong business proposition. Write for rates and full information.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch Street,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Choosing a career for young men to follow has always been a matter of interest and importance to parents as well as to the young men themselves. As the great majority of young men entering business life have little to invest except their brains and enthusiasm, the question has always been, What business can be entered with the greatest prospect for future success, requiring the investment of little or no capital at the beginning?

United States Senator John F. Dryden, of New Jersey, one of the most prominent and successful business men of the country, and the man who first introduced industrial life insurance into the United States, has written an interesting and timely article on the opportunities which life insurance offers as a career for men starting in business.

The article has been printed in a handsome little brochure by The Prudential Insurance Company of America, of which Senator Dryden is the president, and, as that company gives employment to more than 20,000 people, Senator Dryden can be said to speak with authority.

An important thought in reading Senator Dryden's article is that his remarks apply with the same force to men in middle age as they do to young men. The article is worth reading by all men, young and old, and a copy of the booklet will be sent upon request to the home office of The Prudential, at Newark, N. J.

'Tis a beautiful task our Christmas brings

For old and young to share,
With jingle of bells and silvery swells
Of music in the air.

To make the sad world merry awhile,
And to frighten sin away,
And to bless us all, whatever befall,
Is the task of Christmas Day.

—Margaret E. Sangster.

The British Friend

Published on the 15th of each month.

Being the only religious and literary review written chiefly for the general public, but from the standpoint of the Society of Friends, The British Friend offers a unique opportunity for spreading "The Truth" among thoughtful enquirers.

The December Issue contains:

The York Conference on the Ministry (Report and Correspondence.)

"The Needs of the Ministry." By M. A. W.

"W. E. Gladstone," I. By Joshua Rowntree.

"Relief Work in Bulgaria." By Georgina King

Lewis.

Educational Notes: "The Beginnings of Personality." By Rachel Fairbrother.

"A Birthright Member." IV. (Concluded.) by ***

"The Mystic." A Poem. By Richard Askham.

A distinct feature is made of Reviews and Notices of Books, especially such as are likely to be helpful to preachers and social workers.

Subscription: 6s. 6d. ($1.58) per annum, post free
Specimen copy on application.

Editor and Publisher:

EDWARD GRUBB, M.A.

Devonshire Chambers Bishopsgate, Without, Lon. E. C.

HOLIDAY SLIPPERS RUBBER BOOTS

ETC.

A regular tidal wave of business has followed the removal of our Shoe Department to its elegant new quarters; and the holiday trade in Slippers and Rubber Boots far exceeds all former records. Good qualities coupled with lowest price—that explains this very satisfactory situation:

Men's Tan Romeos and Fausts—$2.50.
Men's Tan Romeos—$1.75 a pair.
Men's Tan and Black Brightons—$1.50.
Men's Tan Columbias—$1.35.
Men's Tan and Black Operas—$1.00.
Women's Bed Socks—50c.
Women's Bath Slippers—65c.
Women's $1.50 Velvet Slippers, in polka dots and scroll work—90c a pair.
Women's Felt Romeos—$1.00.
Women's Felt Toilet Slippers—$1.00.
Women's Princess and High Slippers, $1.25.
Women's Juliets, in colors—$1.50.
Women's Felt Juliets—$1.50 a pair.
Women's $1.25 Knit Slippers are now $1.00 a pair.
Boys' Storm King Boots, sizes 2½ to 6—$2.50.
Boys' Storm King Boots, sizes 11 to 2—$2.00.
Misses' Knit Slippers, various colors—85c.
Goodyear Rubber Boots—for men, women and children; every desirable kind at the lowest prices possible for the best quality made.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PHILADELPHIA

Look thou within my thoughtless heart, and say
What thou hast done in this most precious day,
No longer thine to use in any way.
Hast thou been faithful to the truth and right?
Hast helped to make another's burden light?
Art thou a better heart than yesternight?
Alas, alas! But wilt thou sometime be Good, noble, earnest, grand in ministry?
To-morrow's sunset gun may knell for thee.

—Paul Pastnor.

Stenography, Typewriting, Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 20 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYRUS CHAMBERS, Jr.) 52d & Media Sts., Philadelphia

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL
or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND
805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

Y. F. A. Building,
140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.
FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.
Convenient, Restful, Homelike.
Table d'hote, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.
Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:
One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.
Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL
Phone Spruce 33-55. Clerk.

Substantial Presents

Chafing Dishes, $2.50 to $10.00

Fire Fenders, $2.00 to $15.00

Bellows, 50c. to $20.00

Candle Shades

Coffee Urns

Carpet Sweepers

Scrap Baskets

J. FRANKLIN MILLER

1626 CHESTNUT STREET

GOOD PRINTING

is a synonym for good advertising, and good advertising is a synonym for success.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO.

Makers of the Better Kind of Printing
1019-21 Market Street Philadelphia

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and
MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

JOSEPH G. FOGG UNDERTAKER AND EMBALMER

S. W. Cor. Sixteenth and Race Sts.
Phone Spruce 44-38-W. PHILADELPHIA.
Suburban orders promptly attended.

CONVICTIONS ADOPTED AT THE 37TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE PENNSYLVANIA PEACE SOCIETY.

PRESENTED BY ALFRED H. LOVE.

Whereas, Every one who desires an end desires the means of obtaining it; and,

Whereas, every one desires peace, the sum of all virtues, the surest means are to remove the causes and abolish the customs of war, to live the conditions and promulgate the principles of peace, therefore we are convinced:

First.—That among the causes of war are the military system; the ruthless seizure of territory; the bombardment of cities to collect alleged debt; the oppression, injustice and cruelty against weaker nations; against race, color, sex and creed, and all acts of inhumanity, whether in Russia, Macedonia or America; against the Jew, the Christian or the negro.

Second.—That among the encouraging signs are the great waves of international sympathy, The Hague peace tribunal, the frequent arbitrations, the increase of peace societies and of peace congresses; the treaty between France and England and that in prospect between the United States and England; the inter-visitation of rulers, the commercial intercourse, the efforts for a reduction of armaments and the belief in obligatory arbitration, the indisposition of nations to go to war, and the fact that every fresh outbreak, every cruel massacre and every new war arouses universal dissent and proves the urgent need of the work we have undertaken.

Third.—That we renew our demand that Congress shall not have the power to declare war; that the death penalty should be abolished; that the sale of deadly weapons should be restricted; that labor troubles should be harmon-

ON THE BABY.

Coffee Even the Babies Thrive On.

The little daughter of a college president was saved by the use of Postum Food Coffee at a time when she could not take any solid food.

Baby's aunt says: "My sister and her husband (who is president of a college in Georgia) visited me last Christmas, and their little baby two months old and very sick. I thought it was not properly nourished, so I began feeding it on Postum which I have used in my own home for years with such grand results.

"You would be surprised to know how that little thing improved. Sister had been feeding it on artificial food that did not agree with it. The baby continued to get stronger all the time we were feeding her on Postum, and when sister left here she took Postum with her, for she feels certain that with Postum to feed the baby on she is sure of good healthy nourishing food drink." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum is made of the purest cereals with absolutely no medication whatever, and when boiled according to directions it is heavy with food value and a great nourisher and builder as well as a delicious drink. It is also a specific for all of the dozens of different diseases caused by coffee. Trial proves this.

Look in each package for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

ized;; that the liquor traffic should be suppressed; that there should be a peace department in our government; and that the ethics of arbitration should be taught in our schools and universities, and proper books given to the children.

Fourth.—That we should make a special protest against the absurdity of Hobson's scheme for $2,750,000,000 for battle-ships, to be expended till 1915 and increased to 1925, when commerce is pleading for more merchantmen, and courts of arbitration are increasing, and the spirit of equity as the supreme arbiter is destined to take the place of armies and navies.

Fifth.—That national and international contentions should be prevented by some agreement whereby petty jealousies and disagreements in governments shall not be magnified and distorted by some war-making publications.

Sixth.—That Congress should at its present session confer upon the President of the United States the power to call a conference of representatives of all the civilized powers every four years, to consider questions of general interest for the common welfare, looking to more pacific relations and the promotion of peace.

Seventh.—That we ask the co-operation of all peace societies to aid in having a peace department in the St. Louis Exposition in 1904 and welcome there with a series of meetings the International Peace Congress at the time it shall designate.

WM. N. ASHMAN, President.

ARABELLA CARTER, Secretary.

Twelfth month 8th, 1903.

LITTLE BOY BLUE.

The little toy dog is covered with dust,
But sturdy and staunch he stands,
And the little tin soldier is red with rust,
And his musket molds in his hands.

Time was when the little toy dog was new,

And the soldier was passing fair;
And that was the time when our Little Boy Blue Kissed them and put them there.

"Now don't you go till I come," he said,
"And don't you made any noise!"
So, toddling off to his trundle-bed,
He dreamed of the pretty toys.

And as he was dreaming an angel song
Awakened our Little Boy Blue—
Oh, the years are many, the years are long,
But the little toy friends are true!

Aye, faithful to Little Boy Blue they stand
Each in the same old place,
Awaiting the touch of a little hand,
The smile of a little face.

And they wonder—as waiting these long years through
In the dust of their little chair—
What has become of our Little Boy Blue
Since he kissed them and put them there.

—Eugene Field.

He most lives who thinks most,
Feels the noblest, acts the best.
—Philip Bailey.

GIVE YOUR STOMACH

A NICE VACATION.

Don't Do it by Starving it Either—Let it Substitute Do the Work.

The old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," applies just as well to the stomach, one of the most important organs of the human system, as it does to the man himself.

If your stomach is worn out and rebels against being further taxed beyond its limit, the only sensible thing you can do is to give it a rest. Employ a substitute for a short time, and see if it will not more than repay you in results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a willing and most efficient substitute. They themselves digest every bit of food in the stomach in just the same way that the stomach itself would, were it well. They contain all the essential elements that the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach contain, and actually act just the same and do just the same work as the natural fluids would do, were the stomach well and sound. They therefore relieve the stomach, just as one workman relieves another, and permit it to rest and recuperate and regain its normal health and strength.

This "vacation" idea was suggested by the letter of a prominent lawyer in Chicago. Read what he says: "I was engaged in the most momentous undertaking of my life in bringing about the coalition of certain great interests that meant much to me as well as my clients. It was not the work of days, but of months. I was working night and day almost, when at a very critical time my stomach went clear back on me. The undue mental strain brought it about, and hurried up what would have happened later on.

"What I ate I had to literally force down and that was a source of misery, as I had a sour stomach much of the time. My head ached, I was sluggish and began to lose my ambition to carry out my undertaking. It looked pretty gloomy for me, and I confided my plight to one of my clients. He had been cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and at once went down to a drug store and brought a box up to the office.

"I had not taken a quarter of that box before I found that they would do all the work my stomach ever did; and as a rest or vacation was out of the question for me, I determined to give my stomach a vacation. I kept right on taking the tablets and braced up, and went ahead with my work with renewed vigor, ate just as much as I ever did, and carried out that undertaking to a successful issue. I feel that I have Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to thank for saving me the handsomest fee I ever received, as well as my reputation, and last, but not least, my stomach."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box.

God does not ask of us that we be without faults, but that we be without blame in trying to overcome those faults. Our first striving with a character, or with a pen, may be black with blots, but, if it is faithful striving it will be the way by which, in the end, God will make us faultless.—"The Sunday School Times."

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient-disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking, or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion; it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or, rather, in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

God speaks to hearts of men in many ways;
Some the red banner of the rising sun,
Spread o'er the snow-clad hills, has taught His praise;
Some the sweet silence when the day is done;
Some after loveless lives at length have won
His word in children's hearts and children's gaze;
And some have found Him where low rafters ring
To greet the hand that helps, the heart that cheers,
And some in prayer, and some in perfecting
Of watchful toil through unrewarding years;
And some not less are His, who vainly sought
His voice, and with His silence have been taught,
Who bare His chain that bade them to be bound,
And, at the end, in finding not, have found!

—Arthur Sidgwick.

MEMORY TREASURES.

Go sit beside the hearth again
Whose circle once was glad and gay;
And if from out the precious chain
Some shining links have dropped away,
Then guard with tender heart and hand
The remnant of thy household band.

Draw near the board with plenty spread,
And if in the accustomed place
You see the father's reverend head,
Or mother's patient, loving face,
Whate'er your life may have of ill,
Thank God that these are left you still.

And though where home has been you stand

To-day in alien loneliness;
Though you may clasp no brother's hand,
And claim no sister's tender kiss;
Though with no friend nor lover nigh,
The past is all your company;

Thank God for friends your life has known,

For every dear, departed day;
The blessed past is safe alone—
God gives, but does not take away;
He only safely keeps above
For us the treasures that we love."

—Phoebe Carey.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Announces the Date for the Inauguration of the World's Famous "Southern's Palm Limited" between New York, Philadelphia and St. Augustine.

The Southern Railway announces that for the coming season this train will be more excellent than it was last season, so that the tourist may feel sure that every patron of "The Southern's Palm Limited" will have a most delightful journey.

The route of this famous train will be between New York, Philadelphia and Washington over the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Washington and Jacksonville over the Southern Railway, and between Jacksonville and St. Augustine over the Florida East Coast Railway.

The initial trip of "The Southern's Palm Limited" will be with train leaving New York and Philadelphia, January 11th, 1904, and leaving St. Augustine, returning, January 14th, 1904.

This train, which is an exclusively Pullman train, carrying Club, Dining, Compartment, Drawing-room, Sleeping, Library and Observation cars, New York and Philadelphia to St. Augustine, also carries a Pullman Drawing-room Sleeping car, New York to Aiken and Augusta.

In addition to the above train the Southern Railway operates two other high-class trains daily between the East and Florida.

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., will take pleasure in furnishing all information.

SAVE 1/2 YOUR FUEL

or get all the heat you pay for. When you use a Rochester Radiator you do.

Rochester Radiator Co.,

77 Furnace St.,

Fully Guaranteed.

Write for booklet on heating houses.

Rochester, N. Y.

Bad grocer confesses his badness by selling bad lamp-chimneys.

MACBETH.

You need to know how to manage your lamps to have comfort with them at small cost.

Better read my Index; I send it free.

MACBETH, Pittsburgh.

HOOPING-COUGH AND CROUP.

Roche's Herbal Embrocation

The celebrated and effectual English Cure without internal medicine. Proprietors, W. EDWARDS & SON, Queen Victoria St., London, England. Wholesale of E. Fougere & Co., 89 North William Street, N. Y.

My child, though thy foes are strong and tried,

He loveth the weak and small;
The angels of heaven are on thy side,
And God is over all.

—Adelaide A. Procter.

IF YOUR PHYSICIAN

prescribes a milk diet, for its easy digestibility it will be well to use Borden's Peerless Brand Evaporated Cream to get a rich, deliciously-flavored milk food, perfectly sterilized, according to latest sanitary methods. For general household uses. Prepared by Borden's Condensed Milk Co.

WASHINGTON.

Holiday Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

December 28th has been selected as the date for the Personally-Conducted Holiday Tour of the Pennsylvania Railroad to Washington. This tour will cover a period of three days, affording ample time to visit all the principal points of interest at the National Capital, including the Congressional Library and the new Corcoran Art Gallery. Rate, covering railroad transportation for the round trip and hotel accommodations, $13.00 or $10.50 from Trenton, $11.50 or $9.00 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other points, according to hotel selected. Rates cover accommodations at hotel for two days. Special side trip to Mount Vernon.

All tickets good for ten days, with special hotel rates after expiration of hotel coupons.

For itineraries and full information apply to Ticket Agents, or address George W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

EDUCATIONAL.

GUILFORD COLLEGE

Location in the mild and healthful Piedmont Section of North Carolina

Five Brick Buildings well equipped, supplied with abundance of pure water, and lighted with electricity.

Eleven Members of the Faculty. Good Library and Chemical and Biological Laboratories.

Next Term will begin on the 18th of January, 1904.

Catalogue Sent on Application

L. L. HOBBS, President

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN,
Principal.

LINDLEY M. STEVENS,
Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address, CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

FRIENDS'

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

President :

THOMAS HODGKIN, D.C.L., Litt.D.

OBJECT: To encourage historical study and to publish historical matter.

Subscribers of $1.25 and upwards will receive a copy of "The Journal," as published, free, and any Supplements issued, at cost price. Rufus M. Jones will act as American Agent of the Society, and Friends who wish to become members are requested to send their subscriptions to him.

Address 718 ARCH STREET,
PHILADELPHIA

Acker has it—the good will of all buyers.

When we look on creation what a happy and touching change do we witness? A few hours past the earth was wrapt in gloom and silence; but now a new flood of light has broken forth, and creation rises before us in fresher and brighter hues, and seems to rejoice as if it had just received birth from its author. This is the time when we can best feel and bless the Power which said, "Let there be light;" which "set a tabernacle for the sun in the heavens," and made him the dispenser of fruitfulness and enjoyment through all regions. —Channing.

In all matters of eternal truth the soul is before the intellect; the things of God are spiritually discerned. You know truth by being true; you recognize God by being like Him.—F. W. Robertson.

10 BEAUTIFUL PICTURES FREE

In order to introduce our QUAKER OINTMENT into every home where THE AMERICAN FRIEND is read, we have decided to make the following liberal offer. To every person sending us 25 cents for one box of QUAKER OINTMENT, and 4 cents extra to pay postage, we will send absolutely free the following 10 pictures. These pictures are gems of art. For picture study, art collections, gifts and home decoration, they are of great value. The Last Supper, Christ in Gethsemane, Christ Taken Captive, Christ Before Pilate, Christ Bearing the Cross, The Crucifixion, Entombment, In the Sepulchre, The Ascension, Transfiguration. It is costing us a great deal of money to advertise in this way, but we trust you will be pleased with our liberality, and will favor us with an order for a box of our ointment, and get these 10 beautiful pictures free. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best known remedy for catarrh, eczema, and all skin diseases. Rev. Asa Woodard, pastor Friends' Meeting at Butlerville, Ind., says: "I am using QUAKER OINTMENT, and find it an excellent remedy." Mrs. Clara Chaney, Rural Route No. 3, Warren, Ind., says: "I have never found anything as good as QUAKER OINTMENT for catarrh, sores and skin diseases." Send us your order to-day. Quaker Ointment sent to any address upon receipt of 25 cents.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.

OSTEOPATHY

EDWARD D. BURLEIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Bell Telephone Consultation free.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SON

Wall Paper and Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.
WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD

27 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 882). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

PITTSBURGH BANK SAVINGS
ESTAB. 1862

Safe Bind
Safe Find

Your money deposited with this bank is absolutely safe, does not fluctuate in value and earns Four per cent. Compound Interest.

Deposits of $1.00 up received in person or by mail. Write for explanatory Booklet AF

Assets $14,000,000.00

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota.

I place mortgages on land covering about one-third its value. The value of this land is constantly increasing.

I know every mortgagor personally, know his land, his integrity, his habits and his ability to pay.

These combine to make me certain that these mortgages are as safe as GOVERNMENT BONDS

Investigate me. You can't make the investigation too rigid to suit me. I'll stand it.

I've been in this business for 18 years, and never lost a cent for a customer, nor foreclosed a mortgage.

I collect the interest and principal without charge and remit in New York exchange. Write to me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON

Investment Banker

Lisbon

North Dakota

6% NET FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands.

Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent

309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

Getting Ahead

Many people never get ahead until they go in debt. Debt may be safely and honestly incurred when a good life insurance policy runs along with it. Consult the

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

The American Friend Premiums

A BOY'S RELIGION, FROM MEMORY

By RUFUS M. JONES

NO subject teems with greater interest, or is fraught with greater issues than the religious development of early childhood. It is the foundation work of character, yet it is little understood by parents and less by children. Here is a most helpful work for young and old alike. It is the simple narrative of the religious awakening in a young soul which strikes a responsive chord in every heart. The work is beautifully printed on deckle-edged paper, and bound in a striking and original design. It is handsomely furnished with illustrations of places and persons mentioned in the text. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Aunt Charlotte's Stories of Bible History

By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE

CONTAINS over 100 stories from the Holy Book, richly embellished with 19 full-page Color Plates and Photo-Engravings, together with nearly 100 other illustrations. Beginning with the dawn of creation, every important historical event in the Bible is brought out in the order of their happening, thus leading the little ones along the most pleasant ways from Genesis to Revelation.

This book will give the Bible a new charm for children, and they will read it with a new understanding. Price $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size 7½ x 10 inches. Handsomely bound in cloth. Printed in gold and many colors. 250 pages. Over 100 illustrations.

The New Child's Life of Christ

By HESBA STRETTON

CONTAINS choice Biblical Pictures from the world's leading artists, thirty-two of which are full-page illustrations. The book presents the Life of Jesus as it is understood by the most devout and careful students of His Life. The graphic descriptions and the accurate and beautiful illustrations take one into the very midst of the sacred scenes and subjects. This volume throws a flood of light on the sacred pages, and leads the tender reader to the foot of the cross. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size 7½ x 9½ inches. Rich cloth binding. Stamped in gold and colors. 250 pages. Profusely illustrated.

THE BARNARD EDITION

—OF—

The Pilgrim's Progress

By JOHN BUNYAN

PROBABLY no book, except the Bible, has been printed in such immense numbers, and has had so wide a circulation among readers of all ages. It should be in every home where children live. The Barnard Edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the only edition containing nearly sixty full-page pictures and fifty portrait and character illustrations, by Barnard and others; four full-page chromo-lithographs; the beautiful poem "The Little Pilgrim"; also, 388 Bible references, making in all 327 quarto pages, 8 x 10 inches, printed on double thick, extra quality, super-calendered paper. It is tastily and elegantly bound with extra silk cloth.

It is the cheapest finely illustrated book published. Price, $1.50.

THIS BOOK with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50

THIS BOOK with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

(For The Pilgrim's Progress add 20 cents for postage.)

Any one of the above books sent on receipt of price.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND PREMIUMS

"GEORGE FOX REFUSING THE OATH at HOLKER HALL"
Detail from the Painting by J. Pettie, R. A.

GEORGE FOX

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

*A Story of His Life, and
A Statement of His Message*

By

RUFUS M. JONES

THE religious message of George Fox is especially suited to the present age. It is a revelation of the inner personal spiritual life. In "Fox's Journal" this message is obscured by irrelevant detail which, in the present work, is set aside by concise explanatory notes, while the pure original message is culled out, logically arranged, and set forth in a clear and modern style. The force of the message is emphasized by the editor's introduction, which epitomizes and interprets the complicated religious situation which fostered the rise of Quakerism. The work will greatly aid in understanding the principles of Friends, and is invaluable to all classes, especially to the young and new members.

Moreover, the work is "An Autobiography," full of dramatic episodes. The narrative is fascinating and throws a flood of light upon English history during the seventeenth century, and also upon early Colonial life in America. The incidents are carefully selected and arranged with sufficient explanatory matter to enable the reader to gain a comprehensive view of the situations.

There are FOUR DISTINGUISHING CHARACTERISTICS which mark the utility and beauty of the work:

FIRST—Twenty-four full-page illustrations, which include all the authentic as well as the best imaginative portraits of Fox, together with a number of familiar scenes and places.

SECOND—Two convenient double-page maps, one showing the outline of Fox's Travels in England, the other his travels in America.

THIRD—A scholarly and comprehensive introduction, and numerous explanatory notes; and

FOURTH—A careful editing of the original matter from George Fox.

Two Volumes, 600 Pages, Extra Cloth, Gilt Top, Postpaid, $4.00

THIS WORK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $4.00

THIS WORK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $4.50

LANCASTER CASTLE—One of George Fox's Prisons.

 A POPULAR EDITION
 of

GEORGE FOX, An Autobiography

Is being prepared. It contains the text of the above described work unabridged. The whole is bound in one volume with neat cloth covers. It will be ready for delivery shortly after the first of the new year. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $2.00

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.50

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

WHY DOES THE BOWERY SAVINGS BANK

ADVERTISE FOR DEPOSITS

From Everyone who wants to save money
EXCEPT THOSE IN NEW YORK AND NEW ENGLAND

-  Because It is its sole business to help others to keep their money safely.
-  Because New York and New England have good Savings Bank Laws.
-  Because In all other States the laws do not sufficiently protect.
-  Because While here and there may be found a safe mutual bank, the great majority are stock corporations.
-  Because Such Banks are not so safe as the Savings Banks of the State of New York.

No matter how near or how far you may live from New York it can at least do you no harm to send a postal card to

The Bowery Savings Bank, New York City

And get their little booklet telling all about

BANKING BY MAIL

INVESTORS, ATTENTION

The Rock County State Bank

Newport, Nebraska, offers small farm mortgages for sale; 6 per cent. interest payable semi-annually. We conduct a conservative banking business and offer no loans except the regular customers of our own bank. We personally know every man and his land and we make no loan that we are unwilling to carry ourselves.

Fellowship with Christ means fellowship with His suffering as well as with His joy.

7% Net TO LENDER.
FIRST MORTGAGES on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder

4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account

6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

ASA S. WING, Vice-President.

JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer

SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

Friends' Settlement

WILLIAM PENN COLONY CO.
OF CALIFORNIA

FOUR of the five directors of our company are Friends. We are advertising in Friends' papers, and now have a few families at Owenyo. A Friends' meeting established.

We own thirteen thousand acres of land, patented and unincumbered, with water already developed for irrigation. The land has thoroughly demonstrated its worth for raising all kinds of farm products, deciduous fruits, grapes, etc. Good markets. Liquor traffic prohibited.

Land with water, $25.00 per acre. One-third cash, balance in three annual payments.

High dry climate, very healthful,

THE BEST PLACE IN CALIFORNIA

The value of this property has doubled since we purchased it, but to enable us to improve the same, by seeding to alfalfa, we are offering to sell a few shares of stock at par, at $20.00 per share. This is a good investment to those having funds to invest. Write for particulars, and new prospectus.

WM. E. COX, Sec. and Mgr.
Henne Block, Los Angeles, Cal.

6%

to 7% Choice First Mortgage Loans, Seattle and vicinity. Local and N. Y. references. Established 1887. Correspondence Solicited. JAMES BOTHWELL, Seattle, Washington.

The American Friend

EARLHAM COLLEGE
LIBRARY.

Vol. X

TWELFTH MONTH 31, 1903

No. 53

EDITORIALS.—Some Strange Triumphal Chariots.—Is Christmas a Blessing? 903	PAGE
The Labor and Capital Problem 904 Coleman L. Nicholson.
Three Calls at New Year's 905 Theodore L. Cuyler.
SOME VIEWS ON PRESENT TOPICS: Is the Sabbath School a School? . . . 906 Clarence M. Case.
THE INTERNATIONAL LESSON 907 Lesson for First month 10, 1904.
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR 909 Topic for First month 10, 1904.
MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT: A Plea for Alaska Mission Work 909 Christine Paton Pennington.
Poem; Christmas Hymn 911 John Collins.
CORRESPONDENCE: THINGS OF INTEREST AMONG OURSELVES, 912
MARRIED.—DIED 912
EVENTS AND COMMENTS 914

AS OF OLD.

The night is calm,
The stars shine clear,
The sky is all aglow:
A heavenly messenger draws near
As, centuries ago,
On Bethlehem plain
The angel spoke
The birth of Christ
To shepherd folk.

Above the din
Of market-place,
The turmoil and the strife—
Alike to honor or disgrace—
To all the walks of life,
This Christmas night
The angels bring Glad tidings of
The new-born King.

Be still this night,
O restless town!
Forget the loss or gain—
The angel song comes floating down,
A sweet and heavenly strain.
Let, if you can,
The song fulfill
Peace upon earth,
To men good will.

ARTHUR D. A. RANDOLPH, in the "Outlook."

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR ❁ ❁ ❁ PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE
AMERICAN FRIEND PUBLISHING COMPANY, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, PREMIUMS

"GEORGE FOX REFUSING THE OATH at HOLKER HALL"
Detail from the Painting by J. Pettie, R. A.

GEORGE FOX

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

A Story of His Life, and

A Statement of His Message

By

RUFUS M. JONES

THE religious message of George Fox is especially suited to the present age. It is a revelation of the inner personal spiritual life. In "Fox's Journal" this message is obscured by irrelevant detail which, in the present work, is set aside by concise explanatory notes, while the pure original message is culled out, logically arranged, and set forth in a clear and modern style. The force of the message is emphasized by the editor's introduction, which epitomizes and interprets the complicated religious situation which fostered the rise of Quakerism. The work will greatly aid in understanding the principles of Friends, and is invaluable to all classes, especially to the young and new members.

Moreover, the work is "An Autobiography," full of dramatic episodes. The narrative is fascinating and throws a flood of light upon English history during the seventeenth century, and also upon early Colonial life in America. The incidents are carefully selected and arranged with sufficient explanatory matter to enable the reader to gain a comprehensive view of the situations

There are FOUR DISTINGUISHING CHARACTERISTICS which mark the utility and beauty of the work :

FIRST—Twenty-four full-page illustrations, which include all the authentic as well as the best imaginative portraits of Fox, together with a number of familiar scenes and places.

SECOND—Two convenient double-page maps, one showing the outline of Fox's Travels in England, the other his travels in America.

THIRD—A scholarly and comprehensive introduction, and numerous explanatory notes; and

FOURTH—A careful editing of the original matter from George Fox.

Two Volumes, 600 Pages, Extra Cloth, Gilt Top, Postpaid, $4.00

THIS WORK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $4.00

THIS WORK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $4.50

LANCASTER CASTLE—One of George Fox's Prisons.

A POPULAR EDITION
of

GEORGE FOX, An Autobiography

Is being prepared. It contains the text of the above described work unabridged. The whole is bound in one volume with neat cloth covers. It will be ready for delivery shortly after the first of the new year. Price, postpaid, $1.50.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $2.00

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.50

The American Friend

"Truth is the highest thing a man may keep."
"That they all may be one."

VOL. X.

PHILADELPHIA, TWELFTH MONTH 31, 1903.

No. 53.

SOME STRANGE TRIUMPHAL CHARIOTS.

MANY of us have come through the year just closing with the marks of the struggle upon us. When it opened on New Year's morning we were happy in our powers and in our possessions, and thought perhaps only of the rosy outlook of another year of joy. Now it is closing, and we look back upon dreams wrecked and hopes broken. Many who read these words have traveled very unexpected paths during the year which dies this week, and possibly some find it hard to think of anything now except the great blow which has made the year one of crisis in their earthly history. Loss of sight, loss of hearing, loss of property, loss of health, loss of companionship, loss of a dear one, who made life a beautiful and happy thing—such an experience, as any one of these, changes the world through and through for us, and such a calamity seems to inflict a permanent defeat. It seems to force upon us the feeling that we are in a stubborn world which does not care much for our wishes, or our hopes, or our ideals. Some great stunning blow smites through our best armor and spoils all the plans which we have made. What shall we say?

This: No world would be a good world to live in if everything came to us just as we wanted it. We should be weak, spoiled children—not true, noble sons of God. We must learn to shape our lives in a world which presents difficulties and trials. We must seek to get a spirit within us which overcomes the world and triumphs in spite of the hard thing which lies across the track. The greatest service which Christ's religion renders us on earth is the power which it gives us to turn these seeming defeats into triumphal chariots.

"I wanted my property and the life of comfort and ease which it could give—an unexpected occurrence has taken it from me," some one may say. Very well. The next thing for you to do is to show that you can rise above this accident of property and manifest a patient, courageous disposition in an honest struggle with poverty. The world needs a poor saint much more than it needs one more person living in comfort and ease. Come, then, and be that poor saint! and learn a beatitude you would never have fathomed if your purse string had not broken!

Or another will say, "It is so hard to sit quietly still, useless and helpless while I could do so much if I only had the health and strength." Yes, dear friend, that is hard. It is a bitter trial. But what a beautiful chariot may be made out of that trial! There are few ministries as great as the ministry of exhibiting to a household the power of Christ to make you sweet and patient and thoughtful and loving. There are plenty of persons who can preach and write books and do the world's work. This actual practice of the love and patience of God in the little narrow circle is more convincing than a whole city full of formal churches. And just now God wants you to do that.

Ah, but that other loss—how shall we dare touch upon it? That severing of companionship, that breaking of ties, that separation which leaves the world so empty—how shall one face that, and turn it into a chariot? This is sacred ground; the shoes must come off and the head be uncovered. But there is a word which must be spoken. Even here Christ gives power to overcome and to lead captivity captive. "I must now turn my private grief into public service," were the noble words of a man who had just experienced an unspeakably hard loss. This is the true attitude; this is the spirit of Christian faith. Grieve we must, and suffer we certainly shall if we love, but the truer the love the more it will enable us to rise above the earthly loss which seems to defeat it and to prove that it inspires us still though the special object of our love has vanished. The greatest service of the loved object is that it trains and prepares us for a wider, more universal love. He loves best who makes his private love nourish and quicken a love which reaches beyond these narrow limitations.

"God gives us love. Something to love
He lends us; but when love is grown
To ripeness; that on which it throve Falls off, and love is left alone."

IS CHRISTMAS A BLESSING?

THERE is undoubtedly a beautiful spirit abroad at this time of year, and on the whole the effect of Christmas on children must be very good. The simple accounts of the nativity get fixed upon the minds of the children in an impressive way, and the idea of giving because God has given such a gift to us, is taught in precept and example. It is a season in which many beautiful charities are bestowed, and there is a holy feeling resting upon many hearts. But there is a long account on the other side which increases every year. Gift giving, which was so beautiful while it was done on a simple scale, has become to many persons a heavy burden, because they feel bound to "exchange presents" with a long list of acquaintances and friends. The great department stores just before Christmas make one feel sad rather than joyous. They are filled with a great, pushing, surging crowd of persons, who look tired and perplexed, and who are eagerly searching for they know not what, waiting for some object to turn up which will do to send to some person who is sure to send them a similar present.

The poor saleswomen look worn and dragged, as though they were slowly sacrificing their lives to make the holiday season succeed.

The post office force is worked almost to the verge of desperation. In almost every line of life men, women and children are risking nervous prostration to make Christmas go off well. The beautiful fir forests of Maine are slowly being sacrificed to furnish Christmas trees—a business which has manifested the worst side of the commercial spirit. Everywhere one turns at this season, this same commercial spirit flaunts itself, as though even the sinless Christ could be coined into money or made to fill Mammon's coffers. The streets are full of hawkers, selling useless gimcracks, which will break to pieces next day—baubles which are made to be sold by frantic fakirs. It is this heap of worthless stuff which is palmed off on the public, and which does no mortal any good, that makes one cry out for some revision of Christmas methods.

If we could wash the selfishness out of all this Christmas buying and giving it would indeed be a beautiful time of year. If we would be content to give each other simple tokens of love, and then spend our money to relieve the poor, to give happiness to the unhappy and to sweeten the woes of the world on this blessed anniversary, how much nearer heaven would come. A little courage and a little more love for those who can make us no return would start such a reform movement and preserve Christmas as a sacred time.

Those who follow that part of themselves which is great are great men, and those who follow that which is little are little men.—Mencius.

FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

THE LABOR AND CAPITAL PROBLEM.

BY COLEMAN L. NICHOLSON.

This is an age of problems and of dogmatic statements by the problem solver, of just what one's duty is toward himself, his neighbor and the world at large, in aiding the solution.

It is not the intention of the writer to assume this role in considering the solemn and difficult problem, which this age is called upon to solve, of providing a practical, righteous adjustment of the division of profit between labor and capital; but rather to carry, if he can, a word of comfort to the great body of men and women among us who, while desiring to do their share towards the future of the world's right-faring, feel that in this, as in many another difficult question of the day, they are powerless to render any efficient aid. So many voices are crying, "This is the way, walk thou in it"; so out of their reach seem the remedies prescribed—political, financial, social, moral, religious; so tremendous the issue, so feeble their equipment, that they seem to have no help to offer but prayer,

"That breath that fleets beyond this iron world
And touches Him who made it."

And yet even such as we may have some active share in hastening the day of solution.

It has been said, in substance, by a recent writer, that in this scientific age we have become possessed of so much of absolute truth as to the laws and processes of nature, and science is so ready to give categorical answers to "countless puzzles of the ages," that we are somewhat impatient when we receive no definite answers to the definite questions we ask concerning those matters, to us, of "even greater importance than any that pure science can ever settle"—questions that belong to the realms of political economy, morals, faith and religion. And yet it is scarcely possible to give direct, explicit answer to any definite question here, because we are no longer dealing with material things and material laws, which are fixed and constant, but with the free will, the minds and the emotions of men; and no categorical answer that will certainly wear a day can be given to such questions; the only available ones are to be found in stating and illustrating the eternal principles of righteousness that apply to the matter at issue, and leave each individual community or age to make the application and work out the problem. Such answers will apply to the crisis of the hour and outlast the ages.

Such were largely those given to direct questions put to Him who was "the wisdom of God."

In politics, being asked, "Is it lawful to give tribute to Cæsar," his reply was virtually this: In dealing with authorities in government, give to all their due, along the whole line, from God your sovereign in heaven, to Cæsar, the hated oppressor at Rome. "Render to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and to God the things that are God's," was complete for the occasion, and after nineteen hundred years the eternity of that answer has just begun.

A case perhaps more to our point is when one asked our Lord to direct his brother to make an equitable division of an estate. The reply of Jesus was made, not to the questioner alone, but to the multitude who heard Him speak: "Beware of covetousness." It was a perfect answer, for take covetousness out of any adjustment of property rights, and the door opens wide for brotherly kindness, mercy, justice and the whole family of cementing virtues to swarm in, bringing equity, peace and love in place of injustice, strife and hate. That answer pointed to the real source and cure of all such contentions then, now and forever.

How does all this touch the question of our duty in the contention so fiercely raging between labor and capital? Have we formed an idea as to what is needed to bring about permanent reconciliation? If we have, is there any practical way in which we can aid in its consummation? Destroying covetousness on both sides would effect it! True, but are we, or any of us, prepared for and called to the task? If not, that then is clearly not our duty; but this perhaps we can do or strive for, prayerfully to seek for the root principles of righteousness, that can and will destroy covetousness in ourselves and everywhere, and live them out.

The prophet Micah clearly states what these are and whence the knowledge of them comes: "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

"Do justly!" Surely we all can know what that means in each case as it arises.

"Love mercy!" That is, treat the other man more favorably than pure justice would demand.

"Walk humbly!" What is this but renouncing pride in all its seductive shapes and shifting our center from self to the Saviour, who was meek and lowly of heart.

With His help, right where our lot is cast, amid surroundings however unfavorable, we all can strive after this goodness; and one such life lived anywhere leavens a State.

Haverford, Pa.

• FOR THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

THREE CALLS AT NEW YEAR'S.

BY THEODORE L. CUYLER.

When the Apostle Peter was praying on the roof of the house of Simon the tanner at Joppa, the Spirit said unto him, "Behold three men seek thee." He hastens down to the door and finds three messengers from Cornelius the Roman centurion; and he straightway accompanies the messengers to Cornelius at Cæsarea. This historic incident will serve for a parable to illustrate the three callers at the door of many of my readers at the New Year.

The first call is from your secular business. No matter what your daily occupation may be—whether it is commercial, or professional, or mechanical, or agricultural, yet, if you are a Christian, you must regard it as your "calling" in which to serve your Master. Jesus Christ called George Williams (the founder of the first Young Men's Christian Association), when he was a young merchant's clerk in London, just as truly as he called Charles H. Spurgeon to be the prince of British preachers. He called William E. Dodge and Morris K. Jesup to employ their money and influence for Christ as he summoned Dwight L. Moody to quit a shoe store and become a mighty winner of souls in the pulpit.

Every station in life is sacred that has Christ in it. Bible-religion is never to be folded up and put away on Sabbath night; it must be your apparel all through the week; and you are bound to keep it clean. To a conscientious man or woman secular affairs are sacred. Paul was serving his Lord with his tent-needle as truly as with his tongue. A rather loud-spoken and pretentious church member came into a shoe-shop and inquired, "How much religion have you got here to-day?" "Enough," replied the shoemaker, as he hammered away on his lapstone, "enough to make good, honest shoes—glory to God!" George Herbert's familiar verse is:

Teach me, my God and King,
In all things thee to see,
And what I do in anything
To do it as for thee.

In order to carry your religion into your business this year, there are some things that it behooves you to practice. One of them is a strenuous devotion to your work. Our Master was never idle; notice how often the word "straightway" occurs to describe his promptness. Punctuality is a Christian duty; but never be in such haste to get to your business as to neglect prayer or your morning meal in God's Word. Hem the day with a stout seam of prayer, so that it will not ravel out. Common honesty is too uncommon. A scrupulously honest man will not only pay his just debts on time, but will not risk the interests of his creditors by rash and reckless operations. In these times of hot competition, the snare of American business life is the temptation to rash ventures that are often sadly like gambling. Slow profits, my friend, are more likely to be solid and sure. If you are an employer, make the Golden Rule the rule of all your dealings with those who work for you; if an employee, remember that you have a Master in heaven who is not limited to just so many hours a day, and honest wages demand honest work. As God shall prosper you this year, see to it that self-indulgence or extravagance does not rob the Lord's contribution boxes. Above all, do not let Mammon dislodge Jesus Christ, or the pressure of your business break your sweet and strong and devout fellowship with your Lord and Saviour.

The second messenger who stands in the doorway of the New Year summons you to your domestic duties. To women and children home occupies the major part of the twenty-four hours; but to quite too many men it is only an eating-house and a dormitory. Such husbands might scorn to rob their creditors, and yet they make no scruple to rob their wives and children of their society and their loving care. God created the home—not the clubhouse. While a limited number of husbands may spend an occasional hour in the right sort of club-room to their own advantage, yet in an immense number of cases, club-life is the deadly foe of domestic enjoyment, of home influence and of devotional meetings.

If you want to save your children, anchor them to their home; and, in order to do this, make it bright, cheery and attractive. Sweeten it with love. Consecrate it as a dwelling-place for Christ. I know of some wives whose piety shines in a maternal prayer meeting, but it smokes terribly in their own houses. Too much of the religious instruction of children is delegated to the Bible School. Christian parents—remember that your Almighty Father in heaven has appointed you to be teachers in a school that is open for seven days and nights in every week, and never has any vacations. Your most effective teaching there will not be in the special religious instruction you attempt, but in what you are all the time before your children. Home-preaching saves quite as many souls as all our pulpits; and a godless, prayerless home is too often only a first stage in the journey towards hell!

Who is the third messenger that salutes you in the doorway? It is the messenger of your Saviour who summons you to a fresh and hearty enlistment in his service. The errand of the three men from Cæsarea was to invite Peter to go on a mission of personal Christian work. He obeyed and started at once. Are there no calls at the door of your heart to the service of your Redeemer? The command of Jesus is "follow me." That means that you shall let Him lead you, and have His way with you throughout this coming year. Jesus asks you to give Him the best you have—the firstlings of your flock, the fattest in your stalls, and the finest of your wheat. "When I get any money," said Erasmus, "I buy books; if any is left, I buy clothes." Thus spoke the great scholar who cared more to clothe his mind than his body. If you are lavish of your money, or your time, or your labor for anybody, let it be for Him who purchased heaven for you with His atoning blood. Choose your field of labor for the opening year, and then let no storm or heat keep you from it. Work for souls! Determine to win somebody to Jesus! We read much about the "next revival." Let the next revival with you be a quickening of your faith and your holy zeal to do good. As Peter on the housetop, and Paul on the road to Damascus were not disobedient to their heavenly visions, so do you be promptly obedient to every voice of Christ.

Perhaps another messenger may be sent for you or me before the twelve-month is ended. No matter; if God sends him, it is all right. If this is to be the year of our home-going, let it be the best, the holiest and the happiest. Let us be found at our Master's work when the summoner calls on us with the message, "Come up hither and behold the things that shall be hereafter!"

Brooklyn.

Some Views on Present Topics.

IS THE SABBATH SCHOOL A SCHOOL?

BY CLARENCE M. CASE.

Three factors enter prominently into all school work—something to teach, a plan for teaching it, and a place in which to do the teaching. Writers on educational subjects speak of them in the convenient terms, subject matter, pedagogical method and material equipment. Any great change for the better in Sabbath School work will come along one of these three lines.

Many Christian men and women are becoming convinced that in the Sabbath School lies a great power for good if rightly applied by virtue of more effective methods; or, in other words, if the Sabbath School were made more truly a school.

MATERIAL EQUIPMENT.

One of the great revolutions in the history of public schools has been marked by the disappearance of "the little red school house." A generation ago the school house was a structure devoid of almost every convenience, and was to be found perched upon the barren hill slope where land was least valuable; whereas to-day we find the modern school house standing in its beauty as the pride and adornment of the neighborhood. It is a structure in which a mind, trained to such work, has solved the problems of beauty and convenience, bearing always in mind the single object for which the school house was intended, and the desks, blackboards, maps, charts, specimens and laboratory, all contribute to make it a powerful factor in the work of education. This is material equipment as applied to public schools, and it is an achievement of which all are proud, but has a corresponding improvement been made in the material equipment of meeting houses which are the seat of the Sabbath School? While a few meeting houses have separate class rooms, the great majority are greatly deficient in this respect, although a truly well-ordered Sabbath School is impossible without several rooms. When we notice also the scarcity of blackboards, archæological specimens, etc., we are impressed with the need of better material equipment for Sabbath School work.

PEDAGOGICAL METHOD.

No teacher ever existed without a corresponding learner. In other words, no person is ever actually engaged in the work of teaching, for a single moment, unless some one else is learning at the same moment as a direct result. Where it is otherwise the so-called teacher is simply trying to teach. Although spiritual power is the supreme qualification in a teacher, zeal without proper methods for applying it is largely wasted, and nowhere more certainly than in trying to teach. Certain laws of the mind, divinely ordained, must be observed, no matter whether the lesson is about the deep things of the Spirit, or a problem in mathematics. Therefore it should be unnecessary to urge the study of methods of instruction upon the part of teachers in the Sabbath School, as well as in the secular schools. Many failures in discipline are due to bad methods of introduction.

THE SUBJECT MATTER.

But the greatest possibility of immediate improvement in Sabbath School work seems to lie in the growing demand for a change in the subject matter; or, in other words, in the character of the Sabbath School lessons. This sentiment is voicing itself in various ways, and, under the writer's own observation, has already led to the adoption of resolutions favoring such reform in the Assembly for Bible Schools and Christian Endeavor of Western Yearly Meeting, on two occasions, and in the Hamilton County, Indiana, Sunday School Convention. Public speakers of note and educators in general are beginning to point out the necessity for a set of lessons graded to suit the varying capacities of the different learners in the Sabbath School. Yet while criticising the lessons put out for study, the present method of selection by an international committee is strongly endorsed.

That the criticism above referred to is well founded may be seen upon consideration of the following facts:

1. The lessons, as now used, do not form parts of a greater whole or unit, into which they fit so logically and vitally as to arouse interest, without which good teaching is impossible. They seem more like the scattered arcs of a broken circle or the ends of a meaningless tangle than like living parts of a living whole. The mind is directed in rapid succession from Abraham to Paul, from poetry to theological abstractions, from the tents of the patriarchs to the halls of the Roman, without any justifiable relation either established or hinted at. History becomes an interesting and valuable study only when a continuous and unbroken chain of events is studied in the light of cause and effect, and the mind expands with the growing subject. Bible teaching is subject to the same law, as a continuous study of the life of Abraham or Joseph or the entire books of Ruth or Esther would demonstrate.

2. Not only do the separate lessons fail when considered as parts of a larger unit, but often they are not teachable units in themselves. They do not possess that completeness, styled literary unity, which alone could make them suitable to serve as isolated objects of study. In other words, no dominating central thought stands out, subordinating all other thoughts to its own purpose, and thus giving a vital unity and wholeness to the piece. This absence of literary unity in the text and ignorance of correct methods of instruction have been largely instrumental in bringing about that method of Bible study so widely prevalent, and which has been aptly styled "the method of the pious comment," according to which each member of the class reads in his turn a verse and offers as many pious remarks as can be connected to it by some slender thread of association. Those who pursue this method most are least to blame for it, the causes being found in the inappropriateness of the text presented by the lesson, and a mistaken belief on the part of the teacher that pious zeal can make poor methods of instruction effective for God.

Not only are the lessons sometimes unteachable; they are always scrappy and insufficient. They ignore the truth enunciated by the philosopher Herbart, that the mind and character grow only by the mastery of complete thought-wholes. The makers of public school text books have abandoned their former folly of presenting to children mutilated scraps of masterpieces of literature, and to-day the school reader contains only complete works, or portions complete in themselves, as the ballad of "Alice Brand" in "Lady of the Lake." The result has been a great inspiration to reading in the common schools. The Sabbath School is suffering for a similar reform. The complete life of Joseph would be as enjoyable in the Sabbath School quarterly as it is in the Indiana Fourth Reader.

3. The lessons are not graded according to the age of the pupils. Why would it not increase the interest of all if the little ones were given the tales of the patriarchs, and the interesting historical portions of the Old Testament; older classes a comparative study of the parables and the drama of Job; and those in active life a study of all the social institutions, as family, church and State, as to their origin, history and relation to Christian teaching. Special text books upon these subjects would doubtless increase the interest.

In conclusion, one has but to witness the vast number who have attended Sabbath School for years and have no intelligent grasp of the Bible as a whole, in order to believe that the time has come for a reform in methods of Bible teaching and a revolution that will make the Sabbath School really a school.

Noblesville, Ind.

The International Lesson.

FIRST QUARTER.

LESSON II.

FIRST MONTH 10, 1904.

THE PREACHING OF JOHN THE BAPTIST.

Matt. 3: 1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Repent ye; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. Matt. 3: 2.

DAILY READINGS.

Second-day, 1st mo. 4.—The preaching of John the Baptist. Matt. 3: 1-12.
Third-day, 1st mo. 5.—The voice crying. Isa. 40: 1-11.
Fourth-day, 1st mo. 6.—The messenger sent. Mal. 3: 1-12.
Fifth-day, 1st mo. 7.—John's witness. John 1: 15-28.
Sixth-day, 1st mo. 8.—John's disciples follow Christ. John 1: 29-37.
Seventh-day, 1st mo. 9.—John's humility. John 3: 25-36.
First-day, 1st mo. 10.—Christ's testimony. Matt. 11: 7-15.

Time.—John the Baptist began to preach in the year 26 A.D., about six or seven months before our Lord began His ministry. He continued preaching contemporaneously with Christ about a year; then he was cast into prison, where he was kept about a year longer, when he was beheaded by order of Herod (Antipas).

Place.—The Wilderness of Judea; this was the valley west and northwest of the Dead Sea, distant fifteen to twenty miles from Jerusalem.

Rulers.—Tiberius Cæsar, the Emperor of Rome; Pilate, Roman governor of Judea; Herod Antipas, governor of Galilee and Perea.

Persons.—John, about 30 years old; Jesus, between 29 and 30 years old.

1. "In those days." A general term, as we should say, "at that time." Some would take it, however, to refer to the actual time as mentioned in Luke 3: 1. "John the Baptist." In Matthew and in Mark he is introduced without any preface; Luke gives the story of his birth and parentage. His mother was a first cousin of Mary the mother of our Lord. He obtained his surname from his use of the rite of baptism. He was a Nazarite. Compare Luke 1: 15 and Num. 6, especially verses 2-5. "Preaching." Proclaiming as an herald.

2. "Repent." Few words in the Bible have been less clearly understood than this. In the Vulgate and Roman Catholic versions it is translated "Do penance." In Protestant theology the word has had technical meanings, which do not convey the full thought implied—a change of mind with a desire for pardon, accompanied with sorrow for past transgression. It is far more than sorrow or doing penance, for both of these may leave the real man unchanged. To truly repent is to forsake and to change one's mind. "Kingdom of Heaven." This special phrase occurs only in Matthew. "Kingdom of God" is used by Mark, Luke and John, which is a synonymous term. Various definitions of the phrase have been given, but essentially it means that condition of things where God is ruling. "When applied to the individual it denotes that state of heart in which God's will is recognized as the supreme authority. When applied to the community it indicates the advent of the Messiah as the supreme Lord." "At hand." In the person of the Messiah. At this time John could not have been aware that Jesus was the Messiah, nor of the character of His kingdom. Compare John 1: 30-34.

3. "Esaias." The Greek form of Isaiah. The reference is to 40: 3. The quotation, as is common in the New Testament, is from the Septuagint or Greek version of the Old Testament. "Voices." Possibly emphasized to show that the important thing was the message rather than the messenger. "Prepare ye the way." It was customary for a messenger to go before a monarch and see that the inhabitants prepared the roads for the coming sovereign.

4. "Camel's hair." A coarse, rough fabric, made from the shaggy hair of the animal. It was the same as sackcloth. "Meat." Better "food." "Locusts." These insects resemble the fourteen-year locusts of our country—they are about three inches long. They are said to make a not unpalatable food, and are still used. They are boiled, roasted or dried in the sun and eaten dry. Wild honey was common; it was mixed with the dry dust of the locusts. What is meant is that John ate the diet of the poorest classes.

5. They were attracted by curiosity, by interest, by his earnestness, by his teaching, which gave them something which they did not get from their usual teachers, the Scribes and Pharisees.

6. "Baptized." Libraries have been written about this word and the rite. There has been, and still is, much misconception about both. The essential points are clear: (1) John did not introduce it; it was a well-known thing in those days; (2) it was a public acknowledgment of renunciation on the one hand and acceptance on the other—it meant that the old was left and the new entered upon. John the Baptist and the apostles would doubtless have been amazed if they could have been told what would be read into the rite after their times. "Confessing their sins." This was an essential part of the rite—the acknowledging the old errors, before placing themselves on the side of the new truth.

7. "Pharisees and Sadducees." It was not strange to see ordinary people, but these representatives of formalism and worldliness could not have been expected. It shows that under the formalism and worldliness and apparent infidelity there is always a longing for something better—for the truth. Some think these came from curiosity only. John was an uncompromising reformer.

8. It is not enough to claim to be righteous; righteousness must show itself in the daily life—Gal. 5: 19-24.

9. "Think not to say within yourselves." Do not fancy that because of your high descent that true repentance and righteous living are unnecessary, God is able to bring into His kingdom those who have no family record or high descent to boast of.

10. The cutting down of the unfaithful nation has not been begun, but the axe is all ready for the cutting. "Every tree." A fruit tree which ceases to bear fruit will be cut down for firewood. So John says the man who does not bear fruit will be destroyed. It may not come at once—time may be given for repentance—but the time must come when perseverance in staying away from God will result in separation.

11. "Indeed baptize you in water." American Revised Version. The Greek preposition is "in," not "with." The whole point of the verse is the contrast between the outward and the inward, between the water and the spirit. John practiced the outward rite unto "repentance." "I call to repentance, He remits sin; I preach the kingdom of heaven, He bestows it; I baptize with water, He baptizes with the spirit." "Fire. The symbol all through the Bible of cleansing, of purification.

12. "Whose fan." The fan was a broad, light, wooden shovel with which the grain was thrown up into the air so the wind might blow away the chaff.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

2. "Repentance toward God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ."

3. "The kingdom of God is righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit."

Christian Endeavor

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Lindley D. Clark, 1429 New York Avenue, Washington, D.C.]

TOPIC FOR FIRST MONTH TENTH.

WHAT ARE SOME TESTS OF REPENTANCE ?

Luke 3: 8-14; Ps. 51: 1-17.

Second-day, 1st mo. 4.—A definition. 2 Cor. 7: 9, 10.

Third-day, 1st mo. 5.—A duty. Job 11: 14-17.

Fourth-day, 1st mo. 6.—An example. Luke 15: 11-24.

Fifth-day, 1st mo. 7.—An encouragement. Deut. 30: 1-5.

Sixth-day, 1st mo. 8.—An illustration. Luke 22: 61, 62.

Seventh-day, 1st mo. 9.—The impenitent. Luke 13: 1-5.

"Repentance is a true returning unto God, whereby men, forsaking utterly their idolatry and wickedness, do with a lively faith embrace, love and worship the true, living God only, and give themselves to all manner of good works which by God's word they know to be acceptable unto Him. Now there be four parts of repentance—contrition, confession, faith, amendment of life."

This extract from an old English Homily sets up standards along lines by which we may test our repentance. As it begins, so it goes forward, not merely in a contrition and the primary forsaking of sin, but in a growing love to God, continually manifesting itself in an amendment of life.

The first thesis of the famous ninety that Luther nailed to the door of the church at Wittenberg declared that "When our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ, says 'Repent,' He means that the whole life of believers should be a constant and perpetual repentance." It is not enough to say of a past that has been full of rebellion and selfishness that we are sorry; the after life must unceasingly "bring forth fruits worthy of repentance."

The importance of conversion as a definite act of turning from sin and choosing God's will and service must not be forgotten. But the interest of the Church cannot end with the bringing in of the sinful and the promise of a renewed life. The growth of the Christian is as essential to his well being as is his first act of faith; for if he does not go forward he will soon need to be doing again "the first works."

The very blackness of our own past sins and the awfulness of the estrangement that they wrought in us toward God are more truly appreciated in the increasing understanding of His love and mercy and pureness than in the elementary experiences of conversion. Such understanding will work in us a more positive turning away from the evils and snares that beset and a more earnest devotion to the service to which we are called; and there are marks of repentance that we need ever to bear about that there may be no confusing of our present life with the old order.

Repentance is so much more than a single act that it is the utmost folly to propose deferring it till the close of a misspent life. "Is repentance better than sin? Why then will you sin? Is sin better than repentance? Why then do you purpose to repent?"

The opportunity may at length be wanting; and even if we really believe in the abundance of God's grace, is not the unreason of delay like neglecting a little fire because an abundance of water is near? If the flame does not destroy, it will damage; and though Christ can procure forgiveness, He can never restore lost opportunities.

Missionary Department.

[Communications for this department should be addressed to Herman Newman, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.]

A PLEA FOR ALASKA MISSION WORK.

BY CHRISTINE PATON PENNINGTON.

To students of American history it is a familiar story that in 1867, through the negotiations of William H. Seward, the Secretary of State, a treaty was made with Russia whereby for seven million, two hundred thousand dollars, Alaska, with its area of five hundred and eighty thousand square miles, and its population of nearly thirty thousand souls, became a part of our own country.

For many years previous to that time traders from both Russia and America had made use of the exhaustless supply of furs which they found along the coast regions.

Two years before the purchase an expedition penetrated the interior of Alaska for the purpose of establishing telegraphic communication between the United States and Asia. It was discovered at that time that Alaska was not a frozen, dreary mass of ice and snow as had hitherto been supposed, but that, in many parts, it was a land rich in almost every kind of valuable ore, that its streams abounded in many kinds of fish, and later research has proven that much of the soil can be cultivated and used for the production of the hardier grains and fruits.

These discoveries, added to the already known fur products, has led to a great influx of miners and settlers, until at the present time the population exceeds three hundred thousand. Towns and cities have sprung up, and railroads have been built. Through its productions Alaska has already paid for itself many times over.

But do we forget that riches, in silver and gold, and the wealth of forests and streams were not all that came to us with that memorable treaty of 1867? Do we forget that by the same treaty thirty thousand souls also became one with us under the folds of the Stars and Stripes? And through all these years since then, have we been asking ourselves the question: "Am I my brother's keeper?" thinking thus to free ourselves from the burden of responsibility?

Or has Christ's command: "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations," been carried out, and have we held before these ignorant, superstitious people another banner which unfurls to them the glory of God and the "peace which passeth all understanding"—the banner of our Lord Jesus Christ?

To the men of science in their researches; to most of the thousands of stern-faced, money-seeking miners, and to even our United States Government, these original inhabitants, the Indians of this far northern region, meant little more than a passing thought. The latter has come forward with tardy assistance, and Government schools have been established in many parts of Alaska. But to the Christian people of our land much of the credit is due for the effort to educate and evangelize these dark-skinned brothers of the North.

From nearly every branch of the Christian Church brave-hearted, self-sacrificing men and women have given up their homes and friends and dedicated their lives to this service, trusting themselves to the infinite love and unfailing promises of Christ. Of these consecrated men and women the workers who have gone forth from Friends stand among the foremost in the history of the mission work in Alaska.

It will be impossible to give more than a brief record of a few of the many wonderful instances showing forth the working of God's will in the hands of devoted, prayer-sent messengers.

The first missionary was William Duncan, who labored among the savage tribes at Metlakatla as early as 1857. The story of his struggles and difficulties would rival that of Paul, but the strength and sustaining power of God were with him no less than with Paul, and wonderful was the victory over the sin and degradation in those savage hearts. Grand indeed would have been the results had the Alaskans been left in the hands of such men as William Duncan; but other influences were brought into their lives, which hindered rather than promoted a Christ-like spirit.

The work of the Friends at Douglas Island was commenced in 1887 by Elwood W. Weesner, of Kansas, and William F. Bangham, of Wilmington, Ohio, and following these might be given a long list of those who have given of the best of their lives to this cause. Among these are Silas and Anna Moon, Chas. and May Replogle, Jennie Lawrence and Chas. H. Edwards.

Chas. Edwards exemplified the words of the Master: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends," when he became a martyr to the cause of Christ while attempting to prevent the sale of liquor to the Indians; for, be it said to our shame, the curse of America reached the Alaskans before the message of blessing and salvation, and the missionaries have found that here as elsewhere the fight is made a thousand times the harder because of the sale and use of intoxicating liquor.

But these simple-hearted Indians could teach Christian America a profitable lesson, for with them Christ in the life means liquor out of the life. It is unquestionable to their direct, childlike Christianity, for Christ is of God and liquor is of sin—or mammon—and the "new way" teaches them: "Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

The missionaries find the Alaskans quick to learn and ready to work and very eager for the new life. One aged Indian walked at three different times a distance of a thousand miles to beg of Chas. Replogle that missionaries and teachers be sent to his people in the far North. And three times must the sorrowful refusal be given: "No money and no one to send."

"The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few," and the cry rings in the ears of every Christian man and woman: "Is it nothing to you?"

Surely we can at least obey this command, "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He will send forth laborers into His harvest," and then hold ourselves in readiness to do whatever He wants us to do.

The Indians living on the Aleutian Islands have been aptly called, "The Hollanders of Alaska," for they seem almost like a race apart. In appearance they resemble the Japanese, and their homes are bright, clean and wholesome in every way. The women love to have bright pictures on the walls and bouquets at the windows, and even study with great interest the fashion plates which come to them.

The Aleuts are surrounded by the most sublime scenery in their island homes, and something of the grandeur of their surroundings seems to have become a part of their nature. Give such a race of people the Christ-life and our best education and what might we not expect of them! The history of some of our greatest nations has been carved from much less promising material.

Through the mission work churches have been organized and Christian Endeavor Societies formed, and in many cases the missionaries can already see the fruits of their labors in the devoted lives of the native teachers and workers.

The little children are proving to be of the greatest help in spreading the gospel among the fathers and mothers, and their loving efforts are very precious to the hearts of their teachers.

Hundreds of miles from Douglas Island a mission has been established at Kotzebue and is now in charge of Dana Thomas. He writes of how richly God is blessing the work there, touching and changing the hearts of many. He marvels at the tender consciences and gentle ways of these hardy settlers of that region of ice and snow, and he sends such earnest plea to us for means to carry on this work "in this Northland corner of God's vineyard."

The establishment of the Government schools and the glorious mission work are doing much to rescue this people from heathenism, and even savagery; but, oh! so great is the need, so pitiful the cry for help! And again the question rings in our ears: "Is it nothing to you, oh, ye Christians?"

Between God and our own hearts must the question be decided of what it is to us and what will be our part in this work for Him.

Traverse City, Mich.

We become heavenly-minded by living to make others happy. If it is the aim and work of your life to be a blessing to others, you are living already the heavenly life.—E. H. Sears.

CHRISTMAS HYMN.

Joy to the world! when Messiah appearing,
 Light of the nations, to bless them and save,
 Shone through the darkness with radiance cheering,
 To rescue mankind from the power of the grave.

Hark! what angelic voices are singing
 The anthems that rose at creation, again,
 "Glory to God and Immanuel, bringing Peace to the earth and good-will to men!"

Not as a monarch in triumph and splendor,
 Not as a conqueror crowned by his train,
 Came the Anointed Redeemer to render
 A ransom for those who had else lived in vain.

How the heart swells as we muse on the story
 Of His high mission by Galilee's sea,
 Or, on Mount Tabor behold Him in glory,
 Proclaimed the loved Son of the Godhead to be.

What shall we render in turn for the blessing?
 How thank our God for the gift of His Son,
 Giver of all on earth worth possessing,
 Him, by whose death life eternal is won.

What from His love our souls can then sever?
 Trial or fear, sorrow, peril or sword?
 Yet a short conflict and then shall we ever
 Be with our risen—our glorified Lord.

Cradled among the poor and the lowly,
 Laid in a manger with beasts of the fold,
 See how the Magi in reverence holy,
 Offer our Saviour their incense and gold.

Made in the likeness of weak human nature,
 Tempted, yet sinless, for sinners He prayed,
 Healed the diseases of man; His poor creature,
 And wept o'er a world into error betrayed.

On the cold ground in Gethsemane lying,
 See His warm life-drops in agony fall,
 Hear His last cry, wounded, bleeding and dying,
 "Father! forgive them! have mercy on all!"

Vainly we offer our gold and our treasure,
 Vainly with jewels salvation would buy,
 In the pure heart Jehovah takes pleasure
 And answers in pity each penitent cry.

Blest be the day when Jesus descending
 From heaven to earth, dwelt with lost fallen men,
 Opening a way to His kingdom unending
 Of light, love and joy in heaven, again!

Praise ye our God! let all His creation
 Join in the loud and rapturous song,
 "Honor and power—endless praise and salvation
 To Christ our loved Lord and Redeemer belong!"

BY THE LATE JOHN COLLINS.

Correspondence.

The small city of Oakland, Ore., shipped 11,000 turkeys toward supplying the demand of Thanksgiving festivities. The "exquisite torture" to which these birds were subjected in order to meet the market requirements was enough to shock the sensibilities and arouse the conscience of a much less enlightened and civilized people. The bird is "stuck," or bled in the mouth, handed over to the picker, who hangs it by its feet and at once proceeds to pick it; it seems not to heed the "sticking" nor the slow process of bleeding, but as each handful of feathers is jerked out of its body it utters the most piteous shrieks. In pulling the wing feathers, not infrequently a wing is disjoined, when its frantic struggles may be imagined, but not its plaintive, piteous shrieks of pain. Surely neither custom, nor the arbitrary market requirements, can justify such torture. A civilized country should find a remedy. Humane societies should interfere, consumers refuse to buy turkeys that have been subjected to the "sticking process." Christians everywhere cry out against such barbarities, and, what is more, "suit action to word," and forever live without turkey, if it can be procured only at the expense of such torture. Wholesome legal enactments, and enforcements, also, should be brought to bear to prevent the recurrence of such inhuman slaughter. The white veil that is also a market requirement is doubtless obtained at similar cost. How many Christian homes in our land celebrated the "harvest home" festival at the expense of such torture? How many celebrated the birth of the world's Redeemer at no less cost? Can He whose "tender mercies are over all His works" smile His approval of celebrations so out of harmony with the spirit of a gospel of love and pity?

It is not to be presumed that inhumanities are confined to Oregon, nor yet to the Pacific Coast; hence this word of warning. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

LOUISE P. ROUND.

Nat. Organizer and State Supt. Dept. Mercy, W. C. T. U.

WORLD'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION, JERUSALEM.

In looking over the list of delegates whose names have already been entered for the World's Sunday School Convention, to be held in Jerusalem April 18th, 19th and 20th, 1904, I was surprised and disappointed not to find the names of more Friends, and I wondered if the attention of Friends generally had been sufficiently called to the matter. While the convention itself, composed of ministers, missionaries, Sunday School workers and Christians, from all parts of the world, convening in the Holy City at Easter time, seems to me an almost irresistible attraction to Christian people who may command time and means for such a trip, there are other privileges to be enjoyed by the American delegation that will add much to their pleasure and profit. In brief, the itinerary includes the following: Funchal (Madeira), Gibraltar, Algiers, Valetta (Malta), Athens, Constantinople, Smyrna, Palestine, Alexandria, Cairo, Naples, Rome and Villefranche.

I am just in receipt of a letter from E. K. Warren, chairman of the Convention Committee, stating that 560 ministers and lay workers have already been listed for the trip, but there is room for about 300 more. These, he states, can be easily secured by admitting outside tourists, but it is earnestly desired that the privilege should be enjoyed by Christian people who will make the opportunity count for the kingdom. Possibly there are ministers, or other workers, whose friends would club together and send them or bear part of the expense, to their mutual enrichment.

Information may be obtained by addressing E. K. Warren, Three Oaks, Mich., or W. N. Hartshorn, 120 Bolyston Street, Boston.

MEAD A. KELSEY.

Pottersville, Mass.

BELVIDERE ACADEMY.

The Friends' School at Belvidere, N. C., established in the year 1833 by Eastern Quarterly Meeting of Friends, was first opened in Piney Woods Meeting House, Elihu Anthony, a young Friend of New York State, the teacher. He soon sickened with fever and died, and was buried in the Newby family burying ground, at Newbys Bridge, N. C. A two-story school building was completed in the summer of 1835, and the school was opened in the same Eighth month 30th, 1835, by Edward S. Gifford, a young Friend of Massachusetts. The school has been in continuous operation all these years in the same building under the care and management of Friends. It is now known as Belvidere Academy.

To meet the needs of the institution a new and commodious building has been erected on the same school grounds.

On Sixth-day afternoon of Eleventh month 20th a goodly number of Friends and others collected on the premises to witness the laying of the corner-stone. The teachers, Mary J. White, principal, and Adelaide E. White, assistant, brought out their seventy-four students in line around the southwest corner of the new building. The exercises were: First, a reading of selections from the Bible, by Mary J. White, principal. Prayers were voiced by two Friends. Second, a historical account of the school (gleaned from the Eastern Quarterly Meeting records), extending back sixty-eight years, was read by Josiah Nicholson, the present chairman and secretary of the committee in charge. Third, Charles Wesley's hymn, an ode to education of youth, was read. Fourth, these papers, together with a written list of the present teachers and of all those who had preceded them, and the names of the present student body of seventy-four, were deposited in the corner-stone by Rufus White, one of the earliest students of the institution, and now treasurer of the School Board, and then he, with trowel in hand, applied mortar to the base of the stone, and, it being placed in position, was by him declared laid.

The weather was cold and crisp in the open air, and the company was invited to repair to the new school room, which had been warmed and seated for the occasion.

John H. Small, member of Congress from the First Congressional District of North Carolina, was present by invitation, and delivered a very interesting and instructive address, culling here and there from the written and unwritten history of the Society of Friends in North Carolina from the date of William Edmundson's first visit to the colony, and that of George Fox two years later, enforcing the historical truth that the Friends were foremost in promulgating religious and moral truths in the State and of securing in the State Constitution that clause granting liberty of conscience to all the people. He portrayed the necessity for earnest efforts for the promotion of the cause of education, highly commending the advanced position occupied by Friends here and elsewhere in the line of education and moral reform, etc., etc.

As the shades of evening approached the company was dismissed with the general feeling of having had an elevating and enjoyable time.

I. N.

Things of Interest Among Ourselves.

The meeting houses at Monkton and Starksboro, Vt., have been closed on account of small-pox.

Amos Stuart's son, who was referred to in his letter two weeks ago, was named Harper, instead of "Parker."

J. Perry Hadley is laboring in Stella Quarterly Meeting, Okla., as the way opens, and finds the condition of the meetings quite good.

George Bower, of Hopewell Meeting, Kansas, preached at Antioch First-day, the 20th instant, at the morning and evening services.

Morton Brattain has just closed a successful series of meetings at Lick Creek, Paoli, Ind., and is now conducting a series at Beech Grove.

S. Edgar Nicholson has been appointed superintendent of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League. His headquarters will be at Harrisburg, Pa.

Isaiah Jay has been laboring in a series of meetings for the past two weeks at Old Back Creek, a place near Fairmount, Indiana. The results are encouraging.

John T. Stout, of Paoli, Ind., is one of the four commissioners appointed by the Governor of Indiana to select a site and build an industrial home for girls, a work in which he is much interested.

We wonder if any Friends meeting in America raises more money in proportion to its membership than Brooklyn does. This meeting raised last year for religious purposes the sum of $3,240.31.

Martilla Cox, of Coloma, Ind., labored in thirty-five sessions of meetings at Prairie Centre, Kan., beginning the 19th ultimo. She attended Hesper Quarterly Meeting at Lawrence, Kan., the 11th to 13th instant, and had good service.

New Providence Academy, Iowa, has the largest enrollment this year of any in its history. The New Providence Meeting affords a large, interesting and inviting field, being composed of a thoughtful membership of old and young.

John J. Copeland, who has been superintendent of the public schools of Paoli, Ind., for some years past, resigned at the close of last school year and has entered mercantile business in that place. He is the efficient superintendent of Friends' Bible School and an active worker in the Young People's Society.

James P. Price, who has been located in the meeting at Salem, Ore., since Fourth month, writes as follows: "The increase both in attendance and spiritual life has been marked. The first of the month Amos Kenworthy came to us and held fifteen meetings, and there were over fifty souls blessed, some converted, some renewed and others sanctified, and meeting generally built up, for which we give God the glory. Salem is on the Southern Pacific Railroad. Any Friends coming by would receive a warm welcome."

The Friends Meeting House at Westfield, Ind., which has been undergoing repairs for the last several months, was rededicated on First-day, the 20th instant. The sermon was preached by Lewis E. Stout, of Plainfield, Ind., and Thomas C. Brown, yearly meeting superintendent, and Sylvester Newlin, the local minister, took part in the services. The audience was large, the services interesting, while the best of feeling prevailed. The total cost of the repairs, with some other work in contemplation, is about $2,600. To complete the payment of this amount the sum of $666 was raised by voluntary contributions from those present, thus placing the meeting out of debt.

South Eighth Street Monthly Meeting was held at Richmond, Ind., Twelfth month 17th. President L. L. Hobbs, of Guilford College, was present. The annual reports were made. The reports of the monthly meeting treasurer, trustees and Finance Committee showed that during the year $6,486.82 has been raised and paid out; of this amount $1,210 was for Earlham College, and $2,159.97 was applied on the new addition to the church building; the balance was applied to general church expenses, foreign missions, Bible School, Christian Endeavor and temperance. The first year of the open church work was presented and the report met the hearty approval of the meeting. From the first day of last Twelfth month to the present the committee has kept the meeting house open daily. In addition to a well-supplied reading room, and a gymnasium in which physical culture is given by competent instructors, lunch is furnished at reasonable prices to those who want it. There is also given once a week a lecture or some other form of entertainment, in which the stereopticon is freely used. The list of lecturers and the subjects of their lectures as presented in the report was a very interesting one. The personal attendance during the year has been about 15,000, not including any of the Sabbath or mid-week services; 6,259 lunches have been served, and the reading room has been used about 4,000 times. The pastor's report showed the number of accessions to the membership to be 48 during the year, members being received each month except one, while the losses have been only 6—3 by death and 3 by certificate. The membership is now the largest in the history of the meeting, being 494. The pastoral work committee, composed of twenty-eight members, is divided into five groups, and each group is assigned to a certain part of the territory belonging to the meeting; they look after four definite lines of work: (1) Spiritual work, (2) Bible School, (3) charity and benevolence, (4) social work. The Ladies' Auxiliary has had a year of earnest and prosperous work. The meeting has purchased a comfortable home, and the pastor, Ellwood O. Ellis, and his family have moved into it. It is located in the same square with the meeting house. The meeting was felt to be one blessed of the Lord, and the members enter on the work for the coming year with renewed faith.

MARRIED.

ALLEN—BENSON.—At Friends' Meeting House, Providence, R. I., Sixth-day, Twelfth month 11th, 1903, Charles Jackson Allen, son of Samuel L. and Sarah H. Allen, of Moorestown, N. J., and Henrietta Griswold Benson, daughter of Charles and Hannah S. Benson, of Providence, R. I.

AVERY—RUSH.—At the home of the bride's brother, Micajah Binford, near Wichita, Kan., Eleventh month 25th, 1903, Irving L. Avery to Lucy M. Rush.

DIED.

BALES.—At Wichita, Kan., Eleventh month 22d, 1903, Frances Ruth Bales, daughter of Carter and Tamar Bales, in her 15th year. Since early childhood her sweet, cheery voice was often heard in prayer in the family devotions. As a member of the University Intermediate Junior, her influence upon her associates was that of one beyond her years.

HOWELL.—At Salem, O., Twelfth month 5th, 1903, Harriet S., daughter of Samuel C. and Deborah Steere Howell, aged 23 years. As the end drew near she repeated the text, "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me."

WHITE.—At Indianola, Ia., Tenth month 10th, 1903, Fannie Frazier White, wife of Peter White, in her 82d year. She was a member of Friends, and lived a devoted Christian life.

WHITE.—At Indianola, Ia., Twelfth month 1st, 1903, Peter White, in his 83d year. He has been a member with Friends for some years.

"CONSTRUCTIVE STUDIES IN THE LIFE OF CHRIST."

The approaching six months of study in our Sabbath Schools of the Synoptic Gospels so soon after the ground has been gone over, raises the question as to the possibilities of new points of view. Selected portions will be studied, necessarily somewhat detached and fragmentary. Is it possible to retain the advantages of the uniform series and add those of a more continuous study?

The book issued in 1900 under the above title, prepared by Professors Burton and Matthews, of Chicago University, though designed and well-fitted to furnish by itself a course of study in the four gospels, seems to me to be excellently adapted for use in the hands of the teachers and more advanced students in our Bible Schools, to the end of synthesizing and giving continuity to the work as provided by the International Committee. It follows the chronology of Stevens and Burton's "Harmony of the Gospels," but by the use of an index the place where any verse is considered can be instantly found.

Each chapter, (1) valuable and illuminating notes on the Scripture portion considered; (2) questions and suggestions for study; (3) constructive work, (suggestions for the preparation of a life of Christ by each student); and (4) supplementary topics with references for more extended study.

The work contains nearly 300 pages, is well gotten up with helpful illustrations, and is withal of a very modest price. From experience with helps somewhat similar in scope and purpose, I am sure that the use of such an aid in connection with the international assignments is feasible and will afford a juster view of the life of our Lord as a whole than is likely to be secured without it. It compels the study of the gospels themselves, and the carrying out of its methods will afford acquisitions of permanent value.

LINDLEY D. CLARK.

Remember all that time has brought—
The starry hope on high,
The strength attained, the courage gained,
The love that cannot die.
Forget the bitter, brooding thought,
The word too harshly said;
The living blame; love hates to name
The frailties of the dead!
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

No large growth in holiness was ever gained by one who did not take time to be often and long alone with God.—Austin Phelps.

GREGORY'S SEEDS

Famous for nearly half a century for their freshness, purity and reliability—the safest, surest seeds to sow. Ask anyone who has ever planted them. Sold under three warrants.

Send to-day for free catalogue.

J. J. H. GREGORY & SON,
Marblehead, Mass.

MY DAY'S A-COMING.

I know my saying's common,
But it's no less wrong for that (It's like some other proverbs
That we rattle off so pat).
It's not a healthy doctrine,
For it brings too little cheer.
Don't say, "My day's a-comin'"—
Why, your day is always here!

None of the days is labeled,
They are every one for you;
Your day, if you'll but use it
For the best that you can do.
Your day—and the one who gave it
Every night your strength restores.
Don't say, "My day's a-comin'"—
For the one that's here is yours.

In God's last grand accounting
'Twill be asked of you and me
Just how we used our day store
In the place where mortals be.
Then, if you spent them waiting,
All the wasted days you'll rue.
Your day was never "coming"—
You'll find they were all for you.
—S. W. Gillilan, in "Los Angeles Herald."

You can help your fellow men; you must help them; but the only way you can help them is by being the noblest and the best man that it is possible for you to be.—Phillips Brooks.

FRIENDS' HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

President :

THOMAS HODGKIN, D.C.L., Litt.D.

OBJECT: To encourage historical study and to publish historical matter.

Subscribers of $1.25 and upwards will receive a copy of "The Journal," as published, free, and any Supplements issued, at cost price. Rufus M. Jones will act as American Agent of the Society, and Friends who wish to become members are requested to send their subscriptions to him.

Address 718 ARCH STREET,
PHILADELPHIA

Acker has it—that old Fashioned Molasses Candy.

SEABOARD TOURIST TICKETS SOUTH.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway is the quickest and shortest route to all Florida and Southern winter resorts. For descriptive booklet, excursion rates and general information, address W. E. Conklyn, General Agent, 1411 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

O friend, it has been a strange year for you; sin in it, folly in it, neglect of duty and of God in it; but if the heart is crying, "I will not let thee go except thou bless me," if the interests of life are moral ones for you, if the one worth of being alive at all is daily self-conquest to the glory of God—then bid defiance to your sin and failure, in the name of Christ forget the things that are behind, there is a year worth living ahead of you.
—G. H. Morrison.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Announces the Date for the Inauguration of the World's Famous "Southern's Palm Limited" between New York, Philadelphia and St. Augustine.

The Southern Railway announces that for the coming season this train will be more excellent than it was last season, so that the tourist may feel sure that every patron of "The Southern's Palm Limited" will have a most delightful journey.

The route of this famous train will be between New York, Philadelphia and Washington over the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Washington and Jacksonville over the Southern Railway, and between Jacksonville and St. Augustine over the Florida East Coast Railway.

The initial trip of "The Southern's Palm Limited" will be with train leaving New York and Philadelphia, January 11th, 1904, and leaving St. Augustine, returning, January 14th, 1904.

This train, which is an exclusively Pullman train, carrying Club, Dining, Compartment, Drawing-room, Sleeping, Library and Observation cars, New York and Philadelphia to St. Augustine, also carries a Pullman Drawing-room Sleeping car, New York to Aiken and Augusta.

In addition to the above train the Southern Railway operates two other high-class trains daily between the East and Florida.

Charles L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., will take pleasure in furnishing all information.

Publisher's Department.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND is published weekly by the American Friend Publishing Company, 718 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

RUFUS M. JONES, EDITOR.

The Directors of the Company are JAMES WOOD, President.

DAVID SCULL, ALLEN JAY, JOHN B. GARRETT,
PETER W. RAIDABAUGH, ISAAC SHARPLESS,
RUFUS M. JONES.

Subscription Price.

Payable in advance.....$1.50 per annum.
Single copies.....Five Cents each.

Checks, Money Orders and Postal Notes should be drawn to the order of THE AMERICAN FRIEND.
Advertising rates will be sent on request.
Headley Bros., 14 Bishopsgate Street, Without,
London, Agents for Great Britain and Ireland.

Events and Comments.

The exports to the United States from Panama in the fiscal year 1903 amounted to $193,342, of which $56,767 was hides, $49,974 india rubber, $27,805 cocobolo nuts, $16,598 ivory nuts, $13,372 deer-skins, and $6,908 coffee.

The Crown Prince of China will come to the United States next summer, and will witness the annual Yale-Harvard boat race under the escort of Wong Kai Kah, a Yale graduate, who is Chinese commissioner to the St. Louis Exposition.

John D. Rockefeller's Christmas gift to the University of Chicago came this year, as usual, in spite of some dismal forebodings a few weeks ago among the active directors of that institution. It amounted to nearly $2,000,000, raising the total of the oil king's gifts to the university to about $13,500,000.

The news that Governor Taft has reached an agreement with the friars for the purchase of practically all the land in the Philippines (403,000 out of 415,000 acres) seems to be received with gratification. The price agreed upon is $7,250,- 000, and the orders say that their original asking price, $12,000,000, was below the real value.

The Australian States are just harvesting an enormous wheat crop—estimated at 76,000,000 bushels, compared with a previous high record of 48,000,000.
The larger part of the present yield will be available for export. This will operate materially to improve the fortunes of the commonwealth, which have been dragging a little of recent years.

There must be progress in China, or Wu-Ting-Fang, so lately Chinese minister to this country, would not be appointed vice-president of the new Chinese Department of Commerce with particular charge over the foreign commerce. He will be a valuable man in that post. He is well acquainted with United States ways, and can further as well as protect Chinese interests.

The departure of the Russian fleet in the Mediterranean for Asiatic waters and the summoning of the ablest of Japanese statesmen for solemn conference in Tokyo are ominous of a dangerous tension in the far East. Russia's reply to Japan concerning the Manchurian and Korean relations has not been such that Japan could accept with "self-respect."

It is reported that British guns are ready to back Japan.

The trial of the Jew-baiters at Kishneff resulted in the conviction of twenty-five persons, who have been sentenced to terms in penal servitude ranging from six months to seven years, and penal servitude in Russia is no luxury. It might now be asked in St. Petersburg how many Americans guilty of burning negroes at the stake have been sent to prison.

A special train loaded with turkeys for Christmas was sent from St. Louis to New York and covered the distance in a little less than six days, breaking the record for freight movement. The train consisted of nineteen cars. The turkeys had been carefully packed in 3,000 boxes, and a few hours after reaching New York every one had been distributed to the retailers. The supply in New York city was scarcely equal to the demand, even with this large acquisition, and twenty-five cents a pound was easily obtained, making the Missouri contribution worth about $100,000.

The opening of the second bridge across the East River between New York and Long Island, which was recently celebrated, is an event of moment. It is not the miracle that the Brooklyn Bridge appeared to be a score of years ago, but rather a large achievement of the age of steel in which we now live. But the new bridge has dignity as a piece of engineering, and in its reach is most impressive.
The total length of the carriage-way, including the approaches, is nearly a mile and a half; and within its generous width of 115 feet are two elevated tracks, four surface tracks, two roadways, two promenades and two bicycle paths. All this at a total cost to the great city of nearly $20,000,000.

The Agricultural Department has begun its annual distribution of field and garden seeds. More than a thousand tons of seed, put up in 45,000,000 packages, will be distributed at a cost to the government of $270,000. Each member of Congress is allowed 12,500 packages of garden seeds in five varieties. In addition to this the department has an allowance of 700,000 packages, which it sends to its correspondents throughout the country and to State experiment stations, grange associations and weather bureaus. The distribution of seeds this year exceeds that of any other previous year.

The missionary optimist finds encouragement in recent reports of the Student Volunteer movement with regard to the contributions to missions by the institutions of higher learning in the United States and Canada for the academic year 1902-03. They show an increase of fifty per cent. in gifts over the preceding year. Of the 1,437 institutions, 294 answered the call, contributing $62,- 549.97, a little more than half of which was for foreign missions. Fifty-two of these gave $300 or over, several of the colleges and seminaries supporting their own missionary. The Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, made a record among seminaries by its $1,450, a sacrifice offering to help send three of its alumni to the foreign field. Knox College, Toronto, gave the maximum amount, $5,540, but only $225 of this was from the students, while Yale's $1,792 came entirely from the student body.

That the Y. M. C. A. is a growing institution is shown by the statistics of the past year's development. Among the notable activities has been that of the Street Railway Association. In Brooklyn the street railway company itself has provided buildings costing $30,000, while those centering at Jersey City are planning to invest thousands of dollars in a similar plant. Noon and midnight Bible classes are conducted in over one hundred cities and railway division points.
In Cleveland at least fifteen hundred different men attend them, 85 per cent. of whom are non-Christian, or only nominally so. An industrial association, with educational classes for foreigners, has been opened at Proctor, Vt., and similar associations are at work among miners in Mexico, cotton mill hands in the South and working boys everywhere.
The Railroad Associations have built forty-three buildings during the past two years, with dormitories and restaurants open night and day. The international work of the association has been recently approved by the Czar, who sanctioned the opening of buildings throughout his realm; and the native inhabitants of Shanghai, China, and Seoul, Korea, have secured money for new buildings in these cities.

WHAT WE STAND FOR.

For the Christ of Galilee,
For the truth which makes men free,
For the bond of unity
Which makes God's children one.

For the love which shines in deeds,
For the life which this world needs,
For the Church whose triumph speeds
The prayer, "Thy will be done."

For the right against the wrong,
For the weak against the strong,
For the poor who've waited long
For the brighter age to be.

For the faith against tradition,
For the truth against superstition,
For the hope whose glad fruition
Our waiting eyes shall see.

For the city God is rearing,
For the new earth now appearing,
For the heaven above us clearing
And the song of victory.

—"Christian Evangelist."

"What does it signify whether I go to the bottom or not, so long as I didn't skulk?—or, rather," and here the old man took off his hat and looked up, "so long as the Great Captain has his way, and things is done to his mind?"—
George Macdonald.

HOOPING-COUGH AND CROUP.

Roche's Herbal Embrocation
The celebrated and effectual English Cure without internal medicine. Proprietors, W. EDWARDS & SON, Queen Victoria St., London, England. Wholesale of
E. Fougere & Co., 80 North William Street, N. Y.

Interesting Books for Friends

Roots of Christian Teaching

AS FOUND IN THE OLD TESTAMENT

By GEORGE AARON BARTON, A.M., PH.D., author of
"A Sketch of Semitic Origins," etc.

"It contains fifty-eight chapters stating briefly the Old Testament situation, character or idea, and showing what Christian truth it illustrates. The book begins with a few chapters on God, His Unity and Nature; a few more about Christ, the Holy Spirit, Man's Sins and Redemption; and then follows the body of the book covered by the characters of the Old Testament. So clearly and concisely is the book written that it contains much more than would seem to be possible in its number of pages. Its lessons are not forced, but stand, as its title suggests, rooted in the text."—The Biblical World, Chicago.

"The tone of the book will prove exceedingly helpful."—The Friend, London.

"To the majority of young Christians, Dr. Barton brings timely and valuable aid."—The Christian Work and Evangelist, New York.

"The Old Testament loses none of its spiritual significance and force when treated in this manner."—The Church Standard, Philadelphia.

"The book is stimulating and helpful."—Epsworth Herald.

12mo. 275 pages. Cloth, Gilt Top, Uncut Edges. Price, $1.25 postpaid.

Practical Christianity

By RUFUS M. JONES, Litt.D.

This is a selection of short, practical articles on important religious subjects. It deals with questions which every thinking man must meet in a practical way, and it contains a positive message for the times. In these fifty-three essays many of the most important phases of the spiritual life receive consideration, and the notes of hope, and victory, and faith in the overcoming life, are everywhere manifest. The book also contains a suggestive chapter on "The Message of Quakerism."

12mo. 208 pages. Oxford laid paper. Bound in silk cloth, gilt top. Price, 1.00 post-paid.

Quaker Poems

A collection of verses relating to the Society of Friends, gathered from all sources and edited with Introduction and Notes,

By CHARLES FRANCIS JENKINS.

About sixty poems on a great variety of subjects, from about fifty authors illustrative of the principles of the Society.

Nearly 300 pages, 12mo, well printed on good paper, with forty illustrations made expressly for this work. Neatly bound in cloth, gold side-ettering and design. Price, $1.50 post-paid.

THE "INTERNATIONAL" BIBLES

"INTERNATIONAL" Bibles have become the standard for Bible making. They represent the highest grade in best bindings, best paper, best printing, clearest type, and most convenient sizes. These are the lines in which perfection is found. You can to-day buy a better-made and more useful Bible, with more choice of styles, for half the money your father had to pay for as good a book, if you get the "INTERNATIONAL." Nearly 500 styles of Bibles and Testaments.

India Paper Reference Bibles

The thinnest large-and-clear-type Bibles made. With and without Helps. Serviceable, handsome and convenient.

Interleaved India Paper Bibles

With blank ruled leaf facing each printed leaf—for notes in ink. Large-and-clear type edition. Handsomely bound in flexible leather-lined seal, divinity circuit.

Fine Art Bibles

Printed on fine paper. Profusely illustrated with fine half-tone reproductions of great masters. Large and clear type. With and without Helps.

Sunday-School Scholars' Bible

Beautifully illustrated and elegantly bound, convenient in size. With Maps and Special Helps. An attractive Bible for young people.

Red Letter Testament

With words of Jesus printed in red; on extra thin Bible paper. Flexible bindings. Convenient in size.

Christian Workers' Testament

Indexed and marked on all subjects connected with the theme of salvation, to enable any person to turn rapidly to verses on these subjects, and give Bible readings at a moment's notice. All Bible workers want it.

SPECIAL BIBLES FOR TEACHERS AND WORKERS

Revised Bibles

Divided into verses. With references. With Helps and without Helps. Very convenient for responsive reading.

Teachers' Bibles

In Ruby, Emerald, Minion, Bourgeois, Long Primer and Pica types. Divinity circuit (with overlapping edges). Newest copyright Helps, Maps and Combination Concordancé, prepared by eminent English and American scholars.

Self-Pronouncing Feature. The "International" Bibles have all difficult names divided into syllables and accented, making pronunciation easy.

The Largest and Most Complete Lines of Bibles and Testaments to select from. We also are the publishers of a large and varied line of Juvenile and Holiday Books. Send for catalogue of Bibles and books, showing styles and prices.

The John C. Winston Co., PUBLISHERS AND MANUFACTURERS 718-724 Arch St., Phila.

WHAT SULPHUR DOES

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and much had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate-coated pellets, and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly-concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, the excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease, as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers," will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

My God, I thank Thee who has made
The earth so bright,
So full of splendor and of joy,
Beauty and light;
So many glorious things are here,
Noble and right!

—A. A. Procter.

AUTUMN IN THE GARDEN.

When the frosty kiss of autumn in the dark

Makes its mark
On the flowers, and the misty morning grieves

Over fallen leaves,
Then my olden garden, where the golden soil

Through the toil
Of a hundred years is mellow, rich, and deep,

Whispers in its sleep.

'Mid the crumpled beds of marigold and phlox,

Where the box
Borders with its glossy green the ancient walks,

There's a voice that talks
Of the human hopes that bloomed and withered here,

Year by year,—
Dreams of joy, that brightened all the laboring hours,

Fading as the flowers.

Yet the whispered story does not deepen grief:

But relief
For the loneliness of sorrow seems to flow
From the Long-ago,

When I think of other lives that learned,
like mine,

To resign,
And remember that the sadness of the Fall

Comes alike to all.

What regrets, what longings for the lost were theirs!

And what prayers
For the silent strength that nerves us to endure

Things we cannot cure!
Pacing up and down the garden where they paced,

I have traced
All their well-worn paths of patience, till I find Comfort in my mind.

Faint and far away their ancient griefs appear:

Yet how near
Is the tender voice, the care-worn, kindly face,

Of the human race!
Let us walk together in the garden, dearest Heart,—

Not apart!
They who know the sorrows other lives have known

Never walk alone.

—Henry van Dyke, in "The Outlook."

THE TRAIN TO TRUNDLEBED.

Every night when the sun goes down,
The train pulls out for Trundlebed town,
For Trundlebed town, that is far away,
A land that is summer the whole year through,

The grass ever green, the sky ever blue,
And every night, when the stars look down,

The train pulls out for Trundlebed town.
Choo!—Choo!—Choo!—

"Hushaby," the bell is ringing;

Choo!—Choo!—Choo!—

"Hushaby," the steam is singing;

Singing, ringing, ringing, singing,

Choo!—Choo!—Choo!—

—John N. Hilliard, in "Four-Track News."

FORGET YOU EVER HAD IT.

Catarrh, the Most Odious of All Diseases, Stamped Out, Root and Branch.

Catarrh is the most foul and offensive disease that afflicts the human race. Any one with social ambitions had better renounce them if he has a bad case of catarrh, for his presence, if tolerated at all, will be endured under protest. The foul and sickening breath, the watery eyes, and hawking and spitting and fetid discharge at the nose make the unfortunate sufferer the most avoided of human beings.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are the hope and relief of catarrh victims all over the world. They go direct to the root of the disease, and thoroughly eradicate it from the human system. They cleanse and purify the blood of all catarrhal poisons, and under their influence all impurities are carried off. The blood becomes pure, the eye brightens, the head is cleared, the breath becomes sweet, the lost sense of smell is restored, the discharges cease, and the sufferer again feels that he has something to live for. He is again a man among men, and can meet his fellow-beings with satisfaction and pleasure.

The following letter from a St. Louis lawyer is only one of thousands received, praising the merits and curative powers of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. Read what he says:

"I suffered from catarrh for fifteen years. It would be worse at certain seasons than others, but never failed to annoy me, and cause me more or less misery during that period. About a year ago I got so bad that I thought of abandoning my practice. I was a nuisance to myself and all who came near me. My condition was very humiliating, and especially so in the court room. I had tried, I thought, every known remedy; all kinds of balms, ointments, inhalers, sprays, etc., till I thought I had completed the list. I was finally told of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets by a friend who took pity on me, and, as a drowning man will catch at a straw, I got some, and began taking them. I began to improve from the first day, and I kept up the good work you may rest assured. In six weeks I was as free from catarrh as the day I was born, but to make assurance doubly sure, I continued the treatment for six weeks longer.

"I have had no trace of catarrh in my system since. I am entirely free from the odious disease and feel like a new man. I write this letter unsolicited for the benefit of fellow-sufferers, and you may give it as widespread publicity as you wish."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box.

"How savagely that cow looks at me," said the typewriter boarder from the city. "I reckon as heow it be on account uv that air red waist yew've got on, miss," answered the old farmer. "Dear me!" exclaimed the key-toying maid. "Of course it isn't quite up to date, but I had no idea a country cow would notice it."—"Chicago Daily News."

"God often denies us the flower of one to give us the seed of many."

The American Friend Premiums

A BOY'S RELIGION, FROM MEMORY

By RUFUS M. JONES

NO subject teems with greater interest, or is fraught with greater issues than the religious development of early childhood. It is the foundation work of character, yet it is little understood by parents and less by children. Here is a most helpful work for young and old alike. It is the simple narrative of the religious awakening in a young soul which strikes a responsive chord in every heart. The work is beautifully printed on deckle-edged paper, and bound in a striking and original design. It is handsomely furnished with illustrations of places and persons mentioned in the text. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Aunt Charlotte's Stories of Bible History

By CHARLOTTE M. YONGE

Size 7½ x 10 inches. Handsomely bound in cloth. Printed in gold and many colors. 250 pages. Over 100 illustrations.

CONTAINS over 100 stories from the Holy Book, richly embellished with 19 full-page Color Plates and Photo-Engravings, together with nearly 100 other illustrations. Beginning with the dawn of creation, every important historical event in the Bible is brought out in the order of their happening, thus leading the little ones along the most pleasant ways from Genesis to Revelation.

This book will give the Bible a new charm for children, and they will read it with a new understanding. Price $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

The New Child's Life of Christ

By HESBA STRETTON

CONTAINS choice Biblical Pictures from the world's leading artists, thirty-two of which are full-page illustrations. The book presents the Life of Jesus as it is understood by the most devout and careful students of His Life. The graphic descriptions and the accurate and beautiful illustrations take one into the very midst of the sacred scenes and subjects. This volume throws a flood of light on the sacred pages, and leads the tender reader to the foot of the cross. Price, $0.75.

THIS BOOK (postpaid), with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK (postpaid), with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

Size 7½ x 9½ inches. Rich cloth binding. Stamped in gold and colors. 250 pages. Profusely illustrated.

THE BARNARD EDITION

—OF—

The Pilgrim's Progress

By JOHN BUNYAN

PROBABLY no book, except the Bible, has been printed in such immense numbers, and has had so wide a circulation among readers of all ages. It should be in every home where children live. The Barnard Edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress" is the only edition containing nearly sixty full-page pictures and fifty portrait and character illustrations, by Barnard and others; four full-page chromo-lithographs; the beautiful poem "The Little Pilgrim"; also, 388 Bible references, making in all 327 quarto pages, 8 x 10 inches, printed on double thick, extra quality, super-calendered paper. It is tastily and elegantly bound with extra silk cloth.

It is the cheapest finely illustrated book published. Price, $1.50.

THIS BOOK with ONE NEW Subscription. Both for $1.50
THIS BOOK with a RENEWAL Subscription. Both for $2.00

(For The Pilgrim's Progress add 20 cents for postage.)

Any one of the above books sent on receipt of price.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND, 718 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

SUBSCRIBERS' WANTS.

We particularly invite the attention of the readers of "The American Friend" to this column. It will be found useful for almost everyone who wishes to advertise. The cost is 5c. per line each insertion. No advertisement is accepted for less than 25c. Cash with order.

The Conard & Jones Company, Rose Growers.
West Grove, Pa. Catalog Free.

OLD-FASHIONED grandfather clocks repaired at home. If yours needs attention send me a postal or, better, call. My store is within three minutes' walk of the Market Street ferries. Repairing of clocks and watches of every kind. Prompt service and moderate prices. W. L. Berry, Watchmaker and Jeweler, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

THE PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION OF FRIENDS is in need of a man who can take charge of Cylinder and Job Presses, Folding Machines, Wire Stitcher, Gasoline Engine and such other machinery as is used in a first-class Printing Office. The man employed must be married, and a member of the Friends' Church, and come well recommended. Plainfield is only 14 miles from the State House at Indianapolis, and we are connected by trolley line and steam cars. The town is a beautiful and healthful village; the Friends have a large Meeting, Sabbath School and Christian Endeavor Society here, and the Western Yearly Meeting meets at this place every year. We have all the advantages of the city of Indianapolis, and half the expense of living in the city. I would be pleased to correspond with any one capable in this line and free for an engagement. Address P. W. RAIDABAUGH, Plainfield, Indiana.

WANTED.—A good man with some capital, in a new water-power flour mill. H. C. SMITH, Cottonwood Falls, Kans.

FOR RENT.—One of the best stock and dairy farms in Nebraska. On term of years, with purchase option and on terms that, with industry and good management, the entire property can be paid for within ten years. $2000.00 required to purchase cattle, hogs, horses and machinery on the farm, 920 acres. Running water in each pasture. 300 acres in cultivation. Meadow, alfalfa land and timber. Address, Nebraska, Care of THE AMERICAN FRIEND.

EDMUND AUDI wishes to give private lessons in the French language. Refer to Asa S. Wing, 409 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. Any persons desiring his services can communicate with him at 149 North Fifteenth Street, Philadelphia.

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER.—Careful and accurate repairing, with prompt service, has brought me the custom of many Friends. Their patronage is particularly solicited. My store is nearest to the Market Street ferries, and is easy of access from every part of the city. W. L. Berry, 22 South Second Street, Philadelphia.

Ascum: "I see there is some talk of having people vote at the next State election upon the question of abolishing capital punishment. Would you vote to abolish it?"

Fogle: "No, sir! Capital punishment was good enough for my ancestors, and it's good enough for me."

10 BEAUTIFUL PICTURES FREE

In order to introduce our QUAKER OINTMENT into every home where THE AMERICAN FRIEND is read, we have decided to make the following liberal offer. To every person sending us 25 cents for one box of QUAKER OINTMENT, and 4 cents extra to pay postage, we will send absolutely free the following 10 pictures. These pictures are gems of art. For picture study, art collections, gifts and home decoration, they are of great value. The Last Supper, Christ in Gethsemane, Christ Taken Captive, Christ Before Pilate, Christ Bearing the Cross, The Crucifixion, Entombment, In the Sepulchre, The Ascension, Transfiguration. It is costing us a great deal of money to advertise in this way, but we trust you will be pleased with our liberality, and will favor us with an order for a box of our ointment, and get these 10 beautiful pictures free. QUAKER OINTMENT is the best known remedy for catarrh, eczema, and all skin diseases. Rev. Asa Woodard, pastor Friends' Meeting at Butlerville, Ind., says: "I am using QUAKER OINTMENT, and find it an excellent remedy." Mrs. Clara Chaney, Rural Route No. 3, Warren, Ind., says: "I have never found anything as good as QUAKER OINTMENT for catarrh, sores and skin diseases." Send us your order to-day. Quaker Ointment sent to any address upon receipt of 25 cents.

DAVIS MFG. CO., Butlerville, Ind.

THE DAWN OF PEACE.

Put off, put off your mail, O kings,
And beat your brands to dust!
Your hands must learn a surer grasp,
Your hearts a better trust.

O, bend aback the lance's point,
And break the helmet bar;
A noise is in the morning wind,
But not the note of war.

Upon the grassy mountain paths
The glittering hosts increase—They come! They come! How fair their feet!

They come who publish peace.

And victory, fair victory,
Our enemies are ours!
For all the clouds are clasped in light,
And all the earth with flowers.

Aye, still depressed and dim with dew,
But wait a little while,
And with the deathless, radiant rose
The wilderness shall smile.

And every tender, living thing
Shall feed by streams of rest;
Nor lamb shall from the flock be lost,
Nor nursing from the nest.

—John Ruskin.

STENOGRAPHER

GEO. B. COCK

Girard Building and 216 W. Coulter Street.

Telephones.

New Archdale St. James

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.

Entirely new. Near beach. Elevator and all modern conveniences. Thoroughly heated. Open all the year. Very desirable for Friends.

JESSE M. BUNDY, Prop.

Penn's Treaty with the Indians

on India paper; engraving 23 inches by 18 inches, on sheets 30 inches by 24 inches; from the original Boydell engraved plate made in 1775 from the original painting of Benjamin West. $3.00 by mail.

A. L. SMITH

29 E. Penn St., Germantown, P. Ia.

EMINENT PHYSICIANS
throughout the world recommend

QUINA-LAROCHÉ

AS A SPECIFIC IN CASES OF
ANAEMIA, COLDS, LA GRIPE,
SLOW CONVALESCENCE,
STOMACH TROUBLES,
TYPHOID and MALARIAL
FEVERS.

E. Fougere & Co., 30 N. William St., N. Y.

OSTEOPATHY

EDWARD D. BURLIGH
ALEXANDER STETSON

Osteopathic Physician, 1537 Chestnut St., Room 401.

Hours, 9 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.
Bell Telephone. Consultation free.

PITTSBURGH BANK SAVINGS
ESTD 1862

Safe Bind
Safe Find

Your money deposited with this bank is absolutely safe, does not fluctuate in value and earns Four per cent. Compound Interest.

Deposits of $1.00 up received in person or by mail. Write for explanatory Booklet AF
Assets $14,000,000.00

2 SMITHFIELD ST. & FOURTH AV.
PITTSBURGH, PA.

6% NET FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES

on improved RED RIVER VALLEY FARMS. Loans to actual settlers ONLY. 21 years' experience in business. Send for formal applications, list of references and map showing location of lands. Over $400,000 invested. None but SAFE, PROMPT-PAYING loans on my books.

WILLIAM T. SOUDER, Financial Agent
309, 310, 311 Century Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

6% NET

Sound, conservative first mortgages on improved realty. We examine every security and know every borrower. We make our loans with our own money and turn them over complete. In 28 years we have learned how to select the best. No one now handling western mortgages has had more experience. We give you the benefit of that experience. The quality of the securities now on hand has never been surpassed. Highest references. Write for circulars and full information free.

PERKINS & COMPANY Lawrence, Kan.

S. F. BALDERSTON'S SON

Wall Paper and Decorations

Window Shades Made to Order

902 SPRING GARDEN ST., PHILA.

Established 1810 at 824 North Second Street.

WATCHES

As one of the oldest houses in the watch trade—established three generations ago—and up-to-date in every feature of the business, we are able to offer the best and most serviceable watches for the least money. Give us a call.

GEO. C. CHILD

27 S. 9th St., (above Chestnut, opposite Post Office.)

"The best way to defeat the wrong is to do the right, and to do it first."

Stenography, Typewriting,
Mimeographing and Reporting

LYDIA ARETE CONN,

805 Provident Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

BREAD MACHINE

FOR HOUSEHOLD USE.

Sifts the flour and mixes 10 lbs. of best bread in 3 minutes. Sold subject to trial and approval. Send for booklet. Agents wanted. Scientific Bread Mach. Co. (CYNUS CHAMBERS, Jr.) 524 & Media Sts., Philadelphia

EDUCATIONAL.

GUILFORD COLLEGE

Location in the mild and healthful Piedmont Section of North Carolina.

Five Brick Buildings well equipped, supplied with abundance of pure water, and lighted with electricity.

Eleven Members of the Faculty. Good Library and Chemical and Biological Laboratories.

Next Term will begin on the 18th of January, 1904.

Catalogue Sent on Application

L. L. HOBBS, President

EARLHAM COLLEGE, RICHMOND, INDIANA

Prof. Elbert Russell offers courses regularly in Kings, New Testament Times, Life of Christ, The Apostolic Age, Church History, New Testament Literature, Romans, John, Biblical Literature, Isaiah.

Prof. Cyrus W. Hodgkin, The Protestant Reformation.

Prof. Anna M. Demaree, New Testament, Greek.

Asst. Prof. Lindley, History of the Hebrews.

Pres. Kelly, History of Philosophy, Ethics, Psychology.

The Oakwood Seminary

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y.

Founded in 1796.

A boarding school for boys and girls under the care of New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Academic, College Preparatory and Commercial

Winter term begins First month 5, 1904

SAMUEL H. HODGIN, Principal. LINDLEY M. STEVENS, Superintendent.

WHITTIER COLLEGE

Classical, Scientific and Literary courses. Highest requirements. Students unable to continue their studies in more rigorous climes will find this climate the best in the world for study. Natural advantages for scientific investigation unsurpassed. Well equipped laboratory. Whittier, a Friend's community, —morally clean,—no saloons or kindred sources of corruption. For catalogue address,

CHARLES E. TEBBETTS, President.

"The rod of correction in wandering becomes a comfort in weakness."

Don't Be Too Late

How often does the examining doctor have to say to applicants for life insurance: "If you had applied a year ago you would have passed." Don't you be too late.

Shall we send you some literature?

PENN MUTUAL LIFE

921 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

Send for (free) descriptive booklets. We do business through correspondence.

Mortgages Net 6% in North Dakota

THEY are the best, gilt-edged, rock-ribbed, guaranteed 6% investment in America. Safe as government bonds and pay better.

I have been selling these mortgages for 18 years, and have never had to foreclose, and never lost a cent of principal or interest for a single customer.

I personally know every farm covered by the mortgages, as well as the farmers giving them. I know them both to be right, or I have nothing to do with them. Their land is increasing in value every day, thus increasing the value of the security.

I collect both the interest and principal free, and remit in New York exchange, without the least trouble or bother of the customer.

I will be pleased to put you in the way of finding out all about me. Write me for further information.

WALTER L. WILLIAMSON

Investment Banker

LISBON, NORTH DAKOTA

SHORTHAND TAUGHT BY MAIL

or in school. Each student receives personal attention. Moderate rates. Write for full information.

PROVIDENT SCHOOL OF SHORTHAND

805 Provident Building Philadelphia, Pa.

INVESTORS, ATTENTION

The Rock County State Bank

Newport, Nebraska, offers small farm mortgages for sale; 6 per cent. interest payable semi-annually. We conduct a conservative banking business and offer no loans except the regular customers of our own bank. We personally know every man and his land and we make no loan that we are unwilling to carry ourselves.

"The 'I shall not want' does not belong to the 'I will not work.'" to 7% Choice First Mortgage Loans, Seattle and vicinity. Local and N. Y. references. Established 1887. Correspondence Solicited. JAMES BOTHWELL, Seattle, Washington.

6%

7% Net

TO LENDER. FIRST MORTGAGES on Improved Real Estate, producing income which would liquidate loan in three years. No loan above one-third actual valuation. Write for descriptive reports, made on personal examination of the securities. Satisfactory references furnished.

THE AMERICAN INVESTMENT CO., Atoka, I. T.

The Provident Life and Trust Co.

OF PHILADELPHIA. Office, 409 CHESTNUT STREET

CAPITAL, $1,000,000

ASSETS, $61,615,271.43

Surplus and Undivided Profits, belonging to the Stockholder 4,457,613.08

Surplus, belonging to Insurance Account 6,317,764.17

Incorporated Third month 22, 1865. Charter Perpetual.

INSURES LIVES, GRANTS ANNUITIES, RECEIVES MONEY ON DEPOSIT, returnable on demand for which interest is allowed.

And is empowered by law to act as EXECUTOR ADMINISTRATOR, TRUSTEE, GUARDIAN, ASSIGNEE, COMMITTEE, RECEIVER, AGENT, etc.

All Trust Funds and Investments are kept separate and apart from the assets of the Company.

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS.

BOXES $5 AND UPWARDS

T. WISTAR BROWN, Vice-Prest.
ASA S. WING, Vice-President.
JOS. ASHBROOK, Man. Ins. Dept.
SAMUEL H. TROTH, Treasurer.

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY, President.

J. R. FOULKE, Trust Officer.

DAVID G. ALSOP, Actuary.

J. BARTON TOWNSEND, Assistant Trust Officer

C. WALTER BORTON, Secretary.

DIRECTORS:

SAMUEL R. SHIPLEY,
T. WISTAR BROWN,
HENRY HAINES,
RICHARD WOOD,
CHAS. HARTSHORNE,

ASA S. WING,
PHILIP C. GARRETT,
JAMES V. WATSON,
WM. LONGSTRETH,
EDWARD H. OGDEN,

THOS. SCATTERGOOD,
J. PRESTON THOMAS,
ROBERT M. JANNEY,
MARRIOTT C. MORRIS,
FRANK H. TAYLOR.

Well Known and Known Well
Wherever Known

THE PRUDENTIAL

Life Insurance for the Whole Family.

THE PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE CO. OF AMERICA

JOHN F. DRYDEN
President

Write for Particulars, Dept. 67.

HOME OFFICE
Newark, N. J.

Y. F. A. Building,

140 North Fifteenth Street, Philad'a.

FOR FRIENDS AND OTHERS.

Convenient, Restful, Homelike.

Table d'hôte, 25 cents.

Dinner, 12 to 2 p.m.

Breakfast, 7 to 8.30 a.m. Supper, 6 to 7 p.m.

COMFORTABLE ROOMS:

One occupant, 75 cts. per night; $3 per week.

Two occupants, 50 cts. each, per night.
2 each, per week.

Address ELIZA H. WORRELL
Phone Spruce 33-55. Clerk.

Ella: "Bella told me that you told her that secret I told you not to tell her."

Stella: "She's a mean thing—I told her not to tell you I told her."

Ella: "Well, I told her I wouldn't tell you she told me—so don't tell her I did."

—"Brooklyn Life."

Our Subscribers are invited to use the column of Subscribers' Wants (See page 918). It will be found useful for many purposes—renting property, selling goods, securing help or positions, for advertising boarding-houses and hotels, and for almost everything where good results are expected at a small expenditure.

WE SHOULD LIKE

to hear from any of our readers who may be considering the subject of advertising. It is not hard to demonstrate the value of space in THE AMERICAN FRIEND, and we are particularly desirous of having the advertising patronage of our own members. It is an excellent way to support the denominational paper, and we can present some facts which make it a strong business proposition. Write for rates and full information.

THE AMERICAN FRIEND,
718 Arch Street,
PHILADELPHIA, Pa.

WE'LL DO YOUR PRINTING

for as little as anybody can afford to do good work—and pay his bills.

THE LEEDS & BIDDLE CO., Inc.
1019-21 Market St., Phila.

LIFE OF STEPHEN GRELLET BY WILLIAM GUEST.

264 pages—bound in cloth. 2 engravings by Sartain. 50 cents, postage prepaid. (One and two-cent stamps taken.)

A. L. SMITH
29 E. Penn Street Germantown, Pa.

WILLIAM S. YARNALL Manufacturing OPTICIAN

118 S. FIFTEENTH ST., PHILA.
4th Door Below Chestnut St.

STENOGRAPHING, TYPEWRITING and MIMEOGRAPHING. Prices moderate.

MARY M. KITE

407 Lippincott Building, 12th and Filbert Sts., Phila.
Phone No. 3-33-00

A. M. ADAMS, PRINTING

230 N. Twelfth St., Philadelphia.
BELL TELEPHONE.

JOSEPH G. FOGG UNDERTAKER AND EMBALMER

S. W. Cor. Sixteenth and Race Sts.
Phone Spruce 44-38-W. PHILADELPHIA.
Suburban orders promptly attended.

What thou hast done, thou hast done;
for the heavenly horses are swift.
Think not their flight to o'ertake—they stand at the throne even now.
Ere thou canst compass the thought, the immortals in just hands shall lift, Poise and weigh surely thy deed, and its weight shall be laid on thy brow;
For what thou hast done, thou hast done.

What thou hast not done remains; and the heavenly horses are kind.
Till thou hast pondered thy choice, they will patiently wait at thy door.

Do a brave deed, and, behold! they are farther away than the wind.
Returning, they bring thee a crown, to shine on thy brow evermore;
For what thou hast done, thou hast done.

—Mary Wright Plummer.

If we would gain light either on the theory or the practice of religion, we must sincerely desire the light. We must use the light we already have. We must patiently seek light in the double way of prayer and rational inquiry.
Never, as long as the world stands, will any religiously benighted soul thus patiently desire and pray and labor for the break of day without at last seeing the eyelids of the morn unsealed and the painfully dusky east gradually redden into the sun.—E. F. Burr.

Religion is not a little fenced-off inclosure, within which all is sacred, and outside of which all is secular and profane. There is no such distinction to be drawn. Religion is life, character, conduct; it reaches up to God and down into the smallest details of daily duty; it covers everything.—Selected.

ESTERBROOK'S

THE STANDARD PENS EVERYWHERE.

Works, Camden, N. J. The ESTERBROOK STEEL PEN CO.

STEEL PENS

150 Styles Fine, Medium and Broad Points.
Sold by All Stationers.
26 John St., New York.

Friends
BX
7604
A5
v. 10

THIS VOLUME FOR USE IN LIBRARY ONLY

EARLHAM COLLEGE LIBRARIES

3 9308 01048525 0